50TH ANNIVERSARY OF MARRIAGE OF MR., MRS. F.H. PERRY

On Tuesday of this week, February 17th, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Perry, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The event was quietly observed by a family dinner at the home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Perry their good wishes and congratulations.

Mrs. Perry has been a life-long resident of Napanee and Mr. Perry has resided in the town for 48 years. Two years after his marriage Mr. Perry came to Napanee and opened a grocery business which he still conducts in the same location, on Dundas Street.

Mrs. Perry was formerly Margaret Jane Joy, and is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wilder Joy, who for many years were prominent residents of Napanee, where Mr. Joy operated a saw mill just east of the Napanee River Falls. Mr. Perry is a son of the late B. B. Perry and was born in North Fredericksburgh, on the Perry homestead.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry were married at the home of Mrs. Perry's parents, Dundas Street East, by the late Rev. Dr. S. J. Shorey, the minister of the then Napanee Methodist Church. He has been a member of Union Lodge A.F. & A. M. for 52 years and two years ago was honoured by his lodge when he was presented with a 50-year pin. He is also a member of long standing of the Oddfellows and Foresters lodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry have five children, Caroline, Mrs. L. H. Ming, Ottawa, Winnifred, Mrs. Tom Walsh, St. Catharines, Beatrice, of St. Catharines, Corporal Howard Perry with the North Nova Scotia Regiment overseas, and Wallace, who is in business in Napanee, with his father.

Following the address appreciation to the speaker was expressed by Mr. W. S. Herrington; to the ladies by Mr. Fenn, and on behalf of the guests by Rev. G. M. Chidley.

DR. McGREER'S ADDRESS

In his opening remarks Dr. McGreer paid a high tribute to the teachers in the Napanee schools who were on the staff when he was a student in town and he gave them great credit for whatever he has been able to make of his life. He commended very highly the appearance on the programme of young students of the schools who played musical numbers and gave his approval of the teaching of music in the schools.

Commencing his address on "French Canada To-day," Dr. McGreer said that he was profoundly grateful for the opportunities he had had of contact with French Canadians. He said that he had found that French Canada is like all other parts of the world in that a cultured gentleman is an educated man with a broad outlook and understanding whatever his race may be, and the educated French gentleman is a man of rare culture and charm. Unfortunately, in Quegec, less than five per cent of those who attend the schools go to university and, consequently, there is not a huge proportion of citizens of the province who have the wide views of the educated man.

"What is true of nations is true of individuals," Dr. McGreer said. "If you would understand a man you must look into his history and you must do that with French Canadians if you would understand them."

Canada Colonized by French in 16th, 17th and 18th Centuries

Recalling some points in the history of French-Canada, Dr. McGreer said that colonists came from France to the New World in the 16th, 17th and 18th Centuries and it must be remembered that their colonization was for a different reason than that carried on by the English-speaking peoples. English colonists left their homeland for the purpose of securing freedom of religion or because of their political views. But the French did not leave France because of discontent, but at the instigation and with the aid of the government for the purpose of building a great French Empire. When the French colonists came to Canada they were accustomed to have over them the government in France. There was very little chance or need for individual initiative. So there was the feeling among the early French settlers that the controlling power over them was far away from their life. In the Seven years War, 1756-1763, when Canada was ceded to the British, the French colonists were of the opinion that control over them had just been transferred to another power.

In 1763 when the treaty was signed there were 60,000 French in Canada. They asked themselves, "Can we survive and keep our identity, our traditions and our religion?" They feared extinction and resolved to stand together in an attempt to preserve their religion, their traditions and their language. They found that they had come into an Empire that never extinguished any civilization within its bounds, for by the Treaty of 1763, they were given a guarantee they could maintain their own laws, nationality and identity as Frenchmen. They were out right off from their parent stock and all the officials and most of the wealthy merchants of the colony returned to France leaving the poorer and uneducated people in the country. From this time on the French in Canada looked to the only educated members of their communities, the priest, the notary and the lawyer, for leadership and protection and for aid in helping them to keep their identity. As a result, the 60,000 original Frenchmen in Canada have increased until to-day there are three million of them who have succeeded in maintaining their identity as Frenchmen in an English Dominion.

What Are the Risks

Dr. McGreer said it might well be asked: "What is the risk of such a situation?" He answered by saying that the risk is Chauvinism and defined Chauvinism as "an extravagant devotion to your own country and a contempt for all other countries." The French people in Canada are focussed their thought around their own position in Canada since they were cut off from France and their whole effort and interest centred around the Church, which they realised had remained unchanged throughout the centuries. The cure, he said, was to be found after the interests of his people and still stands with them to-day. When thought has been focussed with such zeal on their own interests, there is great danger that a considerable number of French Canadians have little knowledge of the history of the Empire to which they belong. Their interests are very limited — mainly concerning their own farms, the weather, the activities in the woods in the winter and their own little community. Their heroes remain the heroes of early France in Canada. It is difficult to arouse in them much enthusiasm when confronted with a world crisis.

Growing Interest In Educational Reform

However, Dr. McGreer said, there are definite signs that in French-Canada to-day there is a growing interest in educational reform under the leadership of such enlightened men as Premier Godbout. But he warned not to expect miracles. The process of bringing about education-al reform in Quebec will be a slow affair of French Canadians and not of English Canadians and reform of education in Quebec would be much faster if there were no interference by the English.

Dr. McGreer announced himself a farm believer in bi-lingualism in Canada. "I would appeal," he said, "for bi-lingualism all across Canada, so that everyone would speak both French and English." He expressed the opinion that the only way for two races to really understand each other is for each to speak the language of the other, so that the one can get into the mind of the other. The teaching of English in Quebec schools is growing and the leaders in the province, realise not only the economic value of the French knowledge of English but that such knowledge leads to a solidarity of British citizenship.

Dr. McGreer said he wished it were possible to exercise some control over the publicity that is written about the situation in Quebec by irresponsible people, who misrepresent the attitude of the best people.

It should be remembered that the French are Latins, Dr. McGreer said, and as a result they have a different outlook than the Celt and the Anglo-Saxon. But our business as Canadians is to understand them. Our common purpose must be to establish in the Dominion a people who believe in God and who are convinced that righteousness alone exalteth a nation.

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF MARRIAGE OF MR., MRS. F.H. PERRY

On Tuesday of this week, February 17th, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Perry, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The event was quietly observed by a family dinner and by friends calling to extend to Mr. and Mrs. Perry their congratulations and congratulations.

Mrs. Perry has been a life-long resident of Napanee and Mr. Perry has resided in the town for 48 years. Two years after his marriage Mr. Perry came to Napanee and purchased the grocery business which he still conducts in the same location, on Dundas Street.

Mrs. Perry was formerly Margaret Jane Joy, and is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wilder Joy, who for many years were prominent residents of Napanee, where Mr. Joy operated a saw mill just east of the Napanee River Falls. Mr. Perry is a son of the late B. B. Perry, and was born in North Fredericksburgh, on the Perry homestead.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry were married at the home of Mrs. Perry's parents, Dundas Street East, by the late Rev. Dr. S. J. Shorey, the minister of the Episcopal Methodist Church. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Perry's sister, Caroline Joy, and the groomsman was Mr. Perry's brother, Fred A. Perry. There were a large number of guests at the wedding, many of whom have since passed away.

Throughout all their married lives Mr. and Mrs. Perry have been members of Trinity United Church. Mr. Perry is one of the oldest men, in length of years of activity, still in business in the town. He has been a member of Union Lodge A.F. & A. M for 52 years and two years ago was honoured by his lodge when he was presented with a 50-year jewel. He is also a member of long standing of the Oddfellows and Foresters lodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry have five children, Caroline, Mrs. L. H. Ming, Ottawa, Winnifred, Mrs. Tom Walsh, St. Catharines, Beatrice, of St. Catharines, Corporal Howard Perry with the Perth-Lanark Regiment overseas, and Wallace, who is in business in Napanee, with his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry received beautiful gifts and flowers from their family and many cards extending congratulations and good wishes.

ANNUAL SUPPER TRINITY CH. CHOIR

The annual supper and social evening of Trinity United Church choir was held last Friday evening at the Superior Restaurant, longest half. Members of the choir and their friends, numbering about 70, sat down to supper at tables very artistically decorated with Valentine emblems and red candles in silver holders. A delicious meal was served after which a sing song was enjoyed, followed by games.

Mrs. J. F. Madden, the organist and choir leader welcomed the guests and directed the evening's entertainment.

Following the address appreciation to the speaker was expressed by Mr. W. S. Herrington; to the ladies by W. S. Wilson, and on behalf of the pupils by Rev. G. M. Chidley.

DR. McGREER'S ADDRESS

In his opening remarks Dr. McGreer paid a high tribute to the teachers in the Napanee schools who were on the staff when he was a student in town and he gave them great credit for whatever he has been able to make of his life. He commended very highly the appearance on the programme of young students of the schools who played musical numbers and gave his approval of the teaching of music in the schools.

Commencing his address on "French Canada To-day" Dr. McGreer said that he was personally grateful for the opportunities he had had of contact with French Canadians. He said that he had found that French Canada is like all other parts of the world in that on calm, gentleman is an educated man with a broad outlook and understanding whatever his race may be, and the educated French gentleman is a man of rare culture and charm. Unfortunately, in Quebec less than five per cent of those who attend high schools go to university and consequently there is not a large proportion or citizens of the province who have the wide views of the educated man.

"What is true of individuals is true of individuals," Dr. McGreer said. "If you would understand a country you must look into his history and you must do that with French Canadians if you would understand them.

Recalling some points in the history of French-Canada, Dr. McGreer said that colonists came from France to the New World in the 16th, 17th and 18th Centuries and it must be remembered that their colonization was for a different purpose than that carried on by the English-speaking peoples. English colonists left their homeland for the principle of securing freedom of religion or because of their political views. But the French did not leave France because of discontent, but at the instigation and with the bid of the government for the purpose of building up a French Empire. When the French colonists came to Canada they were accustomed to have a paternal government in France. They were very little change or need for individual initiative. So there was no feeling among the early French settlers that the control exercised over them was far away from them. After the Seven Years War, in which Canada was the battle ground for the French colonial empire, that empire had been irretrievably lost to France.

In 1763 when the population of Quebec were 60,000 French. They asked themselves, "Who are we and how can we survive?" and out of their problems they found themselves welded together in an attempt to preserve their religion, their language, their customs, their laws and institutions which they had never relinquished, within its bounds. And so it was that in 1763 they found themselves with a stability and heritage. They were not equal in their parent stock and all the rest and most of the settlers were of the coureur de bois type, leaving the priests and the gentlemen in the country. From time on the French in Canada, due to the only educated members of their communities, the priests, notary and the lawyer became leaders and protection and power and have given them to keep their identity. Result: the 60,000 who were French in Canada have increased in numbers to three million and have succeeded in maintaining their identity as Frenchmen in the Canadian Dominion.

What Are the Risks

Dr. McGreer said it must be asked: "What is the risk of such a situation?" He answered by saying that the risk is Chauvinism and unified Chauvinism as an excessive devotion to one's own country and a contempt for all other countries. The French people in Quebec are focused their interests upon their own position in Canada and they were cut off from France and their whole effort and interest centered around the Church, which they realized had remained unchanged throughout the centuries. The priest has always looked after the interests of his people and still stands with them today. What he thought has been focussed with such zeal on their own interests that there is great danger that a considerable number of French Canadians have little knowledge of the leaders of the Empire to which they belong. Their interests are very limited — mainly concerning their own farms, the weather, the activities in the woods in the winter and their own individuality. Their heroes remain the heroes of early France in Canada. It is difficult to arouse in them much enthusiasm when confronted with a world crisis.

Growing Interest In Educational Reform

However, Dr. McGreer said, there are definite signs that in French-Canada to-day there is a growing interest in educational reform, under the leadership of such enlightened men as Premier Godbout. But he warned not to expect miracles. The process of bringing about educational reform will be slow. It is the duty of the Canadians and not of English Canadians and reform of education in Quebec would be much faster if there were no interference by the English.

Dr. McGreer announced himself a firm believer in bi-lingualism in Canada. "I would appeal," he said, "for bi-lingualism all across Canada, so that everyone would speak both French and English." He expressed the opinion that the only way for two races to really understand each other is for each to speak the language of the other, in that the one can get into the mind and heart of the other. The teaching of English in Quebec schools is growing and the leaders of the people, who now represent the attitude of the best people.

It should be remembered that the French are Latins. Dr. McGreer said, and as a result they have a different outlook than the Celt and the Anglo-Saxon. But our business as Canadians is to understand them. Our common purpose must be to establish in the Dominion, a people who believe in God and who are convinced that righteousness alone exalteth a nation.

ACTIVITIES MONTH REPORTED BY C. A. S. SUPT.

The wide scope of the activities of the Children's Aid Society's Superintendent was indicated in the report made by Mr. W. F. Barrett, at the regular monthly meeting of the directors of the Society, last Thursday afternoon. At the beginning of January there were sixty cases open, two new cases were added, one was recovered and nine were closed, leaving 54 open cases at the end of the month. In connection with all cases during the month, the superintendent made 21 calls and had 22 office interviews and attended two court cases.

Included in the cases investigated were a family in which there is a widowed mother with several children who finally had secured for them the mother's allowance. One ward of the Society was found on his early home was away from the home where he had been boarded and had to be secured which the latter boy had for inducements made by some soldiers to their families and one case in particular where the mother was difficult to get the children away not to be separated. Considerable correspondence is also necessary in connection with the transfer of children from one district to another.

UNITED WE STAND!

THIS is a time of controversy and political indecision in Canada. If conflicts of opinion have arisen, these must not be allowed to distract attention from the one thing which should be paramount in our minds—namely, our part in the desperate struggle with enemies who seek to destroy us.

Let us argue, if we must, about the right or wrong way of doing things—as we who live in a democracy are free to do—but let us remember that the woods are bigger than the trees and that to win—or even to keep from losing—we must make our utmost contributions in effort and in money now.

We have volunteered to support Britain by giving her a billion dollars' worth of war needs and food within the year, as well as to produce all the armed strength we can muster for her aid and for our own defence.

Canadians of all races, creeds and political beliefs! Remember that, above all differences, our common aim is to carry on this war without delay or interruption—to maintain, unhindered by internal strife, our maximum effort to stop Hitler and his gang!

Now—more than ever—we must strive to put Canada and the Empire first, above considerations of race or party! We must put our dollars to work to defend our Canadian heritage. The need is urgent—our duty is plain.

Quarterly Meeting Belleville Presbytery Of The United Church

The February meeting of the Belleville Presbytery was held in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, Tuesday Feb. 10th, at 10:00 o'clock. Rev. E. F. Swayne, chairman, presided at the Sessions throughout the day. The attendance was very good considering the week-end storm.

The Presbytery was fortunate in having three Department Leaders from Toronto in the persons of Rev. A. J. Wilson, D.D., Rev. George Dorey, D.D., and Rev. J. McKay, newly appointed superintendent of mission for the Montreal-, Ottawa and Bay of Quinte Conference.

During the Laymen's hour addresses were given by Principal J. Morrison of the School for the Deaf, Belleville, Mr. E. L. Fraser, Trenton and Rev. A. J. Wilson of Toronto.

Mr. George Teskey, a student of Albert College, Belleville, was received as a candidate for the ministry.

For the duration of the war it was decided to hold all Presbytery meetings in Belleville, the May meeting to be held in Holloway St. Church, on Tuesday, May 5th at 9:00 a.m.

The invitation of Rev. Edmund H. Unstead of Adolphustown to Roseneath was sustained and Mr. Unstead takes up his work on his new field on March 10th. Rev. R. W. Young of Springbrook, made application for a change of pastoral relations.

The special committee on Salary Bonus presented their report and arrangements were made to visit every pastoral charge receiving less than the minimum of $1800.00.

The statistical report was presented by the secretary, Rev. James E. Beckel, Stirling. The report showed among many other facts that there are in this Presbytery fifty - seven pastoral charges, one hundred and seventy-nine preaching places with fifty-nine ministers, seven student supplies and two lay supplies. There are in this Presbytery 10,967 families with a church membership of 14,923 and a Sunday School membership of 11,105. There are 144 Woman's Missionary Societies and 131 Woman's Associations. In this Presbytery $20,044 was raised for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

The Missionary Education and Foreign Missions Committee urged that the Christians and Christian leaders in Canada do not fail to pray constantly for Japanese Christians and that we show a sympathetic spirit toward them and thus maintain the Christian bond that should not be broken even in the time of war. This recommendation was carried unanimously.

The Evangelism and Social Service Committee made some very important pronouncements. Among these were: (1) In the carrying on of the war, Parliament should be consulted more than it is, not less, especially when Parliament is in session. (2) Whether we approve or not of the plebiscite we feel the Government should be released from past commitments that might hinder freedom of action in the future. We feel that the seriousness of the times demand this. (3) In conserving our resources we believe that rationing by the use of rationing cards to be the fairest system and the method most willingly accepted by the people. Financially we urge the consideration of compulsory saving by means of interest free loans raised by which is sometime called deferred income. We urge support to the utmost of the present Victory Loan. (4) For the sake of so many worthy, white patriotic citizens of Canada of different racial extraction, we should refrain from and actively discourage derogatory and nasty references to the race or colour or any people including our enemies, not forgetting that "God has made of one blood all the nations" and "He is no respecter of persons." Let us be thankful that we have active allies even among all the peoples against whom we are now at war.

This same committee strongly protested against the privileged position of the liquor trade as evidenced by absence of any war-time restrictions for the sale of beverage alcohol, and the fact that when sugar was rationed the liquor manufacturer was not named as being rationed.

Enterprise Factory Reopens Earlier For Cheese Making

Enterprise, Feb. 14 — The "Old Reliable" Cheese Factory began its 1942 operations on February 1st, setting a record of the early opening of this factory by several months and with a greater supply of milk than ever was had in other years at the usual date of opening, May 1.

The "Old Reliable" Factory was built in 1871 by the late Thomas Clancy and was operated for the first time that year and with the opening of its seventy-second year is believed to set a Canadian record for the only factory to be operated for nearly three-quarters of a century by the same family.

P. J. Murphy, a son-in-law of the late Mr. Clancy, who now manages the factory, has had fifty-one years experience in the cheese business. With the demand for increased production of cheese, Mr. Murphy felt it an obligation to open the factory several months earlier and with the co-operation of the farmers in the district looks forward to one of the best seasons for cheese production in the seventy-two years history of the factory. Everett Murphy has charge of the making of the cheese. It may be of interest to note that in the first years of the factory's operations, girls were employed almost exclusively in the making of cheese, but of late years men have assumed the work of manufacture.

Mrs. John Clancy, of Centreville, now some eighty years of age, was employed in the factory for several seasons during the early years of its history.

UNITED WE STAND!

THIS is a time of controversy and political indecision in Canada. If conflicts of opinion have arisen, these must not be allowed to distract attention from the one thing which should be paramount in our minds—namely, our part in the desperate struggle with enemies who seek to destroy us.

Let us argue, if we must, about the right or wrong way of doing things—as we who live in a democracy are free to do—but let us remember that the woods are bigger than the trees and that to win—or even to keep from losing—we must make our utmost contributions in effort and in money now.

We have volunteered to support Britain by giving her a billion dollars' worth of war needs and food within the year, as well as to produce all the armed strength we can muster for her aid and for our own defence.

Canadians of all races, creeds and political beliefs! Remember that, above all differences, our common aim is to carry on this war without delay or interruption—to maintain, unhindered by internal strife, our maximum effort to stop Hitler and his gang!

Now—more than ever—we must strive to put Canada and the Empire first, above considerations of race or party! We must put our dollars to work to defend our Canadian heritage. The need is urgent—our duty is plain.

Quarterly Meeting Belleville Presbytery Of The United Church

The February meeting of the Belleville Presbytery was held in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, Tuesday Feb. 10th, at 10:00 o'clock. Rev. E. F. Swayne, chairman, presided at the Sessions throughout the day. The attendance was very good considering the week-end storm.

The Presbytery was fortunate in having three Department Leaders from Toronto in the persons of Rev. A. J. Wilson, D.D., Rev. George Dorey, D.D., and Rev. J. McKay, newly appointed superintendent of mission for the Montreal- Ottawa and Bay of Quinte Conference.

During the Laymen's hour addresses were given by Principal J. Morrison of the School for the Deaf, Belleville, Mr. E. L. Fraser, Trenton and Rev. A. J. Wilson of Toronto.

Mr. George Teskey, a student of Albert College, Belleville, was received as a candidate for the ministry.

For the duration of the war it was decided to hold all Presbytery meetings in Belleville, the May meeting to be held in Holloway St. Church, on Tuesday, May 5th, at 9:00 a.m.

The invitation of Rev. Edmund H. Unstead of Adolphustown to Roseneath was sustained and Mr. Unstead takes up his work on his new field on March 10th. Rev. R. W. Young of Springbrook made application for a change of pastoral relations.

The special committee on Salary Bonus presented their report and arrangements were made to visit every pastoral charge receiving less than the minimum of $1800.00.

The statistical report was presented by the secretary, Rev. James E. Berkel, Stirling. The report showed among many other facts that there are in this Presbytery fifty - seven pastoral charges, one hundred and seventy-nine preaching places, with fifty-nine ministers, seven student supplies and two lay supplies. There are in this Presbytery 10,967 families with a church membership of 14,823 and a Sunday School membership of 11,105. There are 144 Woman's Missionary Societies and 131 Woman's Associations. In this Presbytery $20,044 was raised for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

The Missionary Education and Foreign Missions Committee urged that the Christians and Christian leaders in Canada do not fail to pray constantly for Japanese Christians and that we show a sympathetic spirit toward them and thus maintain the Christian bond that should not be broken even in the time of war. This recommendation was carried unanimously.

The Evangelism and Social Service Committee made some very important pronouncements. Among these were :-1- In the carrying on of the war, Parliament should be remolded more than it is and less, especially when Parliament is in session. -2- Whether we approve or not of the plebiscite we feel the Government should be released from any past commitments that might hinder freedom of action in the future. We feel that the seriousness of the times demand this. -3- In conserving our resources we believe that rationing by the use of rationing cards to be the fairest system and the method most willingly accepted by the people. Financially we urge the consideration of compulsory saving by means of interest free loans based by which is sometime called deferred income. We urge support to the utmost of the present Victory Loan. -4- For the sake of so many worthy, while patriotic citizens of Canada of different racial extraction, we should refrain from and actively discourage derogatory and nasty references to the race or colour of any people including our enemies, not forgetting that "God has made of one blood all the nations" and "He is no respecter of persons." Let us be thankful that we have active allies even among all the peoples against whom we are now at war.

This same committee strongly protested against the privileged position of the liquor trade as evidenced by absence of any war-time restrictions for the sale of beverage alcohol, and the fact that when sugar was rationed the liquor manufacturer was not named as being rationed.

The ladies of Tabernacle United Church served dinner to the delegates present and words of thanks were expressed by Rev. E. M. Cook, of Foxboro.

WOMEN NEEDED AS INSPECTORS IN WAR WORK

Ottawa—Women university graduates and undergraduates are needed for inspection work by the Inspection Board of the United Kingdom and Canada, it was announced recently.

Recruiting of some 600 or more girls and women between 29 and 40, who have had advanced training in mathematics, chemistry or radio, will begin at once, it was stated. The girls will be given responsible positions inspecting gun barrels, gun carriage parts, fire control instruments, explosives and radio parts. Already 250 are doing such work in plants all across Canada.

"The girls will not wear a dazzling uniform," said Major-General R. F. Lock, Inspector-General. They will not get their photographs in the paper. They won't march behind brass bands. Instead they will work 48 hours a week in a factory. But they will have ethe satisfaction of doing work that is essential to the winning of the war."

Candidates for the positions, said the Inspector-General, must be prepared to go where they are needed, and must pay the travelling expenses to their first station. The girls who will inspect gun barrels and gun carriage parts will attend a school at ePterborough for one month. From the time they start school their pay will commence at the rate of 48 cts. an hour upwards. They must have had a good training in mathematics beyond senior matriculation, and should have had some university training, have taken courses in physics, or held a teacher's certificate.

Fire control instrument work is more difficult and a university degree will be the minimum requirement. Girls for this work will be selected from the best of the gun barrel and gun carriage parts candidates and will remain at least two months in Peterborough.

Those employed for the inspection of explosives will go direct to their stations. They must have specialized in chemistry and hold a university degree. They will be employed either as laboratory assistants at $100 a month or as junior chemists at $125, according to training and experience.

The radio examiners at present are all employed in Montreal and their pay is 39 to 48 cents an hour, according to training and experience. They must have had training at one of the radio colleges or several years experience on radio parts.

To all these rates the cost of living bonus will be added.

Major-General Lock appealed to all girls with the necessary training to enlist in this inspection work. "I am sure," he said, "that what the women of Britain can do, the women of Canada also will do." He pointed out that the Maritimes, in the north country, in the west, and wherever industry has not so far penetrated, there are many girls who have not been able to take advantage of their highly specialized education, often obtained at considerable sacrifice. "It is to these girls especially that we are appealing to get in touch with us at once," he added. This is their chance to make use of their exceptional education. It is their greatest opportunity to serve their country."

BREAKFAST IN WINTER

Hello Homemakers: Both children and grown-ups should have a good, wholesome breakfast — to work, to play, and to enjoy life. So let's check up on some of our breakfast habits.

—V—

That "no breakfast" habit so many of us bemoan is usually the result of doing without breakfast — or skimping on it — through lack of time. RUSH is responsible for too many of our dietary and general health troubles. Why not firmly resolve to take at least twenty minutes to eat an adequate breakfast?. It's really worth it.

—V—

Even those who eat plenty of breakfast should guard against menus that are monotonous. Remember variety is said to be the "spice" of life. Others, whose work does not involve a great amount of exercise are apt to indulge in much too heavy food for breakfast. Followed by a light lunch and heavy dinner, the percentage of proteins in this diet is too large. Our breakfast suggestions will start you on the way to better-balanced meals and better health.

TAKE A TIP:

1 If a broom gets out of shape, wet it in boiling water and place flat on the floor with a weight on it until dry.
2 To prevent mattress or sheets from being torn, bind the sharp edges of bed springs with adhesive tape.
3 When making sheets have them one yard longer and wider than the bed.
4 If your window shades pull away from the roller, a piece of adhesive tape after they are put over each tack holds them firm in the tacks that hold the blind.

NURSES URGED TO TAKE ADVANTAGE REFRESHER COURSES

Montreal. — Appointment of Miss Kathleen W. Ellis, Reg. Nurse, B.Sc., as emergency nursing adviser to the Canadian Nurses Association is announced from the National Office in Montreal.

Miss Ellis graduated from Johns Hopkins Hospital School for Nurses, Baltimore, and later from Columbia University, New York. She is now Professor of Nursing at the University of Saskatchewan and Registrar of the Saskatchewan Registered Nurses Association and has been released temporarily to carry out a programme outlined in recommendations approved by the Canadian Nurses Association and designed to meet the wartime crisis in nursing service which has developed in Canada. As a former Director of Nursing at the Vancouver General Hospital and the Winnipeg General Hospital, Miss Ellis has a practical knowledge of hospital problems and community needs. "A course in public health nursing taken at Bedford College, London University, and the Royal College of Nursing, London, England, gives her an understanding of the special requirements in public health, a field in which many nurses are now needed.

The impending crisis in nursing is caused chiefly by a shortage of specially qualified nurses to fill positions of responsibility in hospitals, schools of nursing and the public health field. Many specially skilled nurses are now on active service in military hospitals overseas and in Canada. One of the most important needs is to assure that selected nurses shall be prepared to take their places, therefore a recommendation dealing with post-graduate courses is regarded as the most urgent of several formulated to meet the crisis.

It is hoped that there will be large enrolments for post-graduate courses in universities next fall, and that authorities in recognized schools will take immediate steps to select nurses to take special courses in administration, teaching or public health work. Such courses are now available at seven Canadian universities.

Hospitals and alumnae associations are urged to consider the possibility of providing bursaries and loans for promising nurses.

Interviewed at the National Office of the Canadian Nurses Association at Montreal where she is initiating her work as emergency nursing adviser and preparing her itinerary for her forthcoming visits, Miss Ellis stressed the fact that it would be a serious matter for the public as well as for our profession if the standards of nursing are allowed to be endangered. "The war," she continued, "has emphasized the value of advanced education in nursing since so many specially prepared nurses have been selected for service overseas. The one fact alone would justify the long and difficult struggle to raise nursing standards."

More use of post-graduate courses offered in universities by the enrolment of larger numbers of carefully selected nurses. The development of additional post-graduate courses to provide new technical skills as the need for these arises;

Improved conditions to make the profession more attractive to young women to whom nursing appeals as a patriotic service with unlimited opportunities that will continue after the present crisis is over. Some improvements suggested touch on shorter hours of duty and more desirable living conditions;

Better professional status and higher remuneration for general duty nurses in hospitals;

Extension of education within hospitals and organizations, to improve the clinical teaching of less experienced head nurses and instructors;

The renewal of professional contacts with married and retired nurses through refresher courses and special enrolments to meet emergencies.

In reference to post - graduate courses, Miss Ellis pointed out the directors in schools of nursing are asked to assist selected nurses to make the necessary financial arrangements for such study. In addition to bursaries and loans, including those offered by the Canadian Nurses Association, it is earnestly hoped that aid from public funds will be granted to help meet the serious situation in nursing which directly concerns the health of the people of Canada. Up to the present the financial responsibility for the preparation of the nurse has been left largely to hospitals, interested members of the profession and rare, but much appreciated, lay assistance. Thinking people are asking how long fails is going to continue, with a service as indispensable to the public as is nursing.

In noting the fact that increased emphasis is being placed upon the importance of closer contacts with universities, Miss Ellis observed that nurses are in line with other professions. She pointed out that courses are now available to undergraduate as well as graduate nurses in seven Canadian universities. These combined courses lead to a university degree and a hospital diploma.

Miss Ellis will visit every province in order to assist the provincial nurses associations of registered nurses in putting the approved recommendations into effect. Each association has been requested to appoint an experienced member to work with her and to assume responsibility in the province which she represents.

EXPRESS THANKS FOR QUILTS SENT

The following is a portion of a letter received by Mrs. Campbell, President of the Ontario Division to the Canadian Red Cross, from the Dowager Marchioness of Reading, O. B.E., who is Chairman of the Women's Voluntary Services for Civilian Defence in England. Her Majesty The Queen, is President of this organization:—

"I was touring one of our centres recently and was taken to see a house which has been equipped and prepared to receive aged and infirm people who are bombed out of their homes. The very first thing which struck my eye as I was shown the dormitories was the beautiful quilt on each bed which showed the very highest standard of workthanship and covered up the large, rather gloomy room, beyond all description.

"The quilts, which come to us through the Canadian Red Cross, are a byword throughout the country. In fact, whenever I see a patchwork quilt, I ask automatically if it is a Canadian one, and the answer is almost always, 'Yes.' The amount of work and thought which must have gone into each one is so deeply appreciated over here, where, of necessity, we have often to make do with rather rough and ready arrangements. Another factor of very great value is that each pattern being so distinctive and different, gives the inmate assigned to each particular bed, a feeling of individuality and self-respect, and it avoids the atmosphere of an institution which we are so anxious to escape."

"The bales and cases of clothing which arrive from you are also tremendously valuable."

BREAKFAST IN WINTER

Hello Homemakers: Both children and grown-ups should have a good, wholesome breakfast — to work, to play, and to enjoy life. So let's check up on some of our breakfast habits.

—V—

That "no breakfast" habit so many of us permit is usually the result of doing without breakfast — or skimping on it — through lack of time. RUSH is responsible for too many of our dietary and general health troubles. Why not firmly resolve to take at least twenty minutes to eat an adequate breakfast? It's well worth it!

—V—

Even those who do manage to get breakfast should guard against meeting that same problem. Breakfast variety is said to be the spice of life. Other menus work out to involve a stereotyped routine. Here are ways to include in health-building food for breakfast. Followed by a light lunch and hearty dinner, percentages of proteins in this day's food are: One breakfast menu contains 9% starch, 3% protein, 3% fat, the other 8% starch, 3% protein, 3% fat, better-balancing the day's health.

WAGING SPECTACLES FOR SPITFIRES

Sir Charles Tupper Chapter, I. O. D. E. Order Daughters of the Empire, Vancouver, B.C., are collecting old spectacles, the receipts from which go to the Aircraft Fund of the Order. So far they have been realizing $75.00 per month from this source and metal or bone spectacles can be used. As they are the only organization that they know of, collecting old glasses, they hope to make it a nation-wide campaign and to be able to make a substantial donation to the Aircraft Fund. A collection in the United States netted $4,000.00 this past year.

Every home has one or more old glasses that are useless to the owner but can thus be put to a useful purpose of purchasing a Spitfire. Spectacles belonging to a loved one that has passed away are often sent to us and the quaint shapes and old spectacle cases that find their way to the office would delight a collector's heart. Glasses are marked from all over the United States and Canada and even one came from Germany. We are sending this one back there in a more deadly form.

Old people can share in this war work as in a long life they have usually collected many pairs of glasses. This is also a war work of which the Government approves as it is salvaging, not spending. You are not asked to buy a ticket, or to do work, just look up and send "useless to you" pairs of glasses.

SALVATION ARMY RECEIVES THANKS FOR PARCELS

The two following letters were received recently by the local Salvation Army, from boys overseas, to whom the Army had sent Christmas parcels.

Dear Officers of The Salvation Army.

I am writing these few lines to thank you for your kindness in sending me a Christmas box. It was very glad to get everything you sent me. A chocolate bar or a cigarette is a man's best friend over here.

I have met some of the Salvation Army people over here. They make me feel right at home in these trying times. England is a fine country and the people are very brave over here. They have been bombed out of their homes and also are living on whatever they can get, while the Canadian people have lots and plenty and no air raids or blackouts. But I must say that we are enjoying good health and having as good a time as possible. I will assure you people of Canada that we will do our best and bring victory to you all.

In closing we all wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Yours truly (Thumbs-up)
Archie McGregor

"There Will Always be an England."

And now, I must thank all the people who work for the Red Shield and hope you will thank them for me, as I do not know now who belongs to it. Whenever I get near a place where The Army is, I go to it on Sunday, so I will ask you to pray for me and my safe return to my wife and boy who are very dear to me.

Thanking you, I remain,
Yours sincerely,
Gnr. R. VanVolkenburg.

BRITAIN CALLING FOR MORE EGGS

Dr. F. N. Marcellus, Head of Poultry Department, O.A.C., Guelph, Calls On Every Poultry Keeper to Keep Britain's Egg Basket Supplied

Britain is calling for eggs and more eggs. It is hoped this call will penetrate into the home of every poultry keeper in Ontario, because two-fifths of the poultry population is in this Province, says Dr. F. N. Marcellus, head of the Poultry Department of O. A. C. Guelph. At the present time Ontario is supplying almost half of the eggs being exported to Britain. This calls for an all-out effort on the part of every flock owner to produce to the limit of his or her capacity and ability.

Eggs occupy a priority position in the shipment of foods to Britain. This emphasizes their relative position with other foods. This recognition of the importance of eggs in the diet, and the limited supply available — one to two eggs per person per month — is a challenge to the industry in Ontario to help keep Britain's egg basket supplied.

"Ontario has a ben population of twelve million birds. Two dozen more eggs per bird in 1942 than in 1941 would provide half the eggs called for in contracts arranged or proposed. Let us, therefore accept this as our objective for 1942. More careful feeding and management of our present flocks, and better care of the eggs that are produced will enable us to attain our objective," states Dr. Marcellus.

"Poultry producers in Ontario have a real opportunity to serve in helping to win the war. Let us measure up to our responsibilities by doing the job just a little better this year."

February Meeting V. O. N.

A Board meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held in the Legion Room on Monday, February 9, at 2:30 p.m., with the president, Mrs. Ray Ashley, in the chair.

The prayer of the Order was taken by Mrs. A. B. Medd and the regular monthly reports were heard and received approval.

Two letters from the Central Board in Ottawa were read. The first acknowledged receipt of a copy of the constitution and by-laws of the local branch. The other contained the report of Miss Dawson, National Office Superior, who recently visited Napanee. This report was highly commendatory, paying tribute to "the increased activity on the part of the Board under the capable leadership of Mrs. Ashley, and the efficient management of the nursing service by Miss Docker."

An open meeting will be held in March. Tea will be served, the Marathon prizes will be awarded and an address given by a speaker.

Miss Docker described her new office in the Town Hall. A committee, Mrs. George Paul and Mrs. Medd, are to try to provide furniture and sterilization facilities for it. The Secretary was asked to write a letter of thanks to the Town Council for the office.

Introducing her report, Miss Docker read "A New Year's Challenge" by the Chief Superintendent, who stressed the importance of the care of the sick and the health of the civilian population during the war.

The meeting adjourned after hearing Miss Docker's report, which appears elsewhere.

Just a line to thank the Red Shield for the lovely parcel I received from you. I was very pleased and very surprised. I love the Army and always will for my poor old Dad always went to the Army and all of our family. And now, I must thank all the people who work for the Red Shield and hope you will thank them for me, as I do not know now who belongs to it. Whenever I get near a place where The Army is, I go to it on Sunday, so I will ask you to pray for me and my safe return to my wife and boy who are very dear to me.

Thanking you, I remain,
Yours sincerely,
Cpl. R. VanVolkenburg.

BRITAIN CALLING FOR MORE EGGS

Dr. F. N. Marcellus, Head of Poultry Department, O.A.C., Guelph, Calls On Every Poultry Keeper to Keep Britain's Egg Basket Supplied

Britain is calling for eggs and more eggs. It is hoped this call will penetrate into the home of every poultry keeper in Ontario, because two-thirds of the poultry population is in this Province, says Dr. F. N. Marcellus, head of the Poultry Department of O.A.C. Guelph. At the present time Ontario is supplying almost half of the eggs being exported to Britain. This calls for an all-out effort on the part of every poultry keeper in Ontario to the limit of his or her capacity and ability.

Egg is perhaps a primary position in the shipment of foods to Britain. This emphasizes their relative position with other foods. The recognition of the importance of eggs in the diet, and the unlimited appetite for eggs by two eggs per person per month is a challenge to the producers in Ontario to help keep Britain's egg basket supplied.

"Ontario has a hen population of twelve million birds. Two dozen more eggs per hen in 1942 than in 1941 would provide half the eggs called for in production arranged at proposed. Let us, therefore, accept this as our objective for 1942. Better feeding and management of our present flocks, and better care of the eggs that are produced will enable us to attain our objective," states Dr. Marcellus.

"Poultry producers in Ontario have a real opportunity to serve in helping to win the war. Let us measure up to our responsibilities by doing the job just a little better this year."

An open meeting will be held in March. This will be served, the Marathon prizes will be awarded and an address given by a speaker.

Miss Docker described her new office in the Town Hall. A committee, Mrs. George Paul and Mrs. Medd, are to try to provide furniture and sterilization facilities for it. The Secretary was asked to write a letter of thanks to the Town Council for the office.

Introducing her report, Miss Docker quoted "A New Year's Challenge" by the Chief Superintendent, who stressed the importance of the care of the sick and the health of the civilian population during the war.

"The meeting adjourned after hearing Miss Docker's report, which appears elsewhere."

NURSING REPORT FOR JANUARY, 1942

Given by Miss K. F. Docker, the Victorian Order Nurse, at the January Meeting.

The month of January has been one of usual activity from the nursing field. One confinement was attended and the mother and babe given care following. One other case was taken on en return from the nursing home. An effort is being made to see the new - borns of the town as early in life, preferably, during the first two weeks of life, for the purpose of supervision and helping the mothers to get a good start and set up a proper schedule and routine for the babe. This means adjusting the doctor's orders to fit home routine. We all know that the babe on regular and definite routine progresses better and develops into a healthier, happier child than the one that is brought up haphazard.

Medical and surgical cases cared for were about average in number. From general observation I would say that there had not been a great deal of serious illness in-town, this winter.

During the month, rapid inspection of all school pupils has been made. Thorough inspection of the pupils of Grade 5 in West Ward, resulted in checking up five pupils, apparently with defective vision. This is a very serious handicap for any child. It remains to be seen if correction of the defect will make great improvement in the work done by these pupils. One child is being provided with sight-saving materials, that is books and equipment of very large type to help overcome his vision defect.

The Child Hygiene Conference has nothing new to report. A talk was given at the Home and School Club on the Control and Prevention of Communicable Diseases.

Miss Dawson's visit at the time of the annual meeting was much appreciated. Through her visit of responsibilities, the Town Council are providing office space in the Town Hall, for the Nurse's Office. We hope this will be ready in about a week's time. A proper office and equipment will provide a background for proper records and book-keeping. Adequate cupboard space will provide for proper arrangement of supplies, stationery, and other equipment. Then, too, interviews may be arranged, when necessary, with any individual desirous of meeting the Nurse. Effective planning of work can best be done, in suitable surroundings. Actual occupancy of the office will, no doubt, not be longer than a half-hour or so a day, unless one is working on reports or other plans.

I felt that we should be very grateful to those who, seeing our need for office space, were so quick and willing to provide us space by making alterations to the Women's Waiting Room.

PRESENTATION TO MR. AND MRS. PERCY HUDGIN, SELBY, ON 20TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On the evening of February 14th, a large concourse of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hudgin gathered at their home on the occasion of their twentieth wedding anniversary, to spend a few social hours with the bride and groom, of twenty years ago. After a short time of social intercourse, Reev. W. R. Merrick, who acted as chairman for the evening, called upon W.A. McLeod, Warden of this County, who was a schoolmate of the groom in his boyhood days, and a life-long friend of Mr. and Mrs. Hudgin, to read the following address:—

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hudgin,

Dear Friends:

We have gathered here tonight on the event of the 20th anniversary of your marriage to spend a social hour with you. We feel that we cannot let this opportunity pass without expressing to you our appreciation of the work you are doing in the Sunday School, the Church and the community in general. We realize that this work takes a lot of time and thought, and yet regardless of time or expense, you are always ready to take your part in any work which tends to better our community.

Please accept this gift as a token of the appreciation and esteem of your neighbours, and with it goes our wish that you may have a great many more anniversaries of this happy occasion, and that all of them may be spent in this community.

Signed on behalf of the Selby Community, by W. R. Merrick,

Stanley Sexsmith, A. F. McKnight and William A. McLeod.

Although taken entirely by surprise, Mr. Hudgin thanked his friends for the beautiful china tea set, and invited all back for their fortieth anniversary.

TRINITY Y. P. S.

Danger! Liver Trouble is Serious

Are you nervous and irritable—can't sleep or eat—tired out all the time? If so, it may be that your liver is poisoning your whole system! Lasting ills can often be the cost!

● Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands. If unhealthy, your body laid this energy and becomes enfeebled—youthful vim disappears. Troubles and rheumatic pains arise from this poison. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys are affected and poor health, nervousness, headachy, backachy, dizzy, tired out—a ready prey for sickness and disease.

"Thousands of people are never sick, and have won prompt relief from these troubles with "Improved Fruit-a-tives Liver Tablets." Urges Buying Victory Bonds Out of Savings and Income

K. Sandwell, editor of Toronto rday Night, speaking in the Nap- Armouries on Sunday afternoon County mass meeting in the ests of the Victory Loan, made urgent appeal for the people of County to buy bonds out of sav- and income. Mr. Sandwell said even though some people may be satisfied with the way the ernment of Canada is carrying the war effort, not likely the ple in any of the belligerent tries are satisfied with the way governments are carrying on what we are being asked to do to put a few more bricks in the which the government is build- which is 'the only thing that ade between us and defeat. ayor D. R. Hall, chairman of the nty Victory Loan Committee, pre- ed at the meeting. Music was ided by the P.W.O.R. Military d, of Kingston, and W. A. Grange rary Chairman of the County anization, spoke briefly on the d to subscribe to the loan. r. Sandwell presented to Mr. J. herson, president of The Gibbard niture Shops, an honour certifi- from Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Dominion nce Minister awarded because employees of the factory had cribed 100 per cent. to the loan.

SANDWELL'S ADDRESS

r. Sandwell spoke in beginning address, of the early history of County of Lennox and Addington, erring particularly to the days of Fenian Raid. He said during the e of the Fenian raids, around e there was great competition be- different centres in the county to which could tur- nout the best ilts. Adolphustown, he stated, d over Napanee simply because olphustown had begun preparing fore Napanee did. There is a moral to us in these days in that fact of tory, Mr. Sandwell said. "Because," asked, "is not the present condi- of the Free Countries of the rld, due to the lack of prepara- a lack of willingness to sacri- and prepare to meet a danger e must have known was coming?" Today defence is a matter of ining men and providing a great al of money to spend on weapons, we are not able to defend our en- y on an even footing. The bonds Canadian Government offer- are good — good as dollar bills. e Government must have money ep people think they are under obligation to subscribe to the loan cause they think the Government ust run; that is the affair of the ntry as they think it should be e. Possibly, he added, the Japs ve more reason to be satisfied with ir government's efforts than any r people have, because they are hing in sight. Because what e done for them.".

Who else in this war, Mr. Sandwell ked, has any reason to be satisfied? the Germans, because they ex- ted a short war. Their army has n stalled by Russia and is suffer- millions of casualties. The Itali- are not satisfied. They have lost only bit of Empire they had. dies they have lost the respect of whole world and the control of ir own government.

The Russians have some reason for isfaction because their govern- nt has done an incredible job in few short years. The British are t satisfied with their government. ther are the Americans, because war is not going entirely as they uld like. But the British, the Ame- icans and Canadians know that hatever is wrong is the fault of ch one of us — you and me, who the years when this thing was coming upon us, refused to think would come upon us. When it came Europe we felt it could not come us in this continent — but it can me to us.

What we are being asked to do to put a few more bricks into the ill the Government is building, hich is the only thing that stands tween us and defeat. The enemy so near to us that only every fort we can make will suffice to ep him away.

GOV'T PLEBISCITE ON CONSCRIPTION TO BE HELD IN MAY

Will Cost Country $1,500,000

Some time in May Canadians will go to the polls to vote on the plebiscite. They will, by a single "X" decide then whether or not they want to release the Liberal Government from its anti-conscription pledge of the 1940 elections. On Friday, in the House of Commons, Hon. Norman McLarty, Secretary of State, announced the much - anticipated plebiscite regulations. Here are some important provisions:

1 It will cost $1,500,000, perhaps less.
2 The plebiscite will be held some time in May on a date set by proclamation.
3 It will conform to the Dominion Elections Act, 1938.
4 Canadian soldiers everywhere get the vote.
5 Internees disenfranchised.
7 "Conscientious objectors" denied vote.
8 Complete new election lists to be made.
9 Voluntary workers to be sought.
10 Actual question on plebiscite ballot to be: "Are you in favour of releasing the Government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

"RITZIN' THE BLITZ"

It has been seen by enthusiastic audiences throughout the country and highly praised for its speed, originality and cleverness. It is the first military revue of the present conflict to fall into the tradition established by "The Dumbells" in the last war.

"Ritzin' The Blitz" is an all-soldier musical revue in twenty scenes elaborately staged and lighted, and with costuming in the "girl" numbers that is often breath-takingly beautiful.

The boys come here from a highly successful week's engagement at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, where they played to capacity audiences. "Ritzin' The Blitz" was designed primarily to entertain the troops but has proved to be such good all-round entertainment that your local Victory Loan Committee feels very fortunate in being able to present such high-class entertainment in support of the present campaign.

Incidentally, it is interesting to note that the members of this all-male studded cast are all members of the Canadian Active Forces. They are eligible for Overseas Service at a moment's notice.

Rehearsing is done entirely in their own spare time when off duty from drill and other duties, and no extra remuneration is received by any member of the cast.

LENNOX & ADDINGTON HEADS ONTARIO IN CHEESE QUALITY

Lennox Produces 98.63% Addington 98.54% First Grade

According to a report just compiled by C. J. Brennan, District Cheese Inspector, from official figures, Lennox County made the highest percentage in 1941 of first grade cheese of any of the principal cheese producing counties in the Province of Ontario, and Addington came second.

The Lennox part of the County achieved a percentage of 98.63 first grade cheese, which had an average score of 93.497%. Addington percentage was 98.54 first grade cheese, with an average score of 93.541%. Lennox had 27,015 boxes of cheese graded in 1941, and Addington 25,946 boxes, which represented an increase in production over 1940 of more than 22%.

The money paid to the cheese factories in premiums for high quality cheese amounted to $36,395.66 in Lennox, and $36,194.52 in Addington.

Compared with the rest of Ontario this is a most excellent record, and one of which both producers and cheesemakers might well be proud, considering that for the whole of the Province the percentage of first grade cheese was 96.97, with an average score of 93.050%. In the entire Province the number of boxes of cheese graced was 1,083,447, of which the County of Lennox and Addington produced just over 5%.

The production of cheese in the County in 1942 promises to be much greater than in 1941, since a number of factories have been in operation throughout the winter, and others are making a much earlier opening than usual.

Details of the amount of production of individual factories in 1941 in the County, and their percentages of first grade cheese, will be published at a later date.

GIVE CANVASSER FOR VICTORY LOAN A BREAK

One way in which citizens of the County who intend to buy Victory Bonds, can materially assist the canvassers is by being ready to make their purchase on the canvasser's first visit.

In some cases the canvassers are forced to make two or three calls at the same home, when one should really suffice.

If the intending purchaser would be ready to come to a decision on the canvasser's first visit, much time would be saved, much driving over bad roads would be obviated and a good deal of gasoline would be saved.

The situation in Libya was reported as being unchanged.

SATURDAY—

U. S. shell planes and Dutch-land troops struck a shattering blow against Japanese invaders of the Island of Bali, one mile from Java. Eight Jap warships or transports were sunk or damaged.

British Empire troops were reported making a firm stand on the western shores of the Bilin River, some 80 miles northeast of Rangoon.

Japanese planes made a shattering bombardment against Burma's Moslem city of Mandalay.

Soviet forces advanced westward toward the Latvian border, Red Army, the Soviets official army newspaper, claimed Russia had seized the balance of power and had disrupted the Germans' entire plan for a spring offensive.

Two Nazi motor torpedo boats were sunk as a sweeping plane shot down and four others damaged in an attempted Axis attack upon a British convoy in the North Sea on Friday.

All signs pointed to the Japanese starting a major drive against the forces of General MacArthur in the Philippines and there appeared to be no hope for the Allies that reinforcements could reach MacArthur in time to be of any help to him.

MONDAY—

The Japanese were reported making little headway in their invasion of Bali, east of Java, and slow progress in Southern Sumatra, at the opposite end of Java, because of the increasing effectiveness of Allied planes and sailors in blasting Japanese invasion fleets and aircraft.

The Australians, even in face of the threat to themselves as a result of the Japanese capture of the Island of Timor, were preparing to send all possible aid to the Dutch East Indies.

All of Burma was threatened gravely as a result of Japanese attacks between the Bilin and Sittang Rivers. Hopes for holding Rangoon were dwindling. Fall of the city would open the way to rthe Jap invasion of the colony, which is the barrier to India and gateway to China.

The movement of big forces by the Axis to the Libyan front was taken to indicate that General Rommell is preparing to resume his drive for the Egyptian border.

REVERSES IN EAST--- SUCCESSES IN RUSSIA DURING PAST WEEK

The Russians were claiming the initiative along the entire front. Khurkov, the great steel centre in the Donets Basin, and Novgorod on the front south of Leningrad, were said to be menaced by the Russian troops.

Premier Churchill in a statement in the House of Commons, said that the Atlantic position had been eased by the change of base of the three German ships, Prince Eugen, Scharnhorst and Gneisenau. He indicated the three ships had been so badly damaged by the British that they would be out of commission for several months.

INSPIRING ADDRESS BY W. S. HERRINGTON VICTORY LOAN SUNDAY

Given ot St. Mary Magdaleng's Church Last Sunday Morning

If you were to ask me what is the most deadly sin that affects the people of this globe, that is the primary cause of strife and misery, that sets man against man, community against community, nation against nation—that in the end fosters hatred, engenders greed and covetousness, I would say that it is selfishness. I may not be quite orthodox in my belief but I am firmly of the opinion that if selfishness could be banished from this world, love, peace and harmony would secure a firmer foothold in the hearts of men. It appears in such a myriad of forms, often disguised and camouflaged, that it is often difficult to detect it, but if we carefully analyze the acts that produce misery in this world and dig deep enough to ascertain the cause, we will find at the roots that poisonous germ of selfishness. It matters not, whether the offender be that selfish individual who seeks to secure more than his or her allotted ration of sugar or that self styled superman who seeks to become the overlord of the world. They are both of the same class and, though different in degree, they are moved by the same spirit of selfishness.

The Divine Creator has made ample provision to satisfy all with the good things of this earth if administered with a due regard to the rights of all.

Closely allied with selfishness is complacency. Indeed it might be styled its offspring. Complacency in national matters may be due to ignorance or to a failure to realize the responsibility that is ours in our relationship to the country to which we owe allegiance.

With the frequent broadcasts to which we listen every day, the startling headlines in our daily press and the general topic of conversation in all parts of our country, it is difficult to conceive that any right minded Canadian can be ignorant of the imminent peril that threatens our homes at this very hour. It is equally difficult to conceive that any right minded Canadian could fail to realize the duty that is cast upon him or her in this hour of peril. There are two questions we should ask ourselves. 1. What would happen if every British subject should do the same as I am doing? 2. What is the most that I can do to help win this war?

The antithesis of selfishness and complacency are service and sacrifice. We are now, as never before, brought face to face with the problem, with which class shall we associate ourselves, the selfish and complacent or the true patriots who are prepared to serve their country and if necessary, sacrifice their all to preserve what we hold dear, our homes, our freedom and our religious liberty.

I need not weary you with relating what has transpired during the past two and a half years. We are all aware that there has emerged from what appears to be the darkest realm of hell itself, a vicious demon in the form of a man who blasphemes in the name of his Creator, who possesses none of the attributes of manhood and glorifies war as the noblest enterprise in which a nation can be engaged. We have seen nation after nation brutally crushed by the most deadly weapons of war and the victims enslaved and subjected to the most barbarous treatment the world has ever witnessed. There cannot be the slightest doubt that his ultimate design is the dismemberment, humiliation and destruction of the British Empire. Canada is one of the prizes he has in view. He has proclaimed it himself and his every movement points to that end. We have it from our two great leaders, the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the President of the United States, that defeat and disaster can be averted only by putting into the

L. K. SANDWELL SATURDAY NIGHT EDITOR SPEAKS IN NAPANEE

Urges Buying Victory Bonds Out of Savings and Income

L. K. Sandwell, editor of Toronto Saturday Night, speaking in the Napanee Armouries on Sunday afternoon at County mass meeting in the interests of the Victory Loan, made a forceful appeal for the people of the County to buy bonds out of savings and income. Mr. Sandwell said that even though some people may not be satisfied with the way the government of Canada is carrying on the war effort, not likely the people in any of the belligerent countries are satisfied with the way their governments are carrying on the war, we are being asked to do only a few more bricks in the wall which the government is building. That is the only thing that people in Canada are defeat.

Lieut.-Col. D. R. Hall, chairman of the Victory Loan Committee presided at the meeting. Music was provided by the P.W.O.R. Military Band of Kingston, and W. A. Grange (Reeve), Chairman of the County Council, spoke briefly on the need to subscribe to the loan.

A. E. Shotwell, presented to Mr. J. Gibbard, president of The Gibbard Furniture Shops, an honour certificate from Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Dominion Finance Minister, awarded because 100 per cent. of the factory had subscribed 100 per cent to the loan.

SANDWELL'S ADDRESS

Mr. Sandwell spoke in beginning of the early history of the County of Lennox and Addington, more particularly to the days of Danforth Road. He said during time of the Fenian raids, around there was great competition between the militia centres in the county which could fur nout the best men. As consequence, he stated, the Napanee simply became the place town had been preparing for. This is a moral we can learn in these days in that fact of history, Mr. Sandwell said "Because," he said, "we are not the proud possessors of the Free Countries of the world, owes to the lack of preparation, lack of willingness to sacrifice and prepare to meet a danger we knew was coming."

Defence is a matter of all men and providing a great deal of money to spend on weapons. We are going to be able to buy these on an even footing. The bonds we are buying from the Canadian Government is offering a very good as dollar bills. The Government must have money to equip the armed forces so necessary to defend our country our homes and our loved ones. It is better for the future of the country, Mr. Sandwell said, that the Government should borrow than to take money by taxation. Because after the war the money will be paid back when the country begins to produce again the things needed. Then there will be a period of purchasing power and we can look forward to a reasonable establishment.

WAY OUT OF SAVINGS

We are not being our duty, Mr. Sandwell declared, if we buy bonds out of the proceeds of something we have to sell. We must pay for them from the income that they are earning. We must learn to spend less in order to be able to invest more.

The Canadian people are under an obligation to subscribe to the loan because they think the Government is not running the affairs of the country as they think it should be. Possibly, he added, the Japs are more reason to be satisfied with our government's efforts than any other people have, because they are putting in on what the government is doing for them.

Who else in this war, Mr. Sandwell said, has any reason to be satisfied. Not the Germans, because they expected a short war. Their army was installed by Russia and is suffering millions of casualties. The Italians are not satisfied. They have lost only bit of Empire they had. Only they have lost the respect of the whole world and the control of their own government.

The Russians have some reason for satisfaction because their government has done an incredible job in few short years. The British are not satisfied with their government. Rather are the Americans, because the war is not going entirely as they would like. But the British, the Americans and Canadians know that whatever is wrong is the fault of no one of us — you and me, who in the years when this thing was coming upon us, refused to think or would come upon us. When it came to us we felt it could not come to us in this continent — but it can come to us.

What we are being asked to do is to put a few more bricks into the wall the Government is building. Which is the only thing that stands between us and defeat. The enemy is near to us that only every effort we can make will suffice to keep him away.

MILITARY CONVOY VISITS NAPANEE

Considerable interest was aroused in Napanee, last Thursday morning, when a convoy of armoured fighting vehicles from Kingston visited the town between nine and ten o'clock. The convoy was on display on the north side of Dundas Street for an hour and officers and men in charge were on hand to explain the purpose of the different units.

Major James Irving, of Military District No. 3, was in charge of the convoy with Capt. James Soutter, Second in Command.

During their stay in town the men were given lunch at the Armouries by the members of the I. O. D. E. The purpose of the convoy visit was to create interest in the Victory Loan Campaign, by showing the public some of the equipment used in the army for which funds raised by the loan will be used. The convoy made a tour of the eastern part of Ontario.

The convoy consisted of the following: 6 Reconnaissance Cars, 6 Motorcycles, 6 8-cwt. Lorries, 6 Bren Gun Carriers, 4 25-pdrs, and F. A. Ts. (Field Artillery Tractors) 2 two-pdrs., 2 Mobile Searchlights, 3 Valentine Tanks, 18 to 20 tons; 1 Ram-Tank 30 to 35 tons; 4 30-cwt. Lorries with tank sides for Victory Loan Posters, 2 Ambulances.

Some time in May Canadians will go to the polls to vote on the plebiscite. They will put a single "X" decide then whether or not they want to release the Liberal Government from its anti-conscription pledge of the 1940 elections. On Friday, in the House of Commons, Hon. Norman McLarty, Secretary of State, announced the much - anticipated plebiscite regulations. Here are some important provisions:

1 It will cost $1,500,000, perhaps less.
2 The plebiscite will be held some time in May on a date set by proclamation.
3 It will conform to the Dominion Elections Act, 1938.
4 Canadian soldiers everywhere get the vote.
5 Internees disenfranchised.
7 "Conscientious objectors" denied vote.
8 Complete new election lists to be made.
9 Voluntary workers to be sought.

TRUCK IN DITCH WEST OF NAPANEE

On Friday afternoon Weston's bread truck, while travelling east on No. 2 Highway, went into the ditch west of Napanee between Napanee and Desoronto.

The truck was said to have gone out of control when it struck a slippery part of the road. Several guard rails on either side of the road were broken off and the truck finally went into the ditch on its side.

The driver was uninjured and damage to the truck was not serious.

"RITZIN' THE BLITZ"

It has been seen by enthusiastic audiences throughout the country and highly praised for its speed, originality and cleverness. It is the first military revue of the present conflict to fall into the tradition established by "The Dumbells" in the last war.

"Ritzin' The Blitz" is an all-soldier musical revue in twenty scenes elaborately staged and lighted, and with costuming in the "girl" numbers that is often breath-takingly beautiful.

The boys come here from a highly successful week's engagement at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, where they played to capacity audiences. "Ritzin' The Blitz" was designed primarily to entertain the troops but has proved to be such good all-round entertainment that the Canada Victory Loan Committee feels very fortunate in being able to present such high-class entertainment in support of the present campaign.

Incidentally, it is interesting to note that the members of this talented cast are all members of the Canadian Active Forces. They are eligible for Overseas Service at a moment's notice.

Rehearsing is done entirely in their own spare time when off duty from drill and other duties, and no extra remuneration is received by any member of the cast.

LENNOX & ADDINGTON HEADS ONTARIO IN CHEESE QUALITY

Lennox Produces 98.63, Addington 98.54 First Grade

According to a report just compiled by C. J. Brennan, District Cheese Inspector, from official figures, Lennox County made the highest percentage in 1941 of first grade cheese of any of the principal cheese producing counties in the Province of Ontario, and Addington came second.

The Lennox part of the County achieved a percentage of 98.63 first grade cheese, which had an average score of 94.497. Addington percentage was 98.54 first grade cheese, with an average score of 93.541. Lennox had 27,013 boxes of cheese graded in 1941, and Addington 25,946 boxes, which represented an increase in production over 1940 of more than 22.

The money paid to the cheese factories in premiums for high quality cheese amounted to $36,380.66 in Lennox and $36,194.52 in Addington.

Compared with the rest of Ontario this is a most excellent record, and one of which both producers and cheesemakers might well be proud, conserning that for the whole of the Province the percentage of first grade cheese was 96.97, with an average score of 93.650. In the entire Province the number of boxes of cheese graded was 1,063,447, of which the County of Lennox and Addington produced just over 5.

The production of cheese in the County in 1942 promises to be much greater than in 1941, since a number of factories have been in operation throughout the year, and others are making a much earlier opening than usual.

Details of the amount of production of individual factories in 1941 in the County, and their percentages of first grade cheese, will be published at a later date.

One way in which citizens of the County may help to buy Victory Bonds is to patronize those canvassers in the meting route for which purchases on the canvasser's card.

In some cases the canvassers are allowed to make sales as they call at the home, while others would reach office.

If the canvassing purchaser would be given a discount on the purchase price, this would much time and money, thereby giving more time to sell bonds. It would be a good deal of gasoline would be saved.

INSPIRING ADDRESS BY W. S. HERRINGTON VICTORY LOAN SUNDAY

Given ot St. Mary Magdalene's Church Last Sunday Morning

It is not wise to ask me what is the most deadly sin that affects the people of this globe, that is the primary cause of strife and misery that sets man against man, community against community, nation against nation that in the end fosters hatred, engenders greed and covetousness. I would say that it is selfishness. It has not be quite orthodox in my belief but I am firmly of the opinion that if selfishness could be banished from this world love, peace and harmony would secure a firmer foothold in the hearts of men. It appears in such a myriad of forms, often disguised and camouflaged, that it is often difficult to detect it, but if we carefully analyze the acts that produce misery in this world and dig deep enough to ascertain the cause, we will find at the roots that poisonous germ of selfishness. It matters not whether the offender be that selfish individual who seeks to secure more than his or her allotted ration of sugar or that self styled superman who seeks to become the overlord of the world. They are both of the same class and, though different in degree, they are moved by the same spirit of selfishness.

The Divine Creator has made ample provision to satisfy all with the good things of this earth if administered with a due regard to the rights of all.

Closely allied with selfishness is complacency, indeed it might be styled its offspring. Complacency in national matters may be due to ignorance or to a failure to realize the responsibility that is ours in our relationship to the country to which we owe allegiance.

With the frequent broadcasts to which we listen every day, the startling headlines in our daily press and the general topic of conversation in all parts of our country it is difficult to conceive that any right minded Canadian can be ignorant of the imminent peril that threatens our homes and our loved ones. It is equally difficult to conceive that any right minded Canadian could fail to realize the duty that is cast upon him or her in this hour of peril. GREAT CHANGES

Great Britain is making so many breath-taking changes, these days, that it is hard for us here, so far from the scene of operation, to grasp the full significance of what they mean. We are living so much on the surface of things, interested in the immediate pressing problem of defeating Hitler and all that he stands for, that it is very difficult to catch the full meaning of the changes that are at work in the Mother Country. Britain has led the way in so many phases of life that we have almost come to the point where we can expect anything of Great Britain without being either surprised or shocked — and yet, it is hardly impossible to overrate the importance of the moves that have taken place during the past week.

There is, in the first place, the shake-up in the British Cabinet. Perhaps in no place in the world is a government so sensitive to public opinion as in Great Britain. When there was a public outcry for progressive, dynamic leadership after Dunkirk, the force of public opinion effected a change which brought to the foremost position, Winston Churchill. And now, the same currents of public opinion have forced the same Winston Churchill to introduce into his cabinet men who have no attachment with the appeasement policy of former governments. Perhaps the most revolutionary development is the inclusion in the Government, of Sir Stafford Cripps. Such a thing would be almost impossible in Canada. One of the Canadian papers, commenting on the appointment of Sir Stafford Cripps says: "We can get some idea of what it means if we can imagine Premier King inviting into his cabinet Mr. Coldwell, the leader of the C. C. F. in Ottawa — if we can imagine that Mr. Coldwell had been driven out of the Canadian Commonwealth Federation."

Well, that about sums it up. Sir Stafford Cripps is an aristocrat and a socialist, one of those rare combinations which England so often produces. He was the brains of the Labor Party, but was driven out because he was too radical. He was too much in sympathy with the Russian experiment to suit even the British Labor Party and so paid the price by being excluded. Then, in the days of crisis when the alliance with Russia and Great Britain was in the making, when Russia still had her suspicions of what she called British Imperialism, Cripps was sent to Russia to interpret the real spirit of Britain to the Russians, and, it is due in no small measure to his power of intellect, his sympathy with Russia and his deep understanding of the common man in England, that he dissipated suspicions and cemented the relationship between Great Britain and the Soviet Union—which is now bearing such magnificent fruit.

And now, Sir Stafford Cripps is in the Churchill Government. That pleases Russia; that pleases the great army of workers in Great Britain. It pleases the intellectual progressives. Those are the only ones who are not so happy about it are those who have held on to old ideas of Empire, and of wealth and authority, long after new and changed economic social and national conditions had made them obsolete.

And now Great Britain has taken Cripps into the Government. This, apart from the war news, is perhaps the greatest news of the day and may, in the plans to come, be looked back to as the greatest step that Great Britain has taken in a generation which has been marked by great changes.

IN THE CHURCH Engulfing and paralleling the political changes in Great Britain during the past week, comes the announcement that the Archbishop of York has been nominated to the position of Archbishop of Canterbury. This radical change was not unexpected, as the Archbishop of Canterbury, when he resigned a few weeks ago, said that he did so to make way for younger men and to leave the way open for those who had more vigor and strength than he, to face the pressing problems of the changing civilization. Thus, there has been advanced to the position of first place in the life of Great Britain, a man of vision, of progressive, radical views, a man whose views in the religious field are almost as revolutionary as those of Sir Stafford Cripps in the political.

The Archbishop of York has all his life, been an advanced thinker in theology and in social matters. He is largely responsible for the now famous Malvern Conference. At this Conference of Bishops and Progressive Laymen and Women, there were passed resolutions for social reconstruction that put anything which has been done hitherto, by the churches in Great Britain, quite in the shade.

It may be impossible for the new Archbishop to implement, in action, all the findings of Malvern, and yet he is not easily daunted. We can look forward to the Anglican Church in Great Britain, under his leadership, breaking many of the shackles by which that Church has been bound in the past centuries. This will be a most unusual but interesting and challenging experiment. It is not easy in Great Britain to break tradition, and less easy in the Church than in some other spheres; but the Archbishop to be appointed will not hesitate to break with tradition as the Church itself has done in appointing him to his new position.

All this points to a new life movement in England. Politically Sir Stafford Cripps represents the movement towards socialism in the political and economic area. In the appointment of the Archbishop of York to the Archbishopric of Canterbury, that same movement towards socialism in the Church is clearly and unmistakably demonstrated.

IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS The radical changes in Great Britain reflected in the appointment of Sir Stafford Cripps to the Cabinet, and the Archbishop of York to the Archbishopric of Canterbury, is further demonstrated in the changed attitude towards India. The situation in India has caused Great Britain no little embarrassment during the present war. It is well known that the British Commonwealth has not had the whole-hearted support of India in the struggle. This is due to the desire of India for Dominion Status. To be sure there were and still are, many and powerful obstacles in the way of such an achievement; but the situation has changed very materially in recent weeks, changed to such an extent that the powers that be, in Great Britain, are ready, apparently, to make very far-reaching concessions to India, in order to secure her full co-operation. Among these changes which have forced the British to take radical action is the swiftly moving picture in the Pacific. The trail of failures in the Far East has left Britain with no alternative than to admit that the situation is serious enough. The advance on India is now more than a mere theoretical possibility; it is a very real threat, and one which can no longer be ignored. To meet this there must be a united India.

The visit of Chiang Kai Shek to India and his interviews with leading Indians, has had a great influence on the attitude of the leaders and on the people generally. He made it clear to them that the measure of freedom which they had from Britain was something that would be lost entirely, if Japan should ever get control. Then, too, the plea of the Generalissime with Great Britain, made public through the Press of the world, certainly indicates that Great Britain is now in a mood to grant to India, for better or for worse, a larger measure of self-government than India has yet had in return for its free co-operation in the war effort.

Then, too, it is not impossible that the influence of The United States has had some effect on British policy. Perhaps nothing in The United States has been held up against their co-operation with the British than the British policy in India. Influential journals have continually called attention to what they regarded as a condition of unfair and unjust Imperialism in India. It is not inconceivable that this was brought to the attention of Mr. Churchill when he was on this side of the Atlantic. Then, too, it is suggested that Sir Stafford Cripps' acceptance of a Cabinet position was conditioned by the promise of a changed attitude towards India.

Whatever the reasons, now, under the stress of war, the movement for Dominion status which has been slowly evolving, has gained such momentum that it can no longer be left alone. No doubt, in the immediate future, we may expect more definite word of what is proposed.

Thus, in the realm of Soviet socialistic relations, in the realm of the Church, and in the evolvement of the Commonwealth ideal, Britain is moving with a rapidity that is almost staggering. Once again Britain demonstrates to the World the way in which it is possible to effect revolution with in the constitution, and in an orderly fashion.

PUTTING ON THE BRAKES

A word of caution is perhaps necessary even in war time. It is difficult, at any time, not to allow our prejudices and our personal views to bias our judgment. But, never more so that in war-time is it necessary to apply the brakes to that tendency. We become all excited when the party cry is raised. That is natural when we have strong party feelings. We become almost hysterical when those we support in politics are favored, and equally bitter when they are defeated.

In a nation like ours, where there are minorities, it is not hard to stimulate race-hatred. A bit of inflammatory editorial writing can easily do a lot of damage, an impassioned speech can work havoc in our community, and the insidious whispering campaigns can breed bitterness in ourselves and antagonism in others.

Papers and organs of public opinion have grave responsibilities in this matter, and so do the average men and women who speak with bitterness their prejudices and their hates. Just now the situation becomes more delicate because of the large number of Japanese in our Western Province. It is unfair to brand every Japanese as a Fifth Columnist and alien of subversive tendencies. Of course, the State dare not take any chances, but to denounce others, many of whom are second generation Canadians, merely because of their nationality, is manifestly unfair and unjust. It is well to put the brakes on our prejudices, whether dealing with the race problem, the French-Canadian problem, the Labor relations problem or the Political problem. Each has within it, the germs of a conflagration which may burst forth any time. National unity, so essential to success in the present struggle, is only possible when we put a check on our feelings, and balance them with sound judgment.

QUEBEC PAPER EXPRESSES VIEWS ON PLEBISCITE

The following is an editorial from "L'Action Catholique" of Quebec, a weekly paper corresponding to The Toronto Saturday Night, the Toronto periodical, which Dr. H. A. McGreer quoted in his address last Thursday evening, at the Anglican Laymen's Association banquet, in Napaneee.

It was considered worthy of reproduction because it shows the attitude on the Government's plebiscite of at least, a part of the people of Quebec.

"Whatever form the plebiscite may take, the question in the minds of the people will be: Are you for or against conscription? That is why, we believe the Government, after taking counsel of its military advisers, ought to express a definite opinion in order to guide the electorate.

"If conscription has become necessary, we ought to be informed to that effect by the Government — which knows the actual situation and its dangers—and not learn it from those who are far removed from secrets of the State. 'A referendum can create considerable disquietude, and we would be sorry, for the country and for Mr. King, to see all the work accomplished in the cause of national unity, crumble within a few days. "The expedient of a referendum, then, is acceptable only if the Ministers and Members of Parliament will take a definite attitude on the question at issue and direct the electorate towards a solution that will be in the best interests of the nation. If the Government has not the courage to do this, the referendum may become the touchstone which will help history to judge and condemn our parliamentary regime. "Sympathetic as we are towards democratic institutions, we are bound to state, however, that a general fear of responsibilities too often falsifies their functions. That, in fact, is the weakness of our democracies and, if in the end, they perish, there need be no bound for astonishment."

I KNEW HER WHEN

BY G. L. CREED

(Squadron Leader, R.C.A.F.)

I knew her when her eyes, with glory filled
First came to rest
Upon that one whose earliest cry was stilled
Upon her breast . . .
From that first hour, her life — her hopes — her dreams
Were his alone . . .
From that same hour, her grateful heart, meseems,
Became his throne . . .

I knew her when the glory from her eyes
Forever fled —
To her heart, as to his, in far-off skies —
A bullet sped . . .
The raid has been successful, it was learned—"
(So ran the line)
"And of our aircraft, all but one returned . . ."
Her son—and mine!

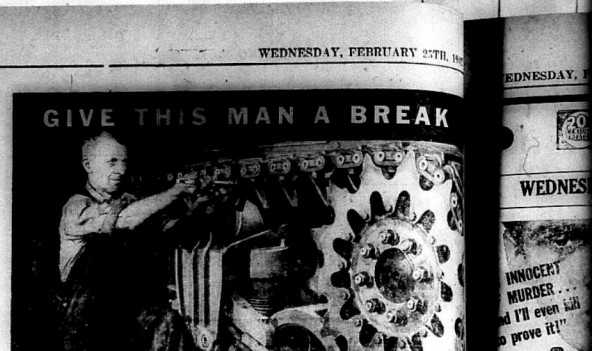
Liberal Caucus Decides Against Election For Ontario This Year

Toronto, (C.P.) — There will be no election in Ontario this year, it was learned from a reliable Queen's Park source, last week. Liberal meetings of the Legislature decided in caucus against an election and the Government will introduce legislation prolonging its life beyond the five-year term which expires this year, it was said.



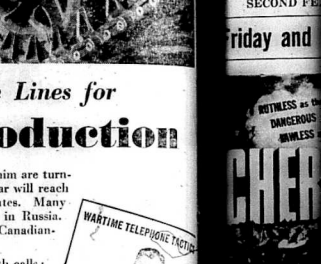
Clear Telephone Lines for

All-Out Production

This Canadian worker and thousands like him are turning out tanks at a rate which early this year will reach 200 a month, according to official estimates. Many Canadian tanks have already seen action in Russia. Yet it was only last May that the first Canadian-built tank rumbled off the line.

No wonder telephone lines are loaded with calls: to suppliers of raw materials and essential parts; to Government and army officials; between plant departments; between continents.

You can help clear the telephone system for urgent war business by adopting "Wartime Telephone Tactics" . . . and by "rationing" the time you spend in neighbourly but unessential telephone talks with friends. Remember—your telephone is part of an interlocking system; needless delays on your line may hold up messages on which urgent wartime business depends.



WARTIME TELEPHONE TACTICS
BE SURE you have the right number . . . consult the directory.
SPEAK distinctly, directly into the mouthpiece.
ANSWER promptly when the bell rings.
BE BRIEF. Clear your line for the next call.
USE SHORT-BREAK home for your Long Distance Calls. These things may look trifling, but with 6,500,000 daily telephone calls, they are very important.

"THE PARABLES BY THE SEA"

The Kingdom of God — that was the burden of Jesus' message. Jesus had much to say about things, but always there was this "Kingdom of God" as the supreme interest in his life. From the proclamation of the Kingdom, He gave Himself; to an explanation of what He meant by the Kingdom, Jesus directed most of His parables. There have been times when the Christian community have thought of the Kingdom of Heaven as some place beyond the skies, to which the redeemed go. There have been other times when the Christian has identified the Kingdom with the Church itself, or the sum total of its membership. To-day, we are more inclined to study the parables from the point of view of the way in which they reveal the characteristics of the Kingdom. Jesus never defined the Kingdom, but He did tell what it was going to be like. In this chapter several parables indicate those characteristics. Let us see what they are.

In the first place the Kingdom will be of slow growth. It is like a seed which men put in the ground. It takes a long time to grow to maturity. We who have to fight organized evil in the form of the liquor traffic, gambling and economic exploitation, know how true this is. Sometimes, well intentioned Christians get weary in well-doing. It looks as though the enemy is always in the saddle. Jesus knew that. The forces of evil will not be overcome in a day or a year or a dozen years. But in due time we shall reap, if we faint not.

How often do we feel that, as one person in a great world, our efforts count for little. What is one among so many? In a world which is organized in production lines and mass movements, the individual so often feels his efforts are of little value. The disciples of Jesus felt that. There they were only a little group of twelve men; not very influential men, at that. They were unlettered, untrained, undisciplined, somewhat crude and ignorant. The task before them must have seemed almost impossible. Organized evil was too strong, entrenched; financial and military interests were in the saddle; a corrupt but powerful ecclesiastical machine had control of the religious life of the community. What could twelve do? Well, said Jesus, just one do? Well, said Jesus, just the little mustard seed, it is the smallest seed in the world but it grows. One need only watch how big it grows. The Kingdom is like that. It begins in a humble way but it grows. One need only watch a plant greater than any other herb. We must never think of the cause of the many by the weakness of one. As a matter of fact, in spite of all the emphasis on the crowd in our day in the final analysis the single individual is at the heart of the dynamic movements which are shaking the world — Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, Roosevelt. Great individuals who have been able to capture the imagination of the masses of the great masses of people in the separate countries. And in our own efforts just now, to raise the War Loan, it is the individual subscription which is important. The total amount of God needs you and me, and depends on you, and you and me.

The parables of the hidden treasure, and the pearl of great price indicate the supreme value of the Kingdom. Jesus never defined the Kingdom, but He did tell what it was going to be like. In this chapter several parables indicate those characteristics. Let us see what they are.

Now then, these are some of the qualities of the Kingdom. What they again? It is slow growth. It is for everyone counts; it is small, but it is made up of God's good people. The Church has before it the task of creating a condition of society which those qualities prevail. The Christian dare not be discouraged by the complexity of modern economic equality. It is worth living everything for. That is the burden of Jesus' message. It is a challenge. Teachers should face that challenge squarely up to their responsibilities as scholars.

There was a young man in the land
Whose voice went up but not down
Till one Sunday night
It went out of sight
And they found it very dull indeed.

GREAT CHANGES . . .

Great Britain is making so many breath-taking changes, these days, that it is hard for us here, so far from the scene of operation, to grasp the full significance of what they mean. We are living so much on the surface of things, interested in the immediate pressing problem of defeating Hitler and all that he stands for, that it is very difficult to catch the full meaning of the changes that are at work in the Mother Country. Britain has led the way in so many phases of life that we have almost come to the point where we can expect anything of Great Britain without being either surprised or shocked and yet, it is hardly impossible to overrate the importance of the moves that have taken place during the past week.

There is, in the first place, the shake-up in the British Cabinet. Perhaps in no place in the world is a government so sensitive to public opinion as in Great Britain. When there was a public outcery for progressive, dynamic leadership after Dunkirk, the force of public opinion effected a change which brought to the foremost position, Winston Churchill. And now, the same currents of public opinion have forced the same Winston Churchill to introduce into his cabinet men who have no attachment with the appeasement policy of former governments. Perhaps the most revolutionary development is the inclusion in the Government, of Sir Stafford Cripps. Such a thing would be almost impossible in Canada. One of the Canadian papers, commenting on the appointment of Sir Stafford Cripps says: "We can get some idea of what it means if we can imagine Premier King inviting into his cabinet Mr. Coldwell, the leader of the C. C. F. in Ottawa — if we can imagine that Mr. Coldwell had been driven out of the Canadian Commonwealth Federation."

Well, that about sums it up. Sir Stafford Cripps is an aristocrat and a socialist, one of those rare combinations which England so often produces. He was the brains of the Labor Party, but was driven out because he was too radical. He was too much in sympathy with the Russian experiment to suit even the British Labor Party and so paid the price by being excluded. Then, in the days of crisis when the alliance with Russia and Great Britain was in the making, when Russia still had her suspicions of what she called British Imperialism, Cripps was sent to Russia to interpret the real spirit of Britain to the Russians and, it is due in no small measure to his power of intellect, his sympathy with Russia and his deep understanding of the common man in England, that he dissipated suspicions and cemented the relationship between Great Britain and the Soviet Union—which is now bearing such magnificent fruit.

And now, Sir Stafford Cripps is in the Churchill Government. That pleases Russia; that pleases the great army of workers in Great Britain. It pleases the intellectual progressives. Probably the only ones who are not so happy about it are those who have held on to old ideas of Empire, and of wealth and authority, long after new and changed economic social and national conditions had made them obsolete.

And now Great Britain has taken Cripps into the Government. This, apart from the war news, is perhaps the greatest news of the day and may, in the plans to come, be looked back to as the greatest step that Great Britain has taken in a generation which has been marked by great changes.

— ✣ ✣ ✣ —

IN THE CHURCH Equalling and paralleling the political changes in Great Britain during the past week, comes the announcement that the Archbishop of York has been nominated to the position of Archbishop of Canterbury. This radical change was not unexpected, as the Archbishop of Canterbury, when he resigned a few weeks ago, said that he did so to make way for younger men and to leave the way open for those who had more vigor and strength than he, to face the pressing problems of the changing civilization. Thus, there has been advanced to the position of first place in the life of Great Britain, a man of vision, of progressive, radical views, a man whose views in the religious field are almost as revolutionary as those of Sir Stafford Cripps in the political.

The Archbishop of York has all his life, been an advanced thinker in theology and in social matters. He is largely responsible for the now famous Malvern Conference. At this Conference of Bishops and Progressive Laymen and Women, there were passed resolutions for social reconstruction that put anything which has been done hitherto, by the churches in Great Britain, quite in the shade.

It may be impossible for the new Archbishop to implement, in action, all the findings of Malvern, and yet he is not easily daunted. We can look forward to the Anglican Church in Great Britain, under his leadership, breaking many of the shackles by which that Church has been bound in the past centuries. This will be a most unusual but interesting and challenging experiment. It is not easy in Great Britain to break tradition, and less easy in the Church than in some other spheres; but the Archbishop to be appointed will not hesitate to break with tradition as the Church itself has done in appointing him to his new position.

All this points to a new life movement in England. Politically Sir Stafford Cripps represents the movement towards socialism in the political and economic area. In the appointment of the Archbishop of York to the Archbishopric of Canterbury, that same movement towards socialism in the Church is clearly and unmistakably demonstrated.

IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS The radical changes in Great Britain reflected in the appointment of Sir Stafford Cripps to the Cabinet and the Archbishop of York to the Archbishopric of Canterbury, is further demonstrated in the changed attitude towards India. The situation in India has caused Great Britain no little embarrassment during the present war. It is well known that the British Commonwealth has not had the whole-hearted support of India in the struggle. This is due to the desire of India for Dominion Status. To be sure there were and still are many and powerful obstacles in the way of such an achievement; but the situation has changed very materially in recent weeks, changed to such an extent that the powers that be, in Great Britain, are ready, apparently, to make very far-reaching concessions to India, in order to secure her full co-operation. Among these changes which have forced the British to take radical action is the swiftly moving picture in the Pacific. The trail of failures in the Far East has left Britain with no alternative than to admit that the situation is serious enough. The advance on India is now more than a mere theoretical possibility; it is a very real threat and one which can no longer be ignored. To meet this there must be a united India.

The visit of Chiang Kai Shek to India and his interviews with leading Indians, has had a great influence on the attitude of the leaders and on the people generally. He made it clear to them that the measure of freedom which they had from Britain was something that would be lost entirely, if Japan should ever get control. Then, too, the plea of the Generalissimo with Great Britain, made public through the Press of the world, certainly indicates that Great Britain is now in a mood to grant to India, for better or for worse, a larger measure of self-government than India has yet had in return for its free co-operation in the war effort.

Then, too, it is not impossible that the influence of The United States has had some effect on British policy. Perhaps nothing in The United States has been held up against their co-operation with the British than the British policy in India. Influential journals have continually called attention to what they regarded as a condition of unfair and unjust Imperialism in India. It is not inconceivable that this was brought to the attention of Mr. Churchill when he was on this side of the Atlantic. Then, too, it is suggested that Sir Stafford Cripps' acceptance of a Cabinet position was conditioned by the promise of a changed attitude towards India.

Whatever the reasons, now, under the stress of war, the movement for Dominion status which has been slowly evolving, has gained such momentum that it can no longer be left alone. No doubt, in the immediate future, we may expect more definite word of what is proposed.

Thus, in the realm of Soviet socialistic relations, in the realm of the Church, and in the evolvement of the Commonwealth ideal, Britain is moving with a rapidity that is almost staggering. Once again Britain demonstrates to the World the way in which it is possible to effect revolution with in the constitution, and in an orderly fashion.

V

PUTTING ON THE BRAKES

A word of caution is perhaps necessary even in war time. It is difficult, at any time, not to allow our prejudices and our personal views to bias our judgment. But, never more so that in war-time is it necessary to apply the brakes to that tendency. We become all excited when the party cry is raised. That is natural when we have strong party feelings. We become almost hysterical when those we support in politics are favored, and equally bitter when they are defeated.

In a nation like ours, where there are minorities, it is not hard to stimulate race-hatred. A bit of inflammatory editorial writing can easily do a lot of damage, an impassioned speech can work havoc in our community, and the insidious whispering campaigns can breed bitterness in ourselves and antagonism in others.

Papers and organs of public opinion have grave responsibilities in this matter, and so do the average men and women who speak with bitterness their prejudices and their hates. Just now the situation becomes more delicate because of the large number of Japanese in our Western Province. It is unfair to brand every Japanese as a Fifth Columnist and alien of subversive tendencies. Of course, the State does not take any chances, but to denounce others, many of whom are second generation Canadians, merely because of their nationality, is manifestly unfair and unjust. It is well to put the brakes on our prejudices, whether dealing with the race problem, the French-Canadian problem, the Labor relations problem or the Political problem. Each has within it, the germs of a conflagration which may burst forth any time. National unity, so essential to success in the present struggle, is only possible when we put a check on our feelings, and balance them with sound judgment.

QUEBEC PAPER EXPRESSES VIEWS ON PLEBISCITE

The following is an editorial from "L'Action Catholique" of Quebec, a weekly paper corresponding to The Toronto Saturday Night, the Toronto periodical, which Dr. H. A. McGreer quoted in his address last Thursday evening, at the Anglican Laymen's Association banquet, in Napanee.

It was considered worthy of reproduction because it shows the attitude on the Government's plebiscite of at least, a part of the people of Quebec.

"Whatever form the plebiscite may take, the question in the minds of the people will be: Are you for or against conscription? That is why, we believe, the Government, after taking counsel of its military advisers, ought to express a definite opinion in order to guide the electorate.

"If conscription has become necessary, we ought to be informed to that effect by the Government — which knows the actual situation and its dangers—and not learn it from those who are far removed from secrets of the State. A referendum can create considerable disquietude, and we would be sorry, for the country and for Mr. King, to see all the work accomplished in the cause of national unity, crumble within a few days. The expedient of a referendum, then, is acceptable only if the Ministers and Members of Parliament will take a definite attitude on the question at issue and direct the electorate towards a solution that will be in the best interests of the nation. If the Government has not the courage to do this, the referendum may become the touchstone which will help history to judge and condemn our parliamentary regime.

"Sympathetic as we are towards democratic institutions, we are bound to state, however, that a general fear of responsibilities too often falsifies their functions. That, in fact, is the weakness of our democracies and, if in the end, they perish, there need be no ground for astonishment."

I KNEW HER WHEN

BY G. L. CREED

(Squadron Leader, R.C.A.F.)

I knew her when her eyes, with glory filled,
First came to rest
Upon that one whose earliest cry was stilled . . .
Upon her breast . . .
Were his alone . . .
From that same hour, her grateful heart, meseems,
Became his throne . . . .

I knew her when the glory from her eyes
Forever fled —
To her heart, as to his, in far-off skies
A bullet sped . . .
"The raid has been successful, it was learned—"
(So ran the line)
"And of our aircraft, all but one returned . . ."
Her son—and mine!

Liberal Caucus Decides Against Election For Ontario This Year

Toronto, (C.P.) — There will be no election in Ontario this yeas, it was learned from a reliable Queen's Park source, last week. Liberal meetings of the Legislature decided in caucus against an election and that the Government will introduce legislation prolonging its life beyond the five-year term which expires this year, it was said.

Clear Telephone Lines for

All-Out Production

This Canadian worker and thousands like him are turning out tanks at a rate which early this year will reach 200 a month, according to official estimates. Many Canadian tanks have already seen action in Russia. Yet it was only last May that the first Canadian-built tank rumbled off the line.

No wonder telephone lines are loaded with calls: to suppliers of raw materials and essential parts; to Government and army officials; between plant departments; between continents.

You can help clear the telephone system for urgent war business by adopting "Wartime Telephone Tactics"... and by "rationing" the time you spend in neighbourly but unessential telephone talks with friends. Remember—your telephone is part of an interlocking system: needless delays on your line may hold up messages on which urgent wartime business depends.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 1ST, 1942

Lesson Text; Mark 4: 26-32; Matthew 13: 11-30

"THE PARABLES BY THE SEA"

The Kingdom of God — that was the burden of Jesus' message. Jesus had much to say on many things, but always there was this "Kingdom of God" as the supreme interest in his life. To the preparation of the Kingdom, He gave Himself; to an explanation of what He meant by the Kingdom, Jesus directed most of His parables. There have been times when the Christian community have thought of the Kingdom of Heaven as some place beyond the skies, to which the redeemed go. There have been other times when the Christian has identified the Kingdom with the Church itself, or the sum total of its membership. To-day, we are more inclined to study the parables from the point of view of the way in which they reveal the characteristics of the Kingdom. Jesus never defined the Kingdom, but He did tell what it was going to be like. In this chapter several parables indicate those characteristics. Let us see what they are.

In the first place the Kingdom will be of slow growth. It is like a seed which men put in the ground. It takes a long time to grow to maturity. We who have to fight organized evil in the form of the liquor traffic, gambling and economic exploitation, know how true this is. Sometimes, well intentioned Christians get weary in well-doing. It looks as though the enemy is always in the saddle. Jesus knew that. The forces of evil will not be overcome in a day or a year or a dozen years. But in due time we shall reap, if we faint not.

How often do we feel that, as one person in a great world, our efforts count for little. What is one among so many? In a world which is organized in production lines and mass movements, the individual so often feels his efforts are of little value. There they were only a little group of twelve men; not very influential men, at that. They were unlettered, untrained, undisciplined, somewhat crude and ignorant. The task before them must have seemed almost impossible. Organized society was strong, entrenched; financial and military interests were in the saddle; a corrupt but powerful ecclesiastical machine had control; [illegible] life of the community [illegible] world twelve [illegible] one do? Well, [illegible] the little mustard [illegible] small seed in the [illegible] how big it grows! [illegible] like that. It begins [illegible] but it grows, [illegible] a plant greater than [illegible] We must never think [illegible] ness of one. As a matter of fact, in spite of all the [illegible] crowd in our day in the [illegible] the single individual is [illegible] of the dynamic movement [illegible] are shaking the world. [illegible] colmi, Stalin, Roosevelt [illegible] individuals who have been able to capture the imagination [illegible] of the great masses of [illegible] separate countries. And in [illegible] efforts just now, to raise [illegible] Loan, it is the individual [illegible] tion which is important. The [illegible] dom of God, needs you and [illegible] depends on you and me and [illegible]

The parables of the hidden [illegible] sure, and the pearl of great [illegible] indicate that the Kingdom [illegible] is of supreme value in life. [illegible] ruch paramount importance [illegible] everything else should be [illegible] for its attainment. A man [illegible] give up all his wealth, all [illegible] savings, everything that [illegible] dom should materialize.

Then, too, there are all [illegible] people in the world. The Kingdom [illegible] for the exclusive few. It [illegible] not be the Kingdom were it [illegible] tain both good and bad.

Now then, these are some [illegible] qualities of the Kingdom. Where [illegible] they again? It is slow growth; [illegible] everyone counts; it is [illegible] It is made up of God's good people. The Church has before it the task of creating a condition of society which those qualities prevail. The Christian dare not be content; he must not get on an interesting plex. The Kingdom of God [illegible] of society wherein dwells [illegible] eousness, peace, goodwill, racial [illegible] economic equality, is worth [illegible] ing everything for. That is the [illegible] of Jesus' message. That is [illegible] challenge. Teachers should [illegible] challenge squarely up to their [illegible] scholars.

THE SPRING OFFENSIVE

We are fast approaching the days of spring activities, days of preparation for events to follow. The military forces will look for activity on all fronts; the farmers will prepare and seed the land, looking toward harvest; and industrialists will gear up for greater production. While all this is going on young people should be preparing to fill positions requiring knowledge of business procedure as well as skill and speed in the operation of business machines.

Experience gained in boom times will make trained people indispensable during days of depression.

Our College, founded in 1883, is equipped and staffed to take care of a large group of young people wishing to prepare themselves for office positions in business and public service.

Soil and Seed Pasture Factors

Unsuitable Seed Mixtures Chiefly Responsible for Poor Quality Pastures, says N. J. Thomas, Ontario Agricultural College

Owing to the close relationship of hay and pasture, much care should be taken in obtaining vigorous stands of grasses and clovers which will result in good yields of high quality hay, followed by productive pasture for a period of years, states N. J. Thomas, Soil Specialist, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Declaring that Ontario's pasture problem is largely a hay-pasture problem, the O. A. C. expert states that by improving the hay crop through better soil management and selection of seed mixtures adapted to his special conditions, the farmer automatically improves his pasture. Unsuitable seed mixtures have been chiefly responsible for the large acreage of worn out, thin, weedy pastures now present in the province, says Mr. Thomas.

Soil type, drainage and length of time to be left seeded down, should be considered when selecting a mixture of seeds. A mixture of alsike and timothy mixture is only good for one year. The clovers disappear leaving a thin stand of timothy, well in poor pasture plant. Soon weeds appear and at the end of 8 to 10 years the timothy runs out, leaving a thin, weedy, unproductive blue grass sod. If 6 to 10 pounds of alfalfa were added, productivity would be maintained over a much longer period.

Yields of hay and pasture decline much more rapidly on sandy soils than on heavy soils. This necessitates more frequent renovation, or top dressing with manures or fertilizers, to maintain soil fertility.

RESERVE POWER TO DECIDE RUSSO-GERMAN CONFLICT

BY JOHN EVANS
Special To
The Christian Science Monitor

Kuibyshev, Russia. — Announcement in the official paper Pravda that Soviet troops had entered White Russia raises the question of Hitler's much advertised spring offensive and the ability of Soviets to meet or avert it.

All agree that this hinges on the question of reserves.

As to German reserves little has been said concretely for some time. Germany was said to be already in the throes of an oil shortage crisis. Regarding Soviet reserves in general, nothing has been added to Joseph Stalin's declaration of July last: "They are incalculable."

However, it is possible to express these unknown quantities in terms of forces available at the moment and in the immediate future.

COMPARISON OF FORCES

The Soviets are understood to have the upper hand in man power, artillery, mine throwers, machine guns and probably an equal number of automatic rifles, while the Germans still hold the lead in tanks and to some extent in aircraft.

This is a strategic advantage which Mr. Stalin said must be struck from Germany's hands at all costs and which the Soviets may have to contend in the coming spring.

It would be premature to say that they will have to contend with it on account of the winter campaign, which the Soviets have elected to carry out. After the setback around Moscow the Germans withdrew main tank forces behind the third line of defense for necessary replenishments, there to await the time when they could be used to full advantage.

HELD BY INFANTRY

German infantry was left to hold positions without any large-scale mechanized support. This move was evident in the greatly reduced enemy tank losses reported in the communiques from the Soviet Information Bureaun.

At the same time the Germans began to accumulate reserves of manpower, and strong pressure is being brought to bear on their allies for extra drafts, particularly on Rumania and Hungary.

The Soviet counterplan consisted in inflicting such losses on the German infantry and artillery that Reichsfuhrer Hitler would be forced to bring out his reserves before the propitious time — not to launch an offensive, but to avert catastrophe for the whole German Army on the East Front.

RUSSIAN PLANTS REBUILT

So far the Soviets have not only succeeded in drawing out large contingents of man power which Hitler has tried to reserve for spring, but the latest Soviet communiques speak of German counter-attacks supported by increasing numbers of tanks.

What next will the Soviets have to face a critical test if this plan is only a partial success? First their own tank production will be higher than in the industrial retreat during last summer and autumn, when working had to postpone the assembling of tanks in order to reassemble the plants producing them.

Every output has been expanded so much that the Soviet Government has ordered the mobilization of more than 16 to 55 and women from 16 to 45 to work in tank factories and other arsenals.

Second, when the war broke out the Soviets had only just started producing special antitank aircraft, here called "flying tanks."

TRAINED TO COMBAT TANKS

According to Soviet communiques these machines were destroying from 150 to 200 German tanks each month at the end of the German offensive on Moscow.

Third, the Soviets have trained special corps of hundreds of thousands of infantry for combating tanks.

These are picked men, armed with large-calibre grenades, combustible bottles, and heavy muskets, firing incendiary bullets designed by a veteran gunsmith of Tula, named Degtyareff, whose new invention played a considerable part in the successful defense of his home town in November and December.

Fourth, Soviet artillery has gained unequalled experience in antitank warfare in which there is now a whole school of specialists led by General Govoroff.

SPECIAL DEFENSE DRAFTED

Every town and every favorable natural contour on reoccupied territory is being incorporated in the engineering scheme of antitank defense, restricting the freedom of manpower to which German panzer divisions owed their impregnability in the early months of the war.

Pravda speaking of the introduction of the new mobilization of labor reserves, says, "The Red Army has upset no small number of Hitler's plans. It must and will frustrate the boastful plans of Hitler's spring offensive." Whether this will be done remains to be seen.

Brooding Equipment Should Be Checked

Can't Expect Chicks to Thrive in Pens that have not been Thoroughly Cleaned, says Professor F. N. Marcellus.

If you are planning on raising chicks this year be sure your brooding equipment is ready and in good working order, states Prof. F. N. Marcellus, head of the Poultry Dept. O. A. C., Guelph. If any new pens are needed, or the purchase of new equipment is contemplated, remember war conditions are curtailing supplies. It may take weeks to secure orders. Those who have not already done so check thermostats and other parts immediately and replace them where necessary.

It is possible you may have been using your colony houses or brooding pens late last Fall for adult birds and hence did not get them thoroughly cleaned. The houses may have been infected with mites. Such parasites are not destroyed by the freezing that occurs during the winter. They simply remain dormant until the pens are warmed up by the brooding. Then they become active and may ruin the lot of chicks in a short time, Prof. Marcellus points out.

Brooding pens must be thoroughly cleaned after using them for adult stock. Parasites or disease infections may have been present and one can hardly expect chicks to thrive under such conditions.

When the pens are thoroughly cleaned set up the brooders. It is good practice to start up the fires or other heating equipment a little in advance of the arrival of the chicks to enable the operator to check the brooders and see they are properly regulated. Be sure the pens are tight so there will be no floor draught. It may be necessary to bank the house outside to insure adequate protection. Lining the walls and ceiling with paper or corrugated cardboard will help insulate an otherwise cold house.

Full of zeal, the Boy Scout was going from house to house selling tickets for a Wednesday Week concert.

"How much are they?" asked one woman grimly.

"Two shillings, eighteenpence, and a shilling," was the hopeful reply.

"Have you any at sixpence?"

The Boy Scout replied coldly: "It's a warship we want, ma'am, not a canoe."

Magistrate's Court

On Thursday, Lillian Veley, Ernestown, appeared before Magistrate Garvin, charged with theft of the sum of $50.00 from George Patterson. The accused pleaded not guilty to the charge and at the request of the crown was remanded until Monday for hearing. Bail was set at $500 cash.

Cunningham & Wells, Montreal, pleaded guilty to driving a motor vehicle without 1942 license plates and paid $5.00 fine and $3.00 costs.

Mrs. Lillian Veley, of Frontenac County, appeared before Magistrate Garvin, in Napanee Police Court, on Monday, and was found guilty of theft of $50.00 from Geo. Patterson of Kingston, and was sentenced to two months in the county gaol.

The charge against Mrs. Veley was laid following a drinking party which started in a hotel in Kingston and was continued at an unnamed home in the County of Lennox and Addington, on the Bath Road.

Patterson bought and paid for whiskey purchased from a bootlegger in Barriefield and some time during Tuesday morning, February 10th, in the time the party was in progress a roll of bills, said to total $50.00 was taken from his pocket.

Several witnesses were heard and the case lasted for about three hours.

J. M. Simpson, K.C., acted for Mrs. Veley and W. S. Herrington, K.C., conducted the case for the Crown in the absence of K. S. Ham, the Crown Attorney, who was ill.

GOODYEAR MAKES FIRST TIRE FROM SCRAP RUBBER

New Toronto. — Climaxing experiments in the use of regenerated (reclaimed) rubber, Goodyear took from the molds today its first emergency wartime tire. Officials of the company state that it is not known now just how far manufacture of this tire will go. It is completely in the experimental stage and the venture was embarked upon, in keeping with the company's policy of bending every effort to keep on producing tires for war vehicles and essential civilian services.

R. R. Richards, General Sales Manager of Goodyear, said in an interview today: "There is a large supply of scrap rubber throughout Canada which could be brought into use by combing the country for discarded tires and other articles from which reclaimed rubber can be reduced. This new tire is not being produced. This new tire is not being time for experimental and testing work. In every sense of the word it is an emergency tire and its service would fall below that given by tires made of virgin or synthetic rubber."

Mr. Richards referred to current news from the Far East by saying, "The Japanese invaders have already gained complete control of Malayan areas from which much of our rubber came. They are also threatening the Dutch East Indies and little, if any, rubber is coming from there. Therefore motorists, farmers and every other owner of a rubber tired vehicle must do everything possible to prolong the life of these tires by careful driving and constant expert attention. The rubber stockpile in Canada is not large and must be preserved for war needs and absolutely essential transportation services."

BUSINESS COLLEGE CHAT

Among the students who have recently taken positions, some of them temporary, are: Aulda Hanna, Lola Murphy (Victory Loan Headquarters), and Enid Pedersen.

THE SPRING OFFENSIVE

We are fast approaching the days of spring activities, days of preparation for events to follow. The military forces will look for activity on all fronts; the farmers will prepare and seed the land,—looking toward harvest; and industrialists will gear up for greater production. While all this is going on young people should be preparing to fill positions requiring knowledge of business procedure as well as skill and speed in the operation of business machines.

Experience gained in boom times will make trained people indispensable during days of depression.

Our College, founded in 1882, is equipped and staffed to take care of a large group of young people wishing to prepare themselves for office positions in business and public service.

Soil and Seed Pasture Factors

Unsuitable Seed Mixtures Chiefly Responsible for Worn-out Pastures, says W. J. Thomas, Ontario Agricultural College

Owing to the close relationship of hay and pasture, much care should be taken in obtaining vigorous stands of grasses and clovers which will result in good yields of high quality hay, followed by productive pasturage for a period of years, states W. J. Thomas, Soil Specialist, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Declaring that Ontario's pasture problem is largely a hay-pasture problem, the O. A. C. expert states that by improving the hay crop through better soil management and selection of seed mixtures adapted to his special conditions, the farmer automatically improves his pasture. Unsuitable seed mixtures have been chiefly responsible for the large acreage of worn out, thin, weedy pastures now present in the province, says Mr. Thomas.

Soil type, drainage and length of time to be left seeded down, should be considered when selecting a mixture of seeds. A red clover, alsike and timothy mixture is not good for one year. The clovers disappear leaving a thin stand of timothy—a relatively poor pasture plant. Some weeds appear and at the end of 8 to 10 years the timothy runs out leaving a thin, weedy, unproductive blue grass sod. If 6 to 10 pounds of alfalfa were added, productivity would be maintained over a much longer period.

Yields of hay and pasture decline much more rapidly on sandy soils than on heavy soils. The necessitates more frequent renovation, or top dressing with manures or fertilizers, to maintain soil fertility.

RESERVE POWER TO DECIDE RUSSO-GERMAN CONFLICT

BY JOHN EVANS
Special To
The Christian Science Monitor

Kuibyshev, Russia. — Announcement in the official paper Pravda that Soviet troops had entered White Russia raises the question of Hitler's much advertised spring offensive and the ability of Soviets to stop or avert it.

All agree that this hinges on the question of reserves.

As to German reserves little has been said concretely for some time. Germany was said to be already in the throes of an oil shortage crisis. Regarding Soviet reserves, in general nothing has been added to Joseph Stalin's declaration of July 3rd, "They are inexhaustible."

However, it is possible to express these unknown quantities in terms of things available, the economy and in the immediate future.

COMPARISON OF FORCES

The Soviets are modern as to battle equipment in many cases, in very many cases, the machine and probably on total numbers of automatic rifles, machine guns, still held the lead in tanks and has since extend in general.

This is a dramatic change which gives Mr. Stalin said may be struck from Germany's hands at all costs and a warm the Soviets may be counted on to tend in the coming months.

It would be presumptuous to specify they will have to be used. Taking account of the winter campaign which the Soviet has checked and carry out, Axis observers in Moscow or the German attitudes main Lend Lease behind the thing there is defense for the Germans, there is time to obtain the time when they could be used.

HELD BY INFANTRY

German infantry a precarious although tanks and motorized artillery have been the mainstay of the Soviet offensive, evidence is that the Soviet high command is devoting the time to the creation of large infantry reserves.

At the same time the German breach has not yet been made in power sufficient to enable the Soviet mobility to be exploited. The Soviet counter-attack on the Moscow front has been relatively slow, but it has been methodical and thorough.

The Soviet counter-attack on the Moscow front has been relatively slow, but it has been methodical and thorough.

Pravda also says that the Soviet Government has ordered the mobilization of labor reserves, restricting the freedom of manpower to which German panzer divisions owed their superior mobility in the early months of the war.

Pravda, speaking of the introduction of the new mobilization of labor reserves, says, "The Red Army has upset no small number of Hitler's plans. It must and will frustrate the boastful plans of Hitler's spring offensive." Whether this will be done remains to be seen.

ELIZABETH WALSH, MARYSVILLE ONE OF GRADUATING CLASS AIR LINE STEWARDESS

Amongst the twelve students who graduated from the Trans-Canada Air Lines stewardess' school, recently the name of Miss Elizabeth Walsh of Marysville, Ontario, appears as one of the successful candidates.

Military passengers, and particularly those who are members of the R.C.A.F., have somewhat changed the curriculum. Where 2 more or less superficial knowledge of meteorology, communications, aircraft parts and flight operations was once sufficient, the girls now have to be able to discuss such matters with experts. In the course of training recent graduates attended lectures by authorities such as Dr. D. C. Archibald, Dominion Air Services director; supervintendent; A. M. Sutherland, assistant supervintendent of maintenance and overhaul; and Captain F. J. Baker, who specializes in flight engineering. Such subjects as food service, tickets, schedules, formal, topography of Canada remain important but are not as apt to trip up a stewardess being questioned by air plane passengers.

In Loving Memory

WINTER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, W. D. Winter, who passed away February 28th, 1940.

Time speed on, two years have passed
Since death, its gloom, its shadows cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright
And took from us our shining light.
We miss that light and ever will;
His vacant place there is none can fill.

Father and Son Banquet at Odessa

Odessa, Feb. 19. — The second annual Father and Son Banquet was held in the United Church hall in Odessa, with a good number of fathers and sons present. The sumptuous banquet was provided by the mothers of the Trail Rangers. Friends Hollingsworth, mentor of the Trail Rangers acted as toastmaster in a pleasing manner. Following the banquet a rousing sing song was held led by the toastmaster with Mr. Albert Case at the piano. The toast to the King was given by Mr. Willie Smith. The reply was the singing of the National Anthem. The Trinity United Sunday School orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Albert Case, rendered two numbers. The toast to the Church was then given by Mr. Harold Burley. Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth made the reply in a very stirring address. He stated that he was proud to speak for the Church and urged boys to attend regularly.

The toast to the Dads was ably given by Reg. Burnett. Chief Ranger of the group, Mr. G. Pearce made the reply. He gave a splendid address and paid special tribute to the Trail Ranger leader for the wonderful work he is doing. The orchestra then rendered a very beautiful waltz.

The toast to the Lads was given by Mr. Stan Holmes. He gave a fine address and some good advice to the boys. The reply was given by the guest speaker, Mr. H. Hinson, who is attending Queen's University. He gave an excellent and very inspiring address. He spoke about the different phases of a boy's life.

The program concluded with an orchestra selection. Francis Hollingsworth, thanked the ladies for the good banquet, the orchestra for the fine music and the speakers who were all very interesting. The men and boys heartily applauded these three groups.

Mr. Herrington's Address

struggle our utmost energy, resources and will to win and if there is not whole-hearted response to that call to duty, Victory is assured. There is no room in the British Empire today for the slacker, the selfish and the cowardly. If we could be transported to the conquered countries in Europe and witness the ruthless atrocities inflicted upon these innocent people whose sole crime is love to live in peace, if we could visit the devastated areas in the cities of the Motherland and see for ourselves the suffering they have endured we would have a keener appreciation of what is expected of us. If we could witness the sinking of our ships as the waves close over the watery grave of our gallant seamen, if we could witness the crashing of some of the three thousand planes that have fallen under the withering fire of the enemy and were forced to deny ourselves of some of the luxuries we enjoy and contribute of our means to replace the lost ships and planes, would we hesitate to answer? I think not. We are not asked in this present emergency to contribute one penny to this end. We are simply asked to lend to our government, upon the best and safest security in the world today, our money that is lying idle in our banks and other depositories. So long as there is a Canada to live in will its every resources be behind your bond, and that same bond will do its part in preserving this Dominion as an integral part of the British Empire.

Instead of canvassing for subscriptions to this loan, one would rather expect, from a purely business point of view, to see the prospective subscribers eagerly rushing to the government agents asking for the privilege of sharing in the best investment our country can offer. When we reflect upon the use that is to be made of this money, the greatest should our desire be to take advantage of the privilege offered. We must win this war and it can be won only by our fighting forces, and those fighting are helpless unless we supply them with the necessary equipment.

There are hundreds of people in this country who have been taught that the safest place to put their savings is in a bank. They have faith in our Canadian banks and deservedly so. When in doubt about a proposed investment they go to their banker and he gives them sound advice. The governing bodies of our banks are shrewd business men and they are also patriotic. If anyone has any doubt as to the soundness of an investment in Victory Loan Bonds, go to any bank in Canada and the first thing that you will see as you enter the door will be a large poster advising you to invest all the money you can spare in Victory Loan Bonds. Speak to the manager and he will tell you to invest in Victory Loan Bonds. Then why hesitate? He will lend you money to complete your purchase if you have not enough on hand.

There is another factor we must not overlook and that is the effect the success of this loan will have upon our enemies. It is well known that all of the Axis Powers are on the verge of bankruptcy. Their resources are about exhausted and the better showing the democracies can make in providing the necessary funds to prosecute the war the more boneless will their cause appear. It is only by stealing from their neighbours that they have been able to keep famine in their own countries. We are watching the progress of this loan and their morale will decline in the same ratio as our subscriptions rise. Let us enter the campaign with all the enthusiasm and means at our command and give Hitler another headache.

WEDDING BELLS

SCOTT - GRAHAM
At Kincaid, Saskatchewan, on Saturday, February 14th, at three o'clock in the afternoon, a quiet and lovely wedding was solemnized in the presence of a few friends, when Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Graham, was united in marriage to Lieut. Marjorie Grace, was united in marriage to Aircraftsman Lloyd George Scott, third son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Scott, of Maxville, Ont.

The young bride looked lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin back crepe with a sash and jacket of ice blue, and in her hair she wore a high wreath of white carnations and carried a bouquet of pink gardenias and fern. The bridesmaid, Miss Sybil Wheldon of Vanguard, Sask., wore a floor-length gown of heavyweight blue sheer and carried a bouquet of mixed roses and fern.

Mervyn Graham, the bride's brother, ably supported the bridegroom.

The bride entered the living room on the arm of her father, who gave her away to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Pearl Williams. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. P. Claire, of The United Church, under an arch of red, white and blue streamers, flags and wedding bells. After the register was being signed, Mrs. Clarence Seward of Vanguard, sister of the bride, sang very appropriately, "I Love You Truly."

Dinner was served in the patriotically decorated dining room, by the waiters, Mrs. Thomas Christian and Mrs. Elmer Stevens. A lovely three-tiered wedding cake. Rev. A. P. Claire proposed the toast to the bride and the groom responded in a few well chosen words.

About seventy-five guests and about seventy-five friends and neighbours fathered to spend the evening with them. A very pleasant evening was spent by all. L.T. girls of Kincaid, of which the bride was a former member, who gave a patriotic program which was much appreciated. Following lunch the happy young couple were liberally showered with confetti and good wishes, then singing "God Save the King" the company left for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Scott many happy years together.

ELIZABETH WALSH, MARYSVILLE ONE OF GRADUATING CLASS AIR LINE STEWARDESS

Amongst the twelve students who graduated from the Trans-Canada Air Lines stewardess' school, recently the name of Miss Elizabeth Walsh of Marysville, Ontario, appears as one of the successful candidates.

Military passengers, and particularly those who are members of the R.C.A.F., have remarked that changed the curriculum. Where a more or less superficial knowledge of meteorology, communications, aircraft parts and flight operations was once sufficient now they have to be able to discuss such matters with experts. In the course of training recent graduates attended lectures by authorities such as Dr. D. C. Archibald, Dominion Airways' meteorological superintendent; A. M. Sutherland, assistant superintendent of maintenance and overhaul; and Captain H. J. Baker, who specializes in flight engineering. Such subjects as food service, tickets, schedules, and geography of Canada, remain important but are not as apt to trip up a stewardess being questioned by air plane passengers.

In Loving Memory

WINTER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, W. D. Winter, who passed away February 28th, 1940.

Time speed on! two years have passed
Since death, its gloom, its shadow cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright
And took from us our shining light.
We miss that light and ever will;
His vacant place there is none can fill.

Sadly missed by
WIFE and FAMILY

INNES — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Lewis Innes, who passed away February 28 1939.

Memories linger, loved ones call.
And though the years may be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance dear, of you.

Father and Son Banquet at Odessa

Odessa, Feb 19 — The second annual Father and Son banquet was held in the United Church hall in Odessa, with a good number of fathers and sons present. The sumptuous banquet was provided by the mothers of the Trail Rangers. Francis Holmes, Ingleworth, manager of the Trail Rangers acted as toastmaster in a pleasing manner. Following the banquet a rousing sing song was led by the toastmaster with Mr. Albert Case at the piano. The toast to the King was given by Mr. Willis Smith. The reply was the singing of the National Anthem. The Trinity United Sunday School orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Albert Case, rendered two numbers. The toast to the Church was then given by Mr. Harold Burley. Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth made the reply in a very stirring address. He stated that he was proud to speak for the Church and urged boys to attend regularly.

The toast to the Dads was ably given by Reg. Burnett, Chief Ranger of the group. Mr. G. S. Pearce made the reply. He gave a splendid address and paid special tribute to the Trail Ranger leader for the wonderful work he is doing. The orchestra then rendered very beautiful waltz.

The toast to the Lads was given by Mr. Stan Holmes. He gave a fine address and some good advice to the boys. The reply was given by the guest speaker, Mr. H. Atkinson, who is attending Queens University. He gave an excellent and very inspiring address. He spoke about the different phases of a boy's life.

The program concluded with an orchestra selection, Frischer Hollingsworth, thanked the ladies for the good banquet, the orchestra for the fine music and the wonderful sing were all very interesting. The men and boys heartily applauded these three Choups.

struggle our utmost energy, resources and will to win and if there is to be a whole-hearted response to that call to duty, Victory is assured. There is no room in the British Empire today for the slacker, the selfish and the complacent. If we could be transported to the conquered countries in Europe and witness the ruthless atrocities inflicted upon these innocent people whose only crime was to live to live in peace, if we could but see some of these things, we would be ashamed of the attitude of mind of many people in this country, whereby they are not willing to do their part in contributing to the fund necessary to carry on the war. Every man, woman and child should be prepared to make some sacrifice of our standard of living. We are asked to give up many things which in peace time we would consider necessities, but which in reality are luxuries. Many of us are asked to give up many things which in peace time we would consider necessities, but which in reality are luxuries. Many of us are asked to give up many things which in peace time we would consider necessities, but which in reality are luxuries. Today our money, but a large part of our health and other assets. LEGUMES FOR LENT

Hello Homemakers! — When you are planning for meat substitutes during Lent, remember our Canadian legumes — peas, beans, and lentils—which are dried vegetables obtainable during this season of the year. They are good satisfying foods containing protein which is needed in place of meat.

The cookery method reminds us of that well-seasoned earthen casserole — the English bean pot. There is nothing pretentious about it and it will, no doubt, pleasantly recall many delicious meals prepared by its means. Now, excellent results may be obtained through the use of controlled heat.

Modern science has given us the glass lined pot, in plain or etched design. It has many uses in cookery and is an attractive serving dish as well. And, there is the electric deep-well cooker, also a bearer of good cheer.

Two tablespoons butter
One onion chopped

Soak beans over night in cold water to cover. Drain. Render pork fat and add onion and carrot in it. Add to beans. Pour into casserole or well, cooker. Add butter, salt and pepper. Fill with water to top of beans. Cover and cook until beans are soft.

Boston Kidney Beans :
One quart kidney beans
One cup salt pork, cubed
One tablespoon salt
One-quarter cup molasses
One-quarter teaspoon mustard
Boiling water
Three tablespoons sugar

Pick over beans, cover with cold water, and soak over night. Drain, cover with fresh water and place on electric element turned to low. Drain when soft. Scald pork and put in the bottom of well-cooker. Add beans. Mix salt, molasses, sugar and one cup boiling water. Cover cooker and cook six to eight hours.

TAKE A TIP :

1 Wax or laundry soap rubbed on dresser drawers that stick, will cause them to move easily.
2 To separate two tumblers that have stuck together, fill the inside glass with cold water and place the bottom glass in a pan of warm water.
3 To loosen a rusty screw, heat tip of a poker until red hot, then hold it against the head of the screw for a minute. One application usually loosens the screw—but let it cool before you use the screw-driver, to take it out.
4 Before cleaning out the ashes from the furnace, throw out a few leaves over the ashes. It will prevent the dust from flying and save unnecessary work.

Our Fighters Must Have More Weapons
—Canadians Must Buy
MORE VICTORY BONDS

● Night and day the war goes on. And night and day Ontario's wheels of industry, powered by mighty 'Hydro', turn—and turn! On every front, Canadian-made war weapons are helping to stem the tide of tyranny.

More than half of Canada's war output comes from this Province. Given life by 'Hydro's' 2,000,000 horsepower, thousands of industrial plants work unceasingly day and night. The lights over their machines must not go out. Their operation must continue with increasing tempo to assure an ever greater output of Canadian war weapons—for all battle fronts.

Lack of electrical energy must never slow production. Every unit of electricity you save in your home, office or store will contribute to the all out war effort.

By far the best way to finance war production is for all of us to continue to buy Bonds issued by our Government. Remember, they are investments, not taxes! It must be one or the other. Hitler's "new order" takes what it wants. But we live in a Democracy. We have a choice. Let us choose Victory Bonds—to the utmost of our ability.

LEGUMES FOR LENT

Hello Homemakers! — When you are planning for meat substitutes during Lent, remember our Canadian legumes — peas, beans, and lentils—which are dried vegetables obtainable during this season of the year. They are good satisfying foods containing protein which is needed in place of meat.

-:-

The cookery method reminds us of that well-seasoned earthen casserole — the English bean pot. There is nothing pretentious about it and it will, no doubt, pleasantly recall many successful meals prepared by its means. Now, excellent results may be obtained through the use of controlled heat.

-:-

Modern science has given us the glass baking dish in plain or etched design. It has many uses in cookery and is an attractive serving dish as well. And, there is the electric deep-well cooker, also a bearer of good cheer.

-:-

RECIPES

Keswick Beans —
One and half cups pea beans
One cup chicken stock
One onion, chopped fine
One-quarter cup of butter or baking fat
One cup canned tomatoes
One tin (small) pimentos put through a sieve
Two teaspoons salt

Soak beans over night in cold water. Drain. Parboil until soft. Put in baking dish or bean pot, add other ingredients. Cover and cook in an electric oven at 200 degrees until the beans have almost absorbed sauce.

Legume Croquettes —
One-quarter cup dried peas
One-quarter cup dried beans
One-quarter cup dried Lima beans
Half small onion
One stalk celery
One small carrot
Half cup bread crumbs
One egg beaten
One tablespoon butter
One-third cup milk
Salt and pepper
Tomato soup

Soak legumes over night in cold water. Drain. Parboil 2 cups of salt water until soft. Remove seasonings and put through a meat grinder. Add onion, celery and carrot. Cook until soft, remove seasonings and put through a meat grinder. Add crumbs, egg, salt and pepper to taste. Melt butter and flour and milk gradually. Combine mixtures and cook until thick. Shape into cones or cakes and join tin.

Lima Beans Fermpiere —
Two cups Lima beans (dried)
Half-tea-spoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
Half-cup pork trimmings (diced)
Half-an onion (diced)
Two table-spoons butter
One onion chopped

Soak beans over night in cold water to cover. Drain. Put back in pot and cook onion and carrot in it. Add to beans. Pour into casserole or well cooker. Add butter, salt and pepper. Fill with water to top of beans. Cover and cook until beans are soft.

Boston Kidney Beans —
One quart kidney beans
One cup salt pork, cubed
One tablespoon salt
One-quarter cup molasses
One-quarter teaspoon mustard
Boiling water
Three tablespoons sugar

Pick over beans, cover with cold water, and soak over night. Drain, cover with fresh water and place on electric element turned to low. Drain when soft. Scald pork and put in the bottom of well-cooker. Add beans. Mix salt, molasses, sugar and one cup boiling water. Cover cooker and cook six to eight hours.

TAKE A TIP:

1 Wax or laundry soap rubbed on dresser drawers that stick, will cause them to move easily.
2 To separate two tumblers that have stuck together, fill the inside glass with cold water and place the bottom glass in a pan of warm water.
3 To loosen a rusty screw, heat tip of a pcket until red hot, then hold it against the head of the screw for a minute. One application usually loosens the screw but let it cool before you use the screw-driver to take it out.
4 Before cleaning out the ashes from the furnace, throw wet tea leaves over the ashes. It will prevent the dust from flying and save unnecessary work.

HINESE SPEAKERS IVE ADDRESSES AT LUB MEETINGS

wo Chinese Students om Queen's University at Lions and Rotary

wo very interesting and instruct- speakers were heard by the mem- of Napanee Rotary and Lions' b at the joint meeting on Fri- evening last. It was "Chinese ht" and the speakers were two dents in Engineering from Queen's versity, Mr. Joseph Lai Chow and Frank Lee. Several Chinese Napanee and Kingston were sts of the Rotary Club.

. J. Wiggins, president of the ary Club, presided for the opene part of the meeting, later turn- it over to Mr. W. A. Grange, rman of the International Rela- Committee of the Club, who ed on Chas. A. Walters to intro- the speakers.

llowing the addresses by the speakers, short addresses were e by Mayor D. R. Hall and by . G. McChidley. The thanks of audience were expressed by Rus Hunter.

Mr. Chow, the first speaker, began speaking of the wonderful spirit the Chinese people, despite the fferings they have received from Japanese army and air force dur- the past five years. Though ferings from lack of military ipment and with hardly any air- ne, the Chinese have resisted ly and are still doing so. Under superb leadership of General- mo Chiang Kai-shek and Mme. ang, Chinese morale has height- ed with every blow. An amazing ity prevails among the five hun- d million people in China, and y are determined to fight on till e Japanese aggressor is driven out the country.

Mr. Chow said that the military kness of the Chinese was the lt of many centuries of culture, which peace and contentment re the ruling principles. The five epts of Confucious had been en into the life of the people — mility, toleration or broad-minde- ss, courtesy, wisdom and faith. ina has no ambitions to take the itory of any other people, she s practiced the spirit of the good ighbour. Chinese people are gen- ally hard-working, industrious and ace-loving. The Chinese residents Canada are an example of this. ne of these qualities China has en a fertile field for philosophy d religion.

The Japanese, on the other hand, e and have been an ambitious, reative people and their present m in China is to enslave the Chi- se and wipe out their culture and ilization. The Japanese, however, e failed to grab the dogged de- mination of the Chinese and their mpaign of conquest will be de- ated.

Mr. Chow appealed for a spirit unity among all the nations hting for freedom. China is fight- for democracy and needs all the p that can be given her. It is tter to win this war with Japan the Far East than on North Am- ican soil.

H. LEE SPEAKS

Mr. Frank Lee gave the historical ckground of the war with Japan. said that ever since 1863 when mmodore Perry visited Japan, and s brought the country into con- ct with the outside world, the panese have had fears of world quest. They look upon themf- es as a superior race, destined rule the world and have made eparations accordingly. In 1894 y waged war against China and zed her Korea and Formosa. re wrested from the Chinese. In 04 and 1905 came the war against ssia, with more aggression. After e Great War, Japan made de- ds on China in the famous enty-one Points—demands which re humiliating to the Chinese. en in 1931 came the invasion of anchuria, without warning or pro- cation. China had depended on ternational treaties and the League Nations, but their appeal to the ague was turned down.

It was only after this refusal to lp that China began to awaken d realize that she must depend on rself and her own armies. But ogress in armament was necessa- ly slow. In 1937 Japan made more mands on China to stop the boy- tt of Japanese goods withdraw m the troops of Nations, replace government officials and all litary advisers with Japanese hina tried to negotiate the matter, t the Japs sent two divisions of ops to "help" the Chinese, and e famous so-called "incident" be- n. Army after army was sent to ina and the northern and then e southern part of the country was e full panic. China had not had time to ild up an army, and received little

Ministerial Association Condemns Shipping Beer to Britain

The Napanee Ministerial Association held its regular monthly meeting on Monday morning, with Rev. W. R. Merrick presiding in the absence of Rev. J. T. Caswell, the president. Members present included Rev. W. R. Merrick, Rev. W. G. Conway, Rev. E. H. Umstead, Rev. A. H. Frair, Rev. A. C. McCallum, Capt. McPadyen, Lieut. Smith, Mr. Ernest Wicks, Archdeacon R. J. Dumbrille, Rev. C. D. McLellan, Rev. James Robinson and Rev. G. M. Chidley.

Rev. James Robinson, United Ch. minister at Bath, gave a paper on "Some Criticisms of the Church," which was followed by a lively discussion.

The meeting passed the following resolution: "Whereas the people of Great Britain are on short rations on account of the limited supply of both food and clothing.

"Whereas there is an abundance of food in Canada, more of which could be shipped to Great Britain.

"Whereas all goods are sent at great cost in human life and suffering.

"Be it resolved that this meeting, of the Napanee Ministerial Association, respectfully calls the attention of the Prime Minister and his Cabinet to the shipping of Canadian water in the form of beer, thus taking valuable space which might be used for food or other supplies of an essential nature, and express the hope that this practice may be immediately discontinued."

help from other democracies, while Japan was able to get raw materials and workers in the world. The Chinese could only withdraw before the enemy, as slowly as possible. Their strategy was to back up into the interior and thus draw the Japs away from their supply bases.

Mr. Lee spoke of the ruthless cruelty of the Japanese, bombing and slaughtering innocent women and children in wholesale destruction. Two million soldiers have lost their lives and ten million civilians have died—nearly the total population of Canada. In addition, countless millions have been driven from their homes.

Yet China fights on, pitting flesh and blood against high explosives, said Mr. Lee. He said that we ought to realize that Japan is a great danger to all the democracies, and that China is in the forefront of the democratic cause to-day.

Like his fellow-speaker, he referred glowingly to the leadership of Chiang Kai-shek and the way in which he has been able to rally the spirit of the Chinese and unite them in the great cause of freedom.

PEOPLE INDIRECTLY HELP THE ENEMY WHO ARE ABLE TO BUY VICTORY BONDS AND FAIL TO DO SO

While the National Victory Loan has made good progress since it started a little over two weeks ago and over one-half of the $600,000,000 objective has been subscribed, much remains to be done to make the Loan a complete success. The Loan must not only be subscribed, it must be over-subscribed, if Canada is to show the world that she is determined to do her full part towards the victory which alone can preserve her freedom.

Lennox and Addington has done well in many quarters, Dr. D. R. Hall, County Chairman, advises. As approximately two-thirds of the objective of $625,000 has been subscribed. "But, he added, "the sum of $300,000 still has to be raised if our campaign is to be considered successful.

"We regret to say," Dr. Hall continued, "thta evidently many people are lending much smaller amounts than they are able to afford." The employees' canvass in the various factories has been an outstanding success, but the response from the large body of citizens who could be lending from $500 to $3,000 for such a vital job as preserving our very freedom, has been disappointing, in the County of Lennox and Addington.

The citizens of Lennox and Addington in the first two weeks of the 1941 Victory Loan Campaign subscribed a total of $535,000, whereas this year, in the same period of time, the total was only $416,500. Latest returns show both the Province of Ontario and the Dominion of Canada with larger totals than for the same period last year, which makes the reverse situation in Lennox and Addington even more necessary to change.

We cannot believe that this lagging behind in such an important war effort is indicative of a desire to limit Canada's effective effort in the war and the supply of arms and equipment to our boys overseas. We feel that on the part of many citizens there is a lack of realization of what everyone must do, if we really desire victory. We must lend to the very limit of our savings and of our earning capacity, if we expect to beat the enemy with all his regimentation of resources.

The loyal citizens of Lennox and Addington have never failed to rally to the call of duty nor will they fail this time. It is our patriotic duty. If we have not bought bonds yet, let's buy them at once. If we have already bought, see if we cannot buy some more.

Small Tradesmen Are Under Price Control

As much as the general storekeeper or the department store, tradesmen such as barbers, shoemakers and harness-makers are subject to the Maximum Prices Regulations administered by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. No charges made by them are, unless directly authorized, to be higher than those made during the basic period of September 15 to October 11 last. The regulations also apply to establishments catering to women such as hair-dressers and beauty shops as well as to rooms and meals in country hotels.

T. EATON COMPANY INVESTS $3,500,000 IN VICTORY LOAN

National Headquarters of Canada's Second Victory Loan announced the receipts of large subscriptions from leading industrial and business concerns. These included a subscription of $3,500,000 from the T. Eaton Co. Officials of the company pointed out that this amount does not include private subscriptions on the part of the employees, submitted through the Store; it was also stated that indications from all Eaton Stores across Canada pointed to an even large number of investors among the organization's employees than in the last Victory Loan. This includes stores in smaller centres as well as those in the big cities.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT RE FOOT BRIDGE REPAIRS

Discussed at Length by Town Council at Regular Meeting

Deputy-Reeve Stratton, chairman of a special committee of the Napanee Town Council, appointed to consider the possibility of repairs to the footbridge over the Napanee River, presented a report of the committee at the meeting of the Council on Monday evening. The Council, after hearing the report and spending some time in discussion, endorsed the committee's recommendation that if the town's finances permit, a small grant be made toward the expense of repairing the bridge, provided that Mr. Jack Mc-Pherson undertakes the work and that the Town of Napanee be not held responsible in any way. Failing any arrangements for the repair of the bridge along the lines suggested, the committee recommended that the bridge be closed and signs to that effect be placed near the approaches.

Deputy-Reeve Stratton stated that the special committee had made a search of titles of property at the approach to the bridge and could find no record of private ownership and this came to the conclusion the ownership of the land was vested in the Crown. He stated also that the Town of Napanee had never assumed responsibility for the bridge in any way. The Town Solicitor was consulted and he advised that if the town undertook the repairs to the bridge, that the municipality would then be responsible for it. A bridge builder was also consulted and after examining the bridge would give no estimate as to the probable cost of repairing it.

A meeting with representatives of the Township of North Fredericksburg and with Mr. Jack McPherson, who is urging that the bridge be

The watch was taken from Miss McCutcheon on February 11, at a Napanee Chinese Cafe and Calver, who admitted he was drinking heavily on the day of the theft, stated he intended giving the watch back and was under the impression he had given it to Sydney Thompson, a friend, to return to Miss McCutcheon. GETTING THE MONEY

Up to the present time the Government seems to be having success in getting the money with which to finance the war. We are well on the way to undgwriting the amount of the present loan. It will be well met, and indeed oversubscribed, as it should be, if that extra effort is put forward in the days that still remain. But as the campaign draws to a close, questions arise as to the continuance of the present policy of raising money to finance the war. Up to date it has been successful. But what of the future? If this war continues several years more it is a grave question as to whether or not the present methods should be continued.

The present method is an extravagant method. For months a great deal of planning has to be done. Men who might be used in essential war work have to spend days and weeks and months, working out methods and building up an organization.

Then, too, millions are spent on advertising, which might better go directly into the purchase of munitions and necessary war services. Then when the drive actually starts, thousands of people are used as canvassers — many, of course, without remuneration, but others who have to be paid for their services. Granted there is a certain propaganda value in such effort, yet it is doubtful if this is the most efficient or the most economical way of raising the money.

We have in actual operation, all the necessary machinery required for raising finances at a much lower cost to the Government and without the expenditure of physical and mental effort, which has to be done under the method now in force. The Defence Tax machinery could very easily be expanded a bit, so as to take care of a loan. Each week or month a certain proportion is taken from the salary of every person in Canada. Why could not the Government determine, on a graduated scale, how much per week for two, three or more months should be given by each person to a War Loan, and then have that amount deducted from the salary. It would not be a tax like the Defence Tax, it would be a loan, a loan at the same rate of interest as is now paid. Indeed, with all organizational and advertising costs removed, the rate might conceivably be increased somewhat.

Of course, some method would have to be found whereby those who are not wage earners or salaried people should contribute to the purchase of the bonds. But that is no more impossible for one department of the government than it is say, for the income tax department. Then, the large contributors, banks, insurance and trust companies, and incorporated firms, would have to be told how much they were to take, just as the wage earner or the salaried man would be told.

There will be raised the old cry that this is conscription of wealth. Well what is wrong with that? We already have conscription in the form of taxation for some wealth, and the method suggested is only an extension of that idea, except that in the suggested plan the conscription is only in the form of a loan with interest. Even among the best intenditioned in the world there are always some who have to be told what to do.

A PROMISE OF THINGS TO COME

It is not easy to find evidence on which to base calculations for an immediate Allied victory. One commentator described the past week as the blackest one in British history. Comparisons are always difficult and unreliable, but there can be no discounting the very serious losses which the Democratic Powers have sustained, particularly in the East. The loss of territory long held is serious enough, but along with it has gone much of the White prestige which had marked the British and American occupation of far Eastern outposts. The whole Orient, long used to the view that the Whites were a superior race, have had to revise that whole conception in the light of the lightning-like, successful strokes of the Japanese. The seizure of great ports and bases, long held by the British, has from a tactical point of view, increased the difficulty of the Democratic forces, and quite probably lengthened the war by months, if not years. It will be some time before the British and the American forces will be strong enough and well enough equipped to drive out the Nipponese.

But black as the outlook in the East may be, it is nevertheless true that the war will be won or lost in Europe. The German army will have to be beaten. The subject peoples of Europe will have to be liberated. That must not be forgotten. This is not to be taken to mean that the war in the East is a sideshow—by no means. It is serious enough, perhaps much more serious than most people yet realize; yet, in the final analysis, it is the German war machine that must be destroyed. Up to the present the Russian armies have been the only ones who have been able to stop the German steam roller. Bit by bit, at terrific cost, the Russians have been pushing the armies of Hitler back to the old Polish-Russian border. The successes of the Russians have surprised the whole world. No matter what happens in the future, the impression that the German army was invincible has been dissipated by the winter campaign in Russia. The psychological effect of this on the people of Europe, cannot be overestimated. They will now know that the day of their liberation is not forever darkened.

The British have, up until the present, not been in a position to open up any other front in Europe. It was tried in France and failed: it was tried in Norway, and failed. The only other effort — that in Greece — while it failed to hold the Germans permanently, yet delayed their attack on Russia long enough to give the Russians some time to organize to meet the German onslaught. The British in the early stages of the war, were trying to fight it on the basis of the tactics of the First World War. They had not yet learned the methods which the Geramn's had developed. To do that takes time. And this is perhaps the explanation for the apparent delay for vigorous action on land by the British. They have had to learn a new art of war and to learn how to equip men to prosecute it. The attack on the French coast on Friday indicates that this period of reorganization, education and training may have proceeded almost far enough for them to make a real effort. The factor which gives encouragement is not only that these men, who made the attack, have been well trained and well equipped, but that there was perfect co-ordination between the three branches of the service, air, sea and land. The failure in the past, to effect this complete co-ordination has been a contributing factor to the defeat of our attacks. But now that we have learned that the forces must all synchronize, there is hope. With a well-trained army, well equipped and with every branch of the service working together with clock-like precision, as was the case on Friday, there is hope that a new era has opened in war operation, in Europe.

LOOKING AHEAD

In the news from Great Britain, which is given to radio listeners in this country through the co-operation of the B.BC. and the National Broadcasting Corporation, the commentator, on Sunday morning, made a very significant announcement. He said that a pamphlet of thirty pages had just been issued, the contents of which would be discussed long after the events of the past week are forgotten. The pamphlet is done by a group of men of whom Professor Harold Laski is the chairman or leader. The pamphlet is not available in this country as yet, so that detailed comment or analysis is impossible. Indeed, according to the announcement the pamphlet is not prepared in any detailed way. It is not much more than an outline of proposed changes in the social and economic order for Great Britain, and which will form the basis of discussion at the Congress of Labor representatives, which will meet during the early spring, in England. Out of this discussion there will, in all likelihood, emerge the basis for a platform for this powerful political party; a platform which will form a sort of blue print for the new world.

We are convinced that so serious is the situation prevailing in the world to-day, that nothing should be done which would, in any way, divert the attention of the nation from its immediate war objective. Recriminations are out of order. "If we quarrel about our yesterdays we have already lost our tomorrows," said Prime Minister Churchill, in one of his most pungent and cryptic phrases. Hindsight is always a good deal more easy than foresight. There are few people who have lived through the past twenty years but could see how things could have been different and how the present tragedy could have been avoided. All that, however, is passed. We have a big enough job on our hands now to demand united action. Nevertheless, it is well to be prepared for the future. If we were not prepared for war, that in itself should be a lesson to all and sundry to be ready for peace when it comes. It is an old saying, "in time of peace prepare for war." It is equally true that in time of war we should prepare for peace. For peace, when it comes, will probably come suddenly. It would be a tragedy little less than war itself if there should be no plan, no definite goal towards which the democracies set their face in the new world.

It is well then that, in Great Britain, there are those who are giving their attention to the subject That they are preparing for the future, that the decks are being cleared for action, is evident from many signs. The popularity of the Dean of Canterbury's little book on the "Socialist Sixth of the World," millions of copies of which have been sold in Canada and the United States in recent months, is one evidence. Then, too, the appointment of Dr. Temple as Archbishop of Canterbury, is another. Dr. Temple, all his life, has been noted for his progressive social views, views which even a few years ago seemed almost too radical, even for Britain. And now, this new pamphlet which comes from the Labour group. With the Labour group from their angle, and the religious forces from their angle continuing their efforts to plan for the New Order in Great Britain, nothing will be able to stand in the way of a reorganized British social and economic system. It is a great thing for the Democratic Peoples that in Great Britain, which has suffered so much and which has shown such fortitude and courage during these trying years, that there should be those who are again leading the way into the new world.

In Canada, there are committees at work, but, so far, no publicity has been given to their hopes and their ideals. Some of the churches have been working at this for a long time and have expressed their ideas in general principle. But what is needed here, are groups everywhere studying the situation, making tentative suggestions for discussion, and along with our British friends, paving the way for the new world when the day for its establishment has arrived.

SIMPLE THINGS

In concentration on world events it is the easiest thing possible to overlook the simple experiences of life which, in the long run, are the most important for each of us — the new baby with all the love and affection it demands and receives, the illness in the home which throws the breadwinner out of work and causes financial consternation, the care of those no longer young and able to take care of themselves and who need the constant watchfulness of the vigilant children every ready to be at their beck and call, day or night; the passing of those who were known and loved with the pain of parting and the poignancy of loneliness known only to those who have so suffered.

Then, too there are the other interests, which mean more than can well be estimated, the familyship, the reunions, the simple but important and intimate conversation in the home; the weather, prospects of a crop, the early coming of Spring, the going of frost and snow, the anticipated maple run, the cows, the horses, barns, the price of milk, the cost of food, and all those multitudinous other subjects which mean more than can be measured, but which are scarcely, if ever mentioned outside the family circle.

It is quite probably these that those who have enlisted in the forces and are living under strange and unusual circumstances — these items of homely gossip of family and events— miss mode than anything else.

Listening over the radio to the boys who send their messages of love and affection, how deeply that is borne out: "Love to Aunt Mary, love to Mother, love to Margaret," "Did you have a good time on your birthday ?" "Got your letter, so glad you got over your cold." Who can listen to these without being moved with the feeling that the home, the intimacies of the family, the so-called simple things of life are, after all, the most important, the most vital, the most real, the closest to our hearts. No matter how the storm may rage, no matter how the earthquake may shake this old world — these are the things which will endure.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 8TH, 1942

"WHY PEOPLE DRINK BEVERAGE ALCOHOL"

Lesson Text: Genesis 43: 34; Psalms 104: 14, 15; Proverbs 31: 4-7; Ecclesiastes 2: 1-3, 10, 11; Isaiah 56: 12; I Corinthians 10: 4, 5

A time of crisis brings to light both the strength and weakness of national character. Through such a crisis we are now passing; and in many theatres of war, and in the countries engaged in it, the morale undermined by the use of intoxicating liquor has been unequal to the strain. When France fell Marshall Petain said that one of the causes for the debacle was the loss of morale through indulgence in strong drink. Liquor played a not insignificant part in the Pearl Harbour episode; eight hundred thousand bottles of whiskey were destroyed at Hong Kong before the Japanese seized it. "Life", a picture magazine, last week carried a picture of a crowded beer garden in Singapore, taken a few days before it fell. The commentator who, over the air from Singapore, described these conditions, was ordered off the air. Lady Brooke-Popham, wife of Air Chief Marshal Popham, former Far Eastern Commander, was interviewed on February 27th when she landed in England from Singapore. Among other things she said: "These people continued with their parties and dancing to the very last. They simply refused to believe war would come to Singapore, and nothing could be done to overcome their inertia. It was just parties, bridge, and dancing." All this shows the results in other countries. In Canada, this year, the nation will spend $300,000,000 on liquor. It is hampering the war effort and undermining our national morale.

Why do people drink? That is the question the lesson raises. The several passages chosen for study indicate several reasons. The first, taken from Genesis, says it is to make the drinkers merry. Men drink because the emotions are affected and the restraints broken down and they act in a way which is free from these restrictions. The last section suggests that people drink in order that they may forget their poverty and their sorrow. There is real sympathy with men and women who seek to get away from it all by a few moments or hours by drugged sleep, or deadened sensibilities. The folly of such a course of action, however, is that the relief is unnatural and temporary. The problem is not solved; the poverty is not removed; the sorrow is not banished. The ostrich which buries his head in the sand does not escape danger because he only refuses to see it for the moment. He must still face it when he looks up for air.

Another reason why people drink is because of the crowd; they are afraid. No one wants to be a kill-joy when verybody else seems to be doing it, for one to hold out against them conscientious. So because of the strong pull of the community and the gang spirit, people use intoxicating drink. This is particularly true of youth, when the urge to be strong, and when young men and young women seek each other's companionship as they make life plans and dreams. Liquor interests know this and use every device to make their wares popular among that group. A magazine published for the purpose of advertising liquor in Ontario, contrary to law, makes a special appeal to you by taking short stories and placing them directly opposite pages to liquor advertisements. Here then are several reasons why people drink. Not one is a good reason. Up to the present time the nations have not been aroused to the seriousness of the situation. They may not be so aroused until it is too late. In the enemy countries the strongest ban is placed on the sale and use of liquor. We have much to learn, from them, how to meet and completely change our present tactics. It may be, in time, we will learn how essential it is to maintain strong public morale, and that the nations are seized of the supreme importance of both public and private morale will be drastically curtailed. We nation tires, sugar, gasoline, but no restrictions are placed on the use of that which more than anything else, is a menace to our national spirit, and to that lethargy and inertia which Lady Brooke-Popham attributed the fall of Singapore. In the first year Lloyd George said: "We are fighting three enemies, Germany, Austria, and strong drink, and the most dangerous of these three is drink."

That is even more true to-day than in so far as this war is a more total war, interesting liquor is a menace than it was when Lloyd George was directing the affairs of State, twenty-five years ago.

BOMBS WITH WINGS

They Fly Under Their Own Power

A device by which aerial torpedoes, bombs and shells can steer themselves to their target under their own power has been patented in Britain. This self-propelling projectile is really a tiny pilotless aircraft, complete with engine, airscrew, gyroscopic controls and so on. It also has a releasing device so that it may drop its wings at an appropriate point and so drop directly on the objective.

Launched by a catapult, this armament not only obviates transport of heavy artillery and repairs of rifling, but gives a much greater range than that of artillery. When the impulse of the catapult launching is spent, the projectile flies on under its own power, maintaining direction, height and balance by the gyrostatic pilot, operated either by the exhaust of the engine or by compressed air.

Normally designed for about double the range of long range artillery and for use in very large numbers, 40-lb. units can be made at a cost of under $25 each, which, when all the maintenance and transport costs are compared, is cheaper than firing an artillery shell.

But there is no reason why much heavier projectiles of higher precision and power, capable of hitting a city 100 to 500 miles away, could not be evolved from this beginning.

77,000 CANADIAN BOYS TO HAVE WAR TRAINING

Will Learn Rudiments of Naval Army and Air Work, During The Current Year

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Soldiers, sailors and airmen of the future, 77,000 Canadian youth under 18, will receive training in the basic arts of warfare during 1942, Defence Department authorities said last week.

Provision of $650,000 in the main estimates tabled in the House of Commons, last week, will make possible, for the first time in twenty years, the attendance at summer camps of all senior army cadets in Canada. Today they number 60,755.

"If the war continues, these boys will be the servicemen of the future and in training them in the basic arts of soldiery, Canada is making an investment in herself," said one source. "If the war should be won by the United Nations before these youths reach manhood, it is still an investment because they will have learned a great deal which will serve them in good stead in future life, be it military or civilian."

AGE OF CADETS

Senior army cadets are from 15 to 18 years of age. Junior cadets who are younger, number 50,965 enrolled.

The Royal Canadian Navy is sponsoring expansion of the Sea Cadets organization now reaching from coast to coast with 3,000 youths actively engaged in sparetime study of sea lore.

Greater assistance to the Air Cadet League of Canada, which has enrolled nearly 14,000 boys for instruction in basic knowledge required by the modern airmen, now is being considered by the Royal Canadian Air Force. Already pilots and experts in various Air Force branches have given much time to instruction of local League units.

The 1942-43 vote for army cadet services compared with $171,500 in 1941-42 and will make possible grants of $1.25 for each senior cadet uniform along with one week in a summer camp.

TRAINING VARIED

Woodcraft, fieldcraft, knots and lashings, internal combustion engines, signalling, model building, map reading, first aid, small arms training and the application of mathematics to practical work are contained in the syllabus prepared for the army cadet corps.

These subjects are taught over a period of two years which includes two six-day summer camps arranged by military districts.

In addition to the camps, several courses for instructors, most of whom are high school teachers, are to be held this year.

Noting the provisions in the estimates made possible the holding of camps for all the senior cadets this year, Defence officials said that attendance at these camps in 1922 totalled 13,140. Smaller camps, limited to 4,000 cadets were held in 1927, 1928 and 1929.

Cadet training is carried out during the school year to the extent of about two hours a week and by the time a senior cadet has completed the two-years syllabus he has covered the basic training requirements.

Only army cadets now are covered by the estimates, training but previously naval cadets were under the same jurisdiction.

AFFILIATION ENOUGH

Cadet corps are encouraged to affiliate with units of the Reserve Army thus enabling many of the boys to perpetuate family tradition by serving in their fathers' regiments.

Through development and encouragement of cadet services, Defence officials said it was possible that substantial economies could be obtained in future years by it being possible to enlist young men who had completed their elementary training and thus could proceed immediately to specialized branches of the services.

SPONSORED BY LEAGUE

Most Sea Cadet corps are sponsored by the Navy League of Canada, but officials said any group of men interested in forming such a boys' corps could make application to Naval Services for authority to organize a corps and have training undertaken. R. C. Stevenson, Montreal, recently was appointed co-ordinator of Sea Cadet activities. Expansion is being encouraged.

The Air Cadet League of Canada is also composed of voluntary ideal groups who organize units. Uniforms are obtained for the boys of the same cloth as that used by the R. C. A. F. Through arrangement with the Air Force, plans are being made to get uniform cloth at lower cost and further training equipment such as airplane motors, is being sought.

THE SPIRIT OF SINGAPORE

BY DENYS ROPER

Denys Roper, M.A. (Oxon.) has been in the Malayan Educational Service since 1934. He has been headmaster of the Government Schools in Johore, Province Wellesley, Perak, Selangor, Negri Sembilan and Singapore, and Inspector of Schools for Negri Sembilan.

Cabled dispatches from Singapore stress three things — the loyal co-operation of the Asiatics with the British authorities in the present crisis, their unshaken confidence in the British Raj, and their determination that Singapore must be defended.

The fine services manned by Malays and Chinese gave proof that they belonged to the great tradition of the London Fire Brigade itself. They extinguished fires under renewed air attacks. The Air Chiefs, Indians and Malays enrolled in thousands in the auxiliary services. Correspondents express admiration and surprise at the speed with which streets were cleared of damage and made fit for full traffic within the hour.

MARTIN LISTER

There is a memorial in the remote town of Kuala Pilah, in Negri Sembilan, that is a true token of this belief in Britain. It is a small plot of ground where the townsfolk sat and children played in the cool of the evening. At the entrance is an archway inscribed with these words:

"To the memory of the Honorable Martin Lister, British Resident of Negri Sembilan. By the grateful inhabitants of Kuala Pilah, 1897."

Around it are the high jungle-covered mountains of central Malaya, perennially green.

"The immeasurable height
Of woods decaying, never to be decayed."

It has the simplicity and anonymous quality of a wayside shrine. It was the expression not of vainglory but of love.

Martin Lister was one of the finest of the pioneers who gave their best and died young in the service of the Malay States. He died in 1897 of, beriberi, a tropical disease now known to be caused by vitamin deficiency. The cause of beriberi was even then being fruitfully investigated in Negri Sembilan by Dr. W. L. Braddon, whose octogenarian elder brother, Mr. A. L. Braddon, has described Martin Lister to the writer.

His word portrait should be put on record. It is that of a scholar and gentleman in the true tradition of Raffles himself — Raffles, founder of Singapore, who established a seat of learning in his new settlement with a promotness that recalls the founding of Harvard in 1638. Learning, colonial enterprise and administration seem closely akin.

Like Raffles, Lister was a kindly man, with that fear of the Lord that is the beginning of wisdom. He once expressed privately to Mr. Braddon, while disrobing after stepping down from the judicial bench, his sense of human kinship with the prisoner in the dock.

He knew the people and enjoyed their confidence. He was interested not only in the large scale problems of administration, such as road construction and town planning, but also in the lives of the inhabitants. In the houses that they built and the gardens and orchards he encouraged them to cultivate. He was unrewarded in the service of all, approachable by all, and loved by all.

Lister's name is little known out, side Negri Sembilan; but he established a tradition there that endures. The actual photograph of him in the Council Chamber of Seremban confirms the verbal picture painted by his octogenarian friend and admirer, who has lived in Negri Sembilan for fifty years and seen its growth from village squalor to civic beauty, under shrewd and kindly Malay rulers, advised by British Residents who have maintained Lister's standards of integrity and friendly cooperation.

GREAT BRITAIN CALLS THEM ALL

Great Britain has now reached a stage in military preparations when the services of every able bodied adult man and woman are needed in the war effort. The majority of the munition factories have been built and are now ready to pour forth a rapidly growing volume of aircraft, tanks, ships guns and other goods of war.

These factories are now fully manned to supply the needs of the growing fighting services and of Russia. By next year the size of the armed forces, including men and women and A.R.P. workers, will be about the same as at the end of the last war, while the number of persons producing munitions will be twice as large.

FOR NATIONAL SERVICE

To raise Great Britain's capacity to produce munitions and to fight to the highest possible level, the Government has decided to mobilize all the remaining men and women who are not already engaged on war work or in ministering to the vital needs of the population. By the National Service Act, "all persons of either sex for the time being in Great Britain are liable to national service, whether under the Crown or not, and whether in the armed forces of the Crown, in civil defence, in industry, or otherwise."

So far as men are concerned, the age for compulsory military service is raised from forty-one to fifty-one. The men in these age groups liable to conscription will be employed mainly on jobs hitherto done by younger men, thus increasing the combatant strength of the fighting services. At the other end of the scale, the age for military service is lowered to eighteen and a half, while the age of men in the army liable for service abroad is reduced from twenty to nineteen.

EXEMPTION RE-EXAMINED

Further, to bring the members of the fighting services up to the strength envisaged, the system whereby men of military age in certain occupations and age groups have hitherto been automatically exempt from military service is replaced by a system by which exemption depends on the importance of the work actually done by each individual. This measure is expected to release large numbers of young men for the fighting forces.

In order to release still more men for combatant service, to replace the men taken out of civilian occupations, and to provide the additional labor required for the munition factories, heavy demands will be made upon the women of Great Britain.

Like men, women will be liable to compulsory service up to the age of fifty-one. To begin with, only unmarried women between the ages of twenty and thirty will be liable for service. Married women, however, may volunteer. Service with combatant units in Great Britain, with anti-aircraft batteries, for example, will be voluntary. The A.T.S. alone is in immediate need of a further 170,000 women. All these, like the men over forty-one, will release men under that age for combatant service.

MARRIED WOMEN

In addition to unmarried women who will be liable to compulsory service with the armed forces or in civil defense, many hundreds of thousands of women will be needed to replace men in civilian occupations and in the munition factories. The majority of these will have to come from the ranks of married women, many of whom are at present engaged in household work. They will have to register at the labor exchanges and, after interviews designed to ascertain the circumstances of each woman, those who can reasonably be expected to do war work of one kind or another will be directed into jobs that need to be filled.

"EVERY BRAIN"

These measures will inevitably involve further substantial sacrifices by the people of Great Britain. The number of persons making goods, or rendering services, for the civilian population, will be further curtailed; and many of the comforts of home life will disappear as a result of the recruitment of housewives for the munition factories and other war work.

But they are vital if Great Britain is to mobilize the full strength for war. The total population of the country is only 46,750,000 compared with Germany's 85,000,000 and the 210,000,000 in occupied Europe.

In addition there are the Dominions with their great contribution to the war effort, both in the factory and in battle.

Great Britain needs every brain and every pair of hands to maximize and sustain the war effort, a fact which the nation fully appreciates. For the people have accepted, without hesitation, the privation and hardship involved in that war effort.

OVERHAUL IS THOROUGH FOR TRANS-CANADA PLANES

Winnipeg. — Trans-Canada Air Lines planes are subjected to a comprehensive maintenance program at Stevenson Field here. After 200 hours service each machine is taken off the route and thoroughly overhauled.

The work of the T. C. A. maintenance staff has been greatly increased by war contracts which the air line has undertaken. A new hangar building, now nearing completion, the staff will overhaul engines and propellers of military aircraft. During the past year T.C.A. has also overhauled a substantial number of flight instruments for the R.C.A.F. This has necessitated a night shift in the instrument shop. To help the men (technicians) a number of women workers have been trained in this branch of war work.

DUTCH "HOUDINI" FINALLY REACHES HAVEN

London—They call him the "Dutch Houdini" — Naval Lieutenant Etienne Henri Larive, who escaped from German prison camps four times in twenty months before he managed to reach Britain to rejoin The Netherlands navy.

The story of how the 26-year-old officer evaded the vast Gestapo network and even helped two other officers escape, as told to Aneta, Netherlands Indies news agency, has been released by Netherlands censorship authorities.

But the methods he used to slip out of his last confinement—a heavily-guarded camp reserved for prisoners recaptured after escape — were kept secret.

Lieut. Larive was serving on the destroyer Van Galen at Rotterdam when that city was attacked May 13, 1940. After the vessel had been set afire by German dive-bombers he and a group of sailors managed to get ashore and for four days fought in Rotterdam's streets until the Netherlands forces were ordered by their command to cease firing.

He was sent to a prison camp near Hamm, Germany, when he refused to sign a pledge not to take up arms against the Germans.

"From the moment the Nazi police picked me up I was determined to escape," he related. "When I got to Hamm I studied the prison set-up and worked out a plan.

"Regularly each day I noticed prisoners lined up in front of a shed outside the camps barbed-wire entanglements to get packages which had arrived for them by mail. One day I joined this queue and while everybody was busy looking at some parcels I managed to change my officer's coat for a nondescript blue sweater and oilskin.

"I also obtained a basket full of straw, and this I put on my shoulder to hide my face. The ruse worked, and I walked unnoticed through a group of officials at the edge of the camp and made my way to town.

"At Hamm I changed some of my Dutch money for German marks and boarded a Munich-bound train. I was unable to buy a ticket at the station because I lacked the necessary identification papers.

"Somehow I managed to dodge the conductor until we got to Ulm, where he caught me as I was leaving the train. He took me to the station master. After I explained most apologetically that I had left my ticket on the train, the official ordered me to leave the station and warned me to be more careful in the future.

"I continued on foot. Just outside Ulm I was challenged by a forest warden. To get rid of him I boarded a moving train, but was seen by a guard, who caught me.

Larive said he then was taken to a concentration camp near Breslau, Germany, where he said 400 Hollanders and Belgians were confined. He was there eight months plotting an escape with another Hollander.

"I got out with a company of Belgians going for their exercise by wearing a Belgian uniform, but my companion lost his nerve, and I had to return to the camp.

"For my next escape I donned civvies and put on a pair of spectacles belonging to one of the prisoners. This disguised, I walked out of the camp. Later, a German stopped me, however, and I was taken back."

He made another attempt but was discovered burrowing through a nunnery adjoining the barracks.

After this sortie, Lieut. Larive said he was sent to the Colditz camp, an old castle between Leipzig and Dresden where 450 Netherlanders, British, Polish, French and Belgian prisoners who had previously escaped from other prisons were guarded by almost forty soldiers.

The Nazi staff to incite quarrels among the various prisoners in order to break up any escape plots, but when this failed they made use of the severest punishments. They limit-ed-ly trusted their own guards and supervisors and appointed a mystery commissar to govern the prison.

Larive, however, in the good his escape from this camp by disclosed plans and worked his way to Britain.

WHAT DID YOU HAVE FOR BREAKFAST?

Are you a Dagwood Bumstead, grabbing a cup of coffee for breakfast and dashing madly out the door?

What did you have for breakfast this morning? Orange juice and coffee? Maybe just toast and coffee. Perhaps nothing at all? That's a bad habit, according to the Health League of Canada.

Between dinner and breakfast is the longest gap in time that comes between any meals and when you get up in the morning your stomach is nearly empty. Therefore, it is pointed out, you have no food to call on as a source of energy all morning and your work and all your activities will suffer.

The Health League advises a fruit or fruit juice first for breakfast. Next, you should have either cereal with milk or cream or some cooked dish of eggs or meat, like sausage or bacon with or without pancakes. Toasted whole wheat bread is better than ordinary white bread, because it has more Vitamin B.

One of the most important food elements in breakfast, for adults and children both, says the experts, is milk. Plenty of it should be available for cereals or cocoa or just to take plain, along with the above suggested food.

LIVING COST BONUS ORDERS EXPLAINED

Ottawa. (C.P.) — Applications by either employees or employers to pay cost-of-living bonuses, where none has been paid previously are being considered by the National War Labor Board on individual merits and no general policy is being applied, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, the Labor Minister, said at a press conference, recently.

Interpretative rulings of the board on Government wage legislation, now summarized in a new booklet, were explained by Mr. Mitchell and members of the board executive at the conference.

NATIONAL POLICY

Co-operation of the provincial labor departments and industry and labor is making possible the successful application of one national wage policy in the place of nine provincial policies, Mr. Mitchell said.

Control of basic rates and protection by the bonus system against increases in living costs have helped overcome difficulties which followed the Great War when basic wages were at a high level, with prices slumping.

Attention of the board has until now been largely centred on interpretive rulings but as legislation is clarified the number of applications for rulings on specific cases is increasing. Applications from employers seeking permission to pay bonuses have almost equalled those of employees, it was revealed.

DATES SET

No employer may start paying a cost-of-living bonus after February 15, 1942, without specific permission from the board and future new payments or increases will be dependent on the board's announcement in May based on fluctuations in the cost-of-living index between October, 1941, and April, 1942.

The absence of prosecutions for violations of the wage control order was illustrative of the co-operation being received, Mr. Mitchell said.

Rulings in the board's new booklet more clearly define excluded employees and employees and determination of the rank of an employee above or below the rank of foreman on which operation of the order depends.

RULINGS EXPLAINED

In cases where the employer now is paying a cost-of-living bonus to one group of employees and not to another the bonus may be added to those not now receiving it if the employer desires.

In determining a general wage rate adjustments granted at the same time within an established scale of wage rates are not considered a general increase.

While any increase in the basic scale of wages rates may be made without permission of the board, individual adjustments may be made within the established range for a particular occupation, but the highest wages rate should not exceed the top rate in the scale. Where more than 50 per cent. of the range is bunched until the board holds that more than one occupational classification has been included and that the jobs should be reclassified

SERVICE BADGE NOW AVAILABLE

Kingston. — War Service Badge "General Service Class" is available to those members of the naval, military or air forces of Canada who served in one or any of the three forces on active service during the present war, under an engagement by which they were liable for service overseas and who have been honourably discharged, is now available for issue, it was announced recently.

To be eligible for the badge, a man who has been honourably discharged from the naval, military or air forces for any reason other than physical disability due to wounds received on service, will be required to make a sworn declaration of his willingness to present himself for unqualified re-enlistment in the military forces of Canada whenever His Majesty shall require his services during the present war.

A man honourably discharged from the army for any reason other than physical disability will also be required to make a sworn declaration of his willingness to re-enlist in the military forces. An applicant who may later be required to present himself for enlistment and fails to do so within three days after being so required, shall forfeit his badge and certificate unless he can show due cause for delay.

The badge is of gilding metal finished in rhodium plate in the form of a shield charged with three maple leaves, in red enamel, surmounted by a crown, and underneath on a scroll of blue enamel, the words, "General Service." The serial number is stamped on the reverse together with the words "Wenalty for misuse 500 dollars or six months imprisonment." The height of the badge is 1 inch, width 9/16 inch.

A certificate entitling the holder to wear the badge bearing the corresponding number to that shown on the certificate will be issued with each badge and must be carried whenever the badge is worn.

Applications for the "General Service" badge in the case of personnel discharged from any of the three forces should be in letter form, bearing the usual signature of the applicant. Upon the receipt of such letter a pro-forma will be forwarded to the applicant. In the case of naval personnel this pro-forma will be returned to the Secretary, Naval Board, Department of National Defence, Ottawa; from army personnel to the Officer i/c Records (Awards), Department of National Defence, Ottawa, and from air force personnel to the Secretary, Department of National Defence for Air, Ottawa.

In all cases, navy, army or air force, full names, rating, rank, official or regimental numbers and dates of discharge must be given, also a full street address to ensure safe delivery of the badge. It is not the intention to forward badges addressed "General Delivery," except in cases where there is no mail delivery.

First Fld. Ambulance Mobilizes As An Active Service Unit

Kingston. — Announcement was made, last week, by Headquarters, Military District No. 3, of the immediate mobilization as an active service unit of the No. 1 Field Ambulance R.C.A.M.C. (R.F.) of Kingston. The unit will be brought up to full war establishment with Lieut.-Col. P. A. McLeod, also of Kingston, as Acting Officer Commanding during a period of preliminary organization.

The new active force unit of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps will be completely mechanized and will have a personnel of approximately 12 officers and 230 other ranks, consisting of medical officers, one quartermaster, one R.C.A.S.C. officer attached and one dental officer attached will make up the officer slate. It is possible that a chaplain will also be attached.

Simultaneous with the announcement of the unit's mobilization was a statement issued from unit headquarters, in the Kingston Armouries, that recruiting will begin immediately to bring it up to full war strength. While it is expected the drivers for the vehicles as well as artificers will be supplied by the R.C.A.S.C., there will be room for a large number of other ranks for administrative and ambulance duties. Stretcher bearers, cooks, carpenters and operating room attendants will also be required. It is understood that all personnel joining the unit will receive training first at a basic training centre and will then go to an R.C.A.M.C. training centre for advanced instruction before they report for duty.

No. 1 Field Ambulance is expected to be equipped with a mobile operating unit, ambulances, lorries, cars and motorcycles. The unit itself will be made up of Headquarters and two companies.

"The mobilization of No. 1 Field Ambulance as an active force unit presents an unusual opportunity for service by men of Kingston and the surrounding district," Colonel McLeod said. "We shall welcome all physically fit men who desire to play their part in the country's war effort and who are keen to get into a branch of the army which will prove interesting as well as instructional. This opening with No. 1 Field Ambulance makes it possible for Kingston and district boys to serve together and to enjoy their own companionship. The need of this group is becoming increasingly important and great opportunities lie ahead for war service of the most humanitarian and noble kind."

Colonel McLeod pointed out that men interested in joining the unit should apply to the unit's Orderly Room in the Armouries, Montreal Street, Kingston.

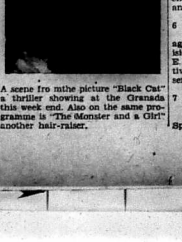
WEDDING BELLS

SAGRIFF - DAY

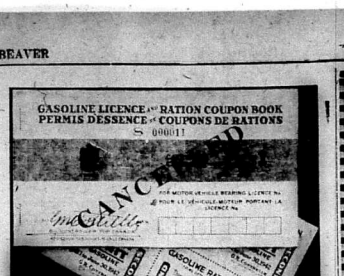
Miss Jean Day became the bride of William Eugene Sagriff at Harlowsmith, Ontario. The ceremony took place at the Bay Parsonage in Napanee, Monday afternoon, March 2nd, 1942, was performed by Rev. A. C. McCallum. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Barrett were witnesses to the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Sagriff will take up residence at Harrowsmith, where the groom is engaged in farming.

HORROR PROGRAMME!



A scene fro mthe picture "Black Cat" a thriller showing at the Granada Theatre, Sunday and Monday programme is "The Monster and a Girl" another hair-raiser.



"Fill her up" will become an unfamiliar phrase when gasoline rationing goes into effect in Canada on April first. For each coupon the service station attendant detaches from your book, shown here, he will deliver one unit of gasoline. If you want only half a unit, the seller can bisect a coupon along a perforated line. When the plan was first announced it was thought a coupon would be for five gallons, but the shortage is becoming more acute and no one can predict how much it will represent.

RITZIN' THE BLITZ ATTENDED BY HUGE CROWD

Possibly the largest crowd of people ever seen in the Napanee Armouries was packed into the building last Saturday night, when the all-soldier musical revue "Ritzin' The Blitz" was presented. Long before eight o'clock the building was filled to capacity and many were turned away. A special stage had been constructed for the show and seats for over 1,800 were provided. Besides those who were seated, several hundreds stood at the back of the hall and in the gallery.

Pte. Rex. Doyle acted as Master of Ceremonies for the programme, which was under the direction of Pte. Mel Kent. There was considerable variety in the number which included songs, tap dancing, skits, sleight-of-hand, piano solos, fancy dancing, accordion playing and a final pageant.

The accordionist Len Moss, a member of the R. C. A. F. from Johannesburg, South Africa, was especially clever and his numbers were much appreciated. The piano solos by Clement Hambourg, one of the well - known Hambourg musicians of Toronto, were exceptionally fine. The Minuet with Clem Hambourg at the piano was a beautifully executed number and was very appropriate for the evening's entertainment.

During intermission, Col. Arthur Pratt, Inspector of Munitions Output for Canada and British Government, made an appeal for support of the people of Lennox and Addington of the Victory Loan. Col. Pratt was introduced by Mayor Hall, who also called on J. M. Simpson, K.C. to read a short statement concerning the Loan.

The boys of the 47th Field Battery (R.F.) acted as ushers.

CANADA'S WAR EFFORT

A WEEKLY REVIEW OF DEVELOPMENTS ON THE HOME FRONT; FEBRUARY 19TH TO 26TH, 1942

1 Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Conservative Leader Hanson urge affirmative answer in coming plebiscite. Question in plebiscite: "Are you in favour of releasing the Government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service."

Plebiscite Bill before Commons provides that persons in armed services may vote even if under 21 years of age.

2 Japanese Government indicates 1,689 Canadians taken prisoners at Hong Kong. As 1,985 embarked figures mean 296 regarded as either dead or missing.

3 Removal of about 3,500 Japanese nationals from "protected" area. British Columbia announced as first phase of Government's plan for dealing with Japanese problem on Pacific Coast. (Protected area in British Columbia is coastal belt between Cascade Mountains and the sea including all islands off British Columbia coast.)

4 Power given to the Minister of Justice by Order in Council to exclude any or all persons from "protected areas" as defined under Defence of Canada regulations.

5 Second session of the House of Commons held February 24. "The sitting," says official report, "was devoted to the question of the defence of Canada in its widest qualifications. Statements were made by the Honourable Messrs. Ralston, Power and Macdonald, the ministers in charge of national defence, of various questions dealing with different aspects of the war were asked and answered. Many details were given the members of the House."

6 All scrap rubber in Canada to be taken over by a Government agency known as Scrap Rubber Division. Objective 25,000 tons in 1942.

E. M. Proctor, Canadian representative to Bureau of Industrial Conservation in Washington, heads the division.

7 Five officers and 35 men of the Royal Canadian Navy believed lost when Canadian corvette Spikenard sunk by enemy action. R. M. C. S. Spikenard is third Canadian corvette lost since war began.

8 Air Vice Marshall A. A. L. Cuffe, air member for Air Staff at R. C. A. F. headquarters appointed Officer Commanding the Eastern Air Command, Halifax.

9 Wartime regulations issued to metals trades prohibiting use of virgin tin for any purpose whatever, except with written permission of the Metals Controller.

296 CANADIANS REPORTED DEAD AT HONG KONG

Ottawa. (C.P.) — News that 296 Canadian soldiers are dead or missing after the losing battle fought by Canadian and Empire troops against the Japanese at Hong Kong, was given the House of Commons, last week.

The information came from Hon. J. L. Ralston in a brief statement. He had on hand the number who embarked, 1,985 Canadian officers and men who went to Hong Kong in mid-November.

Actually Col. Ralston's information proved to be gleaned from Japan by way of Argentina, said only that Canadian prisoners of war taken at Hong Kong numbered 1,689.

But from that figure Col. Ralston deduced that 296 "would be regarded either dead or missing."

Said Col. Ralston: "The message is extremely vague. It gives figures which are not clear."

Mr. Ralston members will remember had the number who embarked was 1,985. So that means on the basis of those figures, I suppose, regret to say, at least without further information, that 296 would be regarded as either dead or missing."

The Defence Minister said this was the first official information from which any definite conclusion could be arrived at with respect to the number of Canadian casualties at Hong Kong.

Until today there had been virtually no news of the fate of Canadians who fought at Hong Kong with other British and Empire troops until compelled to surrender Christmas Day.

COMMANDER KILLED

Among those known to be killed were Brig. J. K. Lawson of Ottawa, and his Chief of Staff, Col. P. Hennessy of Ottawa. Brig. Lawson led the Canadian contingent to the island bastion off the China coast.

PLEBISCITE DETAIL DECIDED

Ottawa. (C.P.) — Members of Parliament and the opposing candidates who obtained the second highest number of votes in each electoral district will choose urban enumerators for the forthcoming manpower plebiscite, a House of Commons committee studying the Plebiscite Bill decided on Friday.

Rural enumerators will be chosen by the returning officer.

The committee, which will report to the House, accepted a draft regulation providing that five days before he proposes to appoint urban enumerators the returning officer in each district must give notice to the candidate who at the last election received the highest number of votes and the opposing candidate who received the next highest number of votes.

The successful candidate may nominate a person for appointment as enumerator in every odd-numbered urban polling division in the district and the runner-up may nominate for even-numbered districts.

CHANGE OPPOSED

Earlier in the day the committee voted down, as unessential, a draft regulation providing that five days before he proposes to appoint urban enumerators the returning officer in each district must give notice to the candidate who at the last election received the highest number of votes and the opposing candidate who received the next highest number of votes.

The successful candidate may nominate a person for appointment as enumerator in every odd-numbered urban polling division in the district and the runner-up may nominate for even-numbered districts.

Town Council

repaired, was attended by the special committee of the Town Council, when the matter was discussed. No definite offer of assistance was made by the representatives of North Frederickaburgh who promised to consult the Council of the Township at its next meeting.

The town tax rate has been struck and provision was made for the expenditure of such a sum as may be required for the repairs to the bridge. Several members of Council expressed sympathy with the desire of the residents of North Frederickaburg to have the bridge put in a safe condition, but the inability of the Town to assume a large expenditure was also clearly stated.

Mr. Dick Richardson, a resident of South Napanee, who was present at the meeting of Council with his son, Mr. Leslie Richardson, was of the opinion a few hundred dollars expenditure would put the bridge in good condition. He stated the bridge was built about sixty years ago by William and David Edgar, for Sir Richard Cartwright, who then owned a great deal of the property on both sides of the river adjacent to the bridge.

A petition was received from residents of the district just west of the town limits on No. 2 Highway, asking for assurance of protection from the Napanee Fire Brigade and undertaking to pay any expense incurred by the town, if the fire brigade attended a fire on the several properties. A motion was moved and carried, that the Town of Napanee enter into the requested agreement with the petitioners.

Councillor Luffman brought up the nuisance created around many properties in the town by the large number of pigeons now infesting the town and urged that some means for their extermination be provided. After discussion the question of exterminating the pigeons was left with the Police Committee, with power to act.

A letter was read from the Napanee branch of the Red Cross Society stating the Society had been notified by the Napanee Public Utilities, to vacate by July 1st their present quarters in the building acquired by the Commission, which is to be occupied by the Commission about October first. The Red Cross Society asked that the Town Council assist it in securing suitable quarters and the request was referred to the town Property Committee to report at the next meeting.

A by-law was passed authorizing the Mayor and Treasurer to execute deeds for the properties sold at the land tax sale a year ago, on which the period for redemption had expired.

The Council endorsed a motion by Councillors Luffman and Exley, that the salary of the Night Constable, A. E. Cook, be increased by $50.00 per year.

A motion was passed that the Town dispose of the Stevens lot to Frank D. Marsh for the sum of $77, the amount of the tax sale dues.

The request of the A. Y. P. A. for a refund of $10.00 rental for the Town Hall for an entertainment for patriotic purposes, was granted.

Requests for employment as street cleaners by Charles Babcock and Anson Wheeley, were referred to the Streets Committee, with power to act.

The auditors' report was received and was referred to the Finance Committee to report at the next meeting. A motion was passed authorizing the payment of the auditors' salaries, $125 each, to Geo. T. Walker and George Knox.

The Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Edgar Drew, the Reeve of Camden, and advise him that the old fire truck is not for sale.

The Treasurer was asked to prepare for the next meeting of Council a list of all properties taken over by the municipality, for taxes.

The following reports were submitted by the committees chairmen:

Council Luffman, chairman of the Market and Police Committee, presented the report of the Chief of Police for February, as follows. Complaints received and investigated 8; accidents investigated, 8; dogs impounded unfastened, 15; arrests, 2. Transients given protection, two aged men. During the month of February, two convictions were obtained under the Liquor Control Act, also two convictions for damage to property and one case under the Highway Traffic Act.

Reeve J. G. Daly, chairman of the Finance Committee, presented the report of the Treasurer for January 1st to February 28th, which included the following items:

Receipts— Rents, $66.00; licences, $389.00; market rents, $30.00; relief grants from Province, $1,172.22; sundry, $220.60; taxes, $2,599.33.

Expenditures— Police, $522.26; fire and water, $330.02; light, $668.94; streets, $812.06; charity and welfare, $181.09; parks, $6.52; direct relief, $1,413.94; debenture interest, $850.00; garbage collection $411.93; Board of Education, $2,500.00.

The report of the Social Welfare Department for the month of February was presented by the chairman of the committee, W. G. Exley. The amounts payable by the town for February, for relief were as follows: Food, $327.15; Fuel, $39.10; Clothing, $22.93; Shelter, $32.00; total $481.23.

Amount to be paid by the Government $525.03.

WEDDING BELLS

MERAW - CLAIR

The Convent Chapel of the Sisters of the Assumption, Battleford, was the scene of a recent wedding when Mary Hester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Clair, became the bride of Mr. Harry A. Meraw, of Wetaskiwin, Alberta, son of Mrs. M. Meraw of Tweed, Ontario. Rev. Father Simon, of the Oblate House of Studies, officiated. Assisting at the mass were two nephews of the bride, Edward O'Keefe and Vincent Clair.

The bride, who entered the chapel on the arm of her father, wore a street-length dress of blue transparent velvet with matching hat and accessories and a corsage of bridecliff roses. Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. J. O'Keefe, who wore a gown of chalky rose with wine accessories and a corsage of roses. Mr. J. A. Meraw attended the groom.

During the mass Miss Alma Latour sang "Ave Maria" and "Hail, Queen of the Heavens," accompanied by Rev. Sister Clare Marie.

Following the church ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. O'Keefe. The bridal table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. During the afternoon several messages of congratulations were received from out-of-town friends.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Meraw and daughters, Cora and Teresa, of Sovereign, Sask.

RAIGHT - DAVERNE

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Church of St. Alban the Martyr, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon, February 28th, at 3:00 p.m., when Florence Louise Daverne, R. N., second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. George Daverne, Adolphus, town, and L. Cornl Jack Warren Raight, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Haight, of Adolphustown, were united in marriage by the Rev. C. E. Brain.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was becomingly attired in navy blue crepe with white accessories and wore a tuban of navy blue crepe with matching veil. She wore a shoulder corsage of dieson roses interspersed with lily of the valley.

They were attended by the bride's youngest sister, Miss Nora Daverne, of Napanee, and by his cousin Mr. Brother, Mr. Richard Haight, Trenton.

After the ceremony an informal luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which the bride and groom left for a short wedding trip.

The Late Harry Scott

The sudden death occurred at Napanee on Wednesday, February 25th, of Harry Scott, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Scott, who for many years were prominent residents of Napanee.

The late Mr. Scott was born in Napanee. He attended the Napanee schools and after graduating from the Collegiate he attended McGill University, where he took a course in electrical engineering and received the degree of Bachelor of Science and graduated from McGill. Mr. Scott secured a position in Chicago, later going to British Columbia, where he intended to settle. But a position offered him by the Bell Telephone Company took him to Montreal, where he rapidly advanced until he held an important executive position. He remained in Montreal about thirty years, first retiring to Napanee eight years ago.

The late Mr. Scott was unmarried and is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Gordon Cooper, Orillia, Mrs. Chris Keane, Powell River, B.C., and Mrs. J. A. English, Millet, Alberta. He was predeceased by his parents, one brother, Ralph, and a sister, Mrs. Kenneth McKinnon.

His funeral was conducted at the Tierney Funeral Home, by Rev. G. J. Wilson, former minister of St. Andrew's Church, Napanee, on Saturday afternoon, February 28th, and was made at Riverside Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Major Isaac Briant, E. J. Walters, George Robson, C. L. Graham, W. T. MacKenzie and Percy Vine.

HOT DRINKS, GOOD LIGHT LUNCHES, GOOD FUN 'BUCKSHEE TO ARMY

Bowmanville, Ont.—Unique among the many conveniences placed at the disposal of fighting men by various war service organizations in Military District No. 3, is the recently opened soldiers' rest room in Bowmanville. Sponsored by the Bowmanville War Services Club with the idea of dispensing comfort, companionship, a hot drink and a light lunch — free of charge — to those on leave, the centre has already earned much praise and comment from sailors, soldiers and airmen.

The recreation centre offers a particular advantage to those passing through town, homeward bound from leave, with little money in their pockets. Soldiers stationed at Bowmanville and guards from the internment camp have found the room a pleasant place to while away the evenings with their wives or friends. At all times during the winter months the room is well heated.

A large sign just inside the door directs those entering the room that they may secure light refreshments "buckshee," day or night. During the daylight hours and early evening the room has a hostess to look after the wants of the men but from the middle of the night on lunches and drinks must be prepared by the men themselves.

A guest book at the centre contains the name of 400 men who have taken advantage of its facilities since its opening a short time ago. Many of the names are of those who came in during the late night to avail themselves of the generosity of the citizens of Bowmanville. Several of the men who placed their names in the registry expressed their appreciation in writing under their signatures.

Message From Singapore

BY G. L. CREED
(Squadron Leader, R.C.A.F.)

"So long, my Canada! You may not hear again
From one to whom your very name is dear . . .
And so this message I must send you ere
The yellow tide of death that creeps so near Flows over yet another of your sons
Whose priceless freedom is your greatest dower . . .
To help preserve this birthright for mankind,
I dedicate my life to its last hour . .

"I go to join my comrades of Dunkirk—
Narvik — Tobruk — Hong Kong — and many more
Whose names in tears are written on your Book
From sun-lit West to grey Atlantic shore —
Gladly go I, as they have given all,
One man can give to pay the debt I owe
To you, my Canada, who, freedom-blest,
This blessing on your children still bestow . . .

"The sands are running out . . the yellow pack
Is full and snarling ery is closing in
So little time is left in which to play
My humble part — But, if my death shall win
One single foothold for the steps of those,
My brothers, who—to save your freedom dear —
Must follow me, with gladness I shall go
To meet my Maker . . . and without a fear!"

EPITAPH

He died, this son of Canada, for YOU!
To help preserve YOUR towns from raining hell —
YOUR wives from rape — YOUR daughters from the lust
Of beasts — your shores from shot and shell . . .
He died for lack of guns—of tanks—of planes
Of ships — of all that wins in modern war . . .
All he had left was courage! . . . and the rest
Is what we stay-at-homes are paying for!

WORLD SHIPPING LOSSES CITED

London, (C.P.) — Merchant shipping losses of all countries from the start of the war to January 1, 1942, were estimated by the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom at approximately 14,000,000 tons.

Britain, her Allies and neutral nations have lost 8,200,000 tons, said the Chamber's annual report, while Germany and her Allies have lost "not less than 3,500,000 or 6,000,000 tons."

During the last six months of 1941, the Chamber added, Axis air raiders, mines, submarines and surface vessels sank about 1,150,000 tons, of shipping a month—or a total of more than 1,000,000 tons for that period.

The report concluded that the United Nations hold a great advantage over the Axis because of the tremendous shipbuilding programme of the United States, which produced some 1,000,000 gross tons of dead weight in 1941 and is expected to provide approximately 18,000,000 tons of new shipping during the next two years.

"On the debit side," the Chamber added, "there is a longer haul imposed by the loss of safe passage through the Mediterranean. This has been estimated as 30 per cent. loss of efficiency to British Empire sea communications."

Look Out! A Sick Liver is Dangerous

Do you have persistent headaches and backaches? Are you tortured by rheumatic pains in muscles and joints? A faulty liver is clogging your whole system. Serious ill health may result.

● Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands. If unhealthy, your body lacks this energy and becomes enfeebled—youthful vim disappears. Again your liver pours out bile to digest food, and rid of waste and allow proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order proper digestion and nourishment stop—you're poisoned with the waste that decomposes in your intestines. Nervous troubles and rheumatic pains arise from this poison. You become constipated. Headaches, kidneys can't work properly. The whole system is affected and you feel "rotten," headachy, backachy, dizzy, tired out—a ready prey for sickness and disease.

Thousands of people are never sick, and have won prompt relief from these miseries with Dr. Emerson's Improved Fruit-a-tives Liver Tablets. The liver is toned up, the other organs function normally and lasting good health results. Today "Improved Fruit-a-tives" are Canada's largest selling liver tablets. They must be good! Try them yourself NOW. Let "Fruit-a-tives" put you back on the road to lasting health—feel like a new person. 25c, 50c

WISH FOR FISH

Hello Homemakers! In wartime, homemakers can help by buying the foods Canada provides in abundance, while restricting the use of other foods needed overseas. No other country has greater or finer supplies of fish than Canada—and fish is one food Canadians should eat oftener than they do.

No other food provides more nutrition at low cost. Its protein value equals that of meat or poultry. Fish oils are easily assimilated. Fish is rich in mineral salts, iodine, calcium, phosphorus and sulphur, so essential to good health. It also contains a good supply of those vitamins which increase resistance to disease.

With so many kinds of fish to choose from and different ways to cook it — baking, broiling, steaming or pan-frying — it is easy to have variety in your fish dishes. Cooked carefully, as that none of its delicate flavour is lost, served with appropriate sauces and cleverly garnished, you can be sure that everyone of the family will wish for fish.

COOKING FISH:

Wipe fish with a cloth wrung out in cold, salted water. Never leave fish soaking in water—flavour will be lost.

1 To boil fish allow 8 to 10 minutes per pound; 10 to 15 minutes if very thick.
2 To steam fish allow 12 to 15 minutes per pound; turn once or twice.
3 To bake or broil fish allow 8 to 10 minutes per inch thickness of fish at temperature of 450 deg. for first 10 minutes, then lower to 350 deg. The high temperature used at first sets the juices and holds the flavour.
4 Parsley is the favourite garnish for fish.

RECIPES

SPICE SCALLOP:

Slice two medium-sized onions (or one large) and cook in as little water as possible, or saute. Place them in the bottom of a greased baking-dish. Wipe two pounds of fillets or slices of any white-fleshed fish, using a damp cloth. (Cod, haddock, halibut, or whitefish are suggested.) Cut the fish in servings and place them on the onions. Pour over this one can of tomato soup and bake 10 minutes, or until the fish is cooked. In an electric oven at 450 degrees.

Note:— The following sauce may be used in place of the soup: Two tablespoons butter or fat, melted; two tablespoons flour added and blended and used to thicken the following mixture which has been cooked together and strained: — one cup tomatoes, half-cup water, four whole cloves, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt. Cook until thick. Serves 6.

PILCHARD TIMBALES:

Two cups canned pilchard
2 cups bread crumbs (soft)
Salt, pepper, parsley.
One cup tomato juice
One egg
Cooked macaroni

Season the fish. Mix together bread crumbs and tomato juice, add the fish, and the beaten eggs. Cook the sticks of macaroni in salted boiling water; when done, rinse in cold water. Grease timbale moulds, line each mould with macaroni. Add fish mixture, cover with waxed paper, set in a pan of boiling water and bake 20 minutes in electric oven. Unmould on hot plates and serve with egg sauce. Herring or mackerel can be used in this recipe instead of pilchards.

FISH BALLS:

One cup fish — codfish, salmon, chicken haddie, etc.
Pepper and salt to season (according to kind of fish)
One and one-half cups mashed potatoes
One tablespoon butter, melted
One egg beaten
Half-teaspoon onion, minced

Any cooked, flaked fish may be used. Mix the ingredients well and beat until fluffy. Form in balls or cakes and roll in finely sifted dry bread crumbs. The fish balls may be chilled in electric refrigerator until time to cook. Saute or deep fry (an inch cube of stale bread should brown in the fat in 40 seconds). Drain and serve hot, with or without a sauce. Serves 4 to 5.

FISH SCALLOP WITH VEGETABLES

Three cups of cooked vegetables (carrots, potatoes, onion, etc.)
One cup vegetable water (or milk, if none available)
One cup cooked flaked fish (any canned or left-over baked or boiled fish)
Three tablespoons fat or butter
One cup of milk
One-quarter teaspoon pepper
Three tablespoons flour
One teaspoon salt
Bread crumbs

Make a white sauce by melting butter, blending in flour, adding milk and vegetable water, and cooking till smooth and thick. Place the cooked, diced vegetables in a greased casserole, add the flaked fish, season, cover with the white sauce, sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in an electric oven until brown and hot. Serves 6.

TAKE A TIP:

1 Store biscuits and cakes in separate boxes. Otherwise, biscuits lose their crispness and take on the flavour of the cake.
2 To expedite the scaling of fish, dip in boiling water first.
3 Take care of those zippers! To make them work more easily, simply rub a little paraffin on each side.
4 Beware of the onion odour on a metal pan or knife blade. Rub over immediately with a slice of raw potato.

Mrs. N. L. asks:
"Please tell me how small rugs may be prevented from curling up along the ends."
Answer:
Dampen the rugs and weight down for two days. Then shellac the backs.

Mrs. J. S. asks:
"What do you add to whipping cream to make it whip up easily?"
Answer:
Two or three drops of lemon juice or the white of an egg will help.

Mrs. M. J. J. asks:
"Is the frying-pan too hot or not hot enough when sausages shrivel up?"
Answer:
It may be the kind of sausage meat or the pan may be too hot. Boil sausages for a few minutes before starting to fry them.

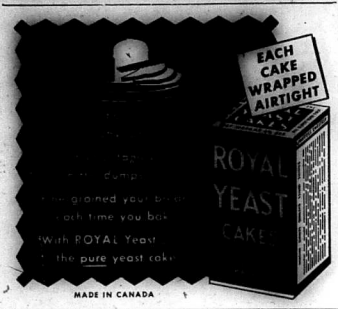
CANADIAN MERCURY SERVES WAR NEEDS

Vanderhoof, B.C. — Canada now produces mercury in sufficient quantity to provide for all needs of the Dominion and a surplus for Great Britain. Discovery of mercury deposits in the Pinchi Lake area, north of this point on the Canadian National Railways, added largely to the supplies of this important metal which has important war uses, particularly in electrical instruments and apparatus, and in the manufacture of drugs and chemicals.



MADE IN CANADA

In the Peace and Safety of Your Home

THINK ABOUT THESE HARD FACTS:

Singapore captured ... Australia bombed ... The United Nations hard-pressed everywhere in the Pacific ... the issue still in doubt in Libya ... powerful units of the Nazi Fleet safe again in German ports ... Canada menaced on both coasts.

Yes, swift and terrible events have shown us the dire necessity of providing our fighting forces with more weapons, stronger weapons — and, above all, better weapons.

Remember, too, that Canada's fighting forces have still to meet the stern test of big land battles. To win — they must attack. To attack and win — they must have overpowering weapons.

On every far-flung battle-front our fighting men must be supported to the total extent of Canada's resources. Guns, tanks, planes, ships, munitions, must flow from our factories in a never-ending stream to supply Britain and our Allies.

We ask for the co-operation of the reporters, so that we may continue to be of service. — Editor.

SILLSVILLE W. A.

Mrs. D. W. Young was hostess to the Sillsville Woman's Auxiliary, on February 24th. There were twelve in attendance. The meeting opened by singing a hymn, followed by repeating the 19th Psalm. The minutes of the last meeting were read and the roll was called. The evening was spent in quilting and one quilt was nearly completed.

Moved by Mrs. Perry Young and seconded by Mrs. Wes. Young, we pay for repairing the furnace in the church. It was moved and seconded that Mrs. Red Sharpe get wool for us to knit those turtle neck tucklins. Our W. A. has decided to buy two Victory Bonds of $25 each.

The meeting closed with a hymn, Grace was said and lunch was served by the hostess and Mrs. Harold Young. Lunch dues, $2.35.

EBERNEZER W. A.

Mrs. William Whiteman opened her home for the February meeting of the Ebenezer Woman's Association. The meeting opened with a hymn, followed with prayer. The scripture reading was read by Mrs. J. Whiteman. The roll call was answered by a good attendance, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer gave a very satisfactory report. A letter of thanks was read from Rev. J. T. Caswell for the box of fruit, etc., he received when ill. As there are a number of quilts on hand to be quilted, the ladies are doing one at each meeting, also a quilting is held each week, when two quilts are done.

The W. A. is very sorry to lose Mrs. Tamblyn from their midst. Various bills were handed in and paid by the treasurer. A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Whiteman for her home. Refreshments were served and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

TAMWORTH W. I.

The February meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Tuesday night, at the home of Mrs. Oliver Clark. There were ten members and three visitors present. Mrs. Smith Gilmore presided and the meeting opened with all singing "The Maple Leaf Forever," and the "International Anthem." The roll was called and answered with current events on National Conditions, which brought forth several items of interest. The motto, "In time of war prepare for peace," was very ably given by Mrs. Smith Gilmore, and was followed with two very pleasing duets by Dougal Ryan and Joy Donavan. A paper on the Churchill Family, was prepared by Mrs. J. C. Wallace and due to her unavoidable absence, was given by Mrs. W. H. Truscott. This paper was very instructive and interesting.

The president, Mrs. Clarence Milligan, then took charge of the remainder of the meeting and reported having visited sick people of the village, some of whom are in the hospital. The minutes and business were then looked after, and correspondence was read. The bills that were presented were ordered paid.

The second portion of the book, "Forty Years Agrowing," was read by Mrs. T. Scanlin. A contest on Canada, was conducted by Mrs. W. H. Truscott. It was decided that cake be omitted from the lunch at the regular meetings for the duration of the war, or until the sugar restrictions are lifted.

The National Anthem closed the meeting and lunch was served by the hostess and her committee.

Smith and Mr. Smith, at Halleford, by Rev. Joseph E. Aldsfote, minister. SHORTER SHIRTS

But 1,000 Old Ones a Week Are Being "Rebuilt" Into New

Millions of yards of cloth may be saved for Britain's war purposes by a new idea for repairing old shirts. Instead of putting a patch over the worn or frayed part, which, apart from the difficulty of matching, would use up valuable material, the whole shirt is taken to pieces and rebuilt as new, except that it may be an inch or two shorter. Not an inch of extra material is used, and the retail charges range from 1s.9d. for a new neckband to 4s. for a new front.

A Czech and an Austrian, both anti-Nazis, have made this useful contribution to Britain's war effort. They started work a few months ago in a single room back-street workshop with only two sewing machines. Laundries, men's wear shops and drapers were quick to see the value of the idea and in seven weeks the partners had 12 machines turning out 1,000 rebuilt shirts a week, so saving the country 3,500 yards of material right away. Now they have moved to larger premises, and the authorities, realising how much shipping space and labour can be saved by renovating old shirts instead of making new ones, have allowed the concern to purchase 12 more machines.

The inventor of the system is a Czech shirt manufacturer who introduced to Britain a process of shirt-making which increased the rate of production six-fold. He joined forces with an Austrian who has been making shirts in Britain for some years past.

The partners estimate that if every man in Britain had two shirts repaired instead of buying [illegible] would save 145,000,000 [illegible] of

W. S. Wilson of Napanee led the sales for the County and Mr. Wilfred McCabe of North Fredericksburgh, led the sales for the County apart from Napanee.

C. H. Knight of Napanee, received the laurels for the largest number of sales in the County and D. W. Young of South Fredericksburgh led the number of sales for the rural districts.

Special acclaim should go to Percival Wells, who obtained over eighty subscriptions in some district around Denbigh.

PROFESSOR VLASTOS OUTLINES NEEDS FOR NEW ORDER

Addresses Men's Clubs Trinity and Grace Ch's on Vital Matter

Professor Gregory Vlastos, head of the Department of Philosophy at Queen's University, Kingston, gave an address last Monday evening, at a joint supper meeting in Grace United Church of the Men's Clubs of Grace and Trinity United Churches, on "The New Order." Prof. Vlastos said that he had not come to offer any ready print for a new order, but to express some of his own opinions and to give some facts which might lead his audience to do some thinking on the matter. "The spirit of Democracy and the fate of Democracy," Prof. Vlastos said, "depends on the willingness of people to take time to think. Nothing," he added, "is more exciting than thought."

Prof. Vlastos was introduced by his fellow-countryman, Mr. John Diamant, of the N. C. V. I. staff, and Rev. C. D. McLellan expressed the thanks of the audience to the speaker. Mr. Alex. MacGregor, president of Grace Church Men's Club presided for the opening part of the meeting and Russell Hunter, president of the Trinity Club, was in charge of the programme. Rev. G. M. Chidley moved a vote of thanks to the Women's Association of the church which supplied the supper. Previous to Prof. Vlastos' address, numbers were played by Albert Case on the accordion.

PROF. VLASTOS' ADDRESS

Professor Vlastos commenced his address by asking two questions: "Why are we asking what will the new order be like and what is wrong with the old order?", and "What may we expect of the New Order?" One of the differences between the last Great War and this, Professor Vlastos said, is that in this war people on both sides are insisting on something more than victory. Victory, he said, is a tough proposition and in the moment looks rather distant. Victory is certainly not enough to expect from the present struggle. In the last war the average person was convinced war was a necessary evil, but now most people consider it a calamity, a waste. We must fight, nevertheless, with the best we have, but we must make sure that something better will emerge than we have had in recent years.

VOTE — YES !

The Dominion Government has set April 27th as the date for taking a vote on the question as to whether or not the voters are willing to release the Government from its pre-election pledge not to conscript men for overseas service. There has been a hot and bitter debate over the necessity of such a vote. Under the pressure of the war situation there were those who believed the Government would be justified in taking matters in its own hands, disregarding its pre-election pledge and, without consulting the people, instituting some sort of compulsory selective service. The Prime Minister is above all, a great constitutionalist. Not only so, he is careful of precedents and of his obligations to his people. He has refused to be budged in his determination to hold a plebiscite; and the recent by-elections were taken by the Government, to mean that this policy had the endorsation of the people.

The debate is over, the plebiscite is to be held; the date is announced. The question, as framed, if answered in the affirmative will not make it obligatory on the Government to put selective service into effect. An affirmative answer will not mean conscription. But it will free the hands of the Government. It will be taken to mean that the people, under the changed conditions brought about by the trend of war events, will not hold the Government to its pre-election pledge against conscription. The Government will then be in a position to meet the need for men, in any way it deems advisable.

No matter what we may have thought with respect to the wisdom of holding a plebiscite, now that the matter is settled and the date set, people should forget their differences, and vote to give the Government power to meet the demand for manpower, as that demand increases.

V

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

The Victory Loan has been very greatly over-subscribed. Approximately one out of every eight people in Canada bought bonds, in larger or smaller amounts. This is a very large percentage of the population. The result of the appeal means two or three things. It means in the first place, that the people have the money to invest. There has never been much doubt on that score. There is plenty of money in the country, and the war prosperity has increased the capacity of the people to buy bonds. Then, too, the restrictions which have been placed on the purchase of luxuries, means that that much money, which under ordinary circumstances would be spent in other ways, has been deposited in the banks and is available for investment.

But the success of the Loan means more than that. It means that the people of Canada are willing to back up the war effort with their money. It is no small achievement for a nation of eleven and a half million people to subscribe to such an extent for government bonds, especially in view of the recent loans and the continuous purchase of war savings certificates. The country has the money and is willing to let the government have it in order that the war may be waged with efficiency and with all the necessary equipment.

There are no questions being asked with respect to economy The people are well aware that in the spending of such vast sums there will be no room for extravagances; plenty of rumors are afloat as to these. But the loyalty of the people restrains them making open protest, or doing or saying anything which will embarrass the Government or interfere with the war effort. But it is not out of order to suggest that this money, like all money loaned to the Government, or secured by them by taxation, comes from the people and is a trust to be spent and administered with the same care ,the same economy and foresight as a person would exercise in the spending of his own personal funds. This, the public has a right to expect.

THE REFRAIN

The tragic saga of the Pacific area has a refrain which has been repeated at Hong Kong, Singapore, Rangoon, Philippines, Java and New Guinea: "the Japanese had supremacy of the air." There, in that line, lies the secret of the Japanese amazing successes and of the failure of the Democracies. "The Japanese had supremacy of the air"

Long before the war broke out Germany claimed that air supremacy would win. Germany set out to secure that supremacy, and succeeded. For years the major effort of the German plants was the production of aeroplanes, so that when war finally came the supremacy of the air enabled Germany to overrun all Europe in an incredibly short time— and to meet her match in Russia, because Russia foresaw in what direction the future of warfare led, and set out to accept the challenge with which Germany had faced her.

Japan was an apt pupil. Japan learned her lesson well, both from Germany and from Russia, but principally from the former, and for years has been busy building up her air force so that when the time came she would be able to dominate over the Democracies in the Pacific. How well she learned her lesson and how well she applied it, has been abundantly demonstrated since December Seventh

The end is not yet. There will, in all probability be further gains by Japan, and for the same reason. The United States will, one day, be able to outdo Japan in the production of planes—but that takes time. Before they can be made, plans have to be prepared, buildings converted or erected, machines made, and a whole new industry set up. The automobile industry in the United States, undoubtedly the most effective, efficient and productive, reached its present state of perfection only after thirty or forty years of experiment. But the aeroplane industry, which will have to be quite as large as the automobile industry, must be organized and operating within a year or two, if it is to be of greatest use in preventing a world-wide disaster. This, looked at from any angle, is a colossal task. But the American Republic is not backing away from it. What is being produced is, of course a military secret. But we must not be impatient; once the production lines get functioning to capacity, there will be quite a different story to tell.

The problem, however, is one of necessary haste. Before those planes are in service, much may happen. Much is already happening. "The Japanese had supremacy of the air." Are we to fear that refrain from other areas — all will depend on what has been done to provide Australia with the necessary aeroplanes. The attack on New Guinea brings the Japanese uncomfortably close to Australia.

V

CO-ORDINATING EFFORTS

One characteristic of the democratic way is that voluntary organizations may function, and do function, pretty much as they like. The result so often is that there is overlapping and frequently the public has to pay for two or three groups where one might quite well do the job.

The Government seems to have sensed that and has provided that from now on there will be no appeal for funds for voluntary organizations like the Y. M. C. A., the Salvation Army, the Knights of Columbus, and the Legion. These will be financed by the Government. But they will not carry on such work off duty, as they have been accustomed to do. Instead the Government is co-ordinating the effort of all the voluntary organizations in a place where soldiers are stationed, so that there will be no competition, nor overlapping, and that there will be an equal distribution of services rendered.

This is another evidence of the way in which this war is teaching the necessity of co-operation and centralized control. Under ordinary conditions it would take years, if it were possible at all, to effect such a plan. But the war is making centralization, in a lot of things, essential.

The Y. M. C. A., the Legion and the other agencies which have been accustomed to render service for soldiers off duty, will now confine their efforts to the Active Forces, and will be financed by the Government. The only appeal for funds which the Government will sanction, is that by the Red Cross. This organization will be permitted to appeal for funds to enable it to carry on its humanitarian work.

All of this is a move long since overdue. The result will be that there will be well done, and there will be no overlapping and no competitive appeals for funds. This is as it should be.

IN ONE WEEK
72,000 Bombed Homes Were Repaired by British Builders

Millions of pounds have already been spent in repairing bomb damage done in Britain. In a single week the British building industry made 12,000 home habitable again and local councils have been carrying out "first-aid" repairs now report that tens of thousands of houses have been restored.

Through the War Damage Act British householders are entitled to repairs of every description should their homes be damaged by enemy action. Compensation is payable to those who have lost articles of essential furniture, clothing, and domestic utensils. Many thousands of claims have been dealt with.

Householders whose homes have been damaged beyond economical repair are to receive cash to help them to get new homes after the war.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor of
The Napanee Beaver.

Dear Sir.—By the minutes of the last meeting of the Napanee Council we learn it has become necessary for our local branch of the Red Cross to look for new quarters, and the question is where can rooms for them be found in town that will be suitable for their requirements, centrally located, accessible to vehicles for the convenience of our rural members in removing materials and returning manufactured articles.

It is needless for the writer to remind our readers of the necessity of maintaining the local branch of the Red Cross at its present high efficiency where it has been brought through the efforts of its capable President, Miss Lenora Herrington, R.N., M.M., and her band of willing and untiring officers.

We must give them, not only every assistance by our actions, but prevent any annoyance, such as keeping them in suspense as to where they are to be located. I quote: "Give them the tools and they will do the job." Unquote.

Other than the quarters the Red Cross are now occupying, I know of no place in Napanee so well situated and adapted for their purpose as the Town Hall auditorium. There is sufficient floor space, central heated, caretaker's services, etc. The hall is only used occasionally, and then not for war services, remaining idle most of the time. There is no logical reason why the hall could not be handed over to the Red Cross for war work for the duration, and with little or no hardship to anyone.

Saying the most, the auditorium is only a luxury and a convenience. No one would be any the worse if the municipality was without its use as a public hall until the end of the war.

There are municipalities in Ontario that never have had a public hall or auditorium in connection with their municipal buildings, and have done without one; therefore, I am sure you will agree, Napanee will not suffer for the lack of one during the war.

Owing to the present terrible crisis everything should be sacrificed in order to make way for war work, and certainly the Red Cross is responsible for essential war work.

Thanking you, I remain,

Yours very sincerely,

A. S. HUGHSON.

KING'S PIGEONS
-ee Are Among 750,000 Mobilized By R. A. F. From British Breeders

Pigeons from the King's loft at Sandringham, his Norfolk home, are among the 750,000 now made available by British pigeon breeders for service with the Royal Air Force.

King George is one of 15,000 owners who are members of the National Pigeon Service a voluntary body set up under the control of the Air Ministry. Directorate of the Air Ministry to provide carrier pigeons for the Royal Air Force for taking messages, especially in an emergency.

Each member of the service supplies a number of birds daily to the nearest R. A. F. station and undertakes to look out for the return of his birds. When a bird flies back to its loft it alights on a specially arranged trap which sets an electric bell ringing, and the bell continues to ring until the owner retrieves the pigeon. Any message it may be carrying is reported immediately by telephone to the C. O. of the station.

Pigeons can be released from aircraft while actually in flight, and 1,000 birds weekly are already engaged on service with general reconnaissance 'planes. The R.A.F. has also a number of pigeon lofts of its own, and these are in charge of N. C. O.'s and airmen, all expert pigeon fanciers.

The King has accepted the badge worn by members of the Service and he has asked that a fortnightly report on the activities or his own birds should be submitted to him.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 15TH, 1942

"THE MIGHTY WORKS OF JESUS"
LESSON TEXT: 8: 22-24.

Here are two events in the life of Jesus which are known as miracles. We may, as well admit on the start that we do not know what happened. We know, however, that many things which a few years ago would have been considered miracles are today commonplace events. On Sunday last the writer of these lines, like many another, listened to Madam Chiang Kai Chek, speaking from Chungking in China. A few years ago, to have suggested that such a speech given in China, could have been heard in Canada, without the aid of wires, would have been to have talked in terms of the impossible. The cure of diabetes now assured through the use of insulin, would have seemed a miracle a few years ago. The cure of pneumonia, within a few days, by the use of a new drug would, up until a few years ago, have seemed miraculous. Indeed, the effect of the new sulphanilamide treatment for blood infection of all sorts, still amazes and mystifies the amateur. That twenty tons of metal should hurtle through the air at three and four hundred miles an hour, is something which twenty years ago would have seemed incredulous. But it goes. Many of the things we accept would have been considered miraculous even within our own life time. God governs the world by laws, and it is as men understand these, take advantage of them ,that they are able to do the seemingly impossible. Now, whatever Jesus was able to do must have been done within the framework of the divine laws. How He controlled them or took advantage of them, we will never know. But that does not matter. Our faith does not depend on that. The faith in Jesus is not based on his powers of healing alone. It is based more than anything else on the divine quality of His life, and the eternal character of His teaching.

The important thing for us in this twentieth century, with its uncertainty its unrest, its storms and its volcanic eruptions, is that in the midst of even the worst upheavals, Christ gives real calm and peace. We can understand the consternation, the nervousness, the fear of the little group on storm-tossed Galilee. We can see, too, how the spirit of the Master, calm, confident, sure, would still the fears, the anxieties of the occupants of the little boat. "Why are you afraid?" Jesus asks. "Why are we afraid, Why should anyone be afraid? The laws of God are immutable and the peace of the soul comes from confidence in their silent but sure and certain operation. Disobedience to them brings destruction. Faith in Christ, who can make those laws serve the purposes of the Spirit, brings peace and confidence amid the worst of all possible storms. The mighty works did not consist in the waves being [illegible] but in the fear being removed [illegible] is able to remove the fear [illegible] timid and fearful [illegible] day.

The other miracle work [illegible] with that strange mania called [illegible] sessed of demons. It, as [illegible] there was no medical [illegible] know it, any malady or [illegible] kind was attributed to the [illegible] tions of evil spirits. The [illegible] of demons is probably the [illegible] tion given for those who were [illegible] ally unbalanced. Jesus met [illegible] insane people. There was no [illegible] hospital in those days, [illegible] people were cast out of the [illegible] and forced to get along as [illegible] canny knight, which insane [illegible] often have, they recognized [illegible] One who was more than [illegible] So Jesus was appealed to by [illegible] This He gave and the [illegible] healed. How the [illegible] of [illegible] into the picture is hard to [illegible] less they were stampeded by [illegible] some excitement, perhaps [illegible] noise, which the insane [illegible] as they cried out. Whatever [illegible] been the reason, the fact [illegible] be that at the time the [illegible] healed the asylums [illegible] and plunging in, were [illegible]

The community had done [illegible] about the insane men, and [illegible] them out, but when their [illegible] lost, there was a great upr[illegible] representatives of the town [illegible] and asked Jesus to leave [illegible] That is often the case [illegible] sonality is of less concern [illegible] People are given much less [illegible] often, than things, possessions [illegible] considered. No effort [illegible] made to help these poor [illegible] Jesus came along. He, [illegible] took pity on them and [illegible] His healing ministry [illegible] behalf. Now the community [illegible] underprivileged, handicapped [illegible] were cast out to fend for [illegible] But when their property [illegible] ed, when their hogs were [illegible] was another matter. [illegible] lodged against Jesus and [illegible] urged to leave.

Now, that still happens. [illegible] religion of Jesus interferes [illegible] perty, possessions, men lose [illegible] test. What has religion [illegible] with unjust working conditions [illegible] poverty, with economic exploitation? Let the preachers stick to [illegible] —how often is that cry raised [illegible] those representatives of [illegible] have more concern for human [illegible] than they have for boys [illegible] still operates to heal broken [illegible] by, and to place even [illegible] people ahead of property [illegible] stock.

BRITISH NURSES SERVE ON LAND AND SEA

As America's war program gets more than under way many American women are answering the question, "What can I do to help?", by taking up nursing, or first aid, or Red Cross work.

Many British women answered that question in the same way, and have done magnificent work.

Service nurses and Voluntary Aid Detachment members have accompanied the army on active service from Hong Kong to Iceland. Some have been in naval actions. Some have escaped from sinking ships, or have been transferred from ship to ship in mid-ocean to nurse sick and wounded seamen. Their work has carried them from the tropics to the arctic and sub-arctic areas.

Full-time nurses in the civil nursing services under the Health Ministry now number 12,000; 88,000 are in voluntary and municipal (state) hospitals for civilian casualties; 20,000 are in first aid posts; 14,000 are district school nurses, health visitors and nurses in air raid shelters, in casualty and evacuation trains and in wartime nurseries for children under five; while 90,000 are on part time duty in first aid posts.

The Civil Nursing Reserve, wearers of the grey-blue topcoat with its red-edged collar, number 25,000, with an additional 20,000 who work part-time. Girls from eighteen to twenty-five are eligible and after two weeks' training they become auxiliaries with one year's work guaranteed. They are paid $220 annually. The next rank, assistant nurse, gets $280, while state registered nurses get $420.

Industrial Growth

Question: Is India's industrial development hampered by London business interests, fearing competition?

Answer: Since 1921 India has enjoyed fiscal autonomy, and has used protective tariffs to develop her own industries, sometimes to the detriment of the British industry, e.g. the Lancashire cotton mills.

Question: Were any steps taken to encourage Indian industries?

Answer: (a) The policy of the Indian Stories Department has been to ensure as far as possible the purchase of supplies manufactured in India of Indian materials for the use of government departments. Its activities have exerted a powerful stimulus on Indian industries.

(b) An Industrial Research Bureau was established by the Government of India in 1933, and was expanded in 1940 into the Board of Scientific and Industrial Research, under Sir S. S. Bhatnagar. Many new industries have been developed in India as a result of the Bureau's researches.

ERINSVILLE

Erinsville, March 6 — It would seem as if spring is here, judging from the very mild weather and from the rapidity with which the snow is disappearing. Many have been and heard the crow, which usually heralds spring.

The canvass for the Second Victory Loan is drawing to a close and the quota for this district has been oversubscribed. Almost everyone has given what they could, fully realizing the great necessity in this grave crisis. Mr. M. J. Hopkins, the canvasser, has worked hard and untiringly under none too good condition of bad roads.

Mrs. T. W. Harpell and Mrs. B. McRae, both of Toronto, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hopkins.

News has just come in of the success of one of our village girls, who has secured first prize in the County Essay Contest, entitled. "Why I Should Buy a Victory Bond." The lucky prize winner is Miss Ann McGrath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tim McGrath, and a former pupil of St. Patrick's Separate School here and now of Tamworth Continuation School. The prize is a $10.00 war savings certificate. The success of Miss McGrath reflects much credit on these two schools.

DORLAND

Dorland, March 7. — The March bomb soon developed into a roaring lion, and blocked the roads once more. The heavy wet snow was very hard to move and, owing to the breakdown of the snow plow, it was late in the week before all roads were cleared. It is hoped that the storm today does not fill them again. The rain on Thursday left a lot of bare ground, although the banks are still high on the sides. Altogether it makes hard going for those hauling logs to H. John's, where Eade's portable saw mill is to be set up.

Travel on the bay has ceased on account of slush on the ice. Many are looking for an early breakup of the ice.

The regular meeting of the Red Cross on Tuesday had to be postponed until Thursday, owing to the weather and road conditions.

Miss L. Carr entertained the W. M. S. on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Pollard and family moved to Sandhurst this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rombough and son also left for their new home near Kingston.

Owing to the sugar shortage interest has revived in maple syrup, but it is difficult to secure equipment, and a number think the run will be light as the sap is already up in the trees.

In view of the fact that the supply of stable manure for market gardening is becoming less year by year, it is not only feasible but very desirable for market gardeners to make composts from their vegetable and other waste materials in order to provide organic matter much needed for the soil.

FLINTON

Flinton, March 7. — The many friends of Miss Verna Sedore were shocked to learn of her death in the Kingston General Hospital. We extend our deepest sympathy to the sorrowing mother and family. She was 18 years of age. Born and brought up in Flinton, she attended Public and High School here, and in September, with her good standing, she was permitted to teach school, but in November she went to Kingston to consult an eye specialist, not thinking there was much wrong, and was advised to go into the hospital, where the doctors discovered Bright's disease in chronic stage. Everything in medical aid and loving hands was done, but in spite of it all she passed to her reward on February 27th. Besides the sorrowing mother, are three brothers and two sisters, Joe and Ray, of Flinton; Jack, of Kingston; Mrs. Archie McLuckie, of Flinton, and Mrs. Fred Lessard, of Kingston. The funeral service was held in the United Church on Sunday, Ervin D. Pife officiating. Many floral tributes were placed on the casket by friends and relatives. In the passing of Verna Flinton has lost a very promising young woman. She was a member in good standing of the United Church. The pall bearers were Clayton Lessard, Douglas Bouchard, Arnold York, Angus Bayle, Earl Pringle, and Leonard Marisette. Friends were in attendance from Tamworth, Toledo, Picton, Stirling, and Northbrook. The flower bearers were Katherine and Louise Campbell, of Napanee, and Ina and Mildred Bolh, of Northbrook.

Our present fleet of over 300 naval vessels of all types is twenty times its pre-war strength. PERSONALITY PLUS

The person with an attractive appearance and pleasing manner undoubtedly creates a favourable impression, but appearance and manner do not write the letters and keep records accurately — there must be the "Plus".

In other words, an office worker must possess definite skills as well as an agreeable personality. It is our duty to give to large numbers of young people this training which will enable them to sell their services as secretaries, stenographers, bookkeepers, civil servants, and clerks.

Prof. Vlastos

their people a new order, Professor Vlastos said and continued by asking: "Why has the old order failed in Germany, the one country which is more than all others responsible for the war." "Why," he asked, "happened in Germany to make the people victims of National Socialism." The answer, he said, in answering the question, are not inherently aggressive, blood-thirsty or unskilled. One basic fact towers above all others to explain the rise of Hitler — and that is unemployment. Up to 1928 there was relative prosperity in Germany. But in 1928 depression came and with it unemployment. By 1931 there were four and one-half millions unemployed in Germany. In 1933 there were six millions unemployed. In 1928 the vote for the Nazi Party was 800,000, in 1931 six millions and in 1933, 13,600,000.

But not only unemployment can be given as the reason for Hitler's rise. There are three basic needs for happiness and contentment—a sense of security, a sense of dignity and a sense of community. Without these there is difficult to maintain life. For some years the German people were living without these three needs. Hitler won because he addressed his propaganda to these needs. He gave promises of relief, promises which were easily lies, we know. He promised work; he promised a return of individual dignity and that he would make the people part of the greatest community in the world. He converted all kinds of people—people from all ranks. In 1932 eighty per cent. of the graduates of Berlin High Schools were Nazis. Teachers were Nazis. The army was an uncertain quantity and the church, to a large extent, was Nazi. Hitler went to communities which were broken down and mobilized the support of the citizens by his promises of better things.

The old order failed in Germany because of the economic situation and also because there was not a sufficient conviction of the value of democracy in high places. When Hitler came into power he received support not only from within Germany, but also from outside. Even some of the industrialists of the Skoda munition plants in Czechoslovakia gave him support. Some also in France and Britain, in high places, who did not have faith in democracy lent him their support.

Another cause of the failure of the Old Order was the breakdown of international solidarity. When the Chinese were fighting for the first four years of the war with Japan the great nations of the world were helping Japan by supplying necessary raw materials. Eighty per-cent. of Japan's needs in raw materials came from the United States, the British Empire and the Dutch East Indies. The old order failed also in international front because of a lack of international solidarity just as the national front failed because of lack of national solidarity.

The future, Prof. Vlastos said, has to be different. It is a life and death necessity that we should try to build a world with more solidarity. There is a greater sense of responsibility for other people. Every person must have an opportunity to make a fitting contribution to society. There must be more of such opportunities provided and it must be remembered that every man has something divine in him, some dignity. Every man is worth and the capacity within himself to make a useful contribution to his community.

"How can these ideals be put into effect?" Prof. Vlastos asked. He said an answer to his question lies in every class in the country must have the opportunity for higher education providing that rare capability, enthusiasm and intelligence to warrant it. The time must come when health is looked upon as a public utility and a doctor's services are available to the community at large. The time must come when industry realizes it has a responsibility to the whole community, when plants should not be operated satisfactorily by the owners, may be operated by the State, for public interest.

Prof. Vlastos expressed the belief that these objectives will come much nearer to realization in the next ten years. People who are now suffering are not going forth easily to old conditions, Prof. Vlastos said he put great faith in the Christian Church, in which every man's brotherhood is not taking place. The Church is beginning to see that it is not concerned only with souls, but is seeing and accepting its responsibility toward the common man, the man in the street who is fed. We must all, he said, stand with the distressed people of the world in a Christian fraternal relationship, if the new order is to be brought about.

POTATOES UNDER PRICE CEILING

February 2nd to 7th Announced As Upward Limit Period By War Board

Ottawa, March 9, (C.P.) — The price ceiling on potatoes has been re-established, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced, this week.

Fresh fruits and vegetables in general were removed from the price ceiling list December 11. Since then potato prices have risen substantially and the board said, recently there has been some evidence of speculative buying with resulting higher prices to consumers.

"Consequently, action has been taken to stabilize potato prices at a level not higher than the highest prices prevailing during the week ending February 7th, 1942, the board said.

In effect, the present order establishes the period February 2nd to 7th as the ceiling period for potato prices, in substitution for the basic period September 15th to October 11th defined in the original price-ceiling order.

The prices board at the same time said hay and straw have been exempted from the price ceiling.

In December wholesale ceiling prices were fixed for baled hay at three central markets, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. Sales elsewhere were exempt.

Purchases and sales of hay and straw between farmers have also been exempted under the order, covering transactions in farm products between producers.

The new order of the board extends the exemption to all uses of these commodities. It is effective from March 4th.

BRITISH COMMONWEALTH'S WAR CASUALTIES

It has been announced officially that up to December 31, 1941, the casualties suffered by the land forces of the British Commonwealth of Nations were in the following proportions:

United Kingdom ..	71.3 per cent.
Dominions	18.2 per cent.
Colonial	5.0 per cent.
India	5.5 per cent.

The percentages of losses suffered by men from the United Kingdom (England, Scotland and Northern Ireland) is actually somewhat higher than indicated above, since one-third of every Indian division customarily consists of United Kingdom troops.

Figures are not yet available for air and sea casualties but the United Kingdom, however, is in these two spheres of operation are higher still.

The requirements of military security do not permit publication of detailed and up-to-date breakdowns of the casualties.

In the principal campaigns of this war the proportions of troops engaged have been as follows: Western Front (France and Belgium), seventy times as many United Kingdom troops as from the whole of the rest of the Empire.

In the first and second Libyan campaigns, and in Eritrea, where most of the East African fighting took place, more than half the forces involved were from the United Kingdom.

In Greece, forces of the United Kingdom were thirty-three per cent. of the total; Australia, forty per cent; New Zealand, twenty-nine per cent; Palestine and Cyprus, eight per cent.

In Crete, troops of the United Kingdom were forty-six per cent; New Zealand, twenty-six per cent; Palestine and Cyprus, five per cent.

No details are yet available for Malaya. But owing to its geographical position and to shipping problems, the proportion of United Kingdom troops has been lower than in the other campaigns — probably about one quarter of the total force.

When the Far Eastern phase of the war opened last December, the United Kingdom had nearly four times as many men serving abroad as all four Dominions — Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa — had serving outside their respective territories.

NADA'S NAVY ING SHARE

Ottawa (C.P.) — Canadian destroyers and smaller vessels are proving excellent for convoy and are carrying a fair share of the burden," the Navy Minister, Hon. Angus Macdonald, said today.

"The Canadian Navy is sharing 39 per cent of the burden of convoying ships across the North Atlantic today," he said.

Mr. Macdonald said the United States, British and Canadian navies "are each bearing about the same proportion of escort work."

"No campaign is needed to keep the Royal Canadian Navy supplied with recruits," the said. "We have some 30,000 men with the Navy, and that number will be increased steadily just as fast as the ships are made available to add to our ever-growing service on both the east and west coasts."

Mr. Macdonald said there is a long waiting list of applicantas for admission to the Navy.

More Workers Pay Income Tax

Nearly five million British workers who have never paid taxes before are now having income tax payments deducted from their weekly wage.

Asingle man or woman earning $38 a week find only $26 in the pay envelope. The other $12 has been taken for income tax. A married man with two children pays $6 out of a weekly salary of $38.

But $38 is exceptionally high pay for an English worker. Taking industry generally the average wage last summer ran around $20 a week. A man in this $20 a week bracket, if single, now finds himself $4 short each week; if he is married, $2.50 will be deducted for the tax. He will draw his full $20 salary without any income tax deduction only if he is married and has two children of school age.

The sliding tax scale in Britain does not tax those who earn less than $9 a week. All married men, including the children who earn less than $12 a week are not taxed.

National Government ?

WRITTEN BY
W. J. HOLDEN, DESERONTO, ONT.

We have heard a lot about National Government during the last byelection and ever since the last general election. It has been a live topic. This has been especially so with the adherents of the defeated Party.

If forming a National Government means a repetition of what was known as the war-time National Government during the last war, then, may the All Wise Providence prevent a recurrence of that episode in the earnest prayer of every thinking Canadian. It left a political black spot on Canadian history.

After the formation of that, so-called National Government, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was leader of the Opposition. He proved, in a few words, that a "National, or Union Government, was an impossibility under our system.

Speaking from his place in Parliament, he said: "I see no difference in our form or system of government to that we have always had. You on the right-hand side of the Speaker, have taken in a few who have different views than the rest of you, but this happens in every government. You are the government because you hold the majority of the seats in Parliament and we on the left-hand of the Speaker side are in opposition, because we hold the minority of the seats, but, should we gain enough votes from you to give us a vote you, then we would be the government and you would be in opposition and a new election would have to be held. All the difference I see in the matter to me is made is the difference in the name you have given your party."

If the two leading Parties were to join forces and elect a Leader and he was to select his cabinet from the ranks of both Parties, and the C. C. F. and other groups were to elect a goodly number, we would have just the same kind of government as we have now. The only difference there would be the confusion, and confusion in the caucus as each party would want to win and force their views on the government.

This is the kind of government they have in British Columbia now. Judging from the newspaper reports, the doings in the Cabinet are far from harmonious. It is the fear that the C. C. F. will oust both parties that makes them stick together.

Canada is the only country on the American Continent, either north or south, that has the Party System of Government. All the other countries have a National, or Council form of government, in which a representative can vote on any question as his conscience dictates and in the best interests of those he represents, irrespective of any party.

In Canada, he must vote as his party dictates or if he and a sufficient number of his party vote to defeat a government bill, he defeats the government which he helped in and all the members of Parliament, and a new election must be held, in which he might not be returned. Knowing this, he will not vote against the Government.

If a member of the Cabinet dares to oppose the Premier, he is simply dismissed from office and a new member is chosen, who will vote as he is told to.

Canadian people,. it is time we changed over our system, if we expect to build a great Canada, after this titanic struggle is over.

RUSSIAN AID APPEAL GOES "OVER THE TOP"

The Canadian Red Cross Society's appeal for $500 000 to provide medical aid for Soviet Russia had reached $587,632, at a recent date.

The returns to February 5th by provinces are as follows: Ontario, $323 390; Quebec, $155,000; Manitoba, $30,600; Saskatchewan, $18,367; New Brunswick, $25,000; Nova Scotia, $2-367; Prince Edward Island, $572; British Columbia, $36,000; Alberta, $24,309 and National Office, $6,210.

The Red Cross has already cabled $100,000 worth of aid to be shipped to London where it was turned over to Mme. Maisky, president of the Soviet Red Cross, it is announced by the Society.

In addition to the appeal the Canadian Red Cross has also made a contribution to Russia from its own resources. This included $100,000 for drugs and medicines and $165,000 in hospital and field comforts.

"Although the appeal has been completed the Red Cross will be pleased to accept any further contributions toward the purchase of medical aid for Russia," Dr. Fred W. Routley, national commissioner said. "If any group or individual wishes particularly to assist this cause they should mark their cheques 'For Russian Medical Aid,' and it will be added to the fund."

THREE BILLIONS WILL BE SOUGHT

Ottawa — Two war appropriation bills are shortly to be introduced in the House of Commons to pay the civil expense the coming fiscal year. One of the factors in the expenditure will be the selective service plan, providing for under utilization of manpower and woman power. It will be a big item in projected expenses.

Of the two bills, one will provide for the billion dollars of aid to Britain. The other will provide for the whole cost of the war effort at home and abroad. Between the two, the total will be close to three billion dollars. It is possible that one act may suffice for both purposes.

Long discussion is anticipated, not over the gift to Britain but on the war estimates. The debate will open up the whole question of war policy, its nature and sufficiency, basis of organization and the question of home defence in relation to external defence.

LOAN IS FACTOR

The War Appropriations bill will be in intimately with the budget and, to both of them, the current Victory Loan will be related. The greater the amount raised by loan, particularly on the assumption that it will be oversubscribed, the lesser the amount needed to be raised by the budget.

The selective service plan under the Mobilization Act, which is to be announced shortly, will be carried out in stages according to intimations, last week, it will be largely a labor proposition at the start. It is the conscription of the skilled trades; technical men being assisted to war industry or transferred, if necessary.

There will be a central board of direction and local officials to advise people where to go. The unemployment service machinery will be utilized. The central board will be representative of the armed forces war industry and agriculture effort.

NO GENERAL CALL

There will be no general proclamation calling up everybody at once, it was learned. The program will be carried out by the stage to stage process. The War Service Department will continue to deal with calling up men for the armed forces in Canada.

The plan, having no relation to the plebiscite, will be for the wider enforcement of the Mobilization Act, as it is for service in Canada in various lines. The plebiscite has to do with the removal of the existing limitations on service outside of Canada; that is, if the vote is approving and the Government makes up its mind to vary the existing policy.

Care of Winter Litters

(Experimental Farms News)

The successful and profitable rearing of winter litters of pigs is not difficult if provision is made for the special accommodation, care and feeds required under winter conditions. With the request from Britain for not less than 660,000,000 lbs. of bacon by October, 1942, hog production is of special importance says W. W. Cram, Dominion Experimental Farm, Indian Head, Sask.

A heated pen or building for farrowing and for the comfort of sow and litter afterwards are necessary during cold weather. The farrowing pen should be prepared well in advance by cleaning, with a coat of lime and lye for the destruction of worm eggs and disease germs. Daily removal of manure and frequent use of slaked lime will help control parasites and disease.

Properly constructed guard rails and the use of a limited amount of chaff or cut straw for bedding will reduce the mortality of litters from trampling and crushing.

Moving the sow into her new quarters a week before the due date will allow her time to become accustomed to the new surroundings. Daily exercise, preferably outdoors two or three times daily for short periods, weather permitting, is necessary up to time of pigging and should be provided soon as possible after for both sow and litter.

A suitable meal ration for the brood sow consists of two or three parts by oat chop to one of shorts or ground wheat by weight balanced with skim milk or buttermilk at least 1 pound for pound of meal fed — or by the addition of five per cent of protein mineral concentrate or tankage to the meal mixture. One per cent. of common salt in the meal should be fed to pigs of all ages.

When the pigs are born, the eight canine or needle teeth, four on each jaw, should be removed by cutting them off as close to the gums as possible with small, side - cutting pliers.

Early action during winter conditions or close confinement is necessary to prevent anaemia in nursing litters. Symptoms of anaemia are listlessness, unthriftiness, paleness and wrinkling of the skin, jerky or clumpy breathing and sometimes diarrhoea. Affected pigs frequently die very suddenly while still in good condition and the biggest and best pigs may die first. Iron cannot be provided through the sow's milk so it is necessary to supply it directly to the young pigs, preferably by individual iron mixtures. Powdered iron sulphate in six grain doses should be given to the young pigs when five days old and the dose repeated in ten days (approximately six grains of powdered iron sulphate can be piled loosely on a dime.) After this the young pigs can obtain all the iron sulphate they require from fresh sods or soil sprinkled with iron sulphate and supplied two or three times weekly.

A creep in which a meal mixture of equal parts of oat middings or sifted oat chop, and shorts and sweet skim milk are supplied in small separate troughs, will encourage the litter to start feeding when from two to three weeks of age. Coarse bully feeds cause digestive disorders and often death to nursing and weanling pigs so their use should be avoided.

Green feed such as alfalfa or sweet clover leaves or alfalfa leaf meal is a valuable and necessary addition to the ration of both dam and litter for its laxative cooling effect and for the valuable proteins, minerals and especially vitamins it contains.

During the first three or four weeks after weaning the young pigs should receive the same meal mixture as supplied in the creep with two and one-half to three pounds of skim milk or buttermilk per pound of meal fed, in three or four regular feeds daily. In the absence of skim-milk or buttermilk eight to ten per cent. of protein mineral concentrate or tankage should be included in the meal mixture. The amount to allow per feed may be regulated by the amount cleaned up in fifteen or twenty minutes.

VICTORY LOAN IS OVERSUBSCRIBED!

...ER THE TOP

We can't win the war without money, but money can't win the war!

Not unless we put it to work! Not unless we turn dollars into planes and tanks and guns and munitions — by the skill of our hands and the sweat of our brow.

So, now let's put the dollars to work! Let's make the enemy feel the sting of good Canadian coin, backed by Canadian zeal and Canadian workmanship.

So far, the war hasn't brought us hardship or even discomfort. We haven't seen our cities blasted, our homes wrecked, our children machine-gunned in the streets.

Surely we can give our work, our concentrated effort, without thought of personal gain or profit. So long as we get three meals a day and a place to sleep, we are in luxury, compared to the condition of thousands in wartorn lands.

Let's make every day's work an all-out drive towards victory. Let's work to win — to stave off bitter defeat.

BRAVE MEN SHALL NOT DIE BECAUSE I FALTERED

This message is issued by the Department of Munitions and Supply for Canada

DOUBLE-BREAST SUITS ARE OUT

NEW OTTAWA ORDERS WILL ALSO FAVOR SHORTER SKIRTS

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Double-breasted suit coats and Norfolk jackets will be things of the past when strict clothing regulations, designed to conserve Canadian wool and textile supplies, come into effect, it was learned last week.

Men's vests, sometimes colorful and sometimes ornate in the past, will be conservative. The back strap on vests, the inside breast pocket and special pencil pocket will disappear. There will be no double-breasted vests.

The ornamental buttons on suit coat sleeves will be limited to no more than one, in contrast to the three or four which appear at present. Limiting the material which may be used in a suit coat, its length may be no more than 29½ inches in size 38, with comparable lengths for other size.

The inside trouser leg many not be longer than 35 inches unless the wearer is so tall that this would give him a peculiar appearance. In such case special concession would probably be made.

DRAFT READY

Announcement of the regulations, which will come from the War Time Prices and Trade Board, are expected shortly. It was understood they had been prepared in draft form and would follow to a considerable extent the strict rulings made effective in the United States.

The length of women's skirts, governed by fashion edicts in the past, may have to conform to Prices Board rulings. The prospect was that to conserve supplies of materials short skirts would be encouraged, with the lengths allowed for different sizes set forth specifically.

"Nobody is to be made ridiculous by these rulings and no radical changes are planned," one source said. "The objective is to cut down the quantity of materials required and it is believed this can be done by cutting out some of the unnecessary frills."

It was expected the rulings on conservative clothing would be effective in respect to fall styles.

V

TOURIST TRADE

Probably at no time in the history of Canada has the necessity of building up a satisfactory balance from tourist traffic been greater than at the present. Despite the realization that the net value of tourist expenditures has been greatly overestimated in the past, tourist traffic still remains one of the largest and most-readily accessible means of additional foreign exchange. In 1940 the net result of such expenditures was a balance in Canada's favour officially estimated at $85 million; for the 1941 season it is probable that this balance will be in excess of $100 million.

A number of adverse influences combined during the 1940 season to reduce tourist expenditures in Canada from $164 million in the previous year to $128 million. Expenditures by Canadian tourists in other countries during 1940 were placed at $43 million, leaving a balance in Canada's favour of $85 million, as compared with the revised estimate for 1939 of $78 million. Circulation of malicious rumours regarding the safety and comfort of travel in wartime Canada, the tightening of United States passport regulations and what seems to have been a fairly general feeling of uncertainty regarding exchange control and customs entry procedure, were the main responsible for turning away many prospective visitors from our borders. Fortunately there was no delay in recognizing the dangers of this situation. A vigorous campaign was immediately launched designed to show that domestic conditions in Canada remained relatively normal despite the war.

Results in 1941 were more gratifying. Entries of automobiles for tourist purposes were comparatively heavy and totalled 3,658,945, an increase of nearly eight per cent over the corresponding figure for 1940, but still considerably below the 1939 total of 4,212,816 entries. Gains over 1940 were recorded in entries into the provinces of Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia, but rather heavy decreases were reported for the Maritime Provinces and Manitoba. Comparison of total entries, however, does not reveal the full extent of improvement. Entries for an extended period, naturally the most important category for the production of revenue, showed the largest relative gain and it, therefore, may be accepted that total results were higher in 1941 than in the previous year. With present expenditures by Canadian residents on pleasure travel outside of the Dominion reduced to a minimum, a very satisfactory credit balance from tourist travel in 1941 seems assured.

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S NEEDLEWOMAN
Helps to Make Thousands of Flags For Britain's Navy

Among the women called in to make flags for Britain's expanding Royal Navy is one who until recently worked for a Court dressmaker appointed to Queen Elizabeth. Instead of silks and velvets she now works with bunting, the material from which all the Admiralty's flags are made. It is a special kind of wool, coming mostly from Australia.

Between 3,500 and 4,000 flags — three times the peace-time output — are made every week at the factory where this needlewoman works, and that total is but a tenth of the whole output of British flagmakers. Most of the work to-day is for Government departments, principally the Admiralty, while Merchant ships also require their complement of flags.

Each of the King's ships has to carry the 81 flags of the Admiralty code as well as ensigns, and all but the smallest have such special flags as the Royal Standard flown when King George comes aboard.

Although in peace time much of this factory's work is in making industrial flags of all sizes, from tiny silk ones for toys to large flags for advertising, they have always a steady demand for ship's flags from the Admiralty and the Merchant Service.

Some flags have the colors printed on, but ships' flags have to stand up to a great deal of wear and tear, so they are built up from separate pieces of coloured bunting, chosen because it combines strength with good "flying" qualities, the open weave allowing much of the wind to pass through it.

HOW DID SWISS SEE LONDON BLITZ?
Britain's Secret Film Service Reaches 59 Countries a Week

Swiss movie fans have just seen "London Can Take It," the picture of Londoners defying the Nazi raiders. How it got to Switzerland will be told when the war is over.

Britain has developed a highly efficient secret film service. To-day, by bombing plane, air mail and surface craft she is sending out a regular stream of films at the rate of 300 a week. In one week 309 reels went off to 59 territories ranging from Arabia and Australia to Russia and the Netherlands East Indies.

Many were ordinary comedies like Ginger Rogers in "Tom, Dick and Harry" or the technicolor "Down Argentine Way" with Carmen Miranda. These are given special facilities by Britain's Ministry of Information out of sympathy for audiences who might otherwise be compelled in certain territories to look at something sent by Dr. Goebbels.

Commentary or dialogue is added in Arabic, French, Portuguese, Spanish, Turkish, Persian and Dutch, and for dialogue the Films Division of the Ministry of Information have adopted the special technique of the British film industry for fitting the sounds in these different languages to the lip movements of British or American players."

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss — lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills — for half a century the favorite remedy. 183

The total number of children housed in Britain's National Camp Schools is approximately 6,250. The camps are in rural areas, sometimes on sites of twenty to forty acres, and generally include four classrooms, two other practical rooms, a hall with stage, dining room, kitchen, staff rooms, storeroom and candy shop. As a rule, each camp has five dormitories, a hospital block with accommodations for about seven patients and a nurse, and a lavatory block with baths, showers, etc.

OLD SALTS
Would Shiver Their Timbers Over Ship's Biscuits of To-day

British seamen compelled to take to their boats no longer have to dig their teeth into the ironclad ship's biscuits of tradition. Instead they are given dainty little wheat-meal biscuits, about two inches square, and a quarter of an inch thick.

Packed in rust - proof watertight containers, 48 to a pound tin, there is enough in each boat to supply every person with fourteen ounces. Together with permission in concentrated mixture of beef extract), mailed milk tablets and chocolate, the shipwrecked sailor is now provided with "minimum" rations which are not only more varied and tasty than the old biscuits and condensed milk but have a much higher food value. What is even more important, the space saved can be used for carrying water, the ration of which is now three times as great as it was.

These biscuits are made not only by Britain's table biscuit makers, but by people who normally turn out thousands of tons of dog biscuits and who have swung over to war production in this way in three wars, the South African, the 1914-1918 and the present forces; enough to go three times round the globe.

To-day, they and the other concerns in Great Britain are making biscuits for the fighting forces as well as for the Merchant Navy. The Army likes its biscuits in oblongs, rather than squares, and packed in grease-proof paper, the Royal Navy, on the other hand, prefers its own cabin biscuit.

FIRST SHIPMENT OF DRIED EGGS FOR OVERSEAS

Ottawa, D.C. — Five egg-drying plants now are in operation and the first shipment of the dried product has moved to the seaboard for shipment to the United Kingdom, Agricultural Defence Department officials said, last week.

Under a contract for 30,000,000 dozen eggs required by the United Kingdom, winter division requirements have been met and the spring contract price now is effective.

The winter price was 32.1175 cents a dozen for Grade A at seaboard to which was added a three-cent bonus provided by the Dominion.

The spring price for Grade A eggs is 28.795 cents a dozen and here again the Federal bonus will be added.

Surplus eggs which cannot be handled immediately by existing drying plants are being placed in storage for later drying, as all future shipments to the United Kingdom will be in dried form.

"The trend of production is still definitely upward," said an Agricultural Department statement. "In some areas, particularly in British Columbia, hatcheries are taking increased quantities of eggs, but this had not had any material effect on marketings."

Ask Farmers Produce More Maple Syrup

Large Output Will Further Reduce Sugar Consumption — U. S. Buyers Offering Higher Prices

Ontario farmers having facilities for the production of maple syrup are being asked by the Ontario Department of Agriculture to tap every available tree this year. While weather conditions have much to do with the annual output of maple syrup, agricultural authorities are requesting the largest possible gallonage of maple syrup in 1942, pointing out that a large output will have the effect of further reducing sugar consumption. Thus the Ontario maple tree takes its place in agricultural war production with bacon, cheese, eggs and other dairy products.

Many firms in search for sugar substitutes have turned to maple syrup, and already United States buyers for maple syrup have appeared in Ontario offering three cents a pound more for syrup than the 1941 price. The prevailing wholesale price for maple syrup at Toronto last year was $2.40 per gallon (weight 13 lbs two ounces) according to figures compiled in the Dominion Government.

Farmers who have not already overhauled their maple syrup equipment are advised to do so at once. A little extra impetus on the part of maple tree tappers would bring almost double syrup crop, authorities believe. They point out that there is no ceiling price on maple syrup at the present time and that with competitive buying from the United States, farmers will be well repaid for their efforts in maple-bushes this Spring.

If every one of Canada's new army of wage-earners saves more, the country's effort toward winning the war will be greatly helped.

Every dollar you save means more labour and materials freed for making the war goods so urgently needed.

These savings, lent to the country in the purchase of War Savings Certificates or Victory Loan Bonds—lent to intensify Canada's war effort—will bring victory—and peace—nearer.

ST. PATRICK'S

Hello Homemakers! Now that winter is on the wane, it's time for stocktaking. We see piles of knitted garments — made while carrying on our regular housework — and are encouraged. Then, too, there are the hours spent on other war time activities — and yet, it may be possible for us to accomplish more, such as finishing an extra quilt, baking for a community meeting, packing more parcels, or attending a Red Cross meeting.

—V—

But, don't forget that hard work brings the need for relaxation. So why not plan a few simple parties—and make sure that the children also have a fair share of happy times. When nerves are tense, a new tested recipe will amuse the homemaker—as well as please the family — and interesting meals will cheer us all. But, whatever we are planning, economy should always be our 'watchword'.

—V—

Soon, it will be "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning" and one of the following suggestions may be a surprise and a real treat.

—V—

RECIPES

St. Patrick's Pipe Salad:
One tablespoon gelatine
One-quarter cup cold water
Two cups meat stock
One-quarter teapoon dry mustard
Half-teaspoon salt
Half-teaspoon minced onion
Half-teaspoon Worcester sauce
One and half cups diced cold veal or chicken
One cup diced pimiento
One tablespoon vinegar
Half teaspoon celery salt

Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Dissolve in hot meat stock, add seasonings, chill. When partially set, add remaining ingredients. Pour into individual moulds. Chill. Turn out, garnish with deviled eggs or cooked egg white cut in the shape of a pipe. Serves 8.

Erin's Pistachio Sherbet:
One cup hot milk
Half-tablespoon flour
Half-cup sugar
One-quarter teaspoon salt
Two eggs yolks, beaten
One-quarter teaspoon Love's pistachio flavouring
One-third cup bleached raisins
Green colouring

Combine dry ingredients and egg yolks, add part of the hot milk to egg mixture, return to hot milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add flavouring, cream and raisins. Colour a pale green. Pour into trays of electric refrigerator and freeze two to four hours. Stir at the end of the first twenty minutes. Serves 6.

Paddy's Shamrocks:
One-quarter cup butter
One-quarter cup baking fat
One egg yolk, beaten
Half-teaspoon vanilla
One tablespoon orange rind
One tablespoon lemon rind
One tablespoon lemon juice
One cup sifted pastry flour
Half-teaspoon salt
One egg white, beaten
Half-cup bleached raisins soaked in green colouring

Cream butter and fat add sugar gradually, cream well together. Add egg yolk, and flavourings, then sifted dry ingredients. Combine thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonfuls into egg white, shape into shamrock. Place on buttered baking sheet. Trim with green raisin for a stem. Bake in electric oven at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Yield, 3 dozen.

Emerald's Biscuits:
Two cups pastry flour
Half-teaspoon salt
One-third cup citron peel, sliced
Four teaspoons baking powder
Three tablespoons baking fat
Half-cup milk, approximately

Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in fat, stir in peel. Add milk gradually to form a soft dough. On a slightly floured board pat to required thickness. Make a shamrock from cardboard. Cut out biscuits, tracing the cardboard. Bake on lightly floured sheet for 12 to 15 minutes in an electric oven at 425 deg.

—V—

TAKE A TIP:

1 Do not store your salt shakers in your china cabinet or buffet.
2 Remove the metal top of any salt shaker and stuff the opening with a roll of paper before putting away.
3 Wash every piece of silver that you use to set your table even if it has not been used and appears clean.
4 Always wash dishes in the following order: Glassware, silverware, china, and pots and pans. Rinse in clear hot water. Keep one clean towel for glassware and good silver.

Reasons for the above tips: —

A bachelor's recipe for Chili Con Carne.

Answer:
Chili Con Carne — One pound of ground beef, two tablespoons baking fat, two cups of tomato juice, one (17-oz.) tin kidney beans; one teaspoon chili powder, one tablespoon of flour; one teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Method: Put fat in frying pan. When hot add beef and stir until browned on all sides. Add tomato juice and kidney beans. Cover and cook on electric element turned low for fifteen minutes. Add chili powder and flour moistened to a smooth paste with a small amount of water. Add salt and pepper. Cover and continue cooking on electric element turned Low or Simmer, for about forty minutes. Long, slow cooking develops flavour so do not hurry the product. Serve with toast or crackers.

Mrs. B. B. suggests:
1 Using milk instead of cream on cereals.
2 Using fruits on cereals, such as apple-sauce, canned quinces, strawberries, peaches, raspberries, stewed dried apricots or peaches or prunes or apples.

Answer:
When you use cream for coffee or tea, the use of milk with the cereal is a fine suggestion. Fruits served on cereals is a splendid variation and eliminates topping cereal with sugar.

Miss C. D. asks:
"How can we prevent starched materials from sticking to the shoe of the electric iron-? Is it because it is cold?"

Answer:
No. A new iron frequentaly sticks when it is too hot. Add a teaspoonful of borax for every two quarts of starch water.

WHEN DESSERTS JOIN IN WEARIN' O' THE GREEN

Even if you've never seen the land of the Blarney Stone let alone kissing it, you'll want to mark the occasion of good St. Patrick, if you've the tiniest drop of Irish blood in you. Even if you haven't the 17th of March gives you an occasion to prepare something special and appropriate to the day.

Whether you're giving a party or just surprising the family this Chuesdate 'Mint Roll will be greeted with loud praise. It's rich chocolate flavor with delicate peppermint frosting is bound to make a hit with everyone.

CHOCOLATE MINT ROLL

Six tablespoons finely sifted cake flour
Half-teaspoon double-acting baking powder
One-quarter teaspoon salt
Three-quarters cup sifted sugar
FFour egg whites, stiffly beaten
Four egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon-colored
One teaspoon vanilla
Two squares unsweetened chocolate, melted

Sift flour once, measure, add baking power and salt, and sift together three times. Fold sugar gradually into egg whites. Fold in egg yolks and vanilla. Fold in flour gradually. Then beat in chocolate gently but thoroughly. Turn into 15x10-inch pan which has been greased, lined with paper to within half-inch of edge, and again greased. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) 13 minutes, or until done. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake and turn out on cloth covered with powdered sugar; remove paper. Spread half of Mint Frosting over cake and roll as for jelly roll. Wrap in cloth and cool about five minutes. Cover with remaining frosting. When frosting is set, cover with bittersweet coating, made by melting two additional squares of chocolate with two teaspoons butter.

MINT FROSTING

Two egg whites, unbeaten
One and half cups sugar
One-quarter teaspoon peppermint extract
Five tablespoons water
One and half teaspoons light corn syrup
green colouring

Combine egg whites, sugar, water, and corn syrup in top of double boiler beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater, and cook seven minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Add green colouring to hot frosting to give a delicate tint. Remove from boiling water; add peppermint extract and beat until thick enough to spread. Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two 9-inch layers, or top and sides of 8x8x2 inch cake (generously).

GIVE! GIVE! GIVE!

Our boys have donned the Khaki suit
The Air Force and Navy blue —
Have you ever thought of their sacrifice

And what they give up for you?-
Their home, comforts, and all that is dear.
Work, pleasure and loved ones leave;
They walk away from paying jobs
For their country is really in need.
Keep the Hun from our door is what they plan to do
Our country free and our homes intact!
So we can sing "God Save the King"
And still wave the Union Jack.
Just what do we do to back our boys?
Do we knit and sew and pray?—
That's a slogan! But we can do lots more—
We can get right into the fray.
We can give our money until it hurts.
And then we won't begin
To do for our country what they have done—
For their lives with their money are tinged in.

An historical sketch of the development of Canada since its discovery and subsequent settlement given with many lively personal touches which reveal the wide sympathy and understanding of the author.

PIED PIPER — Shute
Never has Nevil Shute's ability as a story teller been more clearly demonstrated than in this novel. It is the story of John Howard, Noeil and their little band, but it is also the story of the indomitable spirit of those men and women the world over who are struggling through the barriers of oppression, risking danger and death, on the long, hard way toward freedom.

HOTEL SPLENDIDE —
Bemelmans
This easy-going extravaganza is brimful of anecdotes, adventures, love tales, murder tales, and droll tales.

THE SUN SHALL GREET THEM — Rane.
That miracle of spiritual and physical courage which won immortality for the little seaport of Dunkirk is the subject of this novel. School Meals Scheme

Approximately 300,000 children in Britain (including 50,000 in Scotland) receive meals at school, a large proportion of them free of charge. This represents an increase of 100 per cent. over a year ago.

It has been announced that the rate of grant by the Government for this purpose has been increased to a minimum of seventy per cent. and maximum of ninety-five per cent of the total cost, the local authorities supply the balance. Emergency feeding arrangements will be utilized to supplement these facilities. In this way it is hoped to increase the number of children receiving meals to 1,000,000 by next July.

Hay - Pasture Mixtures Outlined in Bulletin

May be Obtained from Agricultural Representatives or by Writing Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph

Experimental work with improved hay-pasture mixtures at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, show increased yields of hay of high feeding value, more and better aftermath and a longer period of production, says N. J. Thomas, Soil Specialist, O. A. C. Guelph.

Full details as to these improved hay-pasture mixtures is contained in a valuable bulletin, No. 406, entitled "Producing Hay of Higher Feeding Value." It may be obtained from your county agricultural representative, or by writing direct to the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Discussing results obtained from these improved hay-pasture mixtures, Mr. Thomas states that one farmer reports a 30 per cent. increase and another 25 per cent. increase in crop. One man declares he would sow orchard grass in the mixture even if it cost $1 per pound, while another says that his pasture was so thick and strong at the end of six years that he hesitated to break it up. It had been top dressed with manure.

Undoubtedly the inclusion of such grasses as orchard, brome, or meadow fescue in the mixture does thicken the bottom, maintain productivity over a longer period and provide more abundant aftermath. The best way to control weeds in a pasture, advises Mr. Thomas, is to maintain a strong productive sward by good soil and grazing management and use of the right seed mixture.

Brome and orchard grasses are quite drought resistant and when mixed with alfalfa and timothy usually produce a strong aftermath growth. These grasses are long lived and form good pasture even after the alfalfa has disappeared.

On soils unsuitable to alfalfa owing to poor drainage, meadow fescue is a suitable grass to add to the mixture.

I. O. D. E. WILL NOT ACCEPT GOVT. SUBSIDY

"The National Executive Committee deems it important to make clear at this time that the I.O.D.E. is essentially a patriotic organization in which the members solemnly assume certain duties and obligations. The order has consistently favored close co-ordination of all voluntary war effort, especially with regard to finance. For this reason, when the Canadian War Services Fund was established last year the members of the order across Canada loyally canvassed for the fund, thereby fully aware that only in the four Western Provinces would the order benefit. The I.O.D.E. in its conception of war service is Empire-minded, and is convinced that Canada is best served by serving the Empire. Therefore it would not wish to limit its war work to the Dominion, unless only, as prescribed by the National War Services Board. The order is determined to carry on its peace time programme of education, Canadianization and welfare work.

The I.O.D.E. has recently decided to present a "Hurricane Fighter" to Australia. Other special work to which the I.O.D.E. is already pledged is: Bomber and aircraft, clothing and blankets for bombed civilians in Great Britain, field comforts for Canadian, British and Allied fighting forces, the navy, merchant marine, arms and air force, recreational reading for Canadian armed forces in Canada and overseas; clothing and blankets for Polish refugees in Russia, knitting, clothing, comforts and books for British prisoners of war, supplementary financial assistance to British War Guests stranded in Canada; hospitality for armed forces, and education for democracy.

The order will, through its own efforts and sacrifices, assume and discharge such other obligations as each and loyally may indicate. The I.O.D.E. has always relied upon their own funds, for their own work and in addition have contributed generously to the support of other organizations. However, the time has come when the order must conserve its resources for the support of its own commitments, and all chapters across Canada have been so advised.

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire appeals to Canadians for the greater war effort, for unity of purpose and for an unswerving loyalty in those ideals upon which the British Empire is founded.

DEFENSIVE ATTITUDE WILL NOT WIN WAR LIONS SPEAKER SAYS

Rev. G. M. Chidley Delivers Excellent Address at Lions Club Ladies Night

At the annual Ladies' Night of the Napanee Lions Club, held last Monday evening, March 9th, Rev. Mr. Chidley, Minister of Trinity United Church, member of the Club, delivered a short address on "Our Defensive Attitude in this War Effort," which gave everyone who heard it, much food for thought.

There were about eighty present for the dinner and programme which followed. Gerald Smith, the president of the Club, presided and announcements for the evening were made by Lion Harry Skitch and his committee. Following the introduction and welcoming of the guests, a special address of welcome was given by Russell Hunter to the wives and enlisted members of the club, who were present. Mrs. Gerald Smith, the wife of the president, was presented with a bouquet of roses by Sylvia Follis, on behalf of the club members, following a short address by John Diamant. During the evening a motion of thanks was passed and extended to Miss Mildred Richmond and W. F. Barrett for their work in preparing the weekly letters to the club members.

MR. CHIDLEY'S ADDRESS

Mr. Chidley in his address, said that recently the attitude of nations, hotels in the United Nations, had given the warning that it was possible, to lose the war. He said that this could greatly contribute to such a disaster is the fact that ever since the war started we have been on the defensive.

The speaker went on to say that he referred, not so much to the military side of the war, as to the mental and moral. It is true that from the outset the enemy has had the initiative. This has, no doubt, been inevitable, as we were largely unprepared, and military defence was all that could be expected, so far. As civilians, we do not know what has been possible as regards armament and equipment. But we have been on the defensive in our mental attitude and that is not an attitude that will lead to victory in this kind of war. Whatever we may think of Germans, Nazism and Japanese Samurism, we must admit that they are dynamic movements. The Axis peoples have been able to fire the minds of their people, especially the youth with enthusiasm for a positive programme. They are going forward to something that they believe is better than that which they have known. We believe that their ideals are perverted and vicious and that, if realized, they will mean slavery for the rest of the world. But they are not merely defending something — they have a positive attitude.

We have no desire to copy Axis methods or programs, but the merely defensive attitude will not defeat them. We speak of our aims in the struggle, as being the defence of democracy, the defence of freedom, etc. These things are worth defending, but defence is not enough. The kind of democracy that we have known is not good enough. No doubt, most of us here have been fairly well served by it; but we forget that millions of our fellow citizens were not too kindly treated by it. If Democracy is to be our aim, it must be a better Democracy than we have or have had. Not defence, but extension of Democracy and freedom, ought to be our objective, both for the victory and the peace to follow. Thus a defensive mental attitude will be changed to an aggressive one, and all our people, not just the comfortable classes, will feel that they have a stake in the war. Without some such dynamic, positive aim, we are in danger of remaining on the defensive with its recurring strategic retreats. We have been hearing much lately of our forces taking the offensive. Such a military offensive must be backed up by a mental and moral offensive on the part of all of us, if we are to mobilize all our resources for the victory and the peace.

CHANGING THE TUNE

Hitler has changed his tune a bit. The report of his address given on Sunday, is not in quite the same key as those we used to listen to a while ago. It is not quite so full of lings. A lusty and powerful song it is, but it is different. Indeed, it is so different that when the most recent speech is compared with some of his earlier ones, it might well be questioned whether it came fro mthe same person.

There is little of the flamboyant egotism about the Sunday speech; little about the superiority of the German race, little about the date when the Germans would be in London or Moscow, little of the derogatory remarks directed against the Russians. Of course, the Germans are not to blame woh what has happened in Russia! No! God is to blame, or to use Hitler's word—Fate,—though, strange to say, Hitler actually expresses the wish that God may be with his people. No, it was not the Germans' fault; it was the early winter. The Germans had not calculated on so early a winter. The German High Command had planned on a winter beginning on a certain date. Everything was to go according to schedule, then when winter came—according to the German plan, everything would be as they had mapped it. But winter came early, and that, according to Hitler's explanation, was one of the reasons why the armies of the Third Reich did not accomplish all they had set out to do. It is unfortunate, of course, for the German strategists that winter did not come as planned.

But then there are serious implications in this position which Hitler may not have seen. He is moved as he professes more by intuition than by logic, and this may be the reason he did not realize the implications of his explanation. Suppose Spring did not come as the German High Command had planned it. Such a contingency is a possibility, and if Spring comes too soon, then it may be that the German army will not be quite ready. Suppose they plan for Spring to come on May the first and it arrives on April the fifteenth, the whole German strategy will have to be recast. That is one of the difficulties of an iron clad plan, it is one of the implications too, of Hitler's explanation. But then, probably one scapegoat is as good as another and the weather can always be dragged in as an alibi, when all else fails.

But there was another factor which Hitler advanced as contributing to the winter setback. "Only to-day," he said, "do we realize the full extent of the preparation of our enemies." Well, that's something! It is an admission of the greatest significance. That Germany did not know how well Russia was prepared is evident to all, now. But it is quite an admission for Hitler to make. And, perhaps that, after all, is the main reason behind the German reverses. The High Command did not know how well the Russians were prepared, nor did they know how fanatically enthusiastic were the Russians over the Russian New Order. Russia had a new rider, was satisfied with it, enthusiastic over it. It was that, along with the proper preparation, which gave the Russian Army its strength, its courage and its will to win — that, along with some pretty clever strategists and military leaders.

Hitler says the campaign to anihilate the Russians will begin in the summer, not in the spring, as had been expected. Hitler is not taking any chances on the weather this time. He will wait until all possibility of an erratic or unpredictable spring has passed. At the same time it would be well not to be misled by the exposition of his plans. Since winter beat him to it by a few weeks last fall, he may try to get the jump on spring and bring on his campaign any day, now.

THE COST OF WAR

The figures which, from time to time, are released as to the cost of the war, are so astronomical that it is impossible for the human mind to grasp them. Our country has just raised almost a billion dollars, in order to help finance the country's war effort, this year. This is only a drop in the bucket compared to what Great Britain and the United States are spending. And yet, it is a pretty big drop, especially for a nation of a little over eleven million people. We who deal with fives and tens, have difficulty in imagining what a thousand is like, let alone a million or a billion. When it gets to figures of those dimensions the average man is staggered, bewildered, lost,— all he knows is that it is an awful lot of money.

But, no matter how unlearned in the science of mathematics we may be, there is no doubt that we can understand the cost of the war in terms of human suffering. To be sure, in this realm, too, the figures are almost beyond belief. The reports of millions having been killed on the Russian front since the German offensive began, taken merely as statistics, are staggering. But we all know what it means when even one person is taken from the family circle, and when broken family circles are multiplied thousands and thousands of times, the grief and the sorrow abroad in the world is tragic in its magnitude. Three of our friends have suffered the loss of their sons, in recent weeks, in air operations over Germany. Three homes have been plunged into sorrow Though this grief is overbalanced by the satisfaction which comes from sacrifice and service, the poignancy of parting is not easily suppressed.

Then, too, we know something of the cost of war when we estimate it in terms of men and women and little children who are the innocent bystanders. The picture which comes from Greece is a tragic one—Greece, the home of classical tragedy; the home of democracy; the place where the discussions of life and death and the purpose of suffering reached their climax. In Greece, the people are hungry, real hungry. We who have had to go without a meal have some times complained that we were hungry. Such, however, is not hutiger at all. In Greece, men and women and little children are hungry, are dying of hunger. Between 150,000 and 200,000 Greeks have already perished as a result of the Germa nand Italian occupation, and it is authoritatively estimated that half the population will die before the war ends.

In the face of this tragic situation, those who could help are powerless to do so. There is food and to spare on this continent; but the problem of getting food to the Greeks, at the moment, seems an insurmountable one. There is a lack of shipping facilities, and even if such facilities were available and food was shipped into Greece, the invaders would rapidly avail themselves of it. Indeed, to a very large degree, the present situation is due to the way in which the Germans have appropriated the food and transported it to Germany, to feed their own people.

This is the sort of war we can understand. It is scenes like this, of innocent people starving to death, others being persecuted and shot for reasons of lovalty to their own State, it is these scenes which bring home to us the price the world is being forced to pay for the present madness.

A FICKLE JADE

March is a fickle jade. For a while it looked at though we were on the way to an early spring. The sun was bright, the snow was melting, and the streets were gradually clearing; and then, just as we were all buoyed up, back comes a touch of winter. The snow comes, and the streets look, for all the world, like February. But the battle is a losing one, the sun will get higher and higher, the snow will be unequal to the conflict, and sooner than we know it the gardens will be the main topic of conversation.

Now that gasoline is going to be rationed and rubber is scarce, there will be less motoring, and if the scarcity of rubber is as real as it is believed it is, there will be a scarcity of golf balls. This will inevitably send many who seek to combine pleasure with their exercise, out into the gardens.

There will be a shortage of foodstuff and a shortage of farm labor. Those who want light exercise instead of golfing and motoring will undoubtedly wish to get it in the garden. Those associated with the Canadian Limited, is being established to produce synthetic rub, ber in Canada.

Senator Dandurand, Government leader in the Senate, and veteran Canadian Parliamentarian, died suddenly on Wednesday evening.

Late last week the Victory Loan total stood at $979,217,100. The final total will likely be announced in about four weeks.

Both road construction and repair and upkeep of all private and public roads in Canada, except those made of concrete, will have to undergo drastic curtailment this summer, the Minister of Supply and Munitions stated this week.

400 Japanese, the first of 2,500 who are to be removed from the West Coast areas, arrived at Vancouver, this week, to await removal to the interior.

Regulations barring the exit from Canada to the European war zone of women and children, have been extended to include the Pacific war zone.

Senator E. N. Rhodes, former Federal Minister of Finance in the Bennett Government, and a former Premier of Nova Scotia, died in Ottawa, this week.

MAKING HIMSELF HEARD

J. W. Noseworthy, who was recently elected in South York, is making himself heard. He made a very good impression in Ottawa, in his opening address. A careful reading of his addresses dissipate the idea of the big bogey man which was the way he was pictured in certain publications, during the election. We would not say that we would subscribe to all Mr. Noseworthy's sentiments. At the same time we must give credit where credit is due. Mr. Noseworthy has his feet on the ground. He knows the situation in Canada, from the point of view of the student and the worker. He has the feel of the common people, and seems to be able to express their ideals, their hopes and their longings.

In his most recent address, Mr Noseworthy speaking at Kirkland Lake, showed himself a true democrat. He reiterated his faith in the democratic processes, and urged his hearers to take advantage of them. "Our political system," he said, "provides us with all the machinery needed to build a better world. It provides us with certain freedoms restricted thought they be, that are fundamental in a world of free men and women. It is because our political system offers us the franchise, the secret ballot, the right to think and vote as we please, that we must cherish it, that we must support it, that we must fight for it. Take that away as the dictators would and we lose what should be one of our most cherished possessions. If we refuse to think for ourselves, to exercise our right to vote, to work for any cause in which we believe, the fault is our own and not that of our political system."

That is clear enough. It is saying in a simple and clear cut manner what is the very heart of our democratic political system. We have all the machinery at our hands for the creation of happiness, good will and economic justice. But because we have been lethargic, careless, complacent, we have all but lost the things we cherish most, and which others have, through the centuries, given their lives for.

Mr. Noseworthy does not stop at that. He says he knows that there are millions of people in the Democratic countries, who are dissatisfied with the conditions as they find them. He sees unemployment, and economic injustices. But Mr. Noseworthy argues that the power to correct this evil lies in the hands of the people themselves. They have the vote; they have the ballot. This is something we need to hear; it is something we need to repeat over and over again. Not only have the democracies the power to change their leadership, but the people have it in their own hands to establish economic justice if they will only exert themselves somewhat.

When we see what is happening in dictator ridden countries, it gives us pause. And yet, that life is ordered, it gives us pause. And yet, there has existed in our democracies a sort of economic dictatorship in which a few controlled the financial, social and economic structure of society. Most people rail against this system, and let it go that. We will never get the New Democratic Order for which we are at war, until every man and woman assumes a personal responsibility in the administration of affairs in his own town, his own township and his own county councils. It must begin there. Then the larger life of the country will take on a really democratic aspect, when having taken an intelligent part in the local affairs, each citizen accepts as a personal responsibility, work for the Province and the Dominion.

WOMEN IN BRITAIN

THEY HAVE PROVED THEY CAN DO THE JOB

BY WINIFRED CULLIS

Farmers' daughters and London debutantes, housewives and shopkeepers now work side by side as telephone engineers for Britain's General PostOffice, which runs Britain's telephone system.

Work for skilled engineers is increasing — telephone lines must be laid to gun posts, searchlight posts, observer posts and ambulance centres —and manpower to fill these vital jobs is decreasing. So Britain's women have taken over.

Originally the G. P. O. planned merely to have women engineers to replace unskilled workmen in jobs requiring simple technical knowledge and an ability to learn quickly. But the results were so satisfactory that many women are to receive further training to undertake the full duties of skilled workmen.

Twelve types of telephone engineering jobs are now open to women. They include the fittin gof new instruments, work in exchanges repairing Wayed circuits, meter reading work and repair depots dismantling and cleaning apparatus, tele-printers and stamp-affixing machines.

INTENSIVE TRAINING

Training is short and practical. For the first few days recruits are shown the actual work by skilled officers. This is followed by three to five weeks intensive training and an additional test period working with a skilled colleague. After this training one can work alone as a Grade Two, or unskilled engineer. Further training is necessary for a Grade One, or skilled job.

A woman engineer's day is from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., but for some of them it is longer than that.

A young London housewife, Lilian Wood, has combined the duties of home and family with her work. She has to don her blue serge overalls at 6:30 a.m. and take her five-year-old daughter to a neighbor's for the day, before she reports at the exchange. Her main difficulty is the problem of shopping. She can eat her lunch at the exchange mess room but the food she needs at home has to be bought in a couple of rushed hours on Saturday afternoon.

Former hobbies are being put to good use. A fine needle woman in an exclusive Bond Street lingerie shop liked "playing with nuts and bolts in her spare time." Now she's doing it as a war job.

Today, 2,350 British women are working as G. P. engineers and there will be 5,000 by January, 1943, because they have proved they can do the job.

Britain's 6,000 women doctors now replace men in hospital posts, other people health services and in private practice. Many have joined the medical branch of the Royal Air Force and the Naval and Military Services.

Working with them are eight women who were among those answering Britain's appeal in the autumn of 1941 for the assistance of American owners of flying schools in working in British hospitals under the auspices of the Ministry of Health.

One of their number is Dr. Sarah Bowditch, a graduate of Johns Hopkins Medical School, of Baltimore, Maryland. She reached England in October and now tends thirty to sixty civilian cases in a London hospital.

Britain's Royal Army Medical Corps now includes 115 women doctors enlisted through the Central Medical War Committee. They may arrive as lieutenants with the same rate of pay as men. This starts at $3.95 a day, with variable allowances and they are eligible for promotion to captain after a year's service. Twelve of them are already serving.

EXAMINE RECRUITS

A general medical officer's duties include sick parades and treatments, inspection of barracks and cook houses, supervision of physical training, control of infectious diseases and preparation of sick reports to commands.

Part of their work is examining the weekly average of 250 new recruits for the Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service. They may arrive at any hour of the day or night. In addition to the examination, each recruit must be inoculated and revaccinated. This frequently keeps medical officers attached to A. T. S. training camps on duty for twenty-four hours a day.

Other women in the medical officers' serve with the R. A. F. Volunteer Reserve, looking after R.A.F. and Women's Auxiliary Air Force personnel. Commissioned under the women's defense forces, they act with the relative ranks of flying officer, flight lieutenant and squadron leader.

There are already six acting squadron leaders.

At the headquarters for each command — Bomber, Fighter and Coastal — one woman medical officer controls the medical interest of the W. A.A.F.'s attached to the various units in the command, carrying out hygiene and sanitary inspection, and lecturing on general and personal hygiene. She is also available for consultation.

HOW R.A.F. ATTACKS ARE PLANNED

—V—

Before a long distance bombing raid is launched by the Royal Air Force, the strength of the enemy defenses is carefully calculated and plans are made to master them. There was a time when distance was an important factor, but that is not so today, except in particular, bad weather, since the four-engined bomber with which the R. A. F. is being increasingly reinforced has greatly extended the power of night attacks.

It is usual to divide the area of country into which a bombing force can penetrate into three zones. First comes the close-range zone, defined as the area into which a bomber can penetrate without being intercepted by fighters sent up the ground.

TWO RANGE ZONES EXPLAINED

The next two zones are the effective-range zone and long-range zone. Within both these zones the bomber must expect to meet the full force of the enemy's defenses, including interception by fighters coming up from the ground to meet the bomber. But, by definition, the effective-range zone is the area within which the bombing force can sustain its attack, while the long-range zone is the area within which only occasional raids can be made and bomb-aardment cannot be sustained.

The theory used to be that targets within close-range area could be defended only by the uneconomical system of standing fighter patrols, of course, by ground defenses. The bomber, it was believed, would not be detected in time for fighters to get up from the ground to intercept it, provided it bombed only targets near the enemy's frontier or coast.

The Battle of Britain showed conclusively — in daylight, at any rate —that there is no such safe clear-range for the Luftwaffe. After all, London is very near the coast and it was when they bombed London on the night of May 10th, that the Germans lost the greatest number of bombers brought down in a single night; thirty-one in all, twenty-nine of which were shot down by British night fighters.

VALUE OF CLOUD COVER

The German coast, or frontier, can hardly be considered within close-range for bombers based in Britain, though it is certainly possible for them to attack German ports than inland towns by day. The R. A. F. program, the bulletin emphasizes, the principles of [illegible] which are [illegible] success. Profitable [illegible] just as much upon the [illegible] which the bombers fly [illegible] and organized as it does upon use of sound practice. [illegible] Bomber Command, the bulletin may be obtained free by the Publicity and Extension Dominion Department.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 22ND, 1942

"JESUS THE MESSIAH FORETELLS

Lesson Text: Mark 8: 27-37

Jesus was quite concerned as to what men thought of Him. We have heard people say they don't care a fig for what public opinion is. There may be some conviction behind such a statement, but it is to be doubted whether anybody is quite immune to public opinion. It does matter what people think. No one can, without serious loss, snap his fingers at the opinion of his fellow citizens from point at which regard for public opinion becomes a menace. It is when such regard is placed first in order of consideration. While it is natural to be concerned about what others think of us, yet character goes the moment a person changes his conduct merely to conform to public opinion. What people think of us is not as great a deal, but if that is all that matters, then personality is robbed of its most valuable characteristic.

Jesus asked the disciples what they thought. They answered in general terms, but that did not satisfy the Master. He wanted a personal opinion. After having been with Him two years they ought to have some personal opinions, some convictions about His personality. Peter seems to have been the first to sense the unique life. It was he who, in his impetuous manner, blurted out: "Thou art the Christ." Peter had apparently the intuition which enabled him, in a flash of insight, to recognize in Christ the Messiah of Old Testament prophecy. Jesus charged the group that they should tell nobody of his Messiahship. It was not to do for the Romans to know anything about it. They might be impelled to take him prisoner before his time was come.

Then Jesus set out to describe, in some detail, the course that His life would have to take. There would be suffering, persecution, death and a resurrection. He knew full well that there was no way, save the way of the Cross. He knew that there was no escape from the wrath, folly, jealousy, the hostility of men, if His purposes were to be carried out.

Peter took Him to one side and rebuked Jesus for the way he had spoken. Peter could not think of the Master having to suffer and die for the Kingdom. It seemed preposterous to Peter that Jesus should have to go through all that. The way of the natural leader is not the way of the cross. But Jesus go that route. Will Jesus had faced that once before He met the test; He had faced it in the wilderness. Now it was unsuited for His purpose. As a matter of fact, Jesus was never unsuited for His purpose. He sternly tells Peter that he is becoming a stumbling block to the Devil. Satan was behind Me. Satan was behind Peter reprimanded Peter before the disciples. Jesus turned to the crowd and began to unfold the statement He had made to the disciples. He must take up His cross, death; the way to a crown is a Cross.

He who would save his life must lose it, and he who loses his life for my sake and the gospel's sake will find it. The crowned hope of perfect life is worth an age while name." That is the way Jesus put it. He crowned hope of perfect life, of sacrifice is worth a lifetime of selfish ease and comfort. Only those who give have real joy of life. Only those who know the thrill of enjoyment in the realization of purpose. The mother for her family, the teacher for his patients, the teacher for his pupils, the minister for his people, find the greatest joy in real meaning of life. "Lose only to gain." Only as one forgets self in service does one find himself. Jesus' own spiritual majority and spiritual unity of aim. One finds himself in a great cause; in the church for example. Myriads of Christians of purpose have given themselves in the work of the church, in the great missionary enterprise of the Church of Redemption and personal help.

We have ample evidence that Jesus' own remarkable life and that of other reasons have lost themselves in a great cause; fanatics of all times and lines have made for the sake, Paul called the early Christians fanatics. Well! There will be fanatics in the world of that kind. Christians who have given themselves with utter abandon to the redemptive work of the Kingdom of God. It was just that kind of fanaticism that the Russians have thrown themselves into their communism and which with such remarkable success characterized the early Christian did. The Church and Christianity will be in a bad way when it loses its fanatics. The cross, the stake, the rack — these held the early Christians true to their faith. Have we lost ourselves in a great cause, that we might enjoy the fruits of a Christian civilization?

FEATURING COTTAGE CHEESE

Stello Homemakers! Let's talk about Cottage Cheese for a few minutes. Do you know there is wonderful food value and real economy in this valuable milk product? It has an amount of protein about equal to that of the more expensive foods such as meat, fish and eggs.

Yes, cottage cheese has many possibilities, and here are some suggestions. Seasoned with salt and pepper, it may be used to replace the meat course, or topped with shimmering jelly, it's a dessert course. Or, combine it with fruits, vegetables, relishe, (chili sauce, horseradish, cole slaw), and with jams, jellies, spices, etc. Salads, too (they are a problem in winter, aren't they?) become extra attractive when served with chilled cottage cheese. For the children's school lunches, cottage cheese is nourishing and easily digested. Try it. As a spread between wafers, a filling for an omelet, or an addition to tomato jello, cottage cheese is really appetizing.

RECIPES

Cottage Cheese :
- Two quarts sour milk
- One teaspoon salt
- Pepper
- Cream.

Put the sour milk into a pan and set over hot water until it sets into curds and whey. Strain through a double cheesecloth over a bowl; put the curd into another bowl and mix well. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with cream. Chill in an electric refrigerator.

Cottage Cheese Pie :
- One cup cottage cheese
- Two-thirds cup sugar
- Two-thirds cup milk
- One tablespoon melted butter
- Salt
- One-quarter teaspoon vanilla
- Two egg yolks

Mix the ingredients in the order given. Bake in a one-crust pie shell in the usual way. Cool slightly, cover with meringue made of two egg-whites, two tablespoons sugar and brown in a slow oven (275 deg.)

Tomato Jello :
- One tablespoon gelatine
- One and half cups tomato juice
- Two tablespoons vinegar
- Two tablespoons sugar
- Three-quarters cup of shredded cabbage
- Three-quarters cup chopped celery
- One-quarter cup chopped sweet pickle.
- One cup cottage cheese
- Half-teaspoon salt
- Watercress

Soften the gelatine in one-quarter cup tomato juice. Bring the remaining tomato juice to a boil, add vinegar, sugar, salt and gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Cool and add the cabbage, celery and sweet pickle. Pour the mixture into a shallow pan and chill in electric refrigerator. When it begins to congeal, drop the cottage cheese at intervals so that there will be some in each portion. Chill again, cut in squares and serve on a bed of watercress.

Cottage Cheese Patties:
- One cup cottage cheese
- One cup bread crumbs
- Or Half-cup cooked rice and
- Half-cup bread crumbs
- One tablespoon chopped onion
- One-third teaspoon soda
- One-quarter cup peanut butter
- Half-teaspoon sage
- Half-teaspoon thyme
- One tablespoon milk
- One teaspoon salt
- One-quarter teaspoon pepper

Cook the onion in the fat (peanut butter). Dissolve the soda in the milk and mix with cheese. Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Form into small patties, sprinkle with cracker crumbs or cornmeal. Fry in a small amount of fat on electric element turned Low.

TAKE A TIP:

To Cut Down on Sugar :

1 Cook dried fruits, such as prunes, apricots apples, raisins, etc. without sugar.
2 One-half of the sugar allowance should be used for cooking.
3 Do not use sugar on fruit or in fruit juices.
4 Cut down the amount of sugar used on porridge in tea and coffee, etc. Use honey or corn syrup frequently.
5 Use sweetened chocolate for cooking, icings, etc.
6 Use sweetened condensed milk in making salad dressings, cookies, desserts, etc.
7 Use left-over cakes and breads for desserts, since there is already sweetening in these foods.
8 Use half maple syrup or molasses in baking.

QUESTION BOX

Mrs. T. B. asks:

"Why do well-cooked French Fried Potatoes become tough after being served?"

Answer :

If they are placed on a cold plate instead of a hot plate or bowl, they may become tough. Do not cover the serving bowl.

Miss D. G. asks:

Recipe Braised Chicken — Well-Cooker Method.

Braised Chicken — One 4 lb chicken; one-quarter cup lard; one cup milk; one-quarter cup of chopped onion; one quarter cup flour; one cup hot water, one cup chopped celery; two cups diced carrots.

Method: Clean chicken and cut in serving pieces. Dredge with flour and brown in the lard melted and heated until hot in the deep well-cooker. In order to quicken this process, place the cooker on one of the speed elements. Add water and salt. Turn well-cooker switch to Low and cook slowly until tender. Add milk and vegetables and cook until tender, another 20 minutes.

Mrs. M. H. C. asks:

"Is clear coffee apt to curdle any fruit dessert without sugar? Should we ad dsugar to coffee in this case?"

Answer :

No. The effect of the caffein or stimulant in coffee is not changed by sugar or cream. No disturbance will be caused by this combination.

WHEN BRITISH MILLIONS MOVED

Adapted from an article by J. J. MALLON, C.B., LL.D., M.A. ◆ Warden of Toynbee Hall and ◆ Member of Board Governors ◆ of The B. B. C.

The thought of evaluation — a vast exodus from their cities — disturbed the British people whenever they talked about it before the war. They imagined that the railway system would break under the strain; that children would be injured or lost; their families would be broken up.

They were impressed by the extent to which educational arrangements would be disorganized. For how, they asked, could schools be provided in villages and rural districts for the hordes of children whom evacuation would bring from the cities?

The gravest fear concerned the sufficiency and the suitability of billets. Could the safe areas really provide accommodation for the mothers and children who would rush away from the cities? If they were forced into households in the countryside, would not these households dislike the newcomers and be disliked themselves?

Evacuation has been full of difficulties, but they have been overcome to a large extent during the last two years. So, too, the great experiment of exceptional magnitude and complexity involving a heavy strain on temper, generosity, toleration and willingness to suffer discomfort, has achieved a triumph.

Note first that there were two evacuations. Some two millions of school children and their teachers, and younger children and their mothers, moved away at the outbreak of war and spent the winter in the country. But when summer came and the Nazis failed to raid the cities, the call or home was too strong to resist. Many of the evacuated population returned again, but not to stay.

At the end of that summer, when all the cities, and especially London, were assaulted by night and to some extent also by day, a second and vaster evacuation took place. Again many children and mothers, and expectant mothers, as well as thousands of the aged and the blind and crippled, were moved away from danger under Government authority. This official migration was supplemented by the outrush of large numbers of others who were able to arrange for themselves. In both these gigantic movements of population, there was no hitch of any kind. There was no railway breakdown. There was not one death or serious injury. No children were lost, no families separated.

A fear regarding possible injury to public health proved to be equally baseless. Cases of infectious diseases in the reception areas are, in fact, fewer than usual. How health seems to have gone up at the expense of education. The country schools, having to deal with a greatly augmented population, were compelled to adopt a "two shift" system under which, though the school children had less instruction, they had more open-air exercise.

Boys and girls, native and evacuee, were able to spend some hours every day in organized games and long country walks. An eminent doctor has recorded that "the evacuated children who remain in the reception areas have benefited immensely in health" and that many of those who returned home after only a short evacuation "still show the stimulating effects on growth and well-being."

Reports on the education of the evacuees were not so good. Many of the country schools have been overcrowded. Moreover, on the whole the country school in Great Britain is less well equipped than the school in the city or large town. The more serious educational trouble, however, was due to the upset caused by the return of large numbers of children to the cities from which they had been evacuated.

In these cities the schools had closed, for the intention was that they should not be used for educational purposes until after the end of the war. Many had been applied to other purposes — loaned to the fire fighting services or to some other war service—and could not quickly be recovered. The result was lamentable. There was a disastrous decline of school the school children ran wild and many got out of hand. "Who runs a school closes a prison." Certainly during the period in which schools were not available manners and morals deteriorated and juvenile delinquency increased.

This difficulty was being cleaned up when the second evacuation occurred. Now, because of the absence of raids, once more children have returned and are returning to the cities. But this time the schools that survived are functioning and are full. The educational aspect of evacuation is therefore one of initial loss which is now gradually being made good.

Town-Country Differences

The feature of evacuation about which the most serious doubts were entertained was whether the authorities could find sufficient and suitable accommodation in which the evacuated would be comfortable and they and their hosts mutually tolerant. It was difficult to be sanguine, for in Great Britain as elsewhere, there are many differences between town and country life.

To many, though not to all, this problem caused irritation and discomfort. It is more principally children who are billeted in small households. Most mothers with families are in larger houses which rooms are allotted, so as to preserve the unity of the family group.

Importance of Welfare

It is a happy solution. War has brought to Britons a sense of comradeship and equality. There is sympathy and a general desire to share with those who have suffered.

A word should be said about welfare: the provision of clubs for mothers; nursery centres for the children of working mothers; communal meals and laundries; weekend hostels where husbands can stay when they visit their wives; as well as many devices for the entertainment and sustenance of the evacuees. welfare, too, has become the occasion for a social intermixture as important as itself. In running the new clubs and institutions, in the sewing and reading parties which are now numerous in the reception areas, differences have been forgotten and the ladies of the countryside join side by side with their sisters from the towns.

Evacuation has been a sad and painful ordeal to those who have had to suffer it. It has separated husbands from wives and parents from children and friends from friends. It has sent into exile millions of persons who formerly were happy in their homes and routine and associations and inflicted much discomfort on them and their hosts. Nevertheless, a good job has been made of it so that exile has lost its bitterness and discomfort has grown less.

Moreover, it has brought some gain. To many children it has been bracing and health giving, and the occasion for a contact with natural beauty which has been for them a revelation.

SOME Returned Home

Evacuation has also had its compensations. Many mothers have returned home after only a short evacuation "still show the stimulating effects on growth and well-being."

Overcrowded Country Schools

Many of the country schools have been overcrowded.

Moreover, on the whole the country school in Great Britain is less well equipped than the school in the city or large town. The more serious educational trouble, however, was due to the upset caused by the return of large numbers of children to the cities from which they had been evacuated.

In these cities the schools had closed, for the intention was that they should not be used for educational purposes until after the end of the war. Many had been applied to other purposes — loaned to the fire fighting services or to some other war service—and could not quickly

Talks to Beginners In Beekeeping

Experimental Farms News

Beekeeping is a business that should not be undertaken without thought or study. There are some general considerations that should first be taken into account, otherwise the venture may end in disaster, E. B. Gooderham, Dominion Apiarist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, states.

Beekeeping is an occupation suitable for young or old, rich or poor, men or women, in any part of the country, provided of course the person undertaking it has a fair degree of health and strength. Persons who fear bee stings should not go near them. Successful beekeeping means work for the mind and hands, but it requires close attention to detail. Therefore, the habitually lazy or careless person is not likely to become a good beekeeper.

Before securing bees, the beginner should learn something of their activities and how to manipulate them. This can best be done by spending as much time as possible with a successful beekeeper during the busy months and thus obtain from the Division of Extension and Publicity, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, the inspection and registration of apiaries is a provincial affair the beginner should also make himself acquainted with the regulations concerning the keeping of bees within the province in which he lives.

Four races of bees are kept in Canada, but the Italian race is by far the most prevalent and one cannot go wrong adopting it. The best time to start with bees is in the spring for then one has the full active season ahead during which much may be learned and mistakes corrected. The beginner is well advised not to start with more than two colonies and to build these up to full strength in keeping with his experience and ability. It is also wise to purchase good over-wintered colonies in movable frame hives of not less than the ten frame Langstroth size. Before buying over-wintered colonies, however, make sure that the apiary from which they are purchased is free from disease. A reliable common method of securing bees is to purchase one or more two-pound packages with queens from a reliable breeder in the Southern States or through any dealer in bee supplies in Canada. Package bees should be ordered during the winter and delivered in Canada during the latter part of April or early in May. If buying package bees, however, it is imperative to have the necessary supplies on hand to house them when they arrive. Another important point to remember in buying package bees is that permits to import and to secure American exchange must be obtained. Your nearest bank manager will be able to supply information regarding this. There is also the matter of clearing the bees from customs immediately they arrive to avoid loss through delay in delivery. Imported bees are subject to a ten per cent War time tax which must be paid at or prior to time of delivery. In part II of the colony, equipment and spring requirements will be discussed. It will be noted, however, that in these articles the points involved cannot be discussed in detail but questions addressed to the Bee Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will receive prompt attention.

GOV'T CHANGES POLICY FINANCING AUXILIARY SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS

Ottawa. — The Government has found it necessary to decide upon a change of policy in the matter of financing the requirements of such services as the Canadian Legion, the Knights of Columbus, The Salvation Army, The Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A. and The Navy League of Canada. Up to the present these national auxiliary service organizations with the exception of The Navy League, have obtained the funds necessary for them to carry on their auxiliary services—of a recreational and off-duty nature—to the members of the armed forces of Canada at home and abroad through national appeals for funds to the public of Canada.

Prior to 1941 these organizations carried on separate public appeals, but in March, 1941, they united in a joint public appeal. Their objective was set at $3,500,000, but this objective was exceeded and approxim. ately $7,000,000 was received from the Canadian public. These funds were held by the Canadian War Services Fund Incorporated and released from time to time to the organizations, as required.

It has been agreed that The Navy League of Canada should join with the other national auxiliary services organizations in a joint public appeal for funds to be made in the spring of this year, at a date to be announced.

It has also been planned that the Canadian Red Cross Society should join in this united public appeal with the above mentioned national auxiliary services organizations. Consideration was also being given to the claims of other organizations for leave to join in this appeal.

The total budgets of all these organizations were estimated at from seventeen to twenty million dollars.

In order to permit such a public appeal the government would have had to stand aside for a considerable period of time and leave the field clear for the national public appeal of these organizations. This would have involved, among other considerations, the interruption of the government's appeal for funds through the sale of war savings certificates.

The heavy financial demands upon the government for the efficient prosecution of the war and the additional amount required during the coming fiscal year for war purposes made it necessary for the government to give careful reconsideration to the plan of the public appeal for funds which had been proposed.

The Government has now decided to finance from the Public Treasury the requirements of the Canadian Legion, the Knights of Columbus, The Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. for the rendering of their auxiliary services to the members of the armed forces of Canada, at home and abroad in military establishments in camp or barrack areas in Canada, special defence areas as designated by the Director of Auxiliary Services and the National War Charities Funds Advisory Board, Newfoundland and Overseas. The hostel operations of The Navy League of Canada for the men of the Navy and the Mercantile Marine will also be included.

There will, therefore, be no public appeal for funds this year by the above mentioned six organizations.

Similar action is, however, not possible in respect of the activities of the Canadian Red Cross Society. This organization must continue to be of a voluntary nature in order to maintain its international character and its convention obligations. It is different in its nature from the national auxiliary services organizations above referred to and its requirements cannot be met in the same way.

There will therefore be a national drive for funds by the Canadian Red Cross during the late spring of this year, at a date to be announced later. This public appeal for funds will be for the purpose of enabling the Canadian Red Cross Society to discharge its functions in an assistance of mercy in time of war.

It is estimated that the amount which the Canadian Red Cross Society will seek from the public in its next public appeal will be for more than $8,000,000. This appeal for funds will be in accordance with the government's programme of financial appeals. It is felt that it can do so without any great interference with such programme, in view of the fact that a much less amount will be sought from the public than if a joint appeal, including the amounts required by the national auxiliary services organizations, were held.

Three of the national auxiliary services organizations above referred to, namely, The Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. have included in their appeals to the Canadian public, through the Canadian War Services Fund, amounts for certain peacetime activities related to their wartime activities.

It has been the policy of the government with regard to public appeals for funds by various organizations that, as far as possible, there should be one united appeal for wartime purposes in the spring of the year and that all appeals for peacetime activities, such as those of community chests and the like, should be confined to the fall of the year, leaving the balance of the year clear for government financing.

In Loving Memory

McCONNELL — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, W. J. McConnell, who passed away on March 22nd, 1940.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
His weary trials and troubles are past;
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore
Till God called him home to suffer no more.
Ever remembered by
11ap WIFE and FAMILY

MILLER — In fond and loving memory of a kind husband and a father, Mr. C. E. Miller, who passed away March 21st, 1939.

With tears we watched you sinking,
We watched you pass away;
We tended you with loving care
But could not make you stay.
We watched beside your bedside
As the lonely hours passed
And how our hearts were broken
When we saw you breathe your last.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss you,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say.
Only God knows how we miss you
In a home that is lonesome today.
Sadly missed,
but fondly remembered by
11a WIFE and FAMILY

BUSBY — In loving memory of Father William Henry Busby, who departed this life March 8th, 1935. Also Mother, who departed March 24th, 1936.

However long our lives may last,
Whatever lands we view,
Whatever joy or grief be ours,
We will always think of them.
Lovingly remembered by DAUGHTER and 11ap GRANDDAUGHTER.

Cards of Thanks

Mrs. Charles M. Vanalstine and family wish to thank their relatives, friends and neighbours and Dr. T. M. Galbraith, for their kindness and many expressions of sympathy and for floral offerings, during the illness and death of their husband and father, Mr. Charles M. Vanalstine. 11a

Mrs. W. S. Exley wishes to thank the friends and relatives who expressed their sympathy by so many acts of kindness during the illness of her mother, Mrs. Alfred McCutcheon, and for floral tributes and assistance given after her death. 11ap

The Late Mrs. A. McCutcheon

Mrs. Alfred McCutcheon died Wednesday evening, March 11th, at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Exley, in her 83rd year. Early last summer, Mrs. McCutcheon broke her hip and was confined to her bed for several weeks. Later she suffered several paralytic strokes, which finally caused her death.

Mrs. McCutcheon was the last of ten children of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Booth, many of whom lived to pass their eightieth year. She was born near Robbin in Richmond Township, and after her first marriage to Theodore Windover, continued to live near Robbin until about 35 years ago, when, with Mr. Windover and their family, she came to Napanee. Mr. Windover died 22 years ago and 6 years later Mrs. Windover married Mr. Alfred McCutcheon of Robbin, who died in 1936. Since then Mrs. McCutcheon had made her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Exley, Napanee.

Throughout all her residence in Napanee, Mrs. McCutcheon was a member of Trinity United Church where for fifty years she took an active part in all the activities of the church. Since the outbreak of war, she was busily engaged in knitting and sewing as long as her health permitted. She leaves a large connection of friends and relatives who held her in the highest esteem. Her loss, even at her advanced age, is felt keenly by her own immediate family to whom she was very devoted and who gave her every possible care and attention.

Mrs. McCutcheon leaves one daughter, Mrs. Exley; two grandsons, Cpl. W. W. Exley, overseas, and Lieut. Douglas Exley, Petawawa, and one granddaughter, Mrs. (Major) G. C. Howitt, Napanee. She was predeceased by two children, Clarence and Neta, Mrs. Ernest Newman.

After funeral was conducted Saturday afternoon at Trinity United Church, by Rev. G. M. Chidley and interment followed at Riverside cemetery.

The pallbearers were, Messrs. Wm. Jackson, Gardiner Jackson, Herbert Windover, Melville McCutcheon, W. J. Booth and T. E. Richmond.

The Late Mrs. Joseph Fox

Mrs. Joseph Fox, a resident of Napanee for the past thirty years, died in Kingston General Hospital on Saturday, March 14th, where she had been taken some time ago for treatment. She had been in failing health for the past two years, since a fall in which she broke her shoulder.

The late Mrs. Fox who was in her 79th year was born in Camden and was a daughter of the late James Shane and Bridget Shane. After her marriage she and Mr. Fox lived at Newburgh and Strathroy for several years before coming to Napanee, where Mr. Fox died about 25 years ago.

She is survived by one son, Harry Fox, Toronto, and two daughters, Mrs. Maud Smith, Robin, and Mrs. Harper, Kingston. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. S. Parks, Ernestown.

Her funeral was conducted Monday afternoon at the Tierney Funeral Home by Rev. C. D. McLellan, minister of Grace Church. Burial will be made later, at Newburgh.

OBITUARIES

THE LATE GEO. W. HALL

At Trenton on Monday, March 2, George W. Hall, second son of the late Andrew Hall and Sabina Martin, Township of Thurlow, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. Harper Reid, Dundas Street West, after an illness of one month's duration. The late Mr. Hall had passed the three-score year and ten mark and was in his 91st year, 10 months, for some time in Thurlow Township, where he was born, later taking up residence in Belleville, and he resided for the past forty years, born of Scotch descent, in politics he was a staunch Conservative and in religion a Presbyterian. He was well-known and highly esteemed. Fraternally he was a member of the Masonic Order, Orange Order, Oddfellows, Chosen Friends and United Workmen.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. T. Harper Reid, Trenton, and Mrs. E. Long, Toronto; two sons, Marcus J., of Watertown, N.Y., and Clarence of Toronto; also three grandchildren, Margaret C. Long, Toronto, Donald Hall, Watertown, N.Y., Mrs. Carl Forstrum, Watertown, N.Y., and one brother, Henry Hall of Port Arthur, Ontario. Many kind expressions of sympathy were shown by the beautiful flowers sent.

The funeral, which took place from the Northey Funeral Home, was conducted by the Rev. Ross MacLean, the text being the 23rd Psalm. Entombment was made in Mount-Evergreen vault, burial to take place in May in the Presbyterian Cemetery, in the Fifth Concession of Thurlow.

SIX DARE FLAMES FOR NAZI SECRET

When the 27,759-ton Cunard White Star liner "Georgic" lay with a heavy list at Suez, fired from stern to stem by bombs, six soldiers boarded her to salvage a captured German tank so that the War Office could learn its secrets.

Each of the six soldiers has been awarded the George Medal for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. It has been announced from London.

When the liner was burning Acting Captain David Esmonde Evans, of the Royal Tank Regiment, told about the seized tank. He climbed on board the blazing ship, found the tank, and began to drive it down the precipitous slants. Fire drove him back.

At dawn next day he went aboard again with a party of Royal Engineers, who volunteered to get the tank ashore. The port authorities decided that it was unsafe to tank: the fire was too intense, the ship's list too heavy.

But these six men succeeded. They passed slings around the tank so that it could be lifted by floating crane and taken ashore.

And so Britain today, thanks to those six men, knows the secrets of that enemy tank.

HOMEMADE CANDIES

BY: KATHARINE BAKER

Most of us have a "sweet tooth" when it comes to delicious, homemade candies. They can be made into attractive boxes for gift purposes and what would be more acceptable to the boys and girls going away from home than a box of Chocolate Caramels? These are wrapped in waxed paper thus lending themselves well to travelling.

If your candy-making is confined to home use, there's nothing like a dish of Chocolate Fudge sitting around if you're spending a cosy evening before your fire with a good book.

CHOCOLATE CARAMELS

One cup sugar; three-quarters cup Light corn syrup; three squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces; one-quarter teaspoon salt; one and one-half cups heavy cream.

Combine sugar, corn syrup, chocolate, salt and half-cup cream. Place over low flame and stir constantly until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue cooking until a small amount of mixture forms a soft ball in cold water (238 deg. F). stirring constantly. Add half a cup cream and again cook to 238 degrees. F. Then add the remaining half a cup cream and cook until a small amount of mixture forms a firm ball in cold water (246 deg. F.), stirring constantly. Remove from fire; pour into slightly buttered pan, 8 by 4 inches. Do not scrape pan. Let stand until cold. Mark with knife in three-quarter inch squares, turn out on cold slab, turn right side up, and cut into squares with full length of long, sharp knife. Let stand two to three hours to dry. Wrap each caramel in waxed paper. Makes 40 caramels.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE

Two squares unsweetened chocolate cut in pieces, two tablespoons butter, three-quarters cup milk; dash of salt; one teaspoon vanilla; two cups of sugar.

Add chocolate to milk and place over low flame. Cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly. Add sugar and salt and stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue boiling, without stirring, until a small amount of mixture forms a very soft ball in cold water (232 deg. F). Remove from fire. Add butter and vanilla. Cool to lukewarm (110 deg. F.); then beat until mixture begins to thicken and loses its gloss. Turn at once into greased pan 8 by 4 inches. When cold, cut in squares. Makes eighteen large pieces.

INDIAN FORCES EAGER TO HURL FULL MIGHT INTO STRUGGLE

(The Christian Science Monitor)

London. — India with its well-trained army — now more than 1,000,000 strong — has swung into the limelight as the main base of the Allies in the Eastern campaign.

Already 100,000 fully equipped men — every one of whom is a volunteer — have sailed from the ports of Bombay, Calcutta, Madras and Karachi to play an active part on the various war fronts, in defense of world freedom. But these are only a first installment of far bigger Indian forces that are eagerly awaiting the time when they will be able to measure themselves against the common enemy.

Indian deeds in hand - to - hand encounters not only with Italians in Ethiopia and Libya but also against German troops in Greece and Japan's hordes in the Malay Peninsula, have shown that Moslems, Sikhs, Dogras, Gurkhas and other martial races who are the core of the armies of India are able to hold their own in any company in the world.

It is true that, in the past, India has been compelled to import the bulk of the heavy guns, tanks, aircraft and motor transport necessary for the equipment on modern lines of its mechanized forces in the field.

But this state of things is now being changed and such equipment is pouring from manufacturers and other small naval vessels, is now being made in India. Up to the present, the scale of India's protection of these essential instruments of war has necessarily been limited though it is being continually increased.

On the other hand, India is already more than self - supporting in the great mass of its other military requirements. Its factories are turning out rifles, small arms, munitions, shells, machine-guns, and other essential war weapons on a scale which has enabled it not only to supply itself almost entirely but also to make very material contributions to the needs of these aspects of the entire British Commonwealth.

The same applies, even more emphatically, where pig iron, manganese ore, petrol, timber, sandbags, uniforms, tents, boots, saddlery, rice, oilseeds, wheat, sugar, and other mineral fuel, lubricant, textile, leather, and food products are concerned.

Its central geographical position, with land frontiers abutting directly upon what have become main theatres of the Eastern warfare, puts India in a position to play what may well prove a decisive role in the eventual overthrow of the enemy.

Through Burma, which for military, if no longer also for political purposes, will forever be part of India, has become the main supply route for Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's armies. Through the Upper Malay territories these exists also a way of land approach to Singapore, calculated to outwitch Japanese naval and air advantages in that ill-important region.

It is not necessary to pry into any questions of future Anglo-American strategy in order to realize the vital part which these facts must play sooner or later in the ultimately inevitable elimination of Japan as a major war influence. They are facts, nevertheless, fully justifying the foresight shown by the Allied Powers in establishing in India a great naval base at Singapore.

It may still be some time before the main resources of India can be fully deployed. But this fact in no way reduces the decisive effect it is calculated to have upon the ultimate outcome.

Indian politics — confused and enmeshed in intricacies as they of course as they have been — do not materially affect the situation. The fact is that it is the comparatively silent martial races and not the politically minded ones who crowd the benches at Mr. Gandhi's meetings, that count most when, as at the present time, it it deeds rather than words that are essential.

Although, therefore, Japanese forces have had big initial successes, there are developments south of the Himalayas that many well, at no distant date, change the entire war balance against these aggressors.

Far Eastern Campaign Spurs British Production

During the first days of December, 1941, everyone in Great Britain was overshadowed by two events: the conscription of all the country's men and women between the ages of sixteen and fifty, and Japan's entry into the war, Japan's action means that British industry is now faced with even larger tasks, but it has, if possible, given Britain even greater power.

When war broke out in 1939 Britain could not call on all her resources because these had not actually mobilized a considerable part of her reserves long before war broke out but Britain's army absorbed as and when required. The first great mobilization of man-power took place in June 1940 after Dunkirk. The second came a year later, when the Germans invaded Russia. The third, and greatest, is in progress now.

The 1,750,000 men who form the Home-Guard nearly all have other full-time jobs. Britain's largest reserve consists of its married women, of whom there are some 11,000,000. Such women are to be placed in the man-essential sectors, as the mobilization and other subsidiary work as they are needed. This will be a gradual process, to be carried out in accordance with the amount of time they have available. It will release many thousands more single women of all age groups, for more important work.

This process of absorption, now very rapidly under way will take some three to four months more before Britain may be expected to rise to a peak achievement in 1942, and when that peak is reached it will be maintained. Even then there will still be reserves available, which may be called upon if need be kept back. These reserves will consist principally of women between the ages mentioned above, and those who can take over some of the duties of younger married women. Further, there is considerable room for expansion in day nurseries is taking place. Many fourteen and fifteen year-olds are already doing active work in production. During the last few months some 600,000 young people have been absorbed into industry.

These measures to utilize the nation's entire labor resources are only the fulfilment of the program announced by Mr. Bevin for raising British production by a further thirty to forty per cent during the coming year. At the same time that production is rising, the absorption of man and woman power will mean the release of hundreds of thousands of men for service in fighting units.

WAR OUTPUT UP 2,000 PER CENT

How British Munitions Factory Makes Twenty Times More Shell Fuse Cases

Output of shell fuse cases in a British munitions factory has been increased twentyfold after industrial psychologists had suggested improvements in methods of working.

The job required careful handling of delicate tools and, as the factory had lost most of its experienced solders, the weekly output was only 1,000 good cases, with several thousands rejects. But after various changes, of which the most important was a systematic training scheme based on careful study of hand and body movements, the output was raised to 20,000 cases a week, passed by the inspectors.

This is only one example of how trained psychologists from Britain's National Institute of Industrial Psychology have been able to speed up production in the war factories. Although the results are astonishing, they are by no particular magic about their job. It is based rather on a careful study of the physical movements entailed, on proper methods of instruction, and above all on interesting the learners in the work.

Hours of wasted time have been saved merely by getting the trainees into the factory and showing their tools around them in an orderly way and replacing them after use. Training is made interesting by interspersing handwork with general instruction so that trainees understand how their work fits into the general scheme. In tank factories, for example, they not only see their particular job but the whole of the completed job, but are shown the tank in action.

Coil winding operatives trained by these methods were found to reach a standard of proficiency in only five days which previously had taken five weeks. Moreover, this was not achieved at the expense of output, for a 66 per cent. increase in the average output of good pieces was obtained, while the scrap rate fell from 5 to 2 per cent.

ARMS FOR GERMAN NEW DRIVE BURDEN FRENCH INDUSTRY

BY EGON KASKELINE
Written For

The Christian Science Monitor

There can be little doubt that Hitler is preparing for what he thinks will be the climatic Nazi attack of the war.

New troops are being trained in Germany and the satellite states are being formed into new armies. Armament production, both in the Reich and in the occupied territories, has been speeded up to such an extent that it might well attain a new high during the summer. To obtain the maximum effort for an all-out offensive, the Nazis have ruthlessly destroyed the economic structure of the conquered nations. All nonmilitary production has been disregarded. The Nazis remain undisturbed by the increased sufferings of the European peoples.

LUXURY PROHIBITED BY FRENCH

Immediately after the Armistice the Nazis began the reorganization of French industry. In collaboration with French authorities communications were rapidly reestablished. Damaged industrial plants were repaired or ruines, which had been flooded restored.

French industrialists anxious to collaborate with the conqueror, helped to set up France-German industrial councils as early as 1940.

Collaboration reached a high when Germany acquired an important share in most of the large French plants. The money to acquire these shares was provided by the French themselves. It was part of the French occupation costs.

The German authorities, having requisitioned or purchased most of the raw materials on hand, were willing to put sufficient quantities at the disposal of these plants. The factories which have closed down in May 1940 began to reopen. The workers returned to work. Today there is hardly any unemployment in occupied France.

However, hopes that collaboration with Germany would enable France to carry out economic reconstruction have vanished. The raw materials provided by the Germans made it possible to reopen factories, but the finished goods that leave them for Germany are used immediately to Germany.

The German production plan supplied to France established a privileged group of industrial plants working for the Reich. Only these plants are allowed to import raw materials provided by the Germans made it possible to reopen factories, but the finished goods that leave them for Germany are used immediately to Germany.

The German production plan supplied to France established a privileged group of industrial plants working for the Reich. Only these plants are allowed to import raw materials provided by the Germans made it possible to reopen factories, but the finished goods that leave them for Germany are used immediately to Germany.

This planned distribution of scarce raw materials has been in force for all nonessential industries in France. In December 1941, 1,700 plants were closed down. France has been allowed to close certain factories in agreement with the Armistice Commission committees. In January, however, this order was extended to all factories producing non-essential goods. This extraordinary measure was caused by an extreme shortage of certain raw materials. Work in those few nondefense industries which still operate has been slowed down considerably. Most of them work on a 25-hour a week basis. This shift is significant in view of the fact that hours in the mining industry have been extended to 52 a week, and hours in armament plants to 55.50.

ARMS WORKERS BETTER PAID

As compared with other workers those in the armament industry can demand special privileges. Their wages are considerably higher than those of other workers; moreover, they receive much more of the canned foods and clothing. These bonuses are of vital importance, for the price level of foodstuffs and nonrationed foods, clothing, and all other finished goods are prohibitively high for the lower income brackets. To give a few examples: Early this year, French pay 350 francs for a chicken, 2,000 francs for a ham, for a chicken, 2,000 francs for a suit, 2,000 francs for an overcoat, 500 for a pair of shoes, and 2,000 to 2,500 for a bicycle.

To convey an idea of the low purchasing power of the French worker we must compare these prices with the average wages of some categories of French workers. An electrician earns about 960 francs per month, a skilled worker around 1,400 francs, an unskilled worker 970, a railroad worker (a father of 12 children) 1,500 francs monthly. In under ages 2,950 francs monthly. It is surprising that want and distress are increasing in France?

FRENCH LABOR DRAFTED

The Nazis, not content with having pushed France to the very verge of economic collapse, are now once more planning to diminish the productive capacity of the country. Since the beginning of occupation, the Germans have recruited French labor for work in Germany. As workers are conditioned in Germany are considerably better. 60,000 to 70,000 French workers have up to the present been forced work in the Reich. In view of the fact that Germany is again increasing its military forces for the new spring offensive, it needs more than ever, industrial manpower. To replace German workers who will go to the front.

In addition to the 5,000,000 war prisoners — 1,500,000 of whom are French — and all of whom are working for the Reich, Germany is now attempting to levy a new industrial army of 1,000,000 foreign workers. Impressed with the adaptability and intelligence of French workers, Germany is anxious to recruit many of these skilled laborers in France.

Recent dispatches from Vichy indicate that Germany has asked for several hundred thousand French workers—most of them skilled workers. To date, Vichy has not acceded to Germany's demands. A new loss of man power would again curtail the productive capacity of French industry, especially of French non-defense industries and, as a result, diminish the industrial output of consumers' goods for the home market. This in turn, would increase the strain on France's already shattered economy; moreover, it would heighten the social tension, which Vichy appears to fear above all else.

CARE OF THE TEETH

According to Dr. M. H. Zimmerman, instructor in the School of Dentistry, New York University, most people do not look after their teeth properly. This lack of proper care has led to the result that by the age of 25 most people acquire four teeth last; by thirty, six; by forty, eight; by fifty to seven, and by forty-three are about ten gone.

Dr. Zimmerman explains that most of this fault lies with the cleaning department of teeth care. The proper method of brushing children make when brushing their teeth is not enough. They are first taught that adults must use their molars much more vigorously. This includes daily massaging of the gums and cleaning of the crevices between the teeth.

A small brush, with a stiff bristle head, is ideal. Also there is some special dental condition, any good advertised brand of toothpaste will do. There are several directions to clean thoroughly — front inside top and bottom, outside top and bottom and the same for both left and right side teeth.

Dr. Zimmerman recommends brushing the teeth after every meal, but twice a day is actually sufficient, if it is done conscientiously.

How long will this war last?
NOT ONE among us but longs for the day when peace will settle over the world, when families will be re-united, when our lives will return to normal. Are you doing all you can to bring that day closer?
This is a great task; to accomplish it every last ounce of our individual effort is required. If we are half-hearted, the war may last for years. If we slacken in our efforts and leave things for someone else to do, the war may bring us bitter defeat.
When you look back at the end of the day or at the end of the shift, can you honestly say, "I have done all it was humanly possible for me to do?"
When you look back at the end of the year, will you be able to say, "I gave my strength, my skill, my experience, my factory, my equipment, to the service of my country, without thought of greater gain. I am happy to have done my full share?"

REIDVILLE BOOSTERS

The Reidville Boosters held their March meeting at the home of Miss Marjorie Hawley. Following the opening exercises a demonstration of salad making was given and tea biscuits and supper menus were judged. Lunch was served later with Miss Marjorie Hawley acting as the hostess. A supper meeting is to be held at a later date, when the mothers of the girls will be guests.

SALSVILLE W. A.

Routine business was transacted at the regular meeting held on March 10, at the home of Mrs. Borden Young. There was a very large attendance and the afternoon was spent in quilting and knitting sox, turtle-neck tuck-ins and other articles. It was decided to send $10 for sweaters for mine sweepers, $5 for milk for British children and cigarettes for Franklin McGee, a neighbor boy. Three quilts were on hand and it was planned to purchase lining and bats for them, to be quilted at the next meeting. A very pleasant time was spent and the hostess and Mrs. Joe Dowling served delicious refreshments. Lunch, $2.36.

BATH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The secretary read letters from England thanking the members for cigarettes received. Other letters of thanks and appreciation were read. As there is a very small number of girls in the community, it was decided to leave the gardening project to them to decide upon. After plans for the April meeting were made, when it is hoped a special speaker will be present, the programme continued with interesting current events. A quiz programme was conducted by Mrs. Allison and the lucky winner was Mrs. B. Hoselton. A paper was given by Mrs. Collins. Remember the April meeting and be sure to attend. It is important.

Eleven pairs of felt slippers for bombed victims were handed in and material for three quilts was given out.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The March meeting of the W. I. was held on Tuesday, March 10, in the agricultural rooms with an average attendance. Mrs. James Hagerty presided in the absence of Mrs. Richards, president, who was unable to be present. The meeting opened with the ode and prayer for peace and the salute to the Flag.

Mrs. Powell gave the treasurer's report which showed a good balance on hand. It was decided to buy seeds for two girls for the girls' garden and canning club. Mrs. Alma Alcombrack, district director, reported on the executive meeting of the district, held on Saturday last, and reported the district annual would be held on May 27th, at Amherst Island. The roll call was a donation of children's garments, which are to be given to the Red Shield of The Salvation Army. It was also decided to have an afternoon euchre on March 24th. Mrs. Haggerty was convener of the programme. Mrs. J. R. Ackerman, first vice-president of the district, gave a paper on The Life Story of Dorothy Dix. Mrs. Robert Smith gave two delightful violin solos. Mrs. C.D. McLellan gave a very interesting book chat on the book "Meet the South American."

Mrs. Albert Lewis moved a hearty vote of thanks to all those who had assisted on the programme. Refreshments were served at the close, by the convener, Mrs. Shore Loynes and her committee. The meeting closed with "God Save the King."

MORVEN W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the Morven W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Stone on Wednesday, March 11th, with fifteen members and visitors present. The meeting was in charge of the president, who gave the suggested theme, "The Lord's Supper, the Covenant of our Faith," followed with the Lord's Creed repeated in unison. A hymn was sung and prayer by the president was followed with a scripture reading by Mrs. S. A. Winters. Communications were read from the Presbyterial secretary regarding the meeting to be held in Napanee in April. Temperance reading by Mrs. S. B. Fraser. Correspondence and letters of appreciation were read from members. Mrs. V. Mills and Mrs. S. Hill were appointed to make arrangements for the annual Easter Tea. The meeting closed with prayer by the president. A vote of appreciation was given the hostess. Delicious candy was served by Mrs. Stone.

MORVEN W. A.

On Wednesday, March 11, Mrs. Harry Stone entertained the members of the Morven Woman's Association, fifteen members and visitors being present. Mrs. George Fralick conducted the devotional period, using hymns and readings taken from Winston Curry's song book. Readings were given by Mrs. H. Stone, Mrs. R. Hill, Mrs. Winters, closing with a duet by Mrs. William Sayerath and Mrs. G. Fralick. The usual business items were discussed. A very gratifying and successful contest was brought to a close, netting the amount of $20.71, to date. Letters of appreciation were read from several members. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report was given. A committee was formed along with the buying committee, to buy supplies needed for the parsonage.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer. A vote of appreciation was given Mrs. Stone for opening her home. Mrs. Stone served delicious candy.

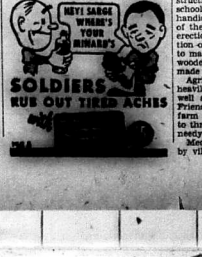
The March meeting was opened by singing the National Anthem. The president, Mrs. S. Booth occupied the chair and led in the responsive reading of the 46th Psalm.

A letter was read from the Presbyterial President, Mrs. F. L. Hoopr, expressing gratitude for past efforts and urging officers and members to continued co-operation in all departments of our W. M. S. work. Also a letter was read announcing the Presbyterial to be held in Trinity Ch. April 15th, and a committee was appointed to arrange for the serving of a meal to those in attendance. Reports were presented by the various secretaries and were encouraging.

Mrs. N. B. Miller, temperance secretary, gave a short account of the total abstinence of German youth and the effect on the strength and endurance of the soldiers. Ten members presented "Why I am a Total Abstainer." A short poem on Peace was read by Mrs. J. Cragg. Mrs. Sharpe and Mrs. Johnson presided for the worship period the theme for March being "The Lord's Supper."

The study book was presented in the form of a small meeting at Chengtu, when various reports were presented from various departments of the missionary work. Miss H. VanAlstine was assisted by various members telling of the period 1928-1937, when churches of 14 denominations in China decided to unite calling themselves "The Church of Christ in China." The fact that 70 per cent. of all children born in China die before the ten years of age, proved rather startling.

The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer by Mrs. Booth.



THE QUAKERS ARE READY

FOR THEIR SECOND INVASION OF EUROPE

BY A RUTH FRY

Hon. Secretary The Friends' War Victims Relief Committee 1914-1924

British and American Quakers, or the Society of Friends as they call themselves, have now under survey the service which they will be able to give to Europe in reconstruction. Two small groups of Quakers are to be found on the Continent, in France, Germany, Switzerland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden. These were mainly established as a result of our relief activities after the last war, and they maintain their activities despite the present one.

Already last November, under the aegis of the American Friends, 10,000 babies were receiving milk through clinics in France. 75 children were in colonies; 50,000 children were getting supplementary meals.

The invasion of the Continent, the goodwill invasion, has in fact begun. So it was in the last war, an invasion then of nine devastated countries by doctors, nurses, builders, farmers, teachers of men and women ready to help in every possible way. The workers, their goods and living quarters, all bore the black and red star invented by their forerunners, the Quakers who helped in similar work during the Franco-German War of 1870.

The first pioneers could make no detailed plan. They went to France early on October 1914, to find the work that wanted doing, and do it, their particular concern the rehabilitation of the civilian war victims. They helped whoever they could, irrespective of nationality, creed or politics, but always with the desire to express friendship to individuals. From small beginnings growth was rapid. A central office in London selected and equipped personnel, purchased and despatched stores, publicised the work and collected funds, cooperating with a similar office in Philadelphia.

The work continued for ten years and 700 American men and women took part. Probably millions of people were helped. £1,500,000 were received in the London office (£1,000 a day during the Russian famine) and about half a million pounds worth of goods. Far more money and goods from other sources. Governmental and philanthropic, were administered.

A typical centre was that at Sermaize-les-Bains in France, where a hotel housed 400 refugees from the nearby destroyed village — a family crowded each into a room. The Friends settled down to help and befriend these people, toying to fill the endless gaps in their lives and equipment resulting from war's cruel destruction. Distribution of clothing, schools and occupation for children, handicrafts for grown-ups, were some of the first needs. Then followed the erection of wooden houses, distribution of bedding and simple furniture to make the nucleus of homes. These wooden huts were standardised and made by our own amateur builders.

Agriculture obviously had suffered heavily; seeds, animals, machines as well as workers were wanting. The Friends distributed seeds, rabbits, farm stock, and themselves worked to thresh, to reap and to sow for the needy people.

Medical needs were attended to by village nurses and doctors and a Maternity Hospital at Chalons-sur-Marne functioned all through the war and was finally housed in a new building erected as a final gift to France from the Mission.

Such all-round help for refugees was typical of the Friends' work all over Europe.

The most complete reconstruction work was that in the district of Verdun, undertaken at the request of the French Government after the war. In an area of 209 square miles, 500 Friend Workers built homes for 2,500 people, fields were tilled, medical care given and 13 shops serving 5,000 families in 200 villages were installed. 607,000 pieces of furniture and beds were sold.

The German invasion of Russia in 1915 drove thousands of peasants from their homes. The Friends established help in one of the neediest districts that of Buzuluk in the province of Samara (now Kuibishev).

With the news of the terrible famine in 1921 British people were eager to help the sufferers whatever political differences divided their countries. Friends took an active part in a National Appeal and international relief under the presidency of Dr. Nansen, and returned to help Buzuluk again.

On a visit I paid to Buzuluk in January 1922 I found a land of death, people falling dead in the streets, a vast heap of unburied corpses, children wailing for hunger, as death approached mercilessly, and typhus an over-present danger. Transport was so derelict that the journey from Warsaw took ten days each way, making sending of supplies most difficult. With splendid co-operation and help from the Soviet Authorities the English Friends organised 200 feeding centres in 280 villages, the Americans many more in an adjacent area.

In Poland typhus was so rife, that the unpleasant and dangerous task of fighting it was undertaken by the de-lousing of the people, their clothes and houses. Relief was given, seeds were distributed, industries started, doctors and nurses gave their help. 1,100 Army horses were obtained and ploughing for the people organized by the Mission. In the winter the horses hauled timber for the peasants to build huts to replace their miserable dug-outs.

During the war Friends had helped Germans in England, and by February 1919 permission was obtained to export gifts to Germany—Liebesgaben, gifts of love, as they were called. In eighteen months about 874 tons of a value of £127,855 were despatched besides private parcels.

Relief workers went to Germany as soon as possible and showed their sympathy in many ways. Depots were started where food and clothing were sold below cost price. In co-operation with University authorities feeding for students in 31 Universities and Technical schools was supplemented.

Throughout Germany the American Friends had organised feeding for the children, "Quaker-speisung" as it was known. Nearly 80,000 children were being fed in 1921, the British Friends co-operating in the Cologne area.

In Austria the tragedy of Vienna was heartbreaking. When an egg cost the equivalent of 18 shillings and one good restaurant meal would exhaust the salary of a General, living became a nightmare. Here again the system of depots was introduced for sale far below cost price of rations for the most undernourished children. In 1921 over 64,000 children received these. Clothing too was distributed, more than 900 cows were imported to revive the deteriorated breed and Land Settlements were helped and encouraged.

Help was also extended to Hungary; internment camps and prisons ten pounds of salt and one pound of alum dissolved in it. Add a can of lye to every 25 gallons of the mixture. Add a pound of cement to every three gallons gradually and stir thoroughly. The alum prevents the wash rubbing off, and the cement makes a more creamy mixture easy to apply and covering more surface. A quart of creosol disinfectant may be used instead of the lye, but lye is preferred when the colour is to be kept white.

Time to Commence Mosquito Control

The approach of spring is the best time to commence the control of mosquitoes, because once these pests are on the wing little can be done to prevent their spread. All mosquitoes breed in shallow water, and the most effective time to attack them is before they emerge. In Canada most of the mosquitoes are produced in temporary shallows, such as snow-water pools, rain pools, and the flooded margins of ponds, lakes, and streams. Their eggs are laid during the warmer months but usually do not hatch until after passing through the winter under the snow blanket on the dead leaves and soil in low places. When the snow melts and the ground is flooded, the eggs hatch.

The larvae develop slowly when the water is cold. When they reach full growth they are transformed into pupae (wrigglers) and emerge shortly afterwards as winged insects. As a rule, the largest number of mosquitoes develops from late April to June. Other mosquitoes breed during the summer in places such as rain barrels. However, permanent control entails a systematic campaign in the fall, attention being paid to the drainage of swamps, land and ditches, and the filling in of hollows likely to hold water later on. Both the larvae and the pupae breathe through tube-like organs which they force above the surface of the water to the outer air. A little petroleum oil poured on the water sufficient to form a thin film on the surface penetrates the tubes and chokes the insects. Only the female mosquito bites, and her need for blood to mature her eggs transforms her into a fierce and persistent hunter.

Although individuals on their own property can assist greatly by preventing mosquitoes from breeding, best results are obtained only when the work of control is organized by municipal or other authority under competent direction. Many recipes are in vogue for protection against bites. Some of the most effective, together with the life history of the mosquito and methods of control, are to be found in the publication No. 719 "Mosquito Control in Canada." A copy of which may be obtained free by writing to the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

SLEEPLESS EYES IN THE NIGHT

Monster searchlights like this, throwing 800,000,000 candle-power beams are on nightly alert in Britain, and are guarding our own vital areas and coastal danger zones. Hundreds more are urgently needed and Canadian hands and brains are producing them.

These eyes of defence aren't built in a day . . . or a month. Into each of them go thousands of man hours, thousands of parts machined to hairsbreadth accuracy. Yet Canadian plants are delivering them and delivering them fast. Mr. William McConnell, of Sharp's Corners, who spent last week in town at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Wagar, was in The Beaver Office renewing his subscription to the paper, said that The Beaver had been taken by his home for nearly 72 years, ever since it was first printed, and that before The Beaver was established, The Standard was taken by his father. CURTAILMENT OF RETAIL DELIVERIES NOW ORDERED

Ottawa. (CP.) — Curtailment of retail deliveries in Canada was ordered last week, by James Stewart of Ottawa, Administrator of Services for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The order was made public recently in a board statement which said the move signified the launching of a "campaign to conserve rubber and motorized equipment."

"After March 18 no retailer may make or cause to be made on behalf of either himself or a customer more than one regular delivery a day over any particular route or in any particular area except with special authorization of the administrator," the board said.

"Authority is also required for any type of special delivery.

"Delivery of daily newspapers, fuel including coal, coke oil and wood, is exempted as are deliveries to hospitals, railways and steamships or to the departments of national defence or munitions and supply.

"Drugs or medicines prescribed by doctors, or physicians may also be delivered without special permission."

Mr. Stewart was quoted in the statement as saying:

"The order does not mean that if a retailer has only one vehicle he can go out but once a day. But it may not cover the same territory more than once a day. Nor may an organization with a number of vehicles have more than one in the same territory oftener than once a day unless authorized.

"People have been asking what they can do to help the war effort. By carrying small purchases instead of having them delivered, by ordering early and in quantities sufficient to avoid repeat orders, women can assist retailers in meeting this new condition. At the same time they will be rendering a real service in the conservation of vital materials.

"Before long the carrying of parcels may be looked upon as a badge of patriotism."

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SETS SPEED LIMIT AT 40 MILES PER HOUR

Measure Necessary to Conserve Oil and Tires

Munitions Minister Howe announced on Monday evening in a nation-wide broadcast that a speed limit for Canadian motorists of forty miles an hour would be made general throughout the Dominion, by Federal order.

Mr. Howe said the order is necessary in order to save gasoline and tires. In his address, he stated:—"With the tires you have now are worn out, your motoring is over until some considerable time after the war is won. He added also "the Government will not hesitate to commandeer tires from private owners of non-essential vehicles, whenever that rubber is needed."

The conservation of rubber and gasoline was a matter of vital concern, Mr. Howe said:

"If I tell you frankly that we are likely to lose the war unless we can get enough oil and enough rubber, you will understand how very serious our position is, and why the conservation of these two essentials is causing us so much anxiety," he added.

The Ontario Government will cooperate with the Dominion in enforcing the 40 - mile per hour speed limit and no new legislation will be needed in the provinces, as the law will be enforced under the Federal measure.

ALL EMPLOYEES TO BE REGISTERED

A new registration of all workers, insured and non-insured, in industries which have hitherto insured employees is being carried on by the Unemployment Insurance Commission. It must be completed by March 31st ,the close of the fiscal year, when insurance books now in use must be turned in. The information gathered will be used to bring the Commission records up to date, and also to furnish information for a man-power inventory which the Government is making. This inventory is being made under the authority of an Order-in-Council passed under the War Measures Act.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission is now distributing the new forms for this registration to employers all over the Dominion. There are more than 150,000 employers with insurable employees in Canada, and the number of insured workers is over 2,000,000. "The manpower inventory registration will, of course, include many more than 2,000,000, embracing, as it does, insurable and non-insurable employees of industry.

The forms which are being distributed have been prepared with a view to assisting the Canada-wide training of workers so that Canada's working strength may be utilized in the most effective manner. The War effort is constantly calling for more and more trained and skilled men. It is hoped, through the inventory, to discover workers with skill and training which may be of value in carrying on the Canadian war effort. The registration cards are being sent to employers who will see that they are filled out in respect to all their employees. They will then be returned to the Employment and Claims Offices, of which there are more than 100 across Canada. Immediately after the last pay period in March insurance books must be turned in and new ones will be issued to cover the fiscal year opening on April 1st. It is essential that the registration be completed and old insurance books be turned in by the end of this month.

Information in respect to the registration and the issue of insurance books is obtainable at any of the Employment and Claims Offices of the Unemployment Insurance Commission. 12a

SMALLER STORES TO INCREASE BUSINESS

An increase in the volume of business done by retail merchants in the smaller centres is forecast by the Brockville regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board as a logical sequel to the introduction of gasoline rationing and, more particularly, to the necessity of automobile mileage being reduced if the life of motor tires is to be prolonged. Many a village merchant who has been obliged to witness his legitimate trade pass his doors en route to the larger shopping centres will, it thinks,a now begin to come into his own.

CANADA MOBILIZES LABOR FOR WAR--- EMPLOYEES TO REGISTER

Men Up to Thirty Years To Be Called For Home Defence Service

Prime Minister Mackenzie King outlined in the House of Commons on Tuesday new regulations restricting employment in non-essential civilian occupations, increasing to 30 years the age limit for compulsory service in Canada, and conscripting the available farm labor.

Among main points of the new program are:

1. Establishment of a directorate of national selective service under Labor Minister Mitchell, the director to be B. M. Little, present director of the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel, who will be assisted by an elaborate organization of appeal board and volunteer advisory committees. Associate director will be Paul Goulet of Montreal.

2. Obligation on the part of employers to release for essential war service and reinstate afterward professional technicians who consent to entering service allocated to them by the Government.

3. Prohibition of employment, except under certain conditions, of male applicants for work in a long list of non-war occupations, unless the applicant has a release from a national selective service officer.

4. Exemption from compulsory military training and service of farmers, farmers' sons and agricultural workers, unless it is established they are not essential to farm production.

5. Prohibition against farm workers leaving the farms to take other employment, except to enter active military service in Canada, or for seasonal work in primary industries.

6. A proposal to select single men and childless widowers up to thirty years of age for compulsory training and service in Canada by drawing lots over the whole field of those subject to call and extension of the liability for service to all residents of Canada in the age classes, whether British citizens or not.

7. Provision of free medical treatment for those who have been rejected by the armed forces on physical grounds, providing they undertake to enlist when made fit.

8. Establishment of personnel management classes in co-operation with educational institutions to prepare men for industrial posts in essential industries.

9. A widespread campaign to get women into industry, thus releasing men for war service and employment in essential war work.

10. A national registration to be conducted by all employers under the direction of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

VITAL INFORMATION FARM SITUATION BEING COMPILED

Some time ago at the suggestion of the Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, a County Agricultural War Committee was formed. The committee consists of the following: J. H. Elliott, chairman; A. W. Brimacombe, secretary; Henry Hutchins, Mrs. Johnston, F. T. Bell, Donald Paul, Rockwell Parks, G. H. Young, J. H. McCaul, G. H. Switzer, Percy Asselstine, John Hume, F. P. Miller, A. H. Oliver, Lloyd Cowle, K. O. Birkin, Herbert Babb.

PURPOSE OF COMMITTEE

The purpose of this Committee is to work through the Department and in every way to give the best possible service and leadership to Agriculture in this wartime period, and to assist the farmer in his programme so that the necessary war supplies of food products, such as cheese, bacon, eggs, etc., will be produced in sufficient quantities to meet the export demands of Great Britain and for home consumption.

With this purpose in view a questionnaire was sent out a few weeks ago to every farmer in the county and the information received from the questionnaire is now being tabulated at the office of the secretary of the Agricultural War Committee, C. W. Buchanan the County Agricultural Representative.

The questionnaire was distributed through the rural schools and when the farmers have completed all the questions asked the forms will again be returned to the rural schoolteacher, by whom they were sent, there into the secretary of the committee. The questionnaire contains over fifty questions dealing with labor available, amount of livestock kept in 1941, farm machinery and equipment on hand and also what repair service available in such things as cream trucks and bread trucks, and by Hydro.

When all this information has been compiled the committee will be in a fair position to take care of any emergency war problems which may arise, such as the Repairs to machinery, the Plans for securing the best use of mechanized equipment, organizing harvest parties, the Placement of farm labor, etc. To co-operate with the committee is necessary in any necessary agricultural war work.

The work of the Committee will be confined to the organization of the help available for farm work, and to see that the best possible use is made of mechanized farm machinery and equipment.

It is expected the information made available by the questionnaire will be tabulated in about a week's time and a summary will be carried in this paper.

WALK, USE DOBBIN, SAYS PRICES BOARD

The wise motorist will restrict his unnecessary mileage as much as possible and walk or ride horse-drawn equipment wherever that is possible, says the Regional Ontario regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Such a policy is necessary if the motorist desires to keep his vehicle in service, because after existing tires have been worn out it is doubtful if they can be replaced. It will also prolong the life of vehicles which are now required for civilian purchase and it will save gasoline.

SAP'S RUNNIN'

There was only one dealer on the market on Saturday, with Maple syrup. He sold his load without difficulty. Buyers with their own containers crowded around the truck and kept Mr. Tyner rather rushed until the load was disposed of. The sugar shortage, this year, and the rationing in vogue, has made the already popular Canadian syrup even more popular than ever. The indications are that there will be a good run, and since the price must not be above that at a similar time last year, the householder, in these parts, will do well to supplement the family needs for sweets by an additional purchase of syrup.

One of the unfortunate features of the present situation is the labor conditions. Just at a time when the Government is seeking to conserve sugar, and when the householders need all the syrup they can secure, there are many sugar bushes which will not be tapped because of the inability of the farmers to get help. The Miles sugar bush has not yet been tapped and there is little likelihood that it will be. The season for sap is very short, much preparation is necessary, and the sap has to be taken care of in a hurry or it is lost. To let this great native source of sugar dry up simply because there is lack of help, indicates how desperately there is need of some sort of planned economy. Perhaps the new national registration, which is being planned, is a step in the direction of getting men in their proper places to serve the nation's war effort to the maximum of efficiency. That must be done. The trouble, however, is that as in so many other instances, it may come too late. Certainly it has come too late to enable the nation to achieve the maximum maple syrup production.

But lacking Government aid in providing labor it might still be possible for voluntary groups in, and around Napanee, to get but to the sugar bush and assist in garnering the crop. There are many business and professional men in the town who might very well with a little organization help get in the sugar crop.

This is not a new idea, by any means. During the First World War almost every man in Napanee was helping in some way on the land; not only so, but on one occasion the business and professional men organized themselves into a group of workers and went out on the highway repairing the road, without pay, because of labor shortage. The Rotary Club or the Lions Club might very well undertake the leadership in organizing the men of the community for work in the sugar bush and on the farm, at a time when the situation is even more grave than it was during the First World War.

THE FUTURE CONSERVATIVE PARTY

John Diefenbaker, Conservative Member of Parliament for Lake Centre, Ontario, has raised the question as to the future of the Conservative Party. Party leaders and those in the rank and file who are alive to the trend of events in the modern world, should welcome the frank statement from one of their own parliamentary representatives. They should not only welocem it, they should give it serious consideration in the formulation of future policy.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the Wentworth Conservative Association, on Saturday, that "the time has come for the Conservative Party to have a declaration of principles that are not shadows cast by the past, but fiery beacons of the future." "Reaction would get the Party nowhere," he said. "The Conservative Party has been a great formative influence in Canada. It has produced great leaders and has given to the country vigorous and forward-looking legislation on occasion. But the situation to-day demands that those who would aspire to lead the country through the dangerous and changing days ahead, must not live on their laurels; they must recognize the changes, accept them, and plan legislation which will be designed to meet the altered way of life."

The old world has gone. It will not return. With its passing much that was rubble, and rubbish, will go. But into the new world all that is best in the old should be carried forward. A party which prides itself on the name Conservative must see to it that all that is best in the old is preserved. It must as well keep its eyes forward. Even yet there are those who think of the new world in terms of the old. It is a fond hope in the hearts of many that when the present hostilities cease there will be a return to the way of life which prevailed in the 1920's. Any political party which even in a small degree would entertain such a hope is doomed to extinction.

We are passing through one of the great crises of history, through one of the great formative creative periods, when a new social, political or economic order is coming into being. What that order will be like no one can tell. But a study of history would indicate that it will be a more democratic world, a world in which the common people will have more consideration, where wealth will be more equally distributed, where there will be work for all, decent homes for all, leisure for all and security for all. The old world will not die without a struggle. The struggle in the international field is now on. There will be a struggle within the nation too, when the forces of reaction will try and retain power, get control of the machinery of the Government and oppose the will of the people. But the clear teaching of history is that such an effort will fail ultimately.

The Conservative Party if it is true to its founders, if it is to play a great part in the new day, must adopt a bold programme, away with the old Shibboleths and press on. It is not probable that the Liberal party which has been entrusted with the task of organizing the nation for war should be entrusted with the responsibility of legislating and guiding the nation after the war is over. Unless the Conservative Party develops a dynamic youthful leadership and captures the imagination of youth and a daring, progressive, forward-looking programme, it may be that the people will turn from both traditional old-time Parties to the comparative newcomer in the political field.

THE LATE J. S. WOODSWORTH

The writer of this editorial received a letter from the late J. S. Woodsworth, a few days before his death. In it Mr. Woodsworth was pleading for a more generous treatment of the workers. Right to the last, this sincere and conscientious leader was thinking of those who were the underdogs in an economic system which is not always just to the common people. Mr. Woodsworth had had a long and chequered career, as minister, longshoreman and member of parliament. He had been a very powerful influence in Canadian public life. He cared nothing for popularity. His whole thought was for the men and women—the workers of Canada—both in the factory and on the farm. Mr Woodsworth had caught much of the prophetic spirit of the Old Testament prophets. He denounced wrong and injustice wherever he saw it. He was a mild-mannered man, but absolutely honest and consistent. When the Parliament took the vote on the present war issue, his was the only vote cast against Canada's participation in it. He was opposed to war, and voted as he believed.

Mr. Woodsworth was a great reader and student. In the parliamentary debates he was always listened to. He had something constructive, some worth while contribution to make to almost every issue before the House. No matter how people might differ from him, none would deny either his ability, his knowledge, or his intellectual honesty.

But he will, perhaps, best be remembered as the organizer and first leader of the Canadian Commonwealth Federation. At a time when the world seemed to have reached the apex of wealth, luxury and ease, J. S. Woodsworth and his followers saw the signs of the time. They realized that such conditions could not continue because of fundamental injustices and inconsistencies. Naturally, any person or group who, in times such as those through which we were passing in the post-war period, suggested all was not well, was unpopular. And Mr. Woodsworth and the C. C. F. was not popular. But Mr. Woodsworth was able to fire his followers with somewhat of his own reforming zeal. In place after place the party he founded entered candidates at election time, knowing full well they faced defeat; but, strong in the conviction that they were right and would, some day, be justified before the bar of public opinion.

Recent events in British Columbia and even more recently in South York bear evidence to the change in the attitude of the voters to this group.

Mr. Woodsworth did not live long enough to see the full effects of his labors, but he saw the ideas and principle for which he stood finally embodied in the platform of a political party which, in the future, will have a good deal of influence on Canadian life. To have done that in one life time, in spite of almost insuperable handicaps and opposition, is no small achievement. Mr. Woodsworth died at the comparatively early age of 67.

NERVES AGAIN

Spring is here and, with it, the war of nerves has been intensified. There is a running to and fro of ambassadors to Berlin. There are the reports, probably emanating from Germany of a Spring offensive here, there or anywhere. There are reports, apparently from the same source, of great troop concentrations, and of plans for an attack of gigantic proportions. We have experience enough which would lead us not to underrate the striking power of the German war machine. It is a great army, well equipped, well organized and superbly led. It is the most formidable military machine which has ever been built up. To think otherwise is to be blind to every bit of evidence which has come out of the experience of the past three years.

Part of the German plan of attack, as we know now, is to prepare the opponents mentally. The psychological factors are extremely important, as Hitler well knows. The softeningup process is not only confined to the guns, it is, as well, aimed at the mind and the spirit. To keep his opponents guessing, to create the impression among all his enemies, that the attack may be expected at their particular part of the line, is designed by the German strategists to break down morale and weaken the spirit of opponents. It cannot be denied that this has been fairly successful up to the present time.

But like any other instrument of attack, a defence mechanism is soon found. In the case of the attack on nerves, the Allies have as well, to develop a spiritual instrument of defence. This is perhaps more difficult this year than ever before. In a letter recently received from Great Britain, the writer, a brilliant Canadian scholar and student, quite well known in this area, writes:

"The Allies are entering a period when the psychological strain will perhaps be more severe than at any time in the war. It will take great patience from everyone and much restraint. People want victories. We have comforted ourselves so long with the thought of our greater resources, for a long war. We have supposed we had enough margin, that we could spare ourselves the sacrifices that the Axis peoples have to undergo. The time for such an idea is past. So with the notion that machine power is sufficient without manpower. Germany has the labor of at least two million prisoners of war. This is profitable, in the last way the German High Command gave orders to take all prisoners possible, as the Reich needed more battalions of prisoner labour."

The real point about this comment is the suggestion that what is needed among the Allied peoples is a new psychological approach to the whole war effort. So long as we assume that we are doing all we can do and that Hitler is going to organize some new devilry against us, we are preparing ourselves mentally for the impending Spring offensive. The present year will probably be the most critical for all the nations. Three factors will determine the outcome: an abundance of equipment of the finest and most modern, an abundance of manpower, well trained and efficiently led, and a well informed, determined, realistic public opinion. The Allies have made phenomenal strides to the achievement of the first two, though the full force of the great productive processes of the United States is not yet felt. As for the third, that is the factor for which each citizen must assume personal responsibility. It is living in a fool's paradise, simply to assume that all will be well in the end. It is equally disastrous to underrate our own powers and capacities. This war will be won by the best equipped, best led army and, as well, by the spirit of the people, who, facing the wodst, have confidence in their leaders and in their own capacity to sacrifice for the common good.

The new vicar was being shown round the village church. After admiring many of the features of the building, he found a slight fault, and said: "Aren't there some faulty spouting there?"

The county church-warden gave a prompt reply: "Yes sir, we must have that repaired. We can't do with any more bad spouting. We get plenty of it from the pulpit."

60,000 Inventions Offered To Help Win War

Since the war began nearly 60,000 inventions and ideas for waging war against the Axis have been submitted to Dr. H. J. Gough, director of Scientific Research at the Supply Ministry, and they are still coming in at the rate of 1,500 a month. Every crisis brings a flood of new ideas to Britain from all parts of the world.

Some of these come from cranks who, roused to inventiveness by the desire to knock out Hitler, may be convinced that they have discovered the last word in tanks, a monster mounted with six-inch guns, or suggest gargantuan flame-throwers that will wipe out a whole regiment of infantry.

So anxious, however, is Dr. Gough, that no idea should be turned down without investigation that callers at the Inventions Bureau always find the welcome mat on the doorstep.

The group of men who examine these war inventions are practical engineers, men skilled in the manufacture of war implements, who have given the "once over" to thousands of gadgets of all kinds. The motto of these men is that in the craziest notion there may lurk the germ of something good. It is their job to examine every invention that comes in, with the result that many people with bright ideas have reaped the benefit of their efforts and ingenuity.

Paddle System

Among the extraordinary ideas submitted was a concise design for an anti-aircraft shell, which was to be filled with ink, tar or any other analogous substance, in the belief that it would blot out the windscreens of Hitler's planes, and cause the pilots to "fly blind."

A twelve-year-old boy, well steeped in Jules Verne, sent in a plan for a tank modification. His designs were cleverly executed, showing a paddle system which, in conjunction with a caterpillar tractor, would enable a tank to keep going over snow or marshy ground.

Every month the "back room boys" on Dr. Gough's staff prepare lists of all the proposals judged to have merit. These lists include a brief outline of the subject matter of each proposal, and are circulated for the information of the branches and establishments of the War Office, Admiralty, Aircraft Production, Home Security, and to the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research. There specialists run the rule over them.

A smoke generator for protective smoke screens was submitted by a man from one of the Dominions, but was rejected at first on the ground that the meteorological conditions in his country are different from those in Great Britain. However, this invention was returned for reconsideration and sample generators were obtained from abroad. These proved on test to be better than equipment in Britain, so the inventor's time was not wasted.

The use of china for a casting material for grenades was proposed and rejected, following tests as being too brittle. But the examiner subsequently made inquiries as to the possible use of china as substitute material for other war weapons, including those used by the Air Forces.

New Machine Guns

Many proposals for new types of machine guns have been examined. Some of them received favorable consideration on merit, but were found on comparison to be inferior to existing guns of similar type.

A huge card index is kept at the Inventions Bureau in order that records of each proposal and its proposer may be turned up at a moment's notice. It also insures that in the event an idea is accepted, the priority rights of its originator are preserved, irrespective of whether he has applied for a protective certificate.

The chart of invention submission from 1939 to date shows the high water mark in the Dunkirk period. Shortly after the evacuation of the British Army, 6,910 ideas came rolling in to the committee.

Somebody sent in (anonymously) an idea for a "radioacid" bomb. There was a pencil-scrawled postscript to the letter accompanying the design. It read: "If you wish to communicate with us leave a note under the pile of stones on the corner of Burmead Road (Grove Road end) Hitchin."

"The Man's Mad!"

Another brain-wave was this: "Set up a North and South Pole in the West and East of England to upset the compasses of enemy aircraft."

"A mechanically operated bayonet" would certainly be a menace to Hitler's hordes in close quarters fighting, but fortunately the inventor did not say how it was to be operated. The proposal for having "a bayonet fixed to the right foot for dealing with invading parashops at close quarters" might have appealed to those tough guys, the Commandos, but Dr. Gough's experts skeptically turned it down.

These "back room experts" represent one of the lessons which Great Britain learned from the last war. After the Armistice a pigeon-hole in a desk at the War Office was being cleared out. Among some dusty papers in the receptacle was a design for a tank, the inspiration of a Nottingham plumber. It has been submitted to the War chiefs at the beginning of the conflict.

Order Coal Early Is Board's Advice

Especially in view of a shortage of firewood supplies in certain communities next winter, regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board at Brockville has householders in eastern Ontario for the last season's coal requirements as early in 1942 as possible. Existing stocks of coal will be held to be adequate, on the continuance of the shipping facilities, which may arise. Early orders for the delivery of coal will, it is felt, be of material advantage in assuring adequate stocks for next winter's heating and furnaces.

THE TRANSFIGURED CHRIST MEETS HUMAN NEED

The transfiguration scene has captured the imagination of men and women in every generation. It has been the theme of countless sermons, the basis for enduring poems and has inspired some of the world's most noted paintings. It is not easy to recreate the scene, but what probably happened was that Jesus took His three favourite disciples away from His crowds of admirers and sympathizers in order that He might be alone with His Father. They awakened with a start to find the glory of Jesus' transfiguration before them. Moses and Elijah were talking with Him for a season of prayer. He was facing the crucifixion, with all its terror and its suffering. He felt the need of spiritual strength for the ordeal. He needed communion with God. The three disciples quite probably fell asleep while the Master was at prayer. Then something happened:

The laurels were given to the negative. A delicious lunch was served.

Victory IS IN THE MAKING AND HYDRO SPEEDS THE WORK!

● Right here in Ontario, thousands of young patriots from every continent are in training to win Victory for the democracies—from the Air!

Amazing! Some of our training camps are like good sized towns. They make new demands upon Hydro. They need electricity for lighting, maintenance, airfields, pumps, mechanisms, radio; in workshops, rooms, kitchens. Never before has so great a Cause called upon electrical energy to do so much.

Today, your Hydro is supplying six times as much power as at the close of the last war and a large and growing part of this is necessary for war time production. Ontario's great aircraft industries are powered by Hydro, also factories and foundries making all manner of military equipment. This war is not only mechanized but electrified!

You are, of course, proud that your Hydro System is playing so great a part in the victory program. Of course, you will economize in your use of electric energy for all peace-time pursuits—and forego for a while further extensions of electric service. With all of us, war needs must come first!

DELIVERIES OF BREAD CURBED TO ONE A DAY

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Deliveries of bread and bakery products to householders, retailers, hotels, restaurants and canteens will be limited to one a day on week days with no special or Sunday deliveries, and the number of varieties of bread and rolls will be reduced, William H. Harrison, bread and bakery products administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, announced last week.

Mr. Harrison's order, effective last Monday, "eliminates entirely each time-consuming and non-essential trifle as docking, twisting dough, cross-panning, slitting or cutting dough before baking," the board said in a statement.

"Under the order all kinds of bread are affected, including white, fancy fruit, raisin, whole wheat, brown, rye and high vitamin (Canada approved) made of leavened dough.

VARIETIES LIMITED

"Each brand, type and shape constitutes a variety, and no baker may turn out more than fifteen varieties of bread and four varieties of rolls in any one day."

Delivery services are "severely restricted." Special or Sunday deliveries are eliminated except to hospitals the Department of National Defence, railroads and steamships.

"As a move toward reducing delivery costs and conserving labor and automotive equipment, the board has ruled that each company operating in a city or town must maintain a gross weekly sales average of $100 for all routes operated, or $125 in villages and country districts," the statement said.

Return of "skids" or the changing of bread in stores for customers has been prohibited as a method of eliminating what has amounted to considerable waste of material in the baking industry.

SPECIAL LABELS

"Each manufacturer of bread is required to affix on a top end of each unwrapped loaf a paper label giving the name and address of the maker, the weight of the loat when baked, the retail price and the brand name if one is used," the Board said.

"The new order has the concurrence of the administrator of retail trade, E. G. Burton, and is part of the board's plan to simplify trade and retailing and to eliminate unnecessary "frills."

"The great increase of varieties in bakery products, as in other lines of food, has in the past added considerably to the cost of manufacture," the Board said.

ORDERS ISSUED FOR PLEBISCITE

RETURNING OFFICERS
NOW GETTING
OTTAWA INSTRUCTIONS

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Jules Caston, guardian officer of elections, issued instructions to returning officers for the April 27 vote and the regulations differ in some detail from those which apply in a general election.

One important difference is that returning officers themselves will have a vote.

"As far back as I can remember, returning officers have been disqualified from voting at Dominion elections," Mr. Castonguay said. "However, at the forthcoming plebiscite they will be allowed for the first time to cast their vote."

Regulations granting a vote in certain cases to persons whose names are not on the voters' list also differ. The plebiscite regulations provide that a vote may be granted if the person whose name was omitted takes the necessary oath shows his registration card and is vouched for by a person qualified to vote at the same polling division.

In general elections the same provision has been made for rural polling divisions but this will be the first time it has been tried in cities and towns of more than 10,000 population.

AGENTS' ATTENDANCE

Another difference is in the regulations governing attendance of agents at polling stations.

"As at Dominion elections it will be possible for agents to attend all polling stations," Mr. Castonguay said. "However, owing to difficulties in obtaining an official appointment for these agents, provision has been made in the regulations that without an official appointment, two voters may act as agents representing the persons interested in promoting an affirmative answer and two voters may act as agents representing the persons interested in opposing the question."

"Upon their admittance at the polling station these agents will be required to state on oath whether they are interested in promoting or opposing the question," he added.

Within a few days the 244 returning officers will have received the instructions and soon large posters will appear in each division giving the boundaries of the division and location of the polling station.

RETURN METHODS

Returning officers will be those holding office under the Dominion Election Act and deputy returning officers will be chosen in the same manner as enumerators. The deputies will appoint their own poll clerks.

"A qualified voter who moves after March 30 is not entitled to vote in this new polling division but only in the division where he ordinarily resided March 30," Mr. Castonguay said.

Returns will be compiled much in the same way as in a general election. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and when they close returning officers in city and semi-urban districts are required to make immediately a preliminary compilation of the votes polled in every polling station. Progressive bulletins of these returns are to be given to the press.

MOBILIZATION PLAN REVEALED BY MINISTER OF LABOR

TO BEGIN APRIL 1ST

Vancouver, (C.P.) — Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Federal Minister of Labor, last week, told Canadians of the Government's plan for further mobilization of Canada's man and woman power, beginning April 1st.

He spoke from Vancouver over a nationwide hookup of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Under the plan, Mr. Mitchell said, the Government would obtain a "man-power inventory" of more than 2,000,000 workers throughout the country.

PLANS REVEALED

This inventory, he said, would be taken through the unemployment insurance commission and employers, starting April 1st, in order to keep the records up to date, those workers coming within the scope of the Unemployment Insurance Act, would be asked to register. At the same time he said, employers who are not insurable because of high earnings or other reasons, will also be asked to register.

"It was learned recently in Ottawa that Premier Mackenzie King and Hon. J. T. Thorson, War Services Minister, plan to give details of the mobilization plan in the House of Commons some time before Parliament adjourns March 27th for the Easter recess.

"It was expected at the Federal capital that Mr. King would announce selection of a director of national selective service who will have the responsibility of carrying out the mobilization plans.)

TOTAL EFFORT

To Canadians who have been asking for total war effort and full use of man-power, Mr. Mitchell said, "You are going to get it."

"I assure you there will be no effort spared to make the plan effective," Mr. Mitchell said. "All have been asking for total war effort — those of every political party, every section of our community life. All have been asking for full use of manpower — may I say — well, you are going to get it.

"There will be, I am afraid, some features of it which may be difficult, and disagreeable; things we will not like. However, you may be assured that, while the plan must go through, it will be made as free from objectionable and compulsory features as possible."

Mr. Mitchell said that when his department, which has charge of the registration survey, completed its task, it will "know" all those to be described as a "man-power inventory of well over 2,000,000 workers."

STOCK - TAKING

"It is a stock-taking of Canada's available man-power — and when I say man-power, I mean woman power — to find its numbers, its skill, its adaptability, and its availability for different types of work.

"The war has made it necessary to develop huge industries many of which require skilled workers. This man-power inventory will discover whether or not there are skilled workers still available who might be utilized to help along in war industries. It is known that many men are engaged in what might be called essential industries and how many of such men are in unessential jobs which could stand over until after the war." It will, in a word, furnish a real basis for the development of an efficient, speedy and active war effort which will bring maximum results.

SELECTIVE PLACEMENT

"Given an accurate manpower inventory and a progressive stages plan and after full consultation with those who will be affected, undertake the task of selective placement of the available man and woman power where the full effect of their efforts will be realized to bear on the defeat of that ruthless man in Berlin and all his cohorts of crime."

Mr. Mitchell said that the Federal Government, to obtain the basis for the "manpower inventory" had decided to combine registration for workers coming within the scope of the Unemployment Insurance Act, with a similar registration of those not insurable through higher earnings or other reasons, if they work for the same employer. Thus he said, unnecessary effort and duplication would be avoided.

MAPLE SYRUP NOT CONTROLLED

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Maple syrup is a seasonal product and consequently producers may not sell it at a price higher than that charged for the same grade and quantity in the corresponding period a year ago, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said last week.

The customary practice among the producers in the industry is to make sales of first-run syrup in the harvest period directly from producer to consumer, and the board order per, mits sales of syrup at this time of year to be made at the same price levels as prevailed a year ago.

Maple products sold at retail are under the ceiling established in the basic period September 15th to October 11th last.

Maple syrup — but not maple sugar — is one of the farm products which last November was exempted from the ceiling when sold by producers to manufacturers, processors or dealers, but sales to consumers by any person must be at or under the maximum prices prevailing in the basic period. Maple sugar is under the ceiling at all stages of marketing.

The ceiling regulations do not apply on any transactions between primary producers alone.

All sales of maple products for export are subject to export permit from the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Origin of the Name "Rock of Ages"

When Rev. Augustus Montagu Toplady died at thirty - eight his friends lined him as a zealous clergyman who left behind him six enormous volumes of controversial writings concerning churchmen John Wesley and his religious doctrines— which nobody reads today and which nobody seems to care about. But 165 years ago, Reverend Toplady, unknowingly, gave to the world an immortal hymn. Although Reverend Toplady's ponderous works are neglected and forgotten, his four simple and inspired stanzas are sung today by millions in reverent prayer, two centuries after his birth.

It was in 1776 while seeking shelter from a wild storm in Hich Cleft Rock in the picturesque Mendip Hills in Somerset, England, that Reverend Toplady found sanctuary and was inspired to write "Rock of Ages." On Hich Cleft Rock is now a favorite gathering place for pilgrimages of thousands.

For as long as a third of a century after Reverend Toplady wrote "Rock of Ages," the hymn remained unheard and destined for obscurity. It was published here and there in various religious periodicals but was first brought to the public's attention when it was printed in a book of hymns compiled by Rev. Thomas Cotterill and published in Sheffield, England, in 1815. Soon after the publication of Cotterill's book, the hymn was first published in America in the Christian Magazine of Philadelphia.

It was in 1775 that Reverend Toplady himself never realized the winsome charm of his verse and the lasting fame that was to be his. Then in 1811—no one knows how, why or by whom—"Rock of Ages" was first set to music. Today many men and women have written each year. Reverend Toplady himself never realized the winsome charm of his verse and the lasting fame that was to be his. Then in 1811—no one knows how, why or by whom—"Rock of Ages" was first set to music. Today many men and women have written each year.

And it is only appropriate that the inspired words, "Rock of Ages," full of Christian sentiment and religious faith be applied to the Rock of Ages Memorials created by skilled craftsmen and artists of the Rock of Ages Corporation, Barre, Vermont.

40-MILE SPEED LIMIT URGED

Ottawa. — After much discussion and hints as to the desirability of doing it, the Provincial Governments have been urged to reduce their auto speed laws to 40 miles per hour in order to conserve rubber and gasoline. An official request is likely to be issued within a few days by the Department of Munitions and Supply. The request for reduction in the speed limit is understood to have originated with the office of the oil controller for Canada.

A similar request was made in the United States by President Roosevelt, recently.

The Federal Transit Controller would have authority to fix the speed limit at 40 miles on all highways in Canada, under his emergency powers, but it was felt that a better procedure would be to request the general co-operation of the provinces.

Ever since gasoline conservation came into operation last summer, the advisability of reducing automobile speeds has been urged on motorists as it is an established fact that greater quantities are consumed at the excessively high paces of travel. However, no official action was taken either by the oil controller or the Provincial Governments to modify the limit, which is 50 miles per hour in Ontario and the same in several other provinces.

The necessity for a reduction in the limits is found more than ever necessary now because of the shortage of rubber. At high rates of speed tires wear down quickly. In the motorist's own interest, it is essential that he travel at moderate speed for his present tires may have to carry him to the end of the war.

NEW BOOKS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

DRAGON SEED — Buck

In her first novel of China in three years, Pearl Buck writes once more in the mood and vein of "The Good Earth" and "The Mother." Like these two classic novels this new one tells of plain people dwelling close to the Chinese soil in a new time and trodden by the invader. We are confident that "Dragon Seed" will be ranked permanently with the author's finest work.

DAGON'S TEETH — Sinclair.

A powerful story of our modern world—the mighty, the famous and the little men—the rise of the New Dealer win. A most effective and unpleasant quickening novel, embracing the Empire State Building, Wall Street crash of 1929 to the Nazi Blood Purge of 1934.

BAROMETER RISING —

MacLennan.

A novel of Halifax in war time. Between wars Halifax, in Nova Scotia sleeps in relative commercial quiet. But in war time Halifax stirs to magnificent activity. The story here told so vividly is of eight fateful days in December 1917 and gives a picture of that almost incredibly tense activity which is being re-enacted today.

JOURNEY FOR MARGARET—

White.

Mr. and Mrs. White wished to adopt an English child. Not long after "Bill White" landed in England, he crossed on one of the fifty United States destroyers transferred to the British Navy. White found Margaret who, at this time was three and a half years old. He installed her in a rest home for war orphans and made her his personal job in London. Finally he was able to adopt her and bring her to America. The reader will feel as if he has had the first three years in the human story of England at war.

WINDSWEPT — Chase.

"Windswept" is a novel set on the coast of Maine. It is a way of life as well as an absorbing story of travel and conflict, pain and pleasure sacrifice and fulfillment.

NINE LIVES — Rosman.

The tale of Alice Grant Rosman's own cat in London, in peace and war. It is more, however, than that — it is a story of not only the cat, but of his family and their friends, and of venture at this time, and are trying to make the land pay. It also has a vivid line theme that will evoke a response from all who read.

FACTS LITTLE - KNOWN ABOUT PLACES IN L. & A. COUNTY

The following is one of a series of articles on subjects of historical interest in the townships of Lennox and Addington. The articles are being written by Mr. Joseph Foster, Moscow, and will we believe, be of interest to many of our readers. They will appear at intervals in these columns. (Ed.)

The temperance question always occupied a prominent place in the minds of the people of Moscow and throughout the years had many strong advocates.

The pioneers, as early as 1845, succeeded in organizing a Temperance Society, under the title: "The Eastern Star" Division Number 204, of the Sons of Temperance, of the Province of Canada West, located at Camden East. The name "Moscow" had not yet been assigned to the Huffman Settlements.

The writer has in his possession, the original Charter of this Organization which was issued from the headquarters of the "Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance" located in the Town of Brockville, on September the 4th, 1845.

There are twenty-eight signatures attached to the instrument, most of whom were heads of the earliest families who had settled in the neighborhood. The names appear on the Charter in the following order:—Joseph Foster, Samuel Foster, Simeon Perry, George Lake, William R. Foster, Matthew D. Clark, John N. Amey, James Burns, Henry Clark, William Peters, John Pomeroy, Dennis Starr, Edward Amey, William Benn, Marcus Clark, John Baker, Sylvester Asselstine, Orlando S. Potter, Charles Wright, Lawrence Chisick, Lester W. Coughnett, John Lucas, William Clow, Isaac Lucas, Jacob Amy, Robert Carr, Miles Storms, Thad. Babcock.

This Society flourished for a number of years and had at one time upwards of one hundred members. A commodious hall was built on the north side of the village of Moscow, which served as a meeting place for the organization. The Methodist denomination worshipped in this building prior to the erection of the Stone Church. It was also used for a School House before the present stone building was erected.

Some of the Officers of the Labour of this Temperance Society can be seen at Moscow, even to-day. We will mention one incident which was worth, alone, all the efforts put forth by this noble band. There were some of course, who did not take kindly to the policy advocated by the temperance people and to discredit the Society, opened a tavern at Moscow, with all kinds of intoxicating liquors for sale. It is hardly necessary to say that the neighborhood was aroused, particularly the women, led by Dr. Canby, Mrs. John N. Amey who, with her own money $800.00, bought the building, which housed the tavern and had closed out the business forthwith. As a result of this timely action, no pernicious liquors have been sold illegally at Moscow, since that date. The building, years later, came into possession of the Methodists and for this pioneer family, the late Major Albert N. Amey, who many times refused to sell it cause of the deep feund respect he always cherished for his mother.

The memory of this Christian woman, the late Mrs. John N. Amey, will never be forgotten by the good people of Moscow.

Navy League of Canada

Toronto. — "Our Canadian coast cities belong no longer to the Province they are situated in but have become the responsibility of Canada as a whole" there, the thousands of sailors of seventeen nationalities who serve the cause of Freedom, come for comfort and relaxation," stated David H. Gibson, President, Dominion Council, Navy League of Canada, recently.

Fifty-five million tons of shipping have left and left port since the outbreak of war, and from that port lead the sea-lanes of the world, along which the allied seamen are carrying nations work their ships carrying arms and munitions and food to those who are defending Canada, along with the rest of the Empire and the other freedom loving countries, against the machinations of Axis countries.

At the Allied Merchant Seamen's Club alone, owned and operated by the Navy League of Canada as one of the eleven service units the Navy League's provincial divisions across Canada support, three thousand men a day are served with food and given the club facilities they need and so richly deserve. At that Club, six hundred men nightly are housed.

Because that Club and all other Navy League Service units are caring for all seamen who work and fight for them, England could not defend herself properly, not only in England, but on every far-flung battle — from Libya to Malaya while the Empire is conducting this war, for on them devolves the responsibility of seeing that the tools of war are available to our defenders.

THREE PLAYS GIVEN BY JUNIOR PUPILS OF N. C. V. I.

Some very clever dramatic talent was displayed by the pupils of Grades IX and X of the members of the French Club of the Napanee Collegiate and Vocational School when they presented three plays in the large auditorium last Thursday evening. The plays were attended by a large number of the pupils' parents and friends who expressed their pleasure in the performances by hearty applause.

The first play, "The Magic Ring" was a delightful fantasy in which over twenty pupils of Grade IX had a part. The play centred around a very poor family, one member of which found a ring which turned out to be a wishing ring that brought a change in the fortunes of the family, even though the articles secured by wishing were not always the most appreciate to the needs. The young people who took the parts gave excellent portrayals of the characters. In a natural and easy manner, Miss Lephia Woods was responsible for the coaching. Those who had parts in the play were: (Alice), Mary Barrett; (Jean), Mary Fallaize; (Mother), Gwenythe Gourlie; (Father), Gerald Thompson; (John), Allen Parks; (Grevy), Dorothy Lewis; (Jacques), Wilfred Thompson; (Peter), Les Mowers; (Charlie), Eldine Porter; (Gerard), Douglas McCutcheon; (Henry), Ian Sinclair; (Sprite), Shirley Francis; Jean Barker; Rita Hamsmith, Audrey Walsh, Gwendolen Hill, Jean McNeil, Marion Sills, Joan Armstrong, Elva Babcock, Sally Amadeo.

FRENCH PLAY

The second play "La Faim est un Grand Inventeur" was given entirely in French with the exception of the dialogue of the two boys who took the parts of American soldiers. Even though a large part of the audience was unable to follow the dialogue the action and the gestures were so expressive as to make the story quite easily understandable. The young people taking the parts showed a remarkable facility with the French language and their gestures were quite in the French manner.

The story of the play deals with the difficulty of a French innkeeper, his wife and maids in understanding the needs of two American soldiers, who were simply trying to convey to the innkeeper their need for food. Finally a boy of the farm who had learned some English, came to the rescue and the famished soldiers were fed. Miss Helen Cranston was in charge of the production. The cast of the play was as follows: Mme. Crabuchet, the Innkeeper, David McLellan; (Madame Crabuchet), Carmella Donnelley; (Marie), Doreen Windale, and (Colette), Fay Sexsmith, servants at the inn; (Pierre, Lorenzo Thompson; (Jacques), Bob Dick), Lorenzo Herrington, and Bobo, Wallace Alkenbrack, American soldiers.

THIRD PLAY

The third play "The Hunstingdon Diamond" given by Grade X was a three scenes scene, and was a mixture of comedy and melodrama. The cast was provided for the first second scene, when a play written by a member of a girls' boarding school was being rehearsed. The acting throughout was good and the star pinteresting and amusing. Miss Ida Hogg trained the boys and girls. Mrs. Miller.

Fifty-five million tons of shipping have left and left port since the outbreak of war, and from that port lead the sea-lanes of the world, along which the allied seamen are carrying nations work their ships carrying arms and munitions and food to those who are defending Canada, along with the rest of the Empire and the other freedom loving countries, against the machinations of Axis countries.

At the Allied Merchant Seamen's Club alone, owned and operated by the Navy League of Canada as one of the eleven service units the Navy League's provincial divisions across Canada support, three thousand men a day are served with food and given the club facilities they need and so richly deserve. At that Club, six hundred men nightly are housed.

Because that Club and all other Navy League Service units are caring for all seamen who work and fight for them, England could not defend herself properly, not only in England, but on every far-flung battle — from Libya to Malaya while the Empire is conducting this war, for on them devolves the responsibility of seeing that the tools of war are available to our defenders.

Magistrate's Court

On Thursday afternoon Lance-Corporal DeLaporiery, Kingston, appeared before Magistrate Garvin, charged with assaulting Provincial Officer William Milton, Bellville, and was given a suspended sentence for one year, provided he paid the costs of the court and $5.00 to the officer for damage done to his clothes.

The assault took place west of Napanee on No. 2 Highway, while the police officer was directing traffic following an accident. The officer was in plain clothes and the soldier who was under the influence of liquor questioned his authority to give orders. A scuffle followed and the officer was pushed into a ditch of water and damage was done to his clothes.

An army officer from Kingston appeared for DeLaugherry and in his defence gave the accused a good character.

On Monday afternoon, Fred Gordon Ellis, Toronto, who was arrested about ten days ago on a charge of vagrancy and was remanded a week ago for sentence, appeared again before Magistrate Garvin and was given a suspended sentence for six months. Ellis admitted a previous record, which included a sentence of nine months for housebreaking and theft in Toronto, in April, 1940 a sentence of 12 months in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph in February 1941, for theft.

The suspended sentence was given Ellis on condition that he keep away from Napanee.

Hubert Cross, Westbrook, pleaded guilty to operating a trailer without number plates and paid $5.00 fine and $3.00 costs.

Ed. Stall pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place and was sentenced to ten days in gaol in default of payment of fine of $10.00 and costs.

Outside a night club a taximan was hailed by the doorman, who packed four very jolly guests into the cab.

"That one on the left goes to Park Lane," he explained; "the one next to him to Jermyn street. The one on the left front seat goes to Piccadilly, and the fourth to Knightsbridge."

With an understanding nod, the taximan drove off. In a few minutes he returned and hailed the doorman.

"Would you mind sorting out these blokes again?" he asked. "I hit a bump in Trafalgar Square."

Pussy: I must have reminded him of some beautiful woman in history. He said I had a historical face.

Cutty: Are you sure he didn't say prehistoric, my dear.

PANCAKES AND MAPLE SYRUP

Hello Homemakers! Pancakes were a favourite dish in Grandmother's day and are still a top-ranking favourite today. When you are looking for something to tempt the family appetite—especially during Lent don't forget that a feast of pancakes will solve your problem. Served with Canadian maple syrup, their tantalizing flavour makes them one dish of which the family never tires.

Besides being a treat for everybody, pancakes are easy to prepare. Just have your batter ready in a pitcher in the cool corner of the refrigerator, along with your favourite accompaniments. Then you will be free to dress with your war work until the last minute because pancakes are served hot from the griddle.

RULES FOR MAKING PANCAKES

7 A HEAVY iron frying pan or griddle must be used.
2 Grease well with salt-free fat.
3 Heat the griddle to ALMOST smoking hot.
4 Pancakes should only be turned when bubbles form around edge. Turn once.
5 Grease the griddle after each batch of pancakes.

RECIPES

Apples Pancakes:
One tablespoon baking fat
One tablespoon sugar
Two eggs
One and half cups flour
One teaspoon baking powder
One cup apples, chopped fine.
Cinnamon
Milk.

Cream shortening and sugar, add beaten eggs, sifted flour, baking powder, cinnamon, and chopped apples. Gradually add milk to make a medium batter. Bake on hot griddle. Serve with sausages, Applesauce or drained stewed apples may be used with the batter in the same way.

Flannel Pancakes:
One tablespoon baking fat
Two cups flour
Two cups milk
One teaspoon salt
Four teaspoons baking powder
Two eggs

Cut the lard into the flour; add salt and baking powder. Beat the yolks until lemon color; add milk and beat together. Add the liquid to the mixture, stirring well to smooth. Beat egg whites until light and fold into batter. Bake on a hot greased griddle.

Potato Pancakes:
Two cups grated potato
One egg
Two tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper
One-quarter teaspoon finely grated onion
Milk

Peel potatoes and grate into cold water to prevent discolouration. Drain well. Add beaten egg, flour and sufficient milk to make a stiff batter. Add the seasonings. Cook in a frying pan with hot fat to the depth of half-inch. A large spoonful of batter makes a good-sized pancake. Cook until crisp and well browned. Serve instead of a vegetable.

Light Buckwheat Cakes:
One and half cups buckwheat flour.
Half-cup white flour
Five teaspoons baking powder.
Half-teaspoon salt
One tablespoon lard
One and half cups milk
One tablespoon molasses

Sift dry ingredients together. Add melted fat to milk and molasses, then slowly to dry ingredients. Beat well and bake until brown on a slightly greased griddle.

TAKE A TIP:

1 White paint is better than glue for mending china.
2 Keep rubber bands in a cool dark box — otherwise they lose their elasticity.
3 When you are putting away an egg cup, rubber gloves, or rubber bag, fill with rolls of paper. This will prevent rubber from sticking.
4 You may be able to make satisfactory tape for corks in many cases.

QUESTION BOX

Mrs. W. H. D. asks:
"Kindly publish recipe for Noodles that is easy."

Answer:
RECIPE: Beat one egg slightly, add one-half teaspoon salt, and stir in enough flour to make a very stiff dough. Kneed, toss on slightly floured board, and roll paper-thin. Cover with a towel and set aside for twenty minutes. To use for soup, cut in three inch strips, and shred these strips. Separate, dry and store in a covered jar.

Mrs. C. B. K. asks:
"Is it possible to restore the haize on the bathroom porcelain?"

Answer:
It is most difficult. However, you may polish after each cleaning with a cloth moistened with paraffin.

Miss D. G. Says:
"Do not use soapy water to wash painted walls or ceilings that have been blackened by smoke. Use warm water to which baking soda is added."

EATING BY THE BOOK

BY FRANCES SHELLEY WEES

One of the most important problems of Canada, in war or peace, is nutrition. A good nutrition program means simply a good plan for feeding the people; if people are not fed they can not fight in time of war and live an achievement in time of peace. There is no mystery about the word 'nutrition'; but it is often misunderstood. The complicated talk of vitamins and calories' and formulas that some of us give up in despair. Eating seems very difficult. Sometimes we are tempted to slip off to the country and have a surreptitious lunch without a calory or a vitamin in it; just something good to eat.

It isn't a bad idea, as a matter of fact. We're beginning to get out of that habit of saw bull-ley over us when we discovered that food was something more than food . . . that it might be held more units and calories and mysterious properties than did apples. We're not as willing as we were to eat chopped sawdust flavored with honey just because somebody says it has been fortified with a vitamin that will give us curly hair every third Tuesday. We want good-tasting food again; juicy carrots and potatoes roasted in the brown, delicious gravy, coleslaw made with sour cream and fresh-ground black pepper. We've got work to do and we're hungry and we haven't got time to puzzle over a lot of fads and nonsense.

But, unfortunately, not all of us have pantries full of good food to choose from. Most of us have limited budgets and have to buy carefully. We must buy the food that is best for our families, considering their individual problems. And even if we were able to let each person have exactly what he wanted, his choice might not be good. The scientists tell us that if people never had food habits imposed upon them they could be trusted to eat instinctively what was right. But we start controlling a child's tastes from the day he is born so that very soon he loses that instinctive rightness of choice. What all this comes to is that we must 'eat by the book' after all; that is, we must manage to use the truths about food that the scientists have uncovered.

We are all willing to trust to truth when we know it is truth; but there have been a great many half-truths and plain silly pieces of nonsense written about food. If you eat carbohydrates with fat you get housemaid's knee; if you drink milk on the same day that you eat broccoli you develop night-blindness, carrots make your eye-lashes long and prunes make your eyes shine. The real truth behind all the talk is that different foods perform different work in the body and we must understand that work. What is happening lately is that out of all the confusion a few facts are emerging, and a way of arriving at the truth is spreading across the country.

When a new development in food comes along nowadays we are not content to read bright-coloured advertisements about it and accept it—or reject it—unconditionally. What we want to see is the facts and the utmost care before we come to conclusions.

The newest food development today is in the realm of fats, which as we all know are of tremendous importance particularly in time of war. So much fat is needed in the making of explosives, so much for extra war-time energy, that the supply presents immediately a serious problem. Finally we have after years used great quantities of imported vegetable oils which we now cannot afford to buy; there is neither an excess of foreign exchange to pay for them nor are there ships in which to import them. We must somehow make better use of our own supply of meat fats.

Fortunately, much scientific research has been done of late years on this very problem, and when the government some months ago called in the shortening manufacturers to put the problem to them, the answer was almost ready. Processes have been perfected which treat these meat fats so that they retain all their fine food values and will keep indefinitely. They can be blended with high-grade vegetable oils in varying proportions, according to the supply available of either type of fat. The resulting product is called 'blended shortening and it is a fine thing for Canada that it will help relieve the import situation; it will help provide a constant market for the Canadian farmer's lard and tallow and it is in itself a first-class product, ranking with the best shortenings on the market.

This latter fact is the only one that has come in for all testing. Although most of the Canadian plants are now making blended shortening, there has been no attempt to force it on the public. Hundreds, hundreds of pounds have been sent to nutritionists, scientists, housewives, domestic science teachers, agricultural schools and government departments for testing. The Women's Institutes have been testing it and reporting, the Red Cross, members of the National Council of Women, letters from the Wartime Prices anr Trade Board. In every province of Canada the test has gone on. Such people as Phyllis Turner, the Fats and Oils Administrator, have had it tested. The Consumers' Division of the Department of Agriculture have tried it out. Everywhere, across the Dominion, the experts have approved it. As a shortening it is equal in every respect to lard. Experts warn against the shortenings of other years; as a food it possesses valuable nutritional properties which a purely vegetable product does not have.

All this testing and proving has gone on behind the scenes, before we have been asked to buy blended shortening. Surely this is the way the serious problem of wartime foods should be treated; no more wild-eyed

BUSY BEE WAR WORKERS YEAR'S WORK

The Violet - Fourth Line Busy Bee War Workers have just closed their first year of war activities and a very worth while amount of work and finances have resulted from this energetic neighborhood group, viz: 55 pieced quilts, 33 starves, 16 refugee dresses, 2 sweaters, 26 pairs of socks, 3 pairs felt booties, 18 pair of wristlets, 8 pairs of mitts, 1 child's apron, 2 helmets, 2 blouses, 1 boy's shirt, 4 pairs of pyjamas, 1 tuck-in, 3 complete layettes; and the following donations in cash: $25 to the British War Victims Fund, Toronto Telegram; $97 to War Services Campaign; $50 to The Salvation Army; $50 to the Queen's Canadian Fund; $30.85 to The Evening Telegram (tickets from quilt).

Through the efforts of this energetic little war group, the grand total of $423.81 has been realized and used as designated.

Owing to the necessity of gasoline and tire rationing, it has been decided advisable that the annual meeting for the units, to separate and each work in their own community to carry on the excellent work already well established.

POT-LUCK SUPPER AT MORVEN

A very successful pot-luck supper was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Perry on Tuesday evening, March 17th, when about eighty partook of a bountiful supper provided by the ladies. The rooms and tastable were decorated for St. Patrick's Day. During the evening a draw was made on a hamper of Spy apples, which had been donated to the War Services Unit by Mr. Perry. The lucky ticket was drawn by Miss Ida Smith of Kingston, the winner being Mrs. Gep. Fralick, who later donated three pecks. From the sale of tickets the sum of $35 was realized. The evening was spent in singsong and cards. The president and committee in charge were very grateful to all those who contributed toward the success of the draw and supper and the proceeds of the evening were nearly $44. A vote of appreciation was given to Mr. and Mrs. Perry for their kind hospitality.

IT'S NOT WORTH A NICKEL

if it comes too late!

Plans for war production on this continent are stupendous. By 1945 the output of planes, tanks and munitions will become a deluge.

If it's not too late!

Canadian plants are producing now. They're doing their best to plug holes in allied defences. Canadian war machines and supplies have been streaming across to Britain, Russia, China, North Africa. It's up to Canadians to make their plants and factories produce more —and more—and more. Every day the supply must increase.

If the enemy were just fifty miles away, could you do more than you are doing now? If you could already hear the rumble of enemy guns, would you work longer, harder, more intensely?

Out there on the battlefront brave lads cry out, "For God's sake give us planes and tanks and guns." Don't let it be said that they came too late, because you failed to give your best.

BRAVE MEN SHALL NOT DIE BECAUSE I FALTERED

FLINTON

Flinton, March 20. — The 15-cent tea, held at the United Church parsonage on Saturday evening, was a great success, and $9.00 was raised.

The concert in connection with war work, sponsored by Mrs. Bennett, assistant principal of the school, was one of the best given in the village. An interesting item on the program was a square dance, performed by the tiny tots of the school, who gave evidence of being well trained.

Mr. Walter Woodcock is very ill.

The many friends of Father Kinlin, of Spencerville, were delighted to see him again. He spent the tea hour with Mr. and Mrs. C. Casey, and later attended the school concert. Father Kinlin, while here as parish priest, made many friends, not only among his own parishioners, but among the members of other churches.

Pte. John Sedore is spending a few days with his mother.

Mr. George Andrews had the misfortune to fall and break two ribs. Dr. Dales, of Tweed, gave him medical attention.

DORLAND

Dorland, March 21. — While spring begins officially today, the weather is not as spring-like as some we have had. However, spring seems to be on its way, as little snow is to be seen except the muddy remnants of banks. The ice is loosening along the shores, and bars are open, but the main body is still intact. Robins have been around for some days. A few have tapped their sugar busines, but others are unable to do so owing to lack of help. We understand the first run was good, but it has not been so good since. It is early yet to be sure of meadows and fall grain, but so far they appear to be fair.

Mr. K. J. Crawford, of Kingston, was welcomed to the United Church pulpit here last Sunday morning.

Messrs. M. Remington, E. Foster, L. Magee, R. Johnston, and F. Gallagher made a trip to Big Island on Tuesday on business connected with the U. E. L. Cheese Factory.

Mrs. S. Simmons entertained the Woman's Association on Wednesday afternoon.

MOSCOW

Moscow, March 20. — Farmers are getting ready for maple syrup season. A number have already tapped their trees and the consensus of opinion seems to be that 1942 may be a record year.

The proprietors of cheese factories throughout the community have their plants about ready for the season's operations, and, notwithstanding the labor situation, it looks as if more cheese will be manufactured this year than was made in 1941.

It is not often that one meets 30 hogs on the road, being driven on foot for six miles. This interesting spectacle was seen the other day, when Mr. Edgar Drew drove this number from his place of residence there to his farm west of Colebrook. Another way to conserve rubber.

Mr. Laverne Huffman has rented his farm to Mr. Melbourn Brooks for a term of years. Mr. Huffman has procured a position in Kingston.

Mr. Malcolm Townsend was recently married to Mrs. Gertrude Myers who has been living in Cleveland for some years. Mr. Townsend is one of Moscow's successful farmers.

CROYDON

Croydon, March 23. — Our snow has disappeared and the robins and spring birds are here. Also a number of farmers have tapped, which reminds one that spring is just around the corner.

Our Red Cross Unit met at the home of Miss Acres Nolan on Thursday and completed three more quilts for war work. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Stanley Doupe's on Thursday, March 26th.

Mr. Will McKeown, of Kingston, spent the week-end at his home here.

Mr. Harold South has bought Mr. Tom Deline's farm at Roblindale, and intends to take possession with his wife and family, this week.

Mrs. Herb. Bawn and sons, Roy and Jack, spent over the week end with the former's mother, Mrs. McAdams, at the home of Mrs. Abe Whiteman, Marlbank.

Miss Doris Vandervoort, of Newburgh, spent a few days with Mrs. Robert Doupe and Mr. Doupe.

Mrs. D. M. Paul, of Kingston, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. W. B. Close, and Mr. Close.

Mrs. Ethel Doupe is at Tamworth nursing Mrs. Adam Milligan, after nursing Mr. Geo. Black, who was ill with lagrippe for a couple of weeks.

Miss Freda Cousins, of Marlbank, spent a few days at the home of Mr. Stewart Close.

Mr. Denik Robinson, of Battersea, was calling on several friends last week, before going on the boat to sail.

MORVEN

Morven, March 23. — A very pleasant afternoon was spent at the Red Cross quilting on Thursday at Mrs. Sperry Fraser's.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bennett, of Joyceville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Venskie last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Garrison, of Oshawa, are honeymooning with relatives and friends in this locality.

Messrs. Robert VanOrder and Oliver Henderson, of Glenvale, spent Wednesday at George Fralick's.

Rev. J. N. Lovelace and Mrs. Lovelace, of Redneersville; Miss Bessie Heywood, of Oshawa, and Mrs. W. B. Clark spent a few days at Mrs. Henwood's.

Mrs. Frank Lake is visiting at Mrs. Sperry Fraser's.

A very successful evening was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Perry on March 17th. The proceeds of the evening are to be used for war work.

YARKER

Yarker, March 23. — The Public School Junior Red Cross held a very successful afternoon tea and bazaar on Friday. There was a very fine display of homemade articles for sale, including quilts, cushion tops, magazine and tie racks, etc. Great credit is due the teachers, Mrs. Valentine and Miss Hamilton, for the very efficient way in which the pupils carried out the whole program.

Miss Madelon Greer, R.N., of Toronto, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith and sons, and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Smith, of Kingston, were tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Greenway on Sunday.

Mrs. James Pero and daughters, Marjorie and Beverly, of Sudbury, are visiting Mrs. Pero's father, Mr. M. Card.

Mrs. W. Hall is spending a few days with her daughter, Miss Ileana Hall, Ottawa.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, March 23. — Owing to the fact that Rev. W. H. Truscott underwent an operation in the General Hospital, Kingston, on Wednesday of last week, there were no Sunday services at the Marlbank, Reidville and Tamworth United Churches. It is expected that Mr. Truscott will be home some time this week. Mrs. Truscott is staying with her husband while in the hospital.

The marriage of Miss Pelorine York, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell York, to Mr. Elmer LaPointe, of Kingston, took place at the rectory on Friday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Ware performed the marriage ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Carscallen and family, of Kingston, spent the week end visiting relatives in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Craig, of Kingston, were week end visitors in the village.

A delightful St. Patrick's tea was held at the rectory on March 17th. A large number of ladies and a few gentlemen patronized the event. The living room and tables were tastefully decorated. Mrs. E. M. Pedley poured tea, and Miss Jean Bell received the guests.

Although there was plenty of snow in this part of the country, it is nearly gone, as the mild weather and rains recently have gradually taken it away.

There have been several good runs of sap and farmers who have maple trees to tap are busy taking care of that commodity while the season is on.

This year in particular the maple sugar and sugar making industry will be of great benefit, on account of the sugar regulations.

COLEBROOK

Colebrook, March 21.—Mrs. Salisbury entertained the members of the Yarker-Colebrook W. M. S. on Thursday evening, March 12th. There was a very good attendance. The worship service was taken by Mrs. Ruttan, assisted by Mesdames Fletcher, Purcell and Hawley. Mrs. R. Freeman gave two interesting temperance readings, and the Study Book was ably taken by Mrs. Thompson. Roll call was answered by a verse on "Spring". The President, Mrs. Purcell, took charge of the business. "Sunshine Bags" were given out to the members. The meeting was closed by a hymn and prayer by Mrs. Ruttan. A dainty lunch was served at the close by the hostess.

Mrs. Clark, of Murvale, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. Youmans.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Galbraith and son, Bobby, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Babcock, Harrowsmith.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kitchen, of Belleville, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. Boyce on Monday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Wartman, of Kingston, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hart on Sunday.

On Friday evening last the "Sure Gain" people put on an entertainment in the Orange Hall. There was a good attendance and the entertainment was enjoyed by all.

We are sorry to report the illness of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson and Mr. Geo. Jackson, who are confined to their home with a bad attack of 'flu.

A unique event occurred on St. Patrick's night, when the ladies of the Woman's Association of the United Church served a supper in the Orange Hall. One of the chief attractions of the supper was an old-fashioned "Irish Stew". A short program followed the supper and was as follows: Community singing, led by Rev. Mr. Fletcher, who also acted as chairman; readings by Miss Dorothy Kerr, Mrs. P. Galbraith and Reid Wagar; songs by Mr. and Mrs. H. Gilligan and the Misses Betty and Rosina Love. Mrs. McKnight put on a contest, which was won by Mrs. Harold Stover. The National Anthem brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Purcell on the birth of a grandson, a baby boy having arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Paul, Switzerville, on the 18th of March.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Jaynes were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Youmans on Sunday evening.

THE FACTS OF LONG LIFE

* In the well-fished waters of Ontario the pike may live a short life, though some one, for pike have lived to be 150 years old! No such life span is claimed for Hydro Long-Life Lamps. But the fact remains—these longer-burning lamps do give you hundreds more hours of service. Remember this when you're considering wartime economies. Also, that Hydro lamps cost no more!

In the Garden

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Biggest Crops For volume of crop per square yard of soil employed, vegetables are easily the biggest yielding crop one can grow. Not only can most lines be grown close together but with some things like radish, spinach, lettuce and carrots, for instance, a second can be harvested in a single season.

Small vegetables like lettuce and radish require rows 15 inches apart. Beets, beans, carrots, peas and spinach need 18 inches between, while potatoes, corn and staked tomatoes must have a couple of feet to thirty inches. Space may be saved with the latter type if something quick-maturing such as lettuce and spinach are planted in between. The bigger things will not need the full room at first and by the time they do, the early crops will be out of the way.

If room is extremely limited, the experts advise confining vegetables to such abundant yielders as beans, lettuce, carrots beets, celery, and possibly staked tomatoes. A few feet or row of any of these will supply many meals for a small family. The expert who appreciates garden freshness would also include peas and corn on the "must" list. These things it is true, take up much room and at least 25 feet of row is needed for a worthwhile crop, but only from the garden right at the door can really fresh corn and peas be obtained.

Lawn Work Grass is a cool-weather plant. Any work with lawns should be started as quickly in the Spring as possible. Experts point out, however, that this does not mean that the soil should be worked while it is still wet. That sort of thing never helps in any kind of gardening. But once one can walk over the ground without getting shoes muddy then the rake can be brought into play.

In both new lawns or patching, the soil should be raked fine and level. Authorities advise sowing only the highest quality seed mixtures and as thick as directions specify. To get even results it is best to make a double sowing, one across and one lengthwise. Small patches can be protected from the birds by brush.

Both new and old lawns benefit from rolling while the ground is still soft. Grass, like any other plant, benefits from rich soil and an annual application of fertilizer. This improves the growth so much that many weeds are naturally crowded out. Color, too, benefits from fertilizer.

Hot Beds A hot-bed for starting garden seeds early is usually prepared in March. It consists of a bed of fresh horse manure, which supplies the heat about 18 inches deep. On this, two or three inches of fine soil is placed and after the bed has heated up and then cooled down again (a matter of three or four days) the seed is sown in rows a few inches apart. The bed is protected by rough boarding along the side and on top, and sloping towards the South about 10 to 18 inches above the bed is placed a window sash well glassed. If only a few plants are wanted, these may be started from seeds sown in flat boxes indoors and placed in sunny windows.

Planting Orders Flowers and vegetables divide themselves into three general groups — hardy, semi-hardy and tender. In the seed catalogue and on the packets these are the general descriptions used, and this information provides the key to plant, ing time in any part of the Dominion.

The first group can be put in just as soon as the soil is fit to work, this means when one can get out and dig without raising any mud. Soil fit for working or planting should crumble, not pack into a ball, the experts point out.

Among the very hardy are spinach lettuce, radish and peas, among the vegetables, and most of the poppies, cosmos, batchelor buttons and sweet peas, among the flowers. Late, severe frost will not hurt these things. Usually the sooner they are planted the better.

In the semi-hardy line, vegetables and flowers which will stand a light frost or two, would be beets, beans, potatoes and corn in the vegetable line, and zinnias, calendulas, calliopsis in the flowers.

The tender plants are those which will not stand any frost at all. If up above ground when the night suddenly turns cold and the mercury falls below 32 degrees then only a miracle will save them from blackening. In this delicate line are the melons, cucumbers, peppers, pumpkins among the vegetables, and gladiolus, dahlias, cannas, in flowers.

Flowers That Fit There are flower gardens that fit almost any situation. For those people who have neither the time nor inclination there are plenty of annual flowers that thrive almost on neglect. A little digging of the ground in late Spring is about all that is required. Take such things as alyssum, dwarf marigolds, portulaca and California poppies for edging. These are little flowers that almost seed themselves, crowd out weeds, do well in any location but prefer sun and light soil. Once started they will look after themselves.

For the centre of beds or near the back, larger flowers such as calendula, nasturtium, poppy and phlox will make a good showing, and for screens, castor beans, dahlias, cosmos, sunflower, tall marigold, are advised.

For scent, especially in the evening, a few nicotine, carnations, mignonette or stocks will perfume the whole garden.

NEWBURGH FREE METHODIST W. M. S.

Mrs. George Wartman opened her home for the March meeting of the W. M. S. The president, Mrs. (Rev.) Stevenson presided. The devotional exercises consisted of singing and Bible reading and prayer. The roll call was answered from suitable clippings. Mrs. Ward Wartman gave a talk calling attention to the great needs of missionaries, some of whom are in internment camps. She also reminded us of self-denial week for missions. Mrs. Anson McKeown gave a reading and Mr. and Mrs. McLeod sang a duet that impressed their hearers with the thought little is much if God is in it. The president spoke encouraging words, stressing prayer. One new member was added to the roll. The pastor gave a short talk. The singing of the W. M. S. doxology and the benediction closed a very helpful meeting.

TYENDINAGA EAST W. I.

The Tyendinaga East Womens Institute held its monthly meeting on March 13th, at the home of Mrs. Dorland Windover. Mrs. A. Wadingham presided and opened the meeting with the ode and the Lord's Prayer. The roll was answered by suggestions for Best Year's Program. Corrrspondence was read, followed by a discussion on quilts. Mrs. F. Husband has offered her home for a quilting. Mrs. D. Windover gave a demonstration on making a fruit salad.

Mrs. D. Waddingham had charge of the program, which consisted of several readings and The Age contest.

The meeting was brought to a close and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and her committee. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Windover for their kind hospitality in their new home.

NAPANEE ACCEPTS $100,000 INCREASE IN EQUALIZED ASSESSMENT

Reductions Made in Assessment of Several Townships in County

The Special Committee on Equalization of Assessments of the minor municipalities of the County of Lennox and Addington, made a report at the March Session of the County Council, held last week, which recommended the equalized assessment of the Town of Napanee be raised $100,000 and the $100,000 addition to Napanee's assessments, be taken off the assessments of the other municipalities, which were still assessed higher than the court's award handed out in 1939.

The report of the committee was accepted. The committee was composed of Messrs. J. W. Shurtliff, E. J. Guinevu, T. D. Creighton, W. A. McLeod, J. H. Brandon, C. M. Strathy, F. Neilson, Victor Edgar, J. G. Sly and Edgar Drew.

Of this total $10,225,000 was the profits from the sale of liquor, beer and wines, while $575,000 was realized on the sale of permits. The amount received by the Province from the preceding year was $9,475,000.

IF IT IS TRUE

The Toronto Daily Star reports a Toronto City Council meeting at which one of the Aldermen, Leslie Saunders, had this to say: "People are flocking to dances as usual, the theatres are crowded, the beer parlors are filled. Everywhere there are bingos and raffles, hockey, sporting events and skating carnivals. The people are pleasure mad. There is no let-up in their pursuit of pleasure." Now, we have no way of checking up on this statement. We do not know, we have no evidense as to the increase of the various items which Mr. Saunders enumerated. But, we assume that Mr. Saunders, being in a rather responsible position, would scarcely make that sort of statement without having the facts to back it up.

Assuming it is true, the reason is not far to seek. There is more money being distributed to-day than for years. Men, women and youths are all now employed, and while basic wages are stabilized, yet they are sufficient to buy a bit more than the necessities of life.

Then, too, there is the psychological condition which war breeds. There is a certain exhilaration in the pace at which we all live. We are keyed up. Consequently, people seek relaxation in the various forms of entertainment and excitement which the modern world provides. To be sure it is not a healthy condition. The Government has done something to curb is by increasing taxation, curtailing purchasable goods, rationing gasoline and tires. This mood, however, is not easily curbed; stopped at one point it is reflected at another. There is just how what has been called a buying spree. Men and women are buying recklessly. One dealer we interviewed, this week, had sold four suits of clothes to one man, while scores had bought two suits. It is all part of the mood of the day. It is fortunate indeed that a ceiling has been placed on prices, otherwise the prices would have skyrocketed before this, and there would be the clamor for higher wages. The vicious spiral would have been well on its way.

This all is a serious state of affairs, particularly at a time when the nation needs all the help, all the sacrifice of time and money, people can give. To be sure there is need of diversion. When people are going under the strain of war, it is reasonable that they should demand some outlet for their pent-up emotions; and there can be no objection to entertainment of a legitimate sort, enjoyed in moderation

While we are agreed that the Government has done a good job in some directions, it is inconceivable that no change has been made in the sale of liquor. That traffic should be drastically curbed, and further taxed. There can be no doubt that in day like this, when money is plentiful and emotions run high, the Government will have to exercise a good deal more authority over the personal lives of our people, than it has yet done. Rationing of a lot of other commodities is almost overdue, and certainly restrictions on the sale of alcoholic beverages must be increased.

V

MUST DO SOMETHING

The exigencies of war have made many changes in the economic and political life of Canada. The Rowell-Sirois Commission recommendations, the acceptance of which Premier Mackenzie King said was necessary to an all-out prosecution of the war, was rejected, largely through the opposition of Ontario. But something was achieved when Ontario surrendered its rights to collect income and corporation taxes for the duration. This, it will be admitted, was a very drastic curtailment of the provincial field of revenue. The loss in revenue sustained by the Provence was, however, made up by a cash contribution to the Province, from the Dominion. Bit by bit the Provincial Government has been shorn of its strength, until now its own members speak of it as "a glorified county council." Certainly, this year there has been very little legislation passed that amounted to anything.

What is more natural than that under those circumstances the Provincial Government should be looking around for some way in which to exercise its power. It seems to have found such a field in the proposed legislation, with respect to the county councils. The suggestion is that the Provincial Government should have complete control of the affairs of the county councils. If the Dominion Government is going to keep its eye on the Provincial Government, what more natural than that the Provincial Government should keep a sharp watch over the county councils.

As a general rule the closer the council is to the people, the more economical its operation. The county councillors are known to their constituents. They know intimately the area they represent They realize often, in a way that an absentee group does not, the intimate problems of their people. As a general rule the counties are well and economically managed, especially in rural areas like our own, where every dollar is watched and its spending carefully scrutinized. There are the expected exceptions. Because of overspending the financial situation in these during the depression, was so serious that they had to be administered by the Provincial Government; but these were the exception rather than the rule.

It is impossible to pass final judgment on the Government's present proposal until the Bill, in its final form, has been made public. In spite of our desire to keep control of our affairs in our own hands, which in the main, have been very well handled, yet there is some advantage in having an absentee group which will watch that there be no reckless expenditures. It may be that the Government has in mind the experience of the post-war period of 1920, on. It was during those years that this county, as well as all others, embarked on an ambitious programme of road building. Later, developments justified the building of the roads, and wet, it might be well to have some group watch, lest after the present war, when we once again have to spend money, it be economically and carefully handled.

That is about as far as we ought to go in the meantime, to hand all the powers of the Councils over to the Provincial Government, would make the county virtually useless. And yet, we must be prepared for changes. It is folly to assume that in a changing world we shall escape the adjustments necessary to streamline our whole life and bring it in conformity to the life of the new world.

V

IS IT TOO LATE ?

Great Britain has offered India dominion status on the conclusion of the war. If this can be done now, it could have been done before. Are we once again to lament, too late. We hope not. "If we quarrel about our yesterdays, we have already lost our to-morrow," that is what Premier Churchill has said; and his own life his own conduct since the war started, has amply supported that sentiment. No word of blame for those who, in the past refused his advice and left England unprepared, has ever escaped his lips. It is the "now," and the to-morrow, that matters.

Now, Japan is threatening India. Her armies, her navy and her aeroplanes are at the very door of the great Indian Empire—with its fabled riches and its great unexplored resources. The fall of Singapore has had dire consequences for the British Empire, and in the face of this threat, is an India, with four hundred million people, taking only a half-hearted interest in what is going on — certainly showing no great enthusiasm for the defence of their own land.

And so Great Britain offers India dominion status. Great Britain suggests that India should be ruled in her own house That is what the Indian leaders have wanted. That is what they have been agitating for through the years. Will they accept it ? That is soon to be decided, but already there is dissention. The problem would be a simple one if India were a united nation. We in Canada have some experience with minorities. We have a large French-Canadian minority which constitutes a difficulty for any government. Well, if we have difficulty with one racial group, it is not difficult to imagine the trouble that would be laid up in store for those who would govern four hundred million people with a dozen or more large and influential bodies, separated, even each other by religion, caste and racial allegiance. The two largest groups are, roughly, the Moslems, 90,000,000 and the Hindoos, 300,000,000. It might appear, on the surface, that the offer would be acceptable, at once. But there is one point at which there is serious difference of opinion. While Great Britain offers complete dominion status to India, there is a provision in the proposal, whereby the states which do not wish to enter the Union, may remain out. If a number of these were to elect to remain out of the union, the result would be division within India. It might well be that the condition of national rivalries ,hatreds and bitternesses, which have been the curse of Europe, would be established in this separate area, with its 400,000,000 souls. For Great Britain to have left out this provision on the other hand, would have laid her open to the charge of coercing the minorities. It looks like a good solution to one of the most difficult and vexed world problems. The fate of India now rests in the hands of the people themselves.

The fact that Sir Stafford Cripps is presenting the British case should give the people of India and the Indian leaders, particularly, great confidence in the fairness with which the new constitution has been presented. Sir Stafford Cripps, one of the most brilliant minds in Great Britain, has been anathame to the old Conservative Imperialist in Great Britain. He was even considered too radical for the Labour Party and was deprived of his membership in its ranks. But, more than any other, when the times demanded it, the British Government found in him that spirit and those qualities which held the respect of the world outside Great Britain. It was largely to his masterly handling of the Russian situation that the Russians became convinced of Great Britain's sincerity, and because of this, the Russians are, today, closely allied with Britain in the struggle to overthrow Hitler. If any man can solve the Indian problem, Cripps is the man. It is to be devoutly hoped that he may succeed.

DANDELIONS

Now that the Russians have discovered how to make tires of dandelions, we ought to be happy in the prospect of "growing our own." There are lots of dandelions in the making on Napanee lawns and around fences, and in amon gthe meadows. One little fly in the ointment is that the kind of dandelions we grow are not the same as those that the Russians are going to make rubber from. But, maybe if the Russians make heavy duty tires from Kok-sagyz, we might be able to make threeply tires from our brand, or at any rate bicycle tires—and even bicycle tires would be something, these days.

Anyway, we will just have to be patient a little while until theses rather clever folk from the Volga, tell us how to do it. Already, Mr. Cecil Lamont, of Winnipeg, representative of

BOYS AND GIRLS CALLED TO THE COLORS

Britain has placed another huge army in the front line of the fight against Hitlerism, with the New Year registration of 1,500,000 boys and girls between sixteen and eighteen for national service. Britain's man — and woman — power, from sixteen to fifty-one, now forms one unbroken battle line, each individual with his or her appointed task in the war effort.

About thirty-three per cent of the boys and girls in England and Wales affected by the new registration are already attached to voluntary organizations or doing duties of national importance. The remainder, as they register, are being directed to youth organizations where they will receive preliminary training.

Those still receiving full-time education are registering with the other boys and girls but are being asked to take up some form of national service in the afternoons. In most instances, scholars and teachers are putting in many weekly hours of "overtime" in war work.

The interviews which follow registration are carried out in an informal and friendly manner. Local education authorities in each area arrange the interviews and boys and girls are free to volunteer or enroll for the type of work or training they prefer. Young people already working under considerable strain in industry, and others fully occupied after working hours with continued education or domestic work, are not being called upon.

Strange Chances of War

Mr. J. Chuter Ede, M.P., Parliamentary Secretary to Britain's Board of Education, and Chairman of the National Youth Committee, says of this new scheme:

"Suddenly by the strange chances of war, the youth committees and the voluntary organizations have been presented with a spectacular opportunity to prove their worth to the nation. If we seize it and make an outstanding success of it, which with resolute effort we can, we shall have prepared an instrument for self-realization and self-expression from which will be fashioned a truly democratic citizenship, when peace returns."

But this calling-up of the nation's youth is proving no simple affair. Youth organizations, already working to full schedule, are being hard put to find themselves deluged by thousands of new members. The cry at the moment is for more leaders.

In England and Wales today every county and county borough has its Youth Committee. There are more than 200 paid secretaries and during the past year no fewer than 3,000 leaders attended special courses organized by the Board of Education, voluntary societies and local authorities.

Nevertheless, the need for more and more of these trained workers remains urgent. The bigger youth organizations, such as the Girl Guides Council of Girls' Clubs, the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., employ many on a full-time basis, but still the demand far outstrips the supply.

The Y.W.C.A., for example, with a total membership of 55,000, has a continuous demand for leaders in its 260 clubs — over seventy of which have been opened since the outbreak of war, in accordance with the Board of Education's "Service for Youth" program.

Boy and Girl Scouts

The Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and other voluntary organizations which do not employ salaried workers are in a still more difficult position. The scouts have lost sixty per cent. of their scoutmasters to the colors and although Rover Scouts have come to their rescue in supply of leaders from this body is dwindling as the demands of the uniformed services increase. In the old-established Boys Brigade organization, the number of voluntary organizers has already dropped from 2,000 to 10,000.

But despite the immediate difficulties facing the youth and educational authorities and the British Minister of Labour and National Service, Mr. Bevin, is confident that youth into the war effort is going ahead.

A new type of youth organization has come into being, its existence directly attributable to the demands of the present. It is, for instance, the flourishing Air Training Corps, which, in its first nine months of the old peacetime Air Force Cadets organization. This now includes one in every three of its boys in the age of sixteen and eighteen in the country. The other two services have their Sea Cadets and Sea Scouts, although here expansion has been slower.

A.R.P. Messengers

In the air-raid centres of Britain, thousands of the nation's youth are playing a vital part. Liverpool, for instance, has more than 2,000 fully trained boys who go on active duty each night to man their posts throughout the city.

There are similar organizations in half a dozen other great cities while in every township in the country A.R.P. messengers are on nightly duty ready to play their part in relaying the communications open throughout the heaviest Blitz. Many have already received decorations for gallantry.

In the agricultural areas, too, youth is proving a firm and reliable squads are making their contributions to the war effort in a dozen different ways.

Mobilized for victory, the youth of Britain will not fail her.

TEACHING BY MICROFILM

Microfilm, on which a 500-page book may be reduced until its cost is a two-inch spool, is proving its worth in the teaching of social science, as experimenting at American college professor has found.

Dr. William T. Bovie, formerly of Harvard, films some of the course textbooks and lets the pupils study by means of a lantern-slide projector. He makes "stills" from the film and allows the students to incorporate them into their course these. Pictures of the printed pages taken on microfilm reduce the original— and who has the use of an extensive volume—to the 35mm size of the tiny celluloid.

Each film placed on the window of a projecting machine or "reader," and a bright light shining through it, an image is thrown on a screen of such a size that the original text can easily be read.

It can be conveniently stored.

Newspapers have long been recorded in this fashion so thaty can be conveniently stored.

POOLING THE RESOURCES OF THE UNITED NATIONS

Points From an Address by Lord Beaverbrook, to the House of Lords, February 12th, 1942. Then Minister of War Production, he will now serve in Washington, D.C. on Pooling of Resources.

. . . I do not think the country generally realizes the nature and extent of the arrangements made by the Prime Minister (when he was in Washington). We not only pooled all weapons produced in the United States and Great Britain, as well as in the other Allied countries, but we have created a joint board to dispose of those weapons. We also pooled all raw materials. All stocks of Britain and the United States are at the disposal of this joint board. The raw materials now in custody with the Ministry of Supply, are no longer be regarded as its property, but will be fashioned a truly democratic citizenship, when peace returns."

But this calling-up of the nation's youth is proving no simple affair. Youth organizations, already working to full schedule, are being hard put to find themselves deluged by thousands of new members. The cry at the moment is for more leaders.

A.R.P. Messengers

In the air-raid centres of Britain, thousands of the nation's youth are playing a vital part. Liverpool, for instance, has more than 2,000 fully trained boys who go on active duty each night to man their posts throughout the city.

There are similar organizations in half a dozen other great cities while in every township in the country A.R.P. messengers are on nightly duty ready to play their part in relaying the communications open throughout the heaviest Blitz. Many have already received decorations for gallantry.

In the agricultural areas, too, youth is proving a firm and reliable squads are making their contributions to the war effort in a dozen different ways.

Mobilized for victory, the youth of Britain will not fail her.

TEACHING BY MICROFILM

Microfilm, on which a 500-page book may be reduced until its cost is a two-inch spool, is proving its worth in the teaching of social science, as experimenting American college professor has found.

Dr. William T. Bovie, formerly of Harvard, films some of the course textbooks and lets the pupils study by means of a lantern-slide projector. He makes "stills" from the film and allows the students to incorporate them into their course these. Pictures of the printed pages taken on microfilm reduce the original— and who has the use of an extensive volume—to the 35mm size of the tiny celluloid.

Each film placed on the window of a projecting machine or "reader," and a bright light shining through it, an image is thrown on a screen of such a size that the original text can easily be read.

It can be conveniently stored.

Newspapers have long been recorded in this fashion so thaty can be conveniently stored.

the Northwest fine elevators, has gone to Ottawa to try and get some dandelion seeds from Russia, in time to grow them this year. There are farmers around here who can recall how, as boys, they nearly broke their backs pulling out sweet clover which was considered a noxious weed. To-day those same farmers are growing it for seed. The first thing we know we may all be growing dandelions as a patriotic service. And now, if someone would come along with a formula to make gasoline out of mustard and prestone out of thistles, we might be able to run the old bus, after all.

POOLING THE RESOURCES OF THE UNITED NATIONS

Points From an Address by Lord Beaverbrook, to the House of Lords, February 12th, 1942. Then Minister of War Production, he will now serve in Washington, D.C. on Pooling of Resources.

. . . I do not think the country generally realizes the nature and extent of the arrangements made by the Prime Minister (when he was in Washington). We not only pooled all weapons produced in the United States and Great Britain, as well as in the other Allied countries, but we have created a joint board to dispose of those weapons. We also pooled all raw materials. All stocks of Britain and the United States are at the disposal of this joint board. The raw materials now in custody with the Ministry of Supply, are no longer be regarded as its property, disposable by the Minister. The distribution of those raw materials depends on the joint board which sits in Washington.

Ships and all shipping also pass under a joint board. The board sits in Whashington and Great Britain, but all these arrangements must be taken into account as altering and changing entirely conditions of war production in Great Britain. The Minister of Production disposes of all questions arising relative to these new boards in Washington which controls the results of our labours in weapons and raw materials. . . . .

ALLOTMENT IS THE TASK

Undoubtedly the United States will shortly become the principal source of supply. In the nature of things it must be the biggest source. Canada is of high importance, too, and must have a rapidly growing output. Canada has all the facilities for promoting output. . . . When all sources of supply have been tapped, there comes a question of allotment, and it is an allotment to the Allied nations for the purpose of prosecuting the war that requires consultation in Washington and Moscow. Nonetheless, allotment is the task and duty of the Minister of Production. The Production Minister's second task is to insist upon the utmost development of resources in Britain to get as much as possible from factories here. When it comes to operating factories, the responsibility and duty of production rests upon ministers in charge of supply departments. I have no such responsibility. I must promote and stimulate production, but other ministers must be held responsible in the future for the management and direction of production. They are entitled to all credit and must have a measure of praise which should come from the public to those giving rising charts of production. I must look for tasks from their hands or interefere with their operations.

The Minister of Production must give warning of waste in factories, a must attack idleness. That involves the elimination of overlapping operations, correction of errors, coordination of labors of those working for different ministers.

As to the Ministry of Supply's output, the production in finished munitions actually doubled in the last six or seven months. Not every item has doubled. Some items have certainly fallen short of a one hundred per cent. increase. Others have reached a five-fold increase. . . .

RECORD PRODUCTION OF TANKS

In January, the Ministry of Supply had a record production of tanks—the output of a year ago. The first Tank Week since the days of Mr. Duncan took over the Ministry is in progress. It is hoped that our twopounder guns in December was at the rate of 30,000 yearly. In January, it reached what represented a total of 33,500 yearly—an increase in a single month of more than ten per cent. on a very high figure. . . .

A minister engaged in war production has many trials, much anxiety and plenty of disappointments, particularly in the manufacture of new weapons. But the Ministry of Production's main task must necessarily be the adequate flow of war weapons from the development of them. Is there any shortage of these weapons? At present the answer is different. If we had no obligations to foreign countries, if we could keep for ourselves all that we produce, there would be on shortage. But it has been impossible to keep all the weapons we produce. We must produce a great deal more than the total demands of foreign countries. We have to supply to the Russians and the Dominions, the which production must be raised 100 per cent.

In 1941 we sent 9,781 aircraft from the United Kingdom against 2,134 brought in — so on balance we sent 7,600 abroad. This burden on the aircraft industry is the heaviest. We have sent abroad about 3,000 tanks. We have imported only 200 tanks — so we have supplied the Allies, Dominions and our own troops with the vast number of tanks. In addition, vast numbers were sent direct from the United States to the Middle East, and Canadian tanks have also been sent direct.

This strain on our resources is very great. We have been through two crises in relation to production—the battles which taxed our staying power to the utmost. Twice we were called on to put forth everything we could in the way of production. The first was in the days of Dunkirk. We were short in aircraft and created new types almost from almost nothing. Damaged aircraft were sent back to be made good in fragments, and we assembled the damaged pieces into new aircraft. The second battle was the battle for Moscow when tanks were the great, urgent and pressing need. British tanks played a very big part in the defense of Moscow. We have fulfilled our obligations to Russia for war munitions up to January 1st, 1942, excepting for one tank, which was a delayed item. That is a record we are entitled to take amidst our sacrifices. By carrying out our pledge to the Russians we have created a fund of trust, and have gained their confidence in us. . . .

"IF WE ARE TO KEEP FAITH"

We have a great deal more to do. We must make good very shortly, under terms of a protocol signed recently between the Governments of Russia and Britain, the following supplies for increasing shipments on dates which are rapidly approaching. The Ministry of Supply and the craft industry are already hard at for that additional strain. Needs for production at home and abroad press upon us constantly. We have to scatter our munitions in the form of munitions stockpiles if we are to keep faith with our soldiers and airmen and all the foreign armies dependent on us.

Three factors must immediately be taken into account . . . The first is machine tools and labor. In machine tools production has increased by 50 per cent. . . . In the last three months of 1941, our stocks and the production of raw machine tools outstripped a thing that had gone before. Not long ago we had plenty of machine tools, but now the problem is very different. . . . Many of the supply for both rubber and tin are in Japanese hands. . . . We have a great new project for the manufacture of synthetic rubber. Already the production has been undertaken in Canada and Washington to provide synthetic rubber to make up for crude rubber we have lost. The combined budget for these projects for producing 400,000 tons of synthetic rubber in a year. We expect to get 50,000 tons for Britain. It is proposed to increase the American output of synthetic rubber to 600,000 tons.

The need for economy in the use of steel in America and Canada has been launched for consolidating the combined production resources of Britain and America. . . . we shall get our due proportion of the combined output of raw materials. It is to Washington we must look. It is there that decision will be taken as to how to share the requirements of the United States, Britain and Russia will come up for examination and review . . .

COORDINATION OF PRODUCTION

Machine tools, now in short supply, are another factor in production. Nine months ago it appeared that machine tools output was on a very big figure—would equal our requirements, backed up by the output of machine tools which we obtained from America. All that has gone now. The United States was on the verge of us a huge supply of machine tools. But now it faces the problem of investing in new plant necessary for machine tools at home.

It is now the Minister of Production's duty to see that the limited field of machine tool production must take note of the United States output—for the United States must co-ordinate, in conjunction with United States authorities, the whole output of both countries. In particular, care must be taken to increase the production of machine tools at home. That will receive careful and determined attention. It seems likely the machine tool output of Great Britain can be developed to a certain extent. Firms in the manufacture of machine tools are working with much attention to increasing the output.

"A LITTLE EXTRA EFFORT"

Lastly, there is labor. Many of that labor comes from the supervision of the Ministry of Production. The statement has been made widely and has been frequently received in many directions. If I may be allowed to use a superlative expression, the proposition is not correct. The Production Minister has no right to deal with the difficult and complex questions concerning the welfare of labor, save only as many other employer for the minister is an employer concerned with many of the speeding up of output. It is the duty of the Labor Minister to safeguard and enforce the interests of labor in all the factories throughout the land. The Production Minister could not do it — it must be the task of the Minister of Labor. . . .

We have established immense sabotage from our relations with the working people throughout the country. I could tell of many cases on occasion when I have asked some thing more — a little extra effort here, a little bit more there — again and again, I received the most splendid support from them. . . .

It is with this account of the prospects, hopes and expectations of the Minister of Production that I leave you of my earnest intention to do everything in my power to fulfil the high expectations that many have formed of my administration.

THE GOOD TOWN

Traveling salesmen get a real view of the towns through which they drive. If you get them to talking, they will tell you that certain towns are "good towns," and that is a good thing to say. You find that some of these places are years ahead, while others are standing still or falling behind. What constitutes the difference ?

The "good town" is one that has a business and civic spirit, a progressive disposition, a willingness to adopt new ideas, and a willingness to enthuse about the home community, willingness to work hard to make its business and civic interests go forward, and willingness to push civic projects through to success. It has faith to believe that Napanee is a town. Let us make it even so.

If people are not loyal to their families, these families lose a support in their efforts. And if people do not feel that loyalty to home town calls on them to support goods at home, the money goes from this lack of fine backing.

Danger! Liver Trouble is Serious

Are you nervous and irritable — can't sleep or eat — tired out all the time? If you're like that, a faulty liver is poisoning your whole system! Lasting ill health may be the cost!

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important as regards health. It supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands. If healthy, your body lacks this energy and becomes enfeebled — youthful vim disappears. When your liver pours out bile to digest food, and get rid of waste and allow proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order proper digestion and nourishment can't occur. You're poisoned with the waste that decomposes in your intestines. Nervous attacks and rheumatic pains arise from this poison. You become constipated, stomach and bowels can't work properly. The whole system is affected and you feel "rotten," headachy, backachy, dizzy, tired out — a ready prey to sickness and disease.

Thousands of people are never sick, and have the prompt relief from these miseries with Dr. Edwards' Fruit-a-tives Liver Tablets." The liver is toned up, the other organs function normally and lasting good health results. Take "Improved Fruit-a-tives" — Canada's best selling liver tablets. They must be good! Ask them yourself NOW! Let "Fruit-a-tives" put you back on the road to lasting health — like a new person. 25c, 50c.

Fruit-a-tives" soon made me better and there is nothing like it for making you well and keeping you fine. Now pep and energy. After years of bad health — Fruit-a-tives" has made me feel like a new woman.

GERMANY'S LABOR PROBLEM

BY JAMES G. SIMONDS

The German needs for more troops to replace losses and at the same time for more workers to keep up production of war supplies are becoming steadily more pressing as the latter months draw to a close and the time approaches when Hitler's armies can again undertake large-scale military operations.

Experiences of the Russian campaign last month by German military leaders that it is better to use Germans as troops, and this lesson is being put into effect by bringing hundreds of thousands of foreign workers from other European countries to work in German war industries, freeing Germans for duty at the front.

Already Germany has more than 1,000,000 foreign workers, including part-prisoners-of-war, in production in the Third Reich, and the Nazi government is steadily increasing its numbers by campaigns to enlist men in the countries under German occupation.

Foreign workers are divided into three categories. The first are the war prisoners, who have been brought to Germany after the defeat. They number about 2,000,000. A second group, of about 1,000,000 were conscripted from both conquered territories and nations friendly to the Axis. Some come into Germany on labor contracts, while a third group consists of more than 1,000,000 Poles, who are virtual prisoners, have no privileges and are treated far worse than the members of the two other groups.

According to the best available German estimates, on September 25, there were 2,193,553 foreigners, not prisoners of war, working in Germany. Of these, 1,067,561 were Poles. All the others except the Poles receive the same treatment as that accorded to German workers.

Next in numbers to the Poles come the Italians, with about 271,000 workers in Germany; the Czechs, with 140,000; the Belgians, 121,000; the Yugoslavs, 108,000 and the Dutch, over 100,000. Since September 25, the Germans have made strenuous efforts to get Spaniards and Greeks working throughout Europe and the figures may have gone up considerably.

When Italy fell on Sept. 12, the German press announced that the 250,000th Belgian worker had signed his labor contract with Germany. He was Flemish and had been released from a Nazi prison camp in October, 1940. He will serve as a metal worker in a large aircraft factory in Germany.

The Germans made a special celebration in Brussels to mark the event which they said meant that, including those employed in Germany, more than 1,000,000 Belgians were now employed directly or indirectly in the German war effort.

In Norway, recently, the German occupational authorities have adopted a different line. They have undertaken a campaign to enlist Norwegians to go to Germany "and, thus, national agriculture on German farms, apparently a way of getting unpaid agricultural workers.

The only country in which the German authorities are recruiting their labor is Finland, where the two wars with Soviet Russia have caused a shortage of manpower. The result is were no workers available for service in Germany.

Meanwhile, the Germans are continuing a steady "combing" process in German factories to get all possible men who can be released from work as soldiers, replacing them with the newly-recruited foreigners.

The foreign labor thus has not been unsuccessful is shown in reports from neutral sources in London that during December airplane production in Germany increased 15 per cent. and submarine construction hit a new high.

Among other nationalities that are being used by the Germans as labor are a number of Ukrainians, and the Hungarian radio even reported recently that 1,500 Russians have been recruited from conquered Russian territories for such service.

In all, German estimates state that Germany now has 24,000,000 workers including these foreigners, in war industry. This is divided into 14,000,000 men and 8,400,000 women, which is 1,000,000 more women than were employed in Nazi war production before the outbreak of war.

Nazi Government officials have repeatedly called on industries not to "hoard" man-power, so that every available man and woman could be put into war production.

A Ukrainian paper published in Krakow, in occupied Poland, hinted on May 7th in an article that passed the German censors that conditions of foreign workers in Germany were not good and that it was increasingly difficult for workers who once left their homes to go to Germany to get leave to return to visit their families.

"We do not maintain that conditions are ideal and that the rights established according to the law are maintained with sanctity," the news paper article stated.

"In certain places our workers have met with displeasantness."

The attitude of Germans toward foreign workers is undergoing a change, reports from Germany indicate. The "obligation to service" idea is replacing the "free work contract," and the Nazis are pound, ing on the theme that Europe should support them as a duty because they are saving it from Communism. If this "obligation to service" were made the basis of obtaining workers for German factories it is undoubtedly true Germany would get many more workers, but their loyalty might be even more questionable than that of the workers now employed.

A recent article in a Swiss newspaper, "Die Neue Zuercher Zeitung," from a Swiss correspondent who had just visited foreign labor camps in Germany, was even more frank about conditions.

"Ruthless proceedings are taken against foreigners who do not want to understand their task and their special role, and who oppose the factory management," the correspondent wrote.

"They are at once taken by the uniformed works protective police to the frontier of their home country and dumped across the border. The same treatment is meted out to women workers who become pregnant. On principle the firm refuses to burden itself with small babies."

The Swiss correspondent encountered considerable grumbling among foreign workers as to their food rations which he said were not adequate.

"The completeness with which the Germans have taken over the foreign element is shown by the fact that they even are publishing special newspapers for these workers in Paris, Prague, Slovak, French and Danish.

Recent visits of General Keitel, chief of the German high command, to southeastern Europe, are reported to be in connection with a German plan to get more men as workers or soldiers to assist the Nazi spring offensive against Russia. Italy, Bulgaria, Rumania and even Italy are far more willing to contribute workers for German industry than they are soldiers to attack on the Russian front; thus the foreign labor army in Germany may be further increased as the season of military activity draws near, by thousands of workers from these countries.

HOW PLYWOOD IS MADE

BY MAX K. GILSTRAP
National Science Writer of
The Christian Science Monitor

Like a newspaper rolling off a press — veneer comes peeling off a log, and thus begins a story about plywood which is becoming increasingly important as a material for the production of war materials.

This pliable wood is not new, having been used as a decorative veneer by Egypt as far as 1500 B.C. Its modern development was started in the 1880's, when the production of cross-laid veneer began to emerge as an industry. Recently, new techniques and the development of synthetic resin adhesives which give it added strength, have permitted plywood to assume many uses which are freeing less available light metals for defense.

Explaining the production of plywood in the current Technology Review, Thomas D. Perry of the Resinous Products and Chemical Company of Philadelphia, says that over 90 per cent of veneer from which plywood is assembled is rotary cut on a lathe, much as paper is unrolled. The log is usually cooked in preparation for smooth cutting, and is rotated against a long knife that automatically advances into the log to regulate the desired thickness. While the widths can be no wider than the log the lengths may run as much as 18 feet in length. Usual thicknesses are 1-50 to ¼ inch.

The resulting sheets are laid one on the other, alternately at right angles, which gives plywood an advantage of the strength in the laminate wise structure of wood without including the width-wise weaknesses. In addition the original strength of wood is heightened by the adhesive. Compressed under heat which makes the aggregate strength of the integrated plywood greater than that of the wood components.

In three-ply, its simplest form, plywood has two outer layers with parallel grains, each half the thickness of the centre layer, or core, which has its grain at right angle to that of the facts. The result is a "balanced" construction. Other forms are the five-ply and multiply — 7, 9, 11 and 13 or more layers, which are often used in products where strength distribution and durability are important factors.

Another veneer construction is laminated wood, in which all layers are arranged parallel to maintain strength and stiffness. Then there is also the straight high-density plywood obtained by exerting materials with great pressures of 500 to 1,500 pounds or more.

A few of the recent plywood applications include its use as skin covering for the wings, tail parts and rudders of airplanes, partitions and bulkheads in seagoing vessels; the hulls of small boats; pontoons and pontoon bridges, life rafts, tow boats, gunstocks and prefabricated housing for defense workers.

50,000 FLIGHTS IN YEAR BY CONVOY PATROLS

The following are some leading points from a speech to the House of Commons on March 4, 1942: by Sir Archibald Sinclair, British Air Minister.

During the British fighter offensives over Europe in the last twelve months, the R. A. F. destroyed 622 enemy fighters against a loss of 537. This contrasts with German experience in the Battle of Britain when the Luftwaffe losses were vastly heavier than those inflicted.

The U-boats have been driven out of the western approaches to the British east coast and convoys have been so well protected by aircraft between Harwich and Newhaven, the most difficult section, that they come through with clock-work regularity.

The Fighter Command has flown over 50,000 sorties in the last twelve months in protecting ports and convoys and shipping. In the six months preceding November, the Royal Air Force and naval aircraft sank some 175,000 tons of enemy shipping in the Mediterranean.

Squadrons of the Army Cooperation Command, whose primary role is to train with military formations, are to be given an increased share of reconnaissance activity over enemy territory across the Channel.

The R. A. F. has employed a team of psychologists for the sole purpose of fitting square pegs into square holes. During the last six months, no less than 10,000 men and women of the R. A. F. have passed through their hands.

The R. A. F. is to receive dive bombers from America, which will shortly be available, of a type markedly superior to the Junker 87. Experience has proved, however, that dive bombers are only useful when complete or a very large measure of air superiority has already been gained. The Germans realized this, and the proportion of dive bombers to the total bombing strength of the Luftwaffe has been much reduced over the last two years. As long as the R. A. F. was short of aircraft, it had to concentrate less on special, ized types. Now that it has obtained, with more efficient fighting aircraft mastery of the air in more than one theatre of the war, it is hoped to find good use for dive bombers.

The tonnage of bombs dropped by the Bomber Command in January and February, 1942, was fifty per cent. greater than that dropped in the same period of 1941. At Wilhelmshaven out of the eight U-boats due for launching by a certain date, only three left the slips. In Hamburg, only three U-boats were launched instead of eight. Vessels of this type normally launched after two months, have been seen still on the slips after three.

Despite considerable increase in German defenses, the rate of loss in the R. A. F. (Bomber Command) was lower in December, January and February than during the preceding three months. The heaviest types of bomber have proved less vulnerable than the Wellingtons, Whitleys and Hampdens.

The new and heavier British bombers are faster than the old and should be able to maintain a consistent and continuous attack on the centres of German industry into summer.

Rev. George Telford, pastor of St. Andrew's United Church, performed the ceremony in a setting of palms and standards of snapdragons, carnations and stock. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a becoming gown of white satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice with high neckline and shirred bracelet length sleeves. From the long torso bodice fell a floor-length bouffant skirt of double white net. The circular net veil, fingertip length, was caught with a cluster of roses. Her jewelry was a triple strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet in pastel shades of roses and sweetheart roses and she carried a bouquet of pale pink roses, matching the cluster on the veil, and forget-me-nots.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served. The guests were received by the bridal couple, assisted by the bride's mother and the mother of the bridegroom. Mrs. Chapman wore a graceful gown of Nattle blue, a hat of black straw cloche with veil and elastic of matching blue flowers. Her corsage was of roses and forget-me-nots. Mrs. Garrison chose a gown of orchid crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of violets and yellow roses.

PRESENTATION TO EMPEY HILL TO PTE. McGILLIVRAY McMATH

On Friday evening, March 27th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMath was the scene of a social event when about fifty friends, neighbors and relatives assembled to honor Mrs. McGillivray McMath, of the R.C.O.C., Earrifield. The evening was spent in cards and music, but the unavoidable military duties, McGillivray was unable to be present. Following is the address:

Dear McGillivray:

As friends, neighbors and relatives we are gathered here tonight to show in a small way, the esteem in which you are held and to express our pride and good wishes for the future.

We are proud of the choice you have made and feel that you are going forth as a member of our community to do your bit in this great struggle now in progress.

May each one of us who remains at home, doing his daily task, be worthy of the sacrifice our soldier boys are called upon to make. You grew up in this community here at Empey Hill and attended school with a good many assembled here tonight and as the days and months go by we would like you to know that we will all be thinking of you and hoping for the day when all will be well in the world once more, and you will return.

As a token of our pride and affection we wish to present this watch and may it be a constant reminder of all the well wishers at home.

GAS ALLOWED U. S. TOURISTS

Ottawa, C.P.) — United States tourists in Canada, when gasoline rationing becomes effective April 1, will not be stranded without gasoline, the Motors and Supply Department said, last week.

After April 1st, tourists entering Canada, by filling in forms which permit them to remain in the Dominion for six months, will be given a special ration book without charge, but good for only 90 days. The book will entitle them to the same amount of gasoline allowed to Canadian drivers of non-essential cars during that period.

Tourists remaining more than 90 days must apply for a category "A" ration book allowing them also the same amount used by non-essential Canadian users and good for a full year.

United States tourists who entered Canada before April 1st will obtain ration books from the custom house in any Canadian border city or from the customs house in Halifax, Moncton, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver or Prince Rupert, British Columbia.

The Department statement quoted Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle as saying:

"We have tried to make it as simple as possible for the tourist who enters Canada on or before March 31. Such a tourist need not apply in person for his ration book. Instead he may write an ordinary letter to the customs officer in one of the cities designated. Along with his letter he will enclose his customs form (E-50). The customs form will be returned to him along with a ration book.

There will be no charge for tourist ration books.

It's just surprising, how many poultry raisers say that to us! On second thought, maybe not so surprising, either. It stands to reason. ....

It stands to reason that when a hatchery organization like Bray's really hears down, year after year, on the one job of producing the best chicks it knows how ....

studies the job the year round, keeps on plugging away at breeding, selecting, blood-testing chick and pullet-check ... well, it ought to turn out - mighty good chicks.

HOT CROSS BUNS

Hello Homemakers! Every person who has ever been in England remembers the familiar cry of the street bun vendors on Good Friday:

"One a penny buns,
Two a penny buns,
One a penny, two a penny,
Hot Cross Buns!"

Hot Cross Buns are yeast mixtures which are decorated with a cross just before being placed in the oven to be baked. Years ago, they were sold in baskets all day long by poor people—both young and old — except during church services, when they left the baskets just outside the vestry door.

In ancient times, superstition ran that these buns baked on Good Friday could be kept for a year without becoming mouldy — and that a few gratings of the buns in water would cure any ailment.

-o-

GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING ROLLS

1 Scald all liquids to destroy all Micro - organisms which might interfere with the action of the yeast plant.
2 Add sugar and salt to the hot liquid and let it cool until it is lukewarm.
3 Add yeast cake when it is thoroughly dissolved in lukewarm water to which a teaspoon of sugar is added.
4 Add the flour, sifted before measuring.
5 The straight dough method of mixing is preferable to the sponge method. Add to the liquid-yeast mixture all the flour to be used and knead thoroughly until it no longer sticks to the board. Put dough into a greased bowl large enough to hold at least three times the bulk of the dough. Grease top of dough and cover. Set in a warm place away from the extreme heat or draughts. Let double in bulk and treble in size. Remove dough to board and bring top over the bot., turn and punch down. A second rising will improve texture and flavor of the baked product. Shape into rolls, stretch so that the tops will be perfectly and the bottom seam well tucked in. Cover and set in a warm place to rise twice the size. Bake in a hot electric oven. 12-

RECIPES

Hot Cross Buns
One cup scalded milk
Three-quarters teaspoon salt
Half-cup sugar
One-quarter cup lard
One cake of compressed yeast
* One-quarter cup lukewarm water
Four and half cups bread flour
Three eggs
One-quarter cup butter

Add scalded milk to sugar, salt and butter. When lukewarm, add yeast and one and one-half cups of flour. Beat well until smooth. Add eggs, beat egg yolks and the remaining flour. Knead lightly and let rise until double in bulk. Roll out dough to one inch thickness and cut into rounds. Place on a greased pan and let rise. Glaze the surface of each with egg white diluted in water. Cut a cross on the top of each with a sharp knife. Bake in an electric oven for twenty minutes at a temperature of 425 deg. F. NOTE: One cup of raisins may be added to dough.

Standard Rolls:
Two cups scalded milk
Three tablespoons butter
Two tablespoons sugar
Two eggs slightly beaten
Two teaspoons salt
One yeast cake dissolved in
One-quarter cup lukewarm water
Flour (about six cups)

Add butter, salt and sugar to milk. When lukewarm, add dissolved yeast cake and three cups flour. Beat thoroughly, cover and let rise until light at room temperature. Cut down, add egg and enough flour to knead and let rise. Let rise until double in bulk, and turn onto slightly floured board. Knead and shape. Place in greased pans to rise. Lightly grease tops. Cover with waxed paper and cloth. Set in a board in the heated warming closet of the electric range with the switch "Off". Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in an electric oven at 425 deg. for 12 to 15 minutes.

NOTE: Part of the dough may be used and the rest covered and kept in the electric refrigerator to be used days later. Makes 30 to 36 rolls. To reduce time, shape rolls as soon as mixed.

-o-

TAKE A TIP:

Precautions in Yeast Mixtures
1 Salt improves the flavor of breads but too much retards the activity of the yeast.
2 Potato water hastens the yeast action, therefore the place in which the dough is set to rise should not be too warm. The baked bread or rolls do not get as light as quickly as when water is used. Minerals are also supplied through the use of this liquid.
3 Remember that dry yeast must be dissolved in warm water and set aside for an other before it is added to batter.
4 Too much sugar slackens or softens dough. Decrease the amount of liquid if you desire a sweet product.

QUESTION BOX

Mrs. G. W. D. Asks:

"Is it necessary to use iodized salt? It does not seem to have as much flavour, thus a great deal is used in our home."

Answer:

Yes, especially in the winter when greens and salt water fish are not served often. It is a good source of necessary iodine needed especially in the prevention of goitre.

Mrs. D. C. M. asks:

"Is baking soda added to bottling vegetables supposed to improve the flavour?"

Answer:

No, it does not improve flavour or quality. In fact, it destroys the necessary vitamin content.

Mrs. M. J. suggests:

That instead of serving eggs frequently during the Easter week-end, you might keep the custom but save for Britain; separate the eggs, poach the yolks and serve on waffles, and save the whites for meringues.

Fruit and Vegetable Spray Calendar Ready

Fruit and vegetable spray calendars for 1942 may be obtained from the Fruit Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto, Agricultural Representatives; Vineland Experiment Station, Vineland Station, or Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, states P. W. Hodgetts, Director of the Fruit Branch, Ont. Ars Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

There is a separate calendar for apples; one for pears, stone fruits, grapes and bush fruits, for use of commercial growers.

A special spray calendar has been prepared for owners of fruit trees in home gardens. When writing for spraying information, please denote which type of calendar you want. Mr. Hodgetts requests.

The Ontario Vegetable Protection Calendar is also available to persons who grow vegetables on a commercial scale.

This year's apple spray calendar contains a special schedule for orchards heavily infested with codling moth. It points out that the spray scheduled matter how good it is, can compensate for poor spraying.

Vitamin for Steady Nerves

Feeling cranky? Do you snap at your relatives and friends? Do you start at your own shadow or spend a sleepless night over every Item of adverse war news? What you probably need is Vitamin B1.

Nutritionists have learnt that Vitamin B1 has a remarkably strengthening effect on the nervous system. And there is no need to rush off to the drug store and buy pills or medicine. Vitamin B1 can be taken in sufficient quantity in ordinary everyday food, alone with all the rest of its vitamins, which are also needed.

The richest sources are cereals, milk, liver and heart, dried peas and beans, and whole germ. The Nutrition Services of the Department of Pensions and National Health advise that whole grain bread or that made from Canada Approved Flour should be eaten in preference to white. Oatmeal and other whole grain cereals are also better than the milled macaroni, rice and other processed cereal foods.

Another good way to insure a larger intake of Vitamin B1 is to serve meat extracts and gravies in their jackets, and to increase the family consumption of milk.

Red Cross Emergency Reserve Calls For 12,000 Volunteers

Toronto — WANTED, 12,000 WOMEN throughout Ontario, to take their places in the Nursing Auxiliary Reserve of the Red Cross. The need is urgent. The Reserve is being organized by the Ontario Division of the Red Cross to meet any emergency of epidemic or disaster. Its purpose is to provide training for women who will work voluntarily under professional direction in their homes or wherever necessary.

This Emergency Reserve will function directly under the Civilian Defence Committee where such exists, otherwise under the local Medical Officer of Health. Those who have already enrolled for C. D. C. Medical Services, and have not been assigned to a First Aid Post, are urged to enrol for this Nurse service.

The Emergency Nursing Reserve will consist of two groups. Group 1 will comprise graduate nurses who are willing to serve in the event of an emergency or epidemic. The second group will comprise women who have taken home nursing training under directions of either the Red Cross or the St. John Ambulance Association, or who are willing to undertake this training at once. Both groups will be given special courses in war emergencies.

Under the direction of Miss Florence H. M. Emory, Associate Director of the School of Nursing, Toronto University, the Advisory Nursing Committee of the Ontario Division has outlined the general policy for the Emergency Reserve. Mrs. L. Stuart Lauchland, Provincial Section Leader of the Canadian Red Cross Corps, will help to organize the Reserve throughout Ontario. The program is being divided into ten districts in each of which there will be a graduate nurse to give leadership and guidance. Local branches will, in turn, organize under a graduate nurse in their community. All leaders of groups will be given by doctors, graduate nurses, dentists and dietitians. No community is too small for the Red Cross branch too remote to respond to this call for volunteer nursing help. Speaking recently at the annual meeting, Mrs. Arthur Ellis, President-elect of the Ontario Branch of the Red Cross, pointed out that if at the time of the terrible flu epidemic following the last war, Canada's nursing staff had been available, hundreds of lives might have been saved.

Nehru's father, Motil, was a wealthy lawyer, one of India's richest men. His wife, Swarup Rani, was the exclusive Harrow School in England, the same school attended by Winston Churchill. Motil Nehru's ambition for his son was to [illegible] College at Cambridge where he won his degree with honors.

Returning to India when he was 23, Nehru became a successful lawyer. He married Kamala Kaul, a Kashmiri, but [illegible] more and more involved in the movement for [illegible] freedom for India.

Gandhi became his idol. The two were one of the many respects but differ in one particular—the future structure of India once freedom has been attained. Gandhi would have India return to an economic system based on simple peasant handicrafts. Nehru wants to industrialize the nation, modernize it and develop its vast industrial potentialities.

Since the start of the war in 1939, Nehru has stoutly maintained that India must throw its full weight behind the effort for a victory of the democracies until the British step aside and India becomes a free democracy. The Indians will fight for the freedom of others only after they have attained freedom for themselves, he says.

Nehru and Sir Stafford Cripps are close friends. This friendship is believed to be one of the reasons why Cripps was sent to negotiate in India, as the man to carry the British Government's new proposal to India. In appointing Cripps to India in the past, Britain has made many unfortunate mistakes. Too many of the 10 Conservatives in the conservative [illegible] whose mere presence increased the friction between the London Government and the Indian Nationalists. Sir Stafford's appointment came as a pleasant surprise to Nehru and his followers who know that the appointee understands their point of view and sympathizes with them.

Nehru is a polished and cultured gentleman. He usually wears western clothes, but tops it with an eastern turban.

Seven years of his life were spent in jails—as a political prisoner of the British for his agitation for independence.

Nehru speaks several Indian tongues as well as English fluently and precisely. He has little use for religion and discounts its hold on the people. Yet the people of India by the millions worship him with a religious fervor.

Anderson Young People Stage Play

A capacity crowd packed Anderson United Church Thursday evening and enjoyed a three-act comedy entitled "Deacon Dubbs" presented by members of the Young People's Union. Each member of the cast played his or her part with great acceptance and the audience evidenced their warm appreciation with prolonged applause. The staging effect was very realistic, which included a rustic well and farm wheel-barrow.

The story of the play centred around Deacon Dubbs, a jolly middle aged widower from Sorghum Centre, State of West Virginny, when he decides to visit his nephew, Amos Coleman, in the nearby village. Amos is in love with Rose Raleigh, the brave little school teacher who is something of a mystery to the inhabitants of the village. Her little farm is about to be sold by auction as a result of a foreclosure suit, but Amos and the Deacon are able to raise enough money to save it.

Several weeks later Rose and Amos decide to get married, but mysterious complications arise to necessitate the postponment of this event. The Deacon, too, is smitten by the charms of Miss Philipina Popover. Rose's housekeeper. Many pranks are played by the middle-aged couple which provoked much laughter. Much additional comedy is furnished during the action of the play by Major McNutt and the efforts of the Swede hired girl to make the farm-hand Deuteronomy Jones, pop the question.

Mrs. John Funnell and her daughter, Carrie, contributed musical selections between acts. Mrs. Kenneth Hambly presided at the organ.

NEW BOOKS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

THE MAN WHO WENT BACK — Deeping

In a motor crash a man lost his identity and came to find himself in the same countryside, though time had gone back fifteen hundred years and the ancient Romans were quivering at the assault of the Saxons. Then he awoke to find himself in his own time and England once more in the throes of war to the death against the Germans. Warwick Deeping has made a marked success with his experiment in Time.

THE BALANCE SHEET OF THE FUTURE — Bevin

This is a ringing message in the fight for freedom — a testament of democratic faith by one of the great men of our time! You may agree or disagree with it, but for all that it is a bold and forthright message. It is the vigorous writing of a man of the people. What Ernest Bevin has to say will make everyone think!

DESIGN FOR POWER — Schuman.

Here, in compact and vivid form, is the most important story of our time, the rise of armed dictators and their drive toward world conquest. It is a horrible story; but you must understand it if you are to weather the years ahead. No one who would understand and the world in which he lives, should fail to read and ponder this book.

THE BATTLE OF WATERLOO ROAD — Forbes-Robertson.

Of the several pictures books about the war in England, this one is the most human and the most personal. The book is a close-to-the-ground cross-section of war-time London told without heroics or sentimentality, but with great humanity and understanding both in pictures and text.

INSIDE LATIN AMERICA — Gunther.

Packed with up-to-the-minute news based on Gunther's personal observations in twenty Latin American countries, this brilliant book describes their policies, problems and leaders; shows how each affects the world and ourselves. It is the most important political and educational book to come from the American press for a long time.

FOUR YEARS IN PARADISE — Johnson.

The story of the Johnson's most daring enterprise, this expedition into the heart of the elephant country, through all the drama of Africa, which makes up this story, it is a tale of courage and devotion whose hero and heroine were of pioneer Kansas stock and who carried through all their experiences an essentially American human and daring.

WOO ENDS TO ONE SHOE-STRING — Pinkerton.

The autobiography of a couple who made a success of not settling down. Their job is writing, and this is the firm fabric in a life of glorious adventure and fun in the outdoors. The Pinkertons are a rare mixture—they like solitude and they like people. The reading of this book is a privilege and a pleasure.

KEEPING YOUR HOUSE IN REPAIR — Collins.

If you want to know how to make your own repairs, then here is the book for you. Comprehensiveness plus clear, simple direction, make it one of the most helpful books for the householder, ever to appear.

THE SOONG SISTERS — Hahn.

The revealing biography of the three greatest women in China. Their story is the story of modern China. Through that tragic history—thought, revolution, counter-revolution, civil war; and invasion — the Soong Sisters have gone their separate ways, and each, by her intelligence, courage and integrity — what the Chinese call "virtue"—has carved a separate niche for herself in the hierarchy of Chinese greatness.

THEY GOT THEIR MAN — Godsell

This book combines all the thrill of a dozen detective stories and murder mysteries into one, against a background of silent forests, picketed fur posts, blubber, lit igloos and eternal glaciers. It is a story of the activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and told in a scintilating manner.

THE STORY OF J. M. B. — MacKail.

This is the authorized biography of one of the most distinguished figures in recent literature. Sir James Barrie, but read it as a story and it will be found as enthralling as the best of modern fiction.

THIS CHEMICAL AGE — Haynes.

Miraculous indeed are the accomplishments of modern chemistry — Nylon, Rayon, Cellophane, Synthetic rubber, fast paints and permanent finishes, bright dyes from black coal, perfumes out of test-tubes, the sulfanilamides which cure once-dreaded diseases—such are the things that have been created by man. In this book you will read the story of it, all and will learn how these chemical marvels affect your comfort, safety and health.

LONDON PRIDE — Bottome.

This is a story about a family who live in the dockyard tenements of London. It will make you catch your breath, but you can read it dry-eyed, for Miss Bottome understands that children, unless starved or crippled or too sheltered, are not pitiful. It is a book you will read and remember.

SPRING MAGIC — Stevenson.

Miss Stevenson writes with all her old charm and with the rare understanding of her characters which makes everyone of them true to life and likeable. It is a story of battalion life but not a war story. Rather it is a story of pleasant people in a pleasant place, leading quiet lives despite the war.

Ottawa, (C.P.) — A Munitions and Supply Department spokesman commenting on a United States war production order curtailing production of razors and blades, said last night Canada may take a similar move in the near future.

"No steps have been taken here, yet," he said, "but it is possible we may follow the United States' move."

This spokesman said the department is trying to determine just how many razor plants there are in Canada. It is believed the majority of blades and razors used by Canadians are manufactured in the United States.

THE NEW ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY

BY HENRY P. VANDUSEN

Dr. Henry Pitney Van Dusen is the author of several books on religion and editor of The Church and State in the Modern World. He is a minister in the Presbyterian Church, and Professor of Systematic Theology at Union Theological Seminary, New York City.

The nomination of Dr. William Temple to be Archbishop of Canterbury will bring gratification to Christians not only in England but throughout the world. One who was already widely recognized as the foremost leader of world Protestantism is now honored with the headship of the Established Church of his own land.

Few men have brought to so high an office such outstanding qualifications. Within the Church Dr. Temple's preeminence is in three distinct fields — as theologian, as statesman, and as leader in social thought.

Characteristic modesty has led him to disclaim any special competence in theology. Yet his recent Gifford Lectures, in which the disclaimer is voiced, have taken their place as one of the most important contributions to a long shelf of the most distinguished religious lectureship in the English-speaking world. In a survey of Contemporary English Theology, Professor Walter M. Horton has rightly noted a trend within the British churches away from extremes of modernism and tradi, tionalism of High and Low Churchmanship, toward a "central" position, and has rightly selected Dr. Temple as the representative exponent of that position. "In the domain of Christian thought he is always Primate of All England, the theologian to whom all parties look up most respectfully and to whose opinions there is the widest consent. Almost as much may be said of his leadership of thought throughout Protestantism.

Much the most notable development within Christendom in recent times has been a world-wide advance in Christian cooperation and unity. In the very years when the world was breaking asunder, the leaders of all Protestant Christian bodies have been quietly but steadily drawing together. These trends, known as the Ecumenical Movement, are taking form as the World Council of Churches to which some eighty national churches and bodies, including most of the strongest Protestant communions and a number of Eastern Orthodox Churches have given their adherence in the past three years. In all these developments, the moving spirit has been Dr. Temple. He has presided at each step of the delicate negotiations, looking toward the ratification. Appropriately indeed, inevitably, he is now the Chairman of the Provisional Committee of the World Council of Churches.

One sometimes hears it said that Dr. Temple is a "radical." As a matter of fact, the native east of his mind, in theology as outlook, is clearly reveals, is that of a liberal conservative. He is a radical only in the sense largely from his pen, drafted between midnight and dawn on the closing night of the conference More significant is the work of the British churches' Commission for International Friendship and Social Responsibility of which he is also chairman and which is today leading the thought of Protestants throughout the world on the issues of post-war reconstruction.

One misses the secret of Dr. Temple's strength, however, unless he pierces beneath the public achievements which compose so impressive a record to the qualities of the man as Christian and friend. It was my privilege to spend a week-end at Bishopthorpe last September and to drive with the Archbishop from early morning to midnight in a sequence of parish visitations throughout Yorkshire. The overwhelming impression is the simplicity, modesty and genuineness of the man. Robust in mind and humor no less than in body, every native gift brought into willing servitude to exacting responsibilities, certitude of faith all the surer because it has been thought through under the challenge of current scepticisms, personal devotion all the deeper because it is free of ostentation — Dr. Temple is in both thought and life a worthy exemplar of truly "catholic Chistianity," eminently equipped to lead his Church through days of darkness and change.

Among American Christian leaders, the new Primate of All England is universally held in the highest esteem and affection. Few emissaries from Britain to the United States have left a more profound impression than Dr. Temple on his last visit. He had made tentative plans to re, visit this country and would have been here at this very time had he not been warned that his presence in England might be required for another and more commanding responsibility.

FORMIDABLE TASK FACES MacARTHUR IN HIS NEW SPHERE

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington — Gen. Douglas MacArthur is facing an extremely formidable task in directing the battle for Australia, military experts here declared in cautioning against a spirit of false optimism.

The odds they pointed out, are still heavy in the enemy's favor, however much the United Nations may have been heartened by the arrival of American ground troops and air force units in considerable strength or by MacArthur's dramatic shift from Bataan to supreme command of United Nations forces in Australia.

In all attaboys of the situation, the most these authorities would venture was that the Japanese would be in for the fiercest examination of the war if they attempt to smash Australia — they have smashed Singapore and the Netherlands Indies.

The expectation is that the enemy will ask no questions. If the Japanese do not attempt it, or if they make the attempt and fail, then the entire continent of Australia will remain in the hands of the United Nations as the southern jumping-off point for a major offensive, one sufficient men and materiel have been massed.

If MacArthur can hold Australia for such a day, the experts said, the Japanese will be pushed back and Netherlands fighting men serving in his command have a long and rough job ahead, with plenty of reverses to match the successes they may win.

The strategy they said, that he goes well with MacArthur's military temperament. It is the strategy of a crusading defender-striking out as hard and as often as possible at the enemy. The Australian campaign will be the effort summering away savagely from the air at the Japanese footholds in nearby islands to keep potential invading forces off balance.

For the undertaking, MacArthur has many advantages he did not possess in the Philippines, and probably as many disadvantages.

The advantages:

He has more troops and better air strength at his command.

He can organize his ground defences in great depth because of life vast area of the country.

He can expect reinforcements, whereas it was virtually impossible to get them to the Philippines.

He can develop numerous air bases — the important ones — beyond the reach of fighter-protected Japanese bombers — whereas in the Philippines his air bases were few, vulnerable and compactly situated.

The disadvantages:

He has to defend a vast sparsely-settled country with a long coastline.

He has enormous problem of supply because of the great distances meagre transportation facilities in much of the country. Moreover, he must use some of his forces to protect the long route running northward through the continent to the Darwin area from the Brisbane-Sydney-Melbourne industrial region in the southeast corner.

His life-line to the United States is likewise extremely long and the Japanese can be expected to exert every effort to harry it.

He faces an enemy that still holds the initiative and heavy numerical superiority.

It is considered doubtful that MacArthur — even if he tried — could prevent establishment of enemy beach heads along Australia's long exposed coastline.

Rather, it is believed that he will meet such threats by counter-punching with fast, hard-hitting mobile ground forces, backed up by the aerial blows of fighter and bomber commands held in reserve at salient bases for just such an emergency. Thus, if the Japanese landed, they would have the difficult assignment of exploiting their advantage in the teeth of strong Allied air and ground opposition.

Strategists here said that so long as Australia could be held by such tactics and as long as reinforcements continued to arrive there, the Japanese could not undertake a major new offensive in any other direction without grave risk.

PREVENT BLACKLEG!

Insist on Parke, Davis Fresh Blackleg Vaccine. In sealed vials of 18 pellets, at WALLACE'S. Napanee's Leading Drug Store. Mail Orders given prompt attention.

Our contempt for the Japanese has got us into a lot of trouble. They have set out to do a certain job, and up to now they've done it according to schedule. Their present drive means that every man in the field, in the navy, in the air force, is doing his utmost—and every civilian at home backing their men to the limit.

Is a Jap a better man than you are? Can they plan, produce, act, with greater determination and efficiency than Canadians?

Their one hope of success is in a "blitzkrieg." A "blitzkrieg" means fighting a war as though it must be finished in six months. It's up to us to beat them at their own game. Here's the way to do it—prepare for a long war, and work as though the whole thing had to be finished in six months.

INSPECTORS CHECK NAP. RESIDENTS' RADIO LICENSES

Nineteen Napanee residents paid $2.00 fine and costs for failing to have a radio license for the year 1941. Four other residents who were given summons to appear in court on the same charge were able to produce their licenses and the charges against them were dismissed.

Magistrate Garvin criticized the inspectors and the department for not having a better system of checking so that announcee need not be caused. Apparently information was laid against the four who could produce licenses without their having the opportunity to find their licenses. In the case against Frank Burdette, the inspector went to Mr. Burdette's home while he was down town and his sister, Miss Burdette could not produce the license. The Burdette license was dated April 2, 1941. Three others, Miss Rose Joy, Percy Asselstine and Millard Brennan, against whom charges were laid, produced their licenses.

Those who paid fines were: George Warner, Arthur Pellett, Arnold Holden, C. H. Garrison, John Murphy, Lewis E. Lloyd, K. J. Huffman, Gerald Johnston, Mrs. E. R. Boldree, Gerald Wood, Aubrey Pringle, E. A. Harvey, B. Beaubien, William Dibb, Fred Edgar, B. A. Quinn, Ronald G. Miller, Claude MacDonald, Mrs. Evans Robson and W. A. Woodcock.

N.C.V.I. MAGAZINE THE 'TORCHETTE' JUST ISSUED

The "Torchette," the Napanee Collegiate and Vocational Institute magazine, was issuer last week. It is a magazine put out exclusively by the pupils. The contents are written by the scholars, the editing is done by two of the senior pupils, the mimeographing of the copy is done in the school and illustrations are drawn by pupils. It is entirely a school product and as such is worthy of commendation.

The book contains a good deal of interest not only to pupils but to their parents and friends because it discloses considerable information concerning the activities within the school and also gives an opportunity for the pupils to display their talents in writing, poetry and prose and in illustrating.

Magistrate's Court

On Thursday, William H. Clark, a member of the 14th Canadian Light Horse Regiment, pleaded guilty in the Napanee Police Court to the theft of a ring and watch, the property of Vera Goslin, Napanee. He was remanded until April 9th, for sentence. R.A.S.C. from which he had deserted and later joined up again, said the jewellery had been pawned by him in Vancouver but was unable to give the name of the pawnbroker who bought it. Clark also admitted having served thirty days in Oshawa gaol, last year, for theft.

Mrs. Hilda Sweet was sentenced by the Magistrate to serve four months in Mercer Reformatory for the theft of a bicycle from Fred Bentley, Napanee. The young woman took the bicycle on Friday, March 27th, and after using it to ride to Newburgh, returned it two days later.

MISS MARY E. FRASER FORMER TEACHER DIED AT WESTMOUNT

Taught in Napanee Schools for 46 Years

The death at Westmount, Quebec, on Tuesday, March 31st, of Miss Mary E. Fraser, recalled to the minds of many residents of Napanee, the faithful an defficient service given by Miss Fraser, who was a teacher in the Napanee Public Schools for 46 years. During her years as a teacher in the town, she taught three generations of many families and all her pupils remember, with gratitude, the training they received at her hands.

She trained her pupils not only in the three "r's" but set for them standards of conduct which proved invaluable to them in later life. Inspectors under whom Miss Fraser served said that her work was easy to inspect because it was always right and by them she was characterized as a "born teacher." She was a firm disciplinarian, but was just and fair in all her dealings with her pupils.

In her family life, as well as in the classroom, she lived a life of service, caring for her aged mother for many years and also helping to bring up nieces and nephews who were left in her care.

When she retired at the age of 65, about 24 years ago, she went to live in Westmount with her sister, Mrs. Guy C. Boright, the former Lillian Logie, at whose home, she died.

Shortly before the eve of her retirement Miss Fraser was made the recipient of a gift from the School Board and a reception was held in her honour, at which public appreciation of her services was expressed. At the time of the Jubilee of the late King George V, she received a medal from the King, for her public service.

Miss Fraser was born in Napanee, on December 22nd, 1853, and was thus in her 89th year. She was the daughter of the late David Fraser and Margaret Close and was one of four children, of whom she was the last survivor. Her sisters were Mrs. James Logie and Mrs. Robert Henry and her brother was George Fraser. She started teaching in Napanee when she was 18 years of age and retired at 65. During all her lifetime in Napanee, she was an active member of Trinity United Church.

Her funeral service was held at the home of her niece, Mrs. Boright, Westmount, on Wednesday evening and burial took place at Riverside cemetery, Napanee, on Thursday afternoon.

Attending the funeral services in Napanee, which was conducted by Rev. G. M. Chidley, Minister of Trinity United Church, besides a number of old Napanee friends were Miss Fraser's niece, Mrs. Guy C. Boright, Mr. Boright and Mrs. Boright's daughter, Miss Lillian Thompson, of Westmount, and her nephew, Mr. Alex. Henry, of Toronto.

ALLIED FORCES CONTINUE SUCCESSES IN RUSSIA AND EAST

Japs Make Raids on Indian Ports

WEDNESDAY —

The position of the British forces in the Prome sector of Burma was said to be serious even though the Chinese at Toungoo, on the left wing of the Allied line, had established their positions after a week's bitter fighting.

The Australian and United States air forces carried out destructive bombing of Japanese bases in New Guinea and Timor. The Japanese sent bombers over Port Darwin again, but failed to cause any damage.

The Russians were reported closing in on Vyazma from the north and south.

Hitler was said to be moving 1,500,000 troops into Russia for a big push aimed at blasting the Soviet forces out of the Crimea in preparation for a drive across the Caucasus to the near East oil fields.

THURSDAY —

British troops in Burma broke out of a Jap encirclement and fell back on Prome, gateway to the oil fields. The Japs were massing ten miles to the south and had complete control of the air.

Filipino raiders struck at the Island of Mindanao where they wrecked military headquarters in the occupied city of Zamboanga and levelled 22 war-stocked warehouses.

The American-Filipino defenders were forced out of some advanced positions in the Bataan Peninsula by the Japanese invaders.

The Australian Air Force wrecked 33 Jap planes within the previous three days without loss of any of their own planes.

The United States military and naval forces have sunk 28 enemy U-boats in the Pacific, so far in the war.

In Russia, in a two-day battle in the Kalinin front the road to Ulebsk was cleared, making the recapture of the city a possibility within a few days. Nevel, only 70 miles south of the old Polish border.

The whole Russian front from Leningrad to the Black Sea was said to be locked in a see-saw struggle, with both Russians and Germans moving up immense forces of men.

FRIDAY —

Japanese seaborne troops were reported to have landed at Akyab, the chief western Burma port, within 100 miles of the Indian frontier. With the taking of Akyab, the holding of Prome might be impossible and a direct threat on the oil fields at Yenanguang is a possibility.

Japanese naval movements suggested a seaborne attempt to take Port Moresby in New Guinea. The Japs made another aerial attack on Port Darwin.

An attack by the Japs succeeded in penetrating the defense line on the Bataan Peninsula in Philippines before the invaders were battered by an American Filipino counter-attack.

The Japs were said to have lost 96 planes in the last three weeks, compared with a loss of 12 Australian and United States planes.

SATURDAY—

Prome, the Irrawaddy River anchor of the line guarding the approach of Burma's oil fields, was abandoned to the British under heavy Japanese gun fire.

The Japanese clash of a landing at Akyab on the Bay of Bengal was denied by the British.

A southwest English city, said to be Portland, was given a heavy aerial attack by the Nazis on Friday night. Casualties to civilians and property loss were heavy.

The R. A. F. made a heavy attack on the Paris suburbs, and damaged the Matford Truck plant. Other places on the Continent were also struck heavily by the R. A. F.

The United States aircraft tender, Langley, destroyer Peary and naval tanker Pecos, were bombed and sunk by the Japs in southwest Pacific waters.

The defenders of Bataan in the Philippines repulsed several Jap attacks, on Friday.

British flyers and anti-aircraft guns shot down twenty planes over Malta and Libya. A British column drove back the Axis forces including tanks and artillery, without a fight, in the heart of Libya.

There was some evidence that the force of the Russian drive was slowing down.

MONDAY —

The Japs suffered their worst defeat of the war on Sunday, when R. A. F. fighters shot down or damaged 87 planes which were attempting a surprise attack on Colombo, Ceylon.

A smashing blow was also made by United States flying fortresses on the Japanese base in the Andaman Islands.

United States and Australian airmen struck devastating blows against Japanese bases in Australia's outer island defences and were credited with bringing down at least 18 Japanese planes and damaging twenty others, in two days' fierce fighting.

Russian troops were reported to have killed 40,000 Germans in the week from March 27th to April 3rd, and occupied 160 inhabited localities on the Central Front.

A strong Jap land and sea attack in the defences of Bataan Peninsula in the Philippines was repulsed by the United States and Filipino defenders, with heavy loss.

United States submarines sunk or damaged four Japanese warships in the past few days.

The British were forced to make further withdrawals in the Irrawaddy sector of Burma.

TUESDAY—

Bombs were dropped by the Japs on two ports in the Madras Presidency in India, as naval force said to be ranging the Bay of Bengal was seen to be a threat against India.

The heaviest raids yet made by the Australian and United States airmen were carried out on Monday against Rabaul and Gasmata, in New Britain, where the Japs were thought to be overhauling their badly damaged air force.

• • •

U. S. submarines in the Western Pacific sank three more Jap merchant ships.

More ground was gained by the Japs in fierce attacks in the Bataan Peninsula, in the Philippines.

300 British bombers pounded French factories near Paris, where war materials are being made for the Germans. They also bombed docks at Le Havre, and caused considerable damage in the Rhineland industrial area.

On Sunday Soviet airmen destroyed 119 German planes. In the past week's fighting the Germans lost 296 planes, while the Russians lost only 62.

CAPT. W. W. EXLEY SPEAKS AT RED CROSS TEA

On Saturday afternoon, at the regular Red Cross afternoon tea, Captain W. Exley, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who recently returned from Britain to take up duties as an instructor in the Canadian Army in training in Canada, addressed the members and tea guests.

Captain Exley, who was introduced by the President, Miss Herrington, spoke in a delightfully informal manner of the adventures of his Regiment since leaving Canada, two years ago.

It was gratifying to the many Red Cross workers to have first hand information as to the handling and distributing of soldiers' garments both knitted and sewn, in Britain. Captain Exley was in an excellent positions to tell us of this work, as he had been actively engaged in such distribution. The articles are brought in trucks to the camps. Hospital supplies, pyjamas, bathrobes, slippers, etc., are handed to the medical officer in charge of the hospital or "Sick Bay." Knitted garments are handed out as needed, the men being reminded, first of all, to hand in their old worn garments. Mittens, socks and these worn articles are collected by a woman's salvage organization which makes all usable darns, washes and re-knits them into new garments. This item of information will refute the many stories of uneven distribution, and of the waste of Red Cross articles. Captain Exley stressed the fact that there was indeed no oversupply and urged us to keep the work up to present standards to meet the demand.

Mrs. Harry Johnston moved a vote of thanks to Captain Exley, which was readily seconded by all present.

INSPECTORS CHECK NAP. RESIDENTS' RADIO LICENSES

Nineteen Napanee residents paid $2.00 fine and costs for failing to have a radio license for the year 1941. Four other residents who were given summons to appear in court on the same charge were able to produce their licenses and the charges against them were dismissed.

Magistrate Garvin, criticized the inspectors and the department for not having a better system of checking so that annoyance need not be caused. Apparently information was laid against the four who could produce licenses without having had the opportunity to find their licenses. In the case against Frank Burdette, the inspector went to Mr. Burdette's home while he was down town and his sister, Miss Burdette could not produce the license. The Burdette license was dated April 2, 1941. Three others, Miss Rose Joy, Percy Asselstine and Millard Brennan, against whom charges were laid, produced their licenses.

Taught in Napanee Schools for 46 Years

The death at Westmount, Quebec, on Tuesday, March 31st, of Miss Mary E. Fraser, recalled to the minds of many citizens of Napanee, the faithful an efficient service given by Miss Fraser, who was a teacher in the Napanee Public Schools for 46 years. During her years as a teacher in the town, she taught three generations of many families and all her pupils remember, with gratitude, the training they received at her hands.

She trained her pupils not only in the three "rs" but set for them standards of conduct which proved invaluable to them in later life. Inspectors under whom Miss Fraser served said that her work was easy to inspect because it was always right and by them she was characterized as "a born teacher." She was a firm disciplinarian, but was just and fair in all her dealings with her pupils.

In her family life, as well as in the classroom, she lived a life of service, caring for her aged mother for many years and also helping to bring up nieces and nephews who were left in her care.

When she retired at the age of 65, about 24 years ago, she went to live in Westmount, with her pupils, Mrs. Guy C. Boright, the former Lillian Logie, at whose home, she died.

On the eve of her retirement Miss Fraser was made the recipient of a gift from the School Board and a reception was held in her honor, at which public appreciation of her services was expressed. At the time of the Jubilee of the late King George V, she received a medal from the King, for her public service.

Miss Fraser was born in Napanee, on December 22nd, 1853, and was thus in her 89th year. She was the daughter of the late Davis Fraser for

CAPT. W. W. EXLEY SPEAKS AT RED CROSS TEA

On Saturday afternoon, at the regular Red Cross afternoon tea, Captain W. Exley, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who recently returned from Britain to take up duties as an instructor in the Canadian Army in training in Canada, addressed the members and tea guests.

Captain Exley, who was introduced by the President, Miss Herrington, spoke in a delightfully informal manner of the adventures of his Regiment since leaving Canada, two years ago.

It was gratifying to the many Red Cross workers to have first hand information as to the handling and distributing of soldiers' garments both knitted and sewn, in Britain. Captain Exley was in an excellent positions to tell us of this work as he had been actively engaged in such distribution. The articles are brought in trucks to the camps. Hospital supplies, pyjamas, bathrobes, slippers, etc., are handed to the medical officer in charge of the hospital or "Sick Bay." Knitted garments are handed out as needed, the men being required, first of all, to hand in their old worn garments in exchange, and these worn articles are collected by a woman's organization which rescues all usable parts, washes and re-knits them into new garments. This item of information will refute the many stories of uneven distribution, and of the waste of Red Cross articles. Captain Exley stressed the fact that there had been no oversupply and urged us to keep up to present standards to meet the demand.

Mrs Harry Johnston moved a vote of thanks to Captain Exley, which was readily seconded by all present.

THE CHURCHES AND EASTER

The reports from various sections of Canada indicate that the churches of all denominations across the country were well attended on Easter Sunday Indeed, the congregations usually large on Easter, were larger than usual. In many of the city churches it is reported that seats were at a premium, and in more than one Toronto church, public address systems had been installed to take care of overflow congregations.

The Easter services are in celebration of an essentially and typically Christian festival. There may be some historic evidence for the association of the Easter Festival with Spring. But for the Christian, it tells of the persistence of life, and the conquest of death This is unprovable, but it is a venture of faith, a venture however, the bravest in every generation have not hesistated to make.

This year the Easter message came with a word of hope to a world which is plunged in death and gloom. Over large sections of the globe death, starvation, disease, suffering and sorrow are in abnormal evidence. Never has there been such consecration of death-dealing power, as the present generation is witnessing. Aeroplanes loaded with bombs, spitting fire from guns mounted on turrets, darken the sky; great tanks, moving fortresses, carrying death and destruction in their train, roll across the battlefields of widely scattered countries. Ships of war search the seas for any opponent, while undersea craft lurk in the dark seas ready to strike at a moment's notice. Property, treasures, money, human life itself is being poured out in unstinted quantities

Under these circumstances it would be passing strange if me nand women, in their despair did not come to their senses and seek a ray of hope from the only course in which it resides, in the heart of the Christian Gospel. The churches were crowded on Sunday, in this country and other democratic countries, but there were other countries in which the people were denied whatever hope and comfort, and encouragement the Church can bring to the people. Even for them the Easter message has a word. For the darkness of the black night which enshrouds so much of the Axis controlled countries, will not last forever; dawn, too, for them will break, and life will yet take on a new and deeper meaning.

THE VOTE

Events are shaping up gradually for the plebiscite to be taken on April 27th. The plebiscite is not a conscription issue. In it the Government asks to be relieved from its prewar pledge not to compel men to fight outside of Canada. Whether the Government was right in making that pledge is not the question. As a matter of fact both major parties, in the last Dominion election, gave an understanding not to conscript men for overseas service. The Government seeks to be freed from that pledge, and the people should vote them that freedom.

There are evidences that the question will be debated by various groups and individuals. Generally speaking the English - speaking Canadians are expected to vote "yes". Just what Quebec will do is unpredictable. There are French - Canadian Members of Parliament who are urging their constituents to vote "no" while others, perhaps not so vociferous, are urging a "yes" vote. This may be a much more crucial vote than might appear to be the case at first sight. Should Quebec turn in an almost unanimous "no" while the rest of Canada gives a substantial "yes", the cleavage between Quebec and the rest of Canada will undoubtedly become more pronounced. Indeed the gap, if widened to any great degree, might be fraught with dangers not immediately perceptible. There can be no doubt at all but that Quebec is on trial, now.

It is perhaps legitimate to speculate a bit on what might be the course of history in the Dominion, should Quebec vote a solid "no" and the rest of the country a solid "yes." Such a situation would tend to isolate Quebec. Quebec cannot, forever, get all the benefits of Confederation and of a United Canada, without assuming large responsibilities in a national crisis. If Quebec deliberately shuts herself behind her own isolationism, she must not be surprised if the rest of Canada takes the isolationism at its face value and orders its life with little or not thought of Quebec. Quebec must learn, sooner or later, that the privileges it has enjoyed under the British Crown entails the acceptance of some responsibility, some willingness to share in the common cause, with good heart and devotion.

It must not be assumed that while all the rest of the world is in a flux, that Canada can go on as it had always done. The whole world is in a state of change and revision — China, Japan, India, Russia, Europe, Philippines. Such a world upheaval cannot leave Canada untouched. Canada will have to become more united or less united. Conditions cannot go on as they are. The plebiscite may be quite a deciding factor in the historic trends of our country. It will bear watching. And Quebec, as well as the rest of the Dominion, would do well to vote "yes."

V

THE SPRING OFFENSIVE

Spring, which ordinarily is a season of hope is, this year, one of anxiety and fear. All across the world people are wondering whether or not the blow will strike them. Probably nobody, save the German High Command and to a lesser extent the Japanese War Lords, know the secret. Up until the present these hold the initiative and can determine just where the blows of the Axis forces will fall. One thing, however, is sure, and that is the campaign against Russia must be pressed by the Germans to the limit. The Germans know that, and the Russians are not unaware, nor unprepared.

To look at the map we might easily conclude that the Russians, in spite of all the optimistic reports that have come from that country, have not won back very much territory. But that is not the only criterion by which to measure the value of the Russian halt. Russia was the first nation to stop the land army of the Germans. That in itself is a blow to the Germans, to their pride, and to their vaunted efficiency. Not only so, but Germany was unable to take Moscow last Fall, and that threw out of gear the whole German programme The Russians, through the winter, have conducted a brilliant counter-offensive, and have prevented the Germans from making prepartions for a spring advance on anything like the scale it would have taken had the Nazi forces been allowed to dig-in and consolidate their lines. Being harried day and night, having suffered prodigious losses in materials and man power, the relative strength of the two great land forces is greatly changed in Russia's favour. The Allies have shown keen insight in continuing, all through the Winter, to supply Russia with every available tank, plane and gun.

All this is not to minimize in any way the German striking power. There will be further German gains, if Germany is prepared to pay the price. But the Red Army is now hardened, and confident, and the people are behind the army. Having withstood the full force of the first suprise attack of the Germans, last year, and having fought such a brilliant counter - offensive, encourages the hope that the Red Army will prove a more difficult nut than ever for Hitler to crack.

ON THE MARCH

The Provincial Canadian Commonwealth Federation organization has elected E. B. Joliffe as its new leader. Mr. Joliffe was the successful candidate of seventeen who were nominated for the position. Mr. Joliffe is a young man, 23 years of age. He is a lawyer, a member of both the English and the Ontario Bar. He was born in Chung King, China, where his parents were United Church missionaries. He was educated at Guelph Collegiate and Toronto University and in 1930 was Rhodes scholar, spending the next three years at Oxford.

The C. C. F. is the Canadian Socialist Party, and seeks to give the country leadership along Progressive Socialist lines. For several years the Party has been a propagandist organization. It has had to start from the ground floor and do a great deal of educating. Time after time candidates were entered in a contest when there was no hope of success but for the purpose of getting the ideas of the party before the public. The phenomenal success of Mr. Norsworthy in South York and the C. C. F. Party in British Columbia, has given this newcomer to the field of Canadian politics encouragement. The party can no longer be ignored; it must be taken into account in any plans which the older parties have for Canada. The determination of the C. C. F. to run a candidate in every Ontario riding at the next election, is evidence of the growing confidence of this group.

The older parties must look to their laurels. Young leaders must be found, and new progressive programmes must be drawn up. One of the strong factors in the C. C. F. success of recent date, has been their quiet, steady programme of education. Study groups all across Canada have been patiently and persistently at work. Here, too, is a hint for the older parties.

BRITAIN'S DEAF AND DUMB Are Promoted To Expert Jobs in the War Industries

Deaf and dumb people in Britain, and the adults among them number 40,000 to-day, are now being taken into war work for which their infirmity makes them more suitable than men and women who can hear and speak.

One group of them is working steadily in the shotblasting sector of a Midlands factory producing tanks. There the din is so terrific that few of the ordinary workers can stand it. The deaf and dumb, unaware of the inferno of noise around them, placidly concentrate upon the finishing and polishing of the insides of shell cases.

In another factory, the shot-blasting process is carried out in sound-proof cabinets which to some extent deaden the din but the deaf and dumb in a kind of protective armour continue to be employed on the job They are excellent workers; in a third factory young deaf and dumb women are painting shell cases as quickly by hand as would others using mechanical sprayers.

The deaf and dumb are also found to be specially useful for war work demanding a keen sense of touch or sight, and in most cases their sight is exceptional. A group of them — girls — are being trained, for example, as examiners of lactron thread at Fort Dunlop. "The very keen pride," the National Institute for the Deaf points out, "of such workers as these girls in finding that their help is needed by their country in its hour of danger, can well be imagined."

HIDDEN CHINA SOURCE OF WAR GOODS

BY GUENTHER STEIN

Special Correspondent of
The Christian Science Monitor

Chungking, March 31.—Free China's arsenals and their affiliated industries, widely spread over remote areas and well hidden against enemy attack, have become able to produce a surprisingly large variety of war material.

Technical progress in those relatively small and primitive plants has been considerable in recent years. Substitutes have been found for a number of foreign raw materials and finished products, and the dependence of the Chinese Army upon the outside world is probably not quite as great as might be assumed. This is the encouraging impression gained during a visit to an exhibition of China made Army supplies held in Chungking on the occasion of the twelfth anniversary of General Ha Ying-Chin's appointment as Minister of War.

The enterprises developed, owned and run by the Army form by far the greatest industrial concern in Free China. It may not be far wrong to estimate their share in the total output of all manufacturing industries, other than the smallest handicraft workshops, at about 50 per cent. Most of these plants are new, having been established in the backward provinces of the southwest and northwest after the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese War or even after the withdrawal of the Chinese Government from Hankow to Chungking, for the number and capacity of prewar arsenals was small in those areas. Most of them were unable to produce anything but rifles and small arms ammunition for the requirements of provincial armies, and practically all auxiliary industries were non-existent, because it was cheaper to procure the necessary raw materials, machinery and so on from the large coastal ports.

NEVER ADVERTISED EFFORTS

The Chinese never advertised their efforts in developing military industries, but it had always been known that they did their very best in this direction. Much of the arsenal equipment of the Shanghai, Nanking and Hankow areas was removed to the southwest and northwest before the Japanese came in. Additional machinery for new arsenals was constantly imported from abroad during the last few years and some of the Government plants specialized in producing considerable quantities of machinery themselves.

The greater part of the skilled arsenal workers of Central China emigrated together with their plants, a few thousands of workmen have been trained and a good number of students have in the meantime returned from the United States and other foreign countries, increasing the engineering staff and bringing with them the knowledge of new methods of production and organization. Apart from this the Ordnance Department of Ministry of War, under its chief who studied in the United States, has always taken advantage of any available advice and practical assistance.

China's second largest industrial concern the group of state-owned mines, power stations, factories and research institutions under the National Resources Commission, which is responsible for the development of heavy industry, did much to widen the basis for the growth of arsenal production.

The manufactures of the Army plants shown at the exhibition range from cotton and woolen textiles and special food stuffs like biscuits made of whole wheat and dried vegetables to many kinds of chemicals, gasoline produced by a new method of cracking wood oil and high explosives from entrenchment tools to optical instruments, wireless and telephone sets from small arms ammunition, hand grenades that improve on their original German model to high explosive artillery shells, land mines and medium aerial bombs, from C-rs man model rifles to light and elaborate machine guns, howitzers, field and antitank guns.

Most products contain surprisingly few important parts even the wireless transmitting and receiving sets consisting of 60 per cent of home produced materials. The average share of foreign raw materials is also relatively low and even some kinds of high quality steel can now be produced locally since certain plants succeeded in refining the native tungsten. Yet some essential foreign materials continue to be urgently required, and their insufficient supplies in recent months have been responsible to a the fact that some of the arsenals have not been able to use their full expanded capacity. There can be no doubt that China's huge army of regulars and gurillas is self-sufficient in all the materials that go into the production of rifles, light machine guns and small arms ammunition. And it seems that the arsenals have an adequate capacity of production to manufacture what is needed in these regards.

MANY GRENADES PRODUCED

Hand grenades are produced in very large quantities. The Russian type of ordinary bottles filled with a mixture of gasoline and explosive are also produced and both have proved high ly effective weapons in the hands of the Chinese soldiers. It seems that the production of larger quantities of artillery shells for the relatively large number of guns existing in the Chinese Army is making headway in consequence of the slow but steady development of the small steel and copper industries. Moreover, the stock of these and other munitions are bound to increase in spite of China's present semi isolation from the outside world because fighting in China has been on so small a scale for some time that consumption is far below the output of the arsenals. All this does not obviate China's urgent need for many kinds of modern weapons like tanks and especially airplanes which it cannot possibly produce itself.

To be able to launch a really great counter-offensive, China must obtain from abroad large quantities of these and other modern weapons. It may be said that the supply of each unit of such weapons would serve to put into effective action thousands of rifles and dozens of machine guns which cannot easily be used without them against a firmly entrenched and still irelatively well equipped enemy.

In the meantime, however, existing stock and the considerable current production of its arsenals should make it possible for the Chinese Army to continue beating off any Japanese attacks on the scale on which they

WAR CALLS

TO TELEPHONE EXPANSION...

TELEPHONES are in greater demand than ever before—even greater than in 1941, an all-time record year. By far the greater part of this demand is for residence telephones.

Only a part of this unprecedented volume of orders can be filled if we are to have anything left for the camps and depots and air schools of our armed forces—for the plants and offices of our war industries. Already telephone materials are difficult to obtain. Reserves are steadily diminishing, even though we are re-conditioning and re-using every last piece of equipment that can be salvaged.

There can be only one answer: war needs must get first call on available supplies. Even when necessity demands new installations, not all types of instruments and services will be available.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board established by the Governor-in-Council under the War Measures Act, has directed us "to do all such things as may be requisite to conserve any and all telephone plant and facilities."

We realize that this will cause inconvenience—perhaps even hardship. We shall need your help in working out wise and just solutions to the telephone problems of your community. And we know that you will give it cheerfully, as still another necessary contribution to victory.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, APRIL 12TH, 1942

THE MISSION OF THE SEVENTY

The writer was very much impressed by a recent experience. Calling into a certain minister's home, he found a commercial traveller was there. The agent remained until he had made a sale and the signature was affixed on the dotted line. What would happen to the Christian Church if each Christian became an agent of the Kingdom and refused to leave the home or a "prospect" until he (or she) had signed on the dotted line? The probable result would be an influx of new life into the church; that it would be aroused to new energy, new effectiveness and new consecration.

Jesus sensed that. It is true that Jesus addressed large congregations. However, His most effective work was done with individuals. He chose twelve, and those twelve were trained in the ideals and ideas of Jesus. To them was left the task of making known, after He was gone, the way of salvation, the manner of bringing in the Kingdom. In to-days lesson Jesus sends out seventy. He sends them out in pairs, as the twelve had been commissioned. His agents. There is nothing significant in the number two, except that in any important matter there is much more boldness and power when the case is presented by two, than by one alone. John Wesley used to say that the Christian went to heaven alone—Christian helping Christian upon the varying lines of the technique of having two people do the work of one in the matter of witnessing, is all to easy to need and is effective.

There is something, too, that can be learned from the direction which Jesus gave to the seventy when they went forth. They were told to rules: (1) They must go in humility. They must carry no money, no purse, no interested gifts to the people. (2) They must not be guilty of gossip. They must not go from house to house doing. They were told to stay in one house and be content with what was provided. (3) They must not be guilty of criticism. They were told to eat what was set before them. (4) They must not be guilty of boasting. They were told to heal the sick and say nothing about it. (5) They must not be guilty of exaggeration. They were told to say, "The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you." They were not to say, "The kingdom of God is coming, coming, coming." They were to say that it had come.

HOLD HIGH THE TORCH OF FREEDOM

Helping To Keep Prices Reasonable

High taxes help to guard the country against unreasonable rises in the cost of living: They divert money from unnecessary spending for peace-time goods to Government spending for essential war-time material.

Saving money, practised by thousands of thrifty depositors has a similar effect: It helps to keep prices from soaring by decreasing the demand for non-essential, peace-time commodities.

Thus, when you save money in a savings account, you benefit yourself and the country. You will need to save, not only for family and personal emergencies, but to pay taxes and to buy war securities. Saving today is a patriotic service.

RIGID U.S. TIN DECREE PASSED

Tubes for Tooth-Paste Shaving Cream Must Be Returned to Retailer

Washington, April 1, (A.P.) — The United States War Production Board has prohibited retail merchants from selling toothpaste or shaving cream in tubes to any customer who fails to turn in some type of used collapsible tube for each new one purchased.

The provision first of its kind and effective immediately, makes retailers responsible for the trade-in transaction.

At the same time, the Board placed drastic restrictions on future use and production of collapsible tin tubes and prohibited the use of rings and also, as it is about 40 per cent. lighter than platinum, for cigarette and lighter cases, bracelets and other articles where lightness, strength and beauty are desired.

Palladium, also lighter than platinum, is too soft for jewellery work, so it is being toughened by the addition of small quantities of rhodium and ruthenium, two even more precious metals of the platinum group. In this state it is called by the trade Kerba palladium which goes to Britain chiefly from Canada.

Kerba palladium costs $7.10.0 an ounce, as against $9.0.0 an ounce for jewellers' platinum, but is only one much lighter, it goes further. In value it is comparable with 18-carat gold, and it is much more desirable because even in the alloy state it is precious metal throughout.

Under the terms of the trade-in provision a Production Board spokesman declared, retailers are liable to penalties prescribed under the War Powers Act — a maximum of $10,000 fine and one year imprisonment — if cleas of tube toothpaste or shaving cream are made in violation of the order.

Purchasers will not be required to exchange a used tube of the same type as the tube being purchased.

It was understood the used tubes eventually would be reprocessed and allocated back to the tube manufacturers — possibly representing the entire supply of tin they can expect for the duration of the war.

The order provides that tubes containing 100 per cent tin may be used only for certain medical ointments and pharmaceutical preparations, while tin-coated tubes must be used for tooth-paste and shaving cream.

Five Cent Increase in Potato Price for April, May and June

Ottawa, April 2, (C.P.) — Special provision to protect Canadian producers of potatoes in respect to late-season storage loans, was announced by Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade oBard.

A five-cent-a-bushel maximum increase in the ceiling price on potatoes will be permitted in each of the months of April, May and June. The increase allowed is to "cover waste in storage from sprouting, rotting and shrinkage."

Mr. Gordon's statement said the Board will continue to protect the consumer by maintaining the ceiling on potato prices subject to the allowance for storage waste.

Last week a delegation from New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island conferred with Hon. Gordon Taggart, Foods Administrator, and urged that the price ceiling on potatoes be raised.

The ceiling was applied by the Board on the basis of prices during a basic period from February 2nd to February 9th. Ceiling application was decided on after indications of speculative buying were noted by the Board.

COMMANDOS' KNIVES
Are Being Forged By Queen Victoria's Swordmaker

Eighty-year-old swordmaker Tom Beasley, who forged his first blade as a child of eight during the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, is working 10½ hours a day to help to arm British against her enemies. Since war began he has lost only half-an-hour of working time—when his clock stopped one morning.

He made the sabre which started making the sword presented to Queen Victoria by the Indian Princes on her Diamond Jubilee is being used to show younger men how to forge the deadly black knives used by Britain's Commando raiders and parachute troops.

These knives, worn in a leather scabbard attached to the leg, have an interesting history. Of the finest tempered steel, they were designed by Superintendents Fairbairn and Sykes of the Shanghai Police, who for years "trouble shot" experience to good account by teaching Britain's shock troops the art of swift and silent killing. But the pattern is much older, for, in 1686, troops fighting at Bayonne thrust such daggers as these into the muzzles of their flintlock muskets — and gave the world the first bayonet.

The factory where Tom Beasley has worked for fifty yrea normally turns out not only the best swords but the finest hollow ground razor blade in the world. Founded in 1772 as gunmakers, they started making swords in 1823 and cut-throat razors in 1890, while ten years later they were making the first safety razors to take up the safety razor, which in peace time they send all over the world, but which now is mainly army and police forces in the Empire, South America, Abyssinia, Egypt and Scandinavia, but as has put an end to this.

Now the company make the commando knives and scabbards armour-piercing shot for anti-tank guns, and an automatic fire extinguisher, the Graviner, which is installed in every British warplane. Organised for war effort, the factory has doubled its staffs—no 50 per cent. women — and quadrupled its output.

BRITAIN'S WAR BRIDES
Are Surrendering Their Wedding Rings of Platinum

Between six and ten wedding rings of platinum will supply the electrodes for each thoriating plug of one aero engine. Britain's war brides are therefore leaving the altar with rings made of palladium, a metal named after the planet Pallas, from Pallas Athene the Greek goddess of knowledge whose image the ancients believed brought good fortune.

British jewellers like the metal because it works quite as easily as platinum. In efigagement rings it holds the stones securely and with its unTarnishable brilliance brings out all their fire and colour. It is indeed proving ideal for all kinds of rings and also, as it is about 40 per cent. lighter than platinum, for cigarette and lighter cases, bracelets and other articles where lightness, strength and beauty are desired.

Palladium, like pure platinum, is too soft for jewellery work, so it is being toughened by the addition of small quantities of rhodium and ruthenium, two even more precious metals of the platinum group. In this state it is called by the trade Kerba palladium which goes to Britain chiefly from Canada.

Kerba palladium costs £7.10.0 an ounce, as against £9.0.0 an ounce for jewellers' platinum, but is only one much lighter, it goes further. In value it is comparable with 18-carat gold, and it is much more desirable because even in the alloy state it is precious metal throughout.

Mend Holes in Screens To Make Them Last

Wire is made from metal, and all metal must be conserved.

Holes in door and window screens, sieves and strainers may be neatly patched or darned with wire from screening of the same mesh, using rawelled wire for thread.

A coat of thin paint applied each spring will prolong the life of galvanized screening. Copper screening doesn't require painting except to prevent stains.

Frames of screen doors and windows, that have pulled apart at the corners, take a new lease on life brazed with a piece of metal.

On the farm, baling and other types of wire should be carefully salvaged for future use. It's likely to be hard to get. Straighten out bends, splice and wind in neat rolls. Keep where it won't rust.

PAPER FOR THE GUNS
Britain Collects 100,000 Tons in One Month

In a single month the local authorities of Great Britain have collected 100,000 tons of waste paper for munitions.

This record quantity was amassed by displaying to the public how the British industry turns the chairman's office paper into ammunition for the guns, chewing it up by hot revolving cylinders and turning it into a thick liquid in huge containers which come out at last in long clean sheets of cardboard.

One used envelope is transformed into a cartridge; 12 old letters make one shell cardridges; 6 books a mortar shell container; 2½ lbs. of waste paper make 448 washers for the rifle pistol.

Bren guns, Lewis guns, 2 inch mortars, Vickers guns, Women's Institutes and ordinary rifles, are all now using in their ammunition the results of Britain's record drive.

MRS. B. SEYMOUR RETIRES AS LEADER OF GRACE CH. CHOIR

The Official Board of Grace United Church has accepted with regret the resignation of Mrs. Bert Seymour, who has been choir leader of the church for the past eighteen years and a member of the choir for 21 years. Her resignation was presented last week and appreciation of her services was expressed by members of the Board.

Mrs. Seymour is an accomplished musician and in her years of service as choir leader at Grace Church has had the loyal support of a large choir, the many members of which have benefitted by her leadership. During the years, Mrs. Seymour was responsible for the presentation of many cantattas and special programmes and her services were greatly appreciated by the choir and congregation. Over a year ago she asked to be relieved of her duties, but was persuaded by the choir committee to carry on, which she consented to do until her decision to retire was definitely reached, recently.

Mrs. Seymour has been connected with choirs for the past 35 years and received the greater part of her musical training in England. When Professor Earle was organist of the Trinity United Church she took organ instruction from him and was able to preside at the organ when necessary. She is an accomplished pianist and has done solo work and has acted as accompanist on many occasions.

Mrs. Seymour's resignation takes effect immediately and she is being succeeded by Miss Letha Scott, A.T. C.M., whose ability as a musician eminently fits her to fill the position. Miss Scott will be in charge of the choir next Sunday.

NEW DIRECTORIES BEING ISSUED BY TELEPHONE CO.

Featured by a buff cover of some, what different design, Napanee's enlarged telephone directory is now being delivered to local subscribers, this week. This cover will alternate with the green one used in the last issue.

The book has a new large format, about twice the size of the old one. Each page now contains three columns of listings instead of two. The enlarged volume is the same size as directories for large cities, such as Ottawa, London, and Windsor.

Since there are more than 9,800 new and changed listings in the alphabetical section alone the importance of compiling a new book carefully before placing calls is obvious. If the "wrong number" nuisance is to be avoided. A large proportion of these changed listings are in the Kingston section of the book. All telephone numbers in Kingston are being changed when the dial system is placed in operation there at midnight on Saturday (April 11).

To prevent errors, the old directory should be discarded promptly on receipt of the new one. It has been suggested that it be included with other paper to be contributed to the national salvage campaign. In order further to assist in conserving paper, those who are moving to new residences should not forget to take their telephone directories with them, instead of obtaining a new one.

Chlorophyll, is the magic substance which makes leaves and grass green, prevents rubber from cracking when mixed with it, enhances its resiliency and generally prolongs its life. A Florida shipper discovered that packing his oranges and grapefruit in paper treated with chlorophyll caused them to be less susceptible to decay, bruising, turning brown or losing their juice—in short, it prolonged their life.

WOMEN COIN MONEY And Save

Britain's Copper Pennies for Bombs

Women are making coins in Britain's Royal Mint for the first time in its centuries of history. Now numbering nearly a quarter of the total workpeople, they have learnt the process of coining backwards. First they were put on the "overlooking" machine, and then slowly moving belt on which the newly-minted coins are spread out for inspection. Then the women went to the presses, where in one operation impress the blank coinage on both sides and, in some coins, mill round the edge.

A coin which is helping to win the war is the 12-sided three-penny piece of nickel-brass. It is smaller less than a quarter of the metal in their circumference, and their copper is needed for munitions. No pennies have been struck for United Kingdom use since June 1940, which at that time meant a saving of over 600 tons of copper a year. But last year saw the minting of 600,000,000 nickel-brass threepennies, the highest total in any year since they were first issued in 1937, when 45 millions were struck. In 1938, 15 million were issued; in 1939, 5,600,000 and in 1940 12,000,000. There are now about 150,000,000 of them in circulation, compared with about 3,000 million bronze coins and 1,350 million silver coins.

The brass threepenny was given its distinctive shape and size because the new coin had to be larger than the tiny silver threepenny, which was becoming unpopular, yet had to be sharply differentiated from the larger coins. When first issued it was received as a great curiosity, and millions went out of circulation to collectors.

In the Garden

Gain Little By Rushing

Generally speaking, — gardener gains little and risks much by rushing the season. This is especially true with flowers. Often when the frost does not kill it will set the plant back so far that the later sown will catch up and pass the first.

With vegetables, however, it is usually good business to take a chance with a portion of the seed to be sown. If one risks a quarter or third of a packet and there is no late frost, then one has vegetables days to weeks ahead of the regular season and they are doubly appreciated. For very best results in satisfaction and economy, advise making at least three plantings of each type of vegetable — the first extra early, the second about the regular season, and the third late. In this way the crop of fresh vegetables is spread over a very long period.

Give Them Room

All perennial flowers, shrubs, and trees are small when originally planted, but in a few years if is surprising how much room they take up, he averages. Don't plant them far too close together and in the case of trees and shrubs, far too close to the house or fences.

As a general rule, shrubs, trees and flowers should have half as much room between as their mature height. This means at least two feet apart for peonies, three and a half feet for the ordinary spirea, and from twenty-five to fifty feet for the general run of Canadian hardwood trees.

At first this may seem far too open, but the space between may be taken up with annual flowers in the case of a perennial bed, and with temporary, quick-growing shrubbery and trees, with the others.

Many gardeners now use permanently a mixture of annual plants in their perennial borders. In the case of trees, it is a well-established fact that nurse trees the quick-growing poplar as a sort of nurse crop for pines. First come the poplar, killing out weeds and grass, and providing ideal surroundings for the slower-growing, shade-loving pine.

Suitable Tools

The right tools will save much labor. But they should be in first-class working order. his means that hoes, spades, weeders, spudders, etc., should be sharp and clean. An old file will do the trick. Lawnmowers must be kept in the same condition if they are to give satisfaction, and not pull grass out by the roots or leave it unevenly.

A little hand-drawn cultivator will help spread the work in a fair-sized garden, while a three inch hoe will soon pay for itself in labour saved. If one goes in for a large supply of vegetables, the Dutch hoe is a useful implements. There are different sized rakes and different width of hoes.

PROTECT GARDEN CROPS AGAINST INSECT PESTS

Never before has the production and conservation of food been so important as it is in the year 1942. This applies to all food including fresh fruits and vegetables, which are not only nourishing but particularly healthful in that they contain a cheap and ready supply of vitamins. In gardens, probably the chief source of destruction among plants, is insects. They are to be found almost in every garden plot and field, ready to attack most crops as soon as they appear above ground. By the most persistent vigilance and by the waging of constant warfare throughout the months of growth can terrible pests be protected from the attack of these pests.

Insects frequently appear suddenly — and in tremendous numbers — giving the grower no time to make any preparations for defense. Accordingly, every gardener should be commencing from the time this annually-occurring onslaught. This can be done in a number of ways, states Allan G. Dustan, Associate Entomologist (Field Crops Insect Investigations). To begin with, all spraying and dusting equipment, whether hand or motor-driven, should be carefully checked over in the early spring to insure that it is in first-class working condition. Loose parts should be tightened, worn parts replaced and all moving parts thoroughly greased and oiled. Hose and hose connections should be tested to be sure that they are free from leaks and in good smooth condition to withstand a season's work. If there is any doubt as to this, new hose and couplings should be supplied. Spranks and pumps should be carefully cleaned out so that there will be no clogging residue to delay operations when they are needed.

It is a wise plan, probably a little later in the season, to fill with water all spray-tanks, wooden tubs, barrels or other containers that are to be used in spraying operations so that them ample time to tighten up before they are actually needed. If these have been emptied during the latter months in a dry place, the tightening-up process will probably take considerable time, possibly a week or more. Full allowance should be made in the schedule of preparedness for this delay.

And by all means lay in a small supply of insecticides that are most often required. These will keep for some time and will not deteriorate from one season to the next if kept in a dry place. If these are not needed in 1942, they will be available for use next year. A stock of the following poisons would probably meet most emergencies: lead arsenate, nicotine sulphate as good spreader-sticker, derris dust, corrosive sublimate, copper sulphate, hydrated lime and bran. By having these on hand much delay will be saved and probably at a time when delays are serious and costly.

Mrs. Haggerty read a poem appropriate to Good Friday, and Mrs. Bert Seymour read the Easter story.

The guest speaker, Mrs. W. S. L. Thrift, of Morrisburg, treasurer of Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial, was introduced by Mrs. Booth. Her subject was "Stewardship of Life," and she said, among other things, that stewardship is to live as well as to give, that stewardship involves more than the giving of the tithe, although a tither always has something to give cheerfully to a worthy cause, whether the amount be large or small. Stewardship involves personality, influence, use of time and possessions, and she left with us many helpful thoughts.

In expressing the thanks of the ladies for this inspiring address, Miss Olive Hambly said that the world would be a much better place if all used their stewardship and powers in God's service.

● Hydro-Electric energy, handmaiden of progress in peacetime, is indispensable in time of war!

In guarded laboratories all over Ontario, night and day, chemists are seeking out formulas for ever more powerful explosives that will help to shorten the war. The chemical industry and Hydro go hand in hand. Between them they produce explosives for aerial torpedoes, depth bombs, land and sea mines, chemicals for flame throwers—and many other weapons that will hit the enemy hard.

From the day that war was declared Hydro's two million electrical horsepower was ready to be harnessed to the war effort and today more than half of it is at work, fashioning the myriad tools of victory. In Ontario's chemical industry, huge plants using over 150,000 Hydro horsepower are turning out chemicals and high explosives—and more such plants are being built. That means greater demands for electrical energy, demands your Hydro must and will meet. Here, every citizen can help by conserving Hydro current, by using it sparingly. That's an important way we can all "help to finish the job" . . . sooner!

CONSERVE ELECTRICITY

In cooking, use automatic controls and watch the switches. For large quantities of food, use top oven element with broiling pan and rack instead of open elements. Cook complete "meal-in-one" dishes in one oven, with bottom element. Have your electrical dealer or local "Hydro" keep your appliances in first class order.

CAR OWNERS GET INSURANCE CUT

Special Rates Granted by By C. U. A. Members, Based on Mileage

A new occupational rating plan which will give reductions in public liability and property damages rates to those car owners who come within certain categories and who decrease their car mileage from April 1, was announced by the Canadian Underwriters' Association.

Car owners who carry this class of insurance are divided into four main categories. A 20 per cent. reduction in cost is made for owners in one category, ten per cent. in another. In a third group rates remain the same while in a fourth there is a 20 per cent increase in the rate.

Changes in rates apply in Ontario, Quebec, Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, but recommendations have been made to sister regional associations of the C. U. A. in other parts of Canada that these changes should be considered in their territories.

TEXT OF STATEMENT

The statement follows:

"A new occupational rating plan on public liability and property damage insurance has been approved by the Association which makes important changes in rates to car owners, from April 1st.

"A 10 per cent reduction in the cost of the insurance will be made on automobiles owned by an individual (i.e. a person, not a firm or corporation) which are not used by the named insured or any other person customarily operating the automobile in the carrying on of an occupation, profession or business as well as farmers and clergymen will come within this classification.

"A 20 per cent reduction will be made on those automobiles falling in the above groups which are not driven more than 7,500 miles during the previous year and the estimated mileage will not exceed 7,500 miles for the 12 months of the policy period provided they are not more than two operators of the automobile in the insured's household and that such operators are at least 25 years of age.

"In this classification a chauffeur or an employee of the insured's household will be counted as an operator. Where an insured owns more than one car the total number of operators shall not exceed an average of two operators per automobile.

"Present rates will apply to automobiles which do not fall within the two classifications already described and miners and commercial travellers will continues to pay present rates.

"In one category, where the hazards of driving have proven far above normal, a 20 per cent increase in existing rates will be effected."

THE PLATE SUPPER

Hello Homemakers ! With the tendency towards small parties these days, let's talk about what we shall eat? After all, it is nice to ask the Knit and Chatter girls over for lunch and an afternoon of work and talk. Or maybe our cousins will drop in Sunday afternoon and share supper with us around the fireplace.

* * *

Plate suppers—the favourite dish for many of these occasions— must be planned well ahead of time. If you have glass salad plates, do use them—they are so gay. And now for your menus—which are really easy to prepare.

May we suggest Plum Broilettes? Shape well-seasoned, mashed potatoes into balls the size of large plums, then dip them in egg white. To go with them, mince round steak, moisten with tomato juice, bind with fine, dry crumbs, season with chopped celery leaves and roll into tiny Sausage Rolls. Cover these and store in the electric refrigerator until fifteen minutes before serving. While our hot dish is broiling—by placing meat and potato balls in broiling pan, two inches below hot top oven element—you can arrange the plates. Plain cabbage, shredded exceptionally fine beforehand, should be marinated with a salad dressing to which applesauce and horseradish have been added. Place this salad mixture on a bed of watercress and garnish with shaved carrot strips. Small pickled pears, cored and stuffed with small peanuts would be a surprise titbit. With the addition of the broiled potatoes and sausages, everything is now ready to be served on the plates.

If you are serving lunch at the table (and don't have to worry about balancing plates on your knees) try tenderloin prepared in a somewhat similar way. Cut the tenderloin crosswise in two-inch pieces, make a slit in the centre, and fill with quartered apples — about one apple to each piece. Place in a casserole with the apple side up and cook for fifteen minutes in electric oven at moderate temperature. Cover and leave in oven until ready to serve—the retained heat will finish the cooking and keep it hot for an hour. Place a good-sized serving of potato salad, seasoned with onion, pepper and salt, on shredded cabbage moistened with lemon juice; sprinkle with paprika and garnish with celery. When you have added your tenderloin strips, your plate is complete. And don't forget hot buttered rolls. Place them below the broiling pan or in a paper bag on the same shelf as the casserole. They will taste just as if they were coming out of the oven for the first time.

A serving of rich chocolate cake with a topping on it—for a change— will give your luncheon the final touch. Delicious ? Of course. Hope you have a nice party !

RECIPES

Chocolate Cake :
- One-quarter cup butter
- Two cups brown sugar
- Two eggs
- Six tablespoons cocoa dissolved in
- Three-eighths cup hot water
- Two cups flour
- One teaspoon soda
- One-eighth teaspoon salt
- One cup sour milk
- Two teaspoons vanilla

Cream butter, add sugar gradually; beat in eggs and stir in dissolved cocoa. Sift flour and measure; add soda and salt; sift together three times and add to mixture alternately with sour milk. Add vanilla and pour into pan greased with melted fat. Bake in electric oven at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Topping Top with small sections of orange and a layer of cream.

Rhubarb Cream (requested)
- Two lbs. rhubarb
- Grated rind and juice half-lemon
- One-inch stick of cinnamon
- Three whole cloves
- One and half cups sugar
- Half-tablespoon cornstarch
- One cup cream whipped

Cut the rhubarb into pieces (do not peel if tender). Add the grated rind and juice of the lemon, spices tied in a piece of cloth, sugar and enough water barely to cover the rhubarb. Cook fifteen minutes until rhubarb is tender. Remove spices. Drain off juice. Chill rhubarb. Make a sauce of juice and cornstarch; and stir while cooking. Chill. Fold rhubarb into the whipped cream and serve.

QUESTION BOX

Mrs. W. C. asks: "Is it dangerous to use real sour milk in baking?"

Answer: Sour milk only has a limited amount of acidity but since other bacteria grow in separated sour milk the baked product will have an unpleasant flavour and may not be good texture.

Mrs. J. A. B. suggests: When you put away woollen garments, sprinkle with table salt; moths and silverwish will not touch any 'salted' cloth. This method may be used on chesterfields and rugs in summer, too .

Mrs. M. F. asks: "Should steak pieces be rolled in flour before canning meat by the hot water method?"

Answer: No. Flour retards heat penetration, flakes off in the bottom of the jar and gives the meat a 'warmed over' taste. Recipes have been sent to you, Mrs. W.

Easter Services, Selby

The Easter occasion was fittingly observed by the members of the Selby United Church Sunday School, when 156 were present in the various classes to share in the helpful Easter lesson on the subject of "Christ and Life After Death."

Also a large congregation gathered at the evening worship service, which was accompanied with bright Easter hymnans and special music by the choir. An interesting feature of the evening was the baptismal service, at which the new font, which was dedicated a few weeks ago, was used for the first time. The parents presenting their children for baptism were Mr. and Mrs. Dorland Windover, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Huff, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nugent. The child of the latter parents represented the fourth generation present in the congregation, as the grandparents and great - grandparent, Mrs. Baldwin, were present to witness the ceremony, which was a very unusual occurrence. This service was followed by the pastor's Easter message, based on the text: "He ever Liveth."

Thus, helpful service in the morning and evening, marked another Easter Day.

Yes, YOU BOYS AND GIRLS can help win the War!

What if you can't fly a bomber, or drive a tank, or help make guns and ammunition? You can do your part in winning the war.

When you boys go out and cut lawns or collect paper and scrap, you are doing a man's work. That releases one more man for the armed forces or to work in a munitions plant. When you go to the store and carry parcels home you relieve a man; you also relieve a truck and make more tires and gasoline available for carrying on the war.

When you girls wash the dishes and help with the housework, your mother doesn't need to get help. That means more hands to work in munitions plants. When you bring dad's slippers, do little chores for him when he is tired, he will be able to do better work and more work next day—perform a bigger part in winning the war.

So, boys and girls, do all the odd jobs you can find to do. Make yourselves useful around your home and in your community. Every single job you do willingly brings victory one step nearer.

This message is issued by the Department of Munitions and Supply for Canada

BRAVE MEN SHALL NOT DIE BECAUSE I FALTERED

NOW IS THE TIME TO CONTROL CLOTHES MOTHS

Every year, especially during the spring and summer months, clothes moths and carpet beetles do enormous damage to woollen clothing, furs and fabrics of animal origin. With the present urgent need of conserving materials it is everyone's duty to take steps to prevent such losses and thus contribute towards winning the war. Clothes moths have been troublesome pests for a long time. In the Book of Isaiah appears the following reference to their ravages: "The moth shall eat them up like a garment, and the worm shall eat them like wool." More than 2,000 years ago, the Greek scientist Aristotle wrote of the small animals which occur in wool and woollen goods and are present "in greatest numbers when the wool is dusty." The Roman, Pliny, thought that "a suit of clothes placed upon a coffin will be forever proof against the teeth of moths." In the Middle Ages it was believed that clothes "wrapped in the skin of a lion have nothing to fear." This was only superstition and is ignored to-day when people are fortunate in having scientific knowledge to guide them.

According to information issued by the Division of Entomology, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, clothing, blankets, and other articles subject to damage should be thoroughly brushed or sent to the dry cleaners before being stored away during the warm weather. Following this they may be packed in boxes or trunks made as moth-tight and gas-tight as possible by sealing all cracks with adhesive tape. To remove any danger of infestation, about one pound either of fresh naphthalene flakes or paradichlorobenzene crystals should be scattered in each large trunk full of clothes and the lid closed tightly. The concentrated fumes from these chemicals are deadly to the insects. Clothing in moth bags may be given additional protection by adding a few ounces of one of these substances to each bag. As the fumes are heavier than air the material should be suspended in cheesecloth in the upper part of the bags. To retain the fumes and to keep out moths, the bags should be of some fairly impervious material such as heavy brown paper free from holes of any kind. Damage to piano felting may also be guarded against by suspending about one pound of naphthalene or paradichlorobenzene in cheesecloth bags inside the piano, and keeping it closed when not in use.

The larvae of clothes moths and carpet beetles may develop in many out of the way places where dirt and dust collect, such as inverted lamp gloves, furnace air shafts, floor cracks, behind sideboards, and even in the meiding basket. Discarded clothes and furnishings left in the basement or attic are also a frequent source of infestation. A periodic house-cleaning, which takes into account all these and similar likely breeding places, is one of the most effective control measures. Rugs should be cleaned on both sides. Where available a vacuum cleaner is a valuable aid in doing a thorough job.

If the house is to be closed for a long period, it is wise to scatter naphthalene or paradichorobenzene liberally over rugs and carpets, afterwards rolling them tightly and tying them up in stout brown paper. Upholstered furniture may be treated in a similar manner.

Much is heard nowadays of so-called moth - proofing substances. While some of these have definite value, none gives complete and permanent prosection under all conditions. A simple and fairly effective preparation for home use may be made by dissolving two ounces of sodium fluosilicate in one gallon of hot water. If this is not available, a saturated solution of modium flu, oride has considerable merit. he solutions may be used for treating rugs and furniture coverings, providing there is no danger of water damaging the fabrics. They should be applied when cool by means of a sprayer or a sponge, using sufficient to saturate the material. When dry, the slight "bloom" that may appear on the surface should be brushed off. Sodium fluosilicate and sodium fluoride are poisons and should be handled with due caution.

A pamphlet on clothes moths and carpet beetles may be obtained on request from the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

$9,000,000 APPEAL TO BE MADE FOR RED CROSS SOCIETY

An appeal for $9,000,000 in voluntary contributions to the work of the Red Cross Society will be launched throughout Canada on May 11th and through the succeeding seven weeks. This was announced here in a joint statement by Jackson Dodds, Chairman of the Central Council, and Mr. Justice P. H. Gordon, Chairman of the National Executive of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

"The Canadian Red Cross Society needs urgently a minimum of $9,000,000 in order to carry on its work for the current twelve months in the mitigation of human suffering" the statement declared, continuing, "This is the first appeal since October, 1940, to the voluntary generosity of the Canadian people.

"The Government of Canada recently announced its supply programs needed by various War Service organizations, but the Canadian Red Cross Society was necessarily excluded from that arrangement. The reason for this is that the Red Cross Society is International ,its position rests upon the Conventions of Geneva ratified by Act of Parliament. These require the Red Cross Society to be supported by voluntary subscription, and it is only by maintaining such support that the Canadian Red Cross Society can command the rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed under International Law. No belligerent government may finance the Canadian Red Cross Society to do so would be to destroy the International status of the Society and even wipe out its immunity under fire.

"Throughout the whole of the period since the October 1940 campaign, the Canadian Red Cross Society has enjoyed unexampled co_operation at the hands of the people of Canada, the press, the radio and the motion picture industry. Thousands of women, in all parts of Canada, have worked faithfully and unremittingly to supply the Red Cross Society with the materials that it needs to take care of the requirements of Canadian soldiers here and overseas, and to look after the needs of the sick and the suffering among the bombedout population of Britain, and to prepare for whatever eventuality may befall Canada itself.

"It is only through the Canadian Red Cross Society that any Canadian can do anything for a Canadian, British, Australian or New Zealand prisoner-of-war. It is only through the Canadian Red Cross Society's Inquiry Bureau and its facilities for international investigation that information may be obtained as to missing Canadian fighting men. It is only through the services of the Blood Donor branch of the Red Cross Society's work that those Canadians who are unable to fight, can supply blood to make good some of that shed by our fighting men overseas.

The Red Cross is shipping 40,000 parcels to prisoners-of-war each week and has been asked to increase these shipments to 80,000 per week. The cost of supplying prisoners-of-war parcels this year alone is more than $5,000,000.

"The Red Cross Society needs now $9,000,000. With its campaign starting on May 11th, it will pursue an intensive canvass in which it hopes to reach every Canadian and to afford every citizen a patriotic opportunity to give to a noble cause.

"We realize that the time for preparation is short, and that every Branch and every Division of the Red Cross Society in Canada will require to work unremittingly — in some cases almost night and day— to be ready in time for the opening of the drive.

"Any more protracted period of preparation would conflict with the war financing needs of the Government of Canada itself. The Red Cross Society is desirous of co-operating with the Government in every practicable way. Therefore, the campaign must begin on May 11th. The active canvass is designed to conclude on Saturday, May 22nd. During those two weeks the society hopes to collect at least $9,000,000 in cash and pledges from the Canadian people.

"We appeal earnestly to Canadians everywhere to prepare themselves now to suave risks and to fill this most urgent need."

FARMERS TOLD TO CONSERVE EQUIPMENT

FEED CONTROLLER LAUNCHES DRIVE TO ELIMINATE WASTE

Ottawa. (C.P.) — Oil for the barnyard pump and stitches on old canvas bags were called part of the pattern of victory today as the Agriculture Department called on farmers for increased economy and efficiency in operations to assist the war effort.

Fred P. Presant, feeds administrator in stressing the necessity of preserving bags, said that supplies of jute and other materials used in making bags had been reduced by war in the Pacific and it was incumbent on farmers to see that available bags were made to go as far as possible.

Mr. Presant said farmers who had more bags than they required should make every effort to see they were made available to others. As a result a price has been established on second-hand bag prices, there was no benefit in holding them, he said.

To preserve supplies on hand, farmers were advised to see bags were removed from damp locations and kept dry. Repairs to those in bad condition should be undertaken.

MILLIONS OF BAGS

"Millions of bags are in use throughout Canada and are essential in the handling of feed, fertilizergrain, mill feeds and a host of other farm products," Mr. Presant said.

Department officials said the farm equipment of Canada should be safeguarded as never before because of existing shortages in metals and other materials and the prospect of further shortages in months to come.

"Even the old water pump in the barnyard will present a problem if any of the metal parts give way," an official said. "If there are hose attachments, they may be irreplaceable."

Officials said campaigns against rats and mice and other farm pests were being urged. Bags, ropes and other farm equipment now difficult to replace were damaged by such pests and food supplies were endangered by them from the time they were being grown until they were delivered to destinations overseas.

An old farm proverb: "There's no time lost a-whettin" was being used in departmental publicity directed to farmers. It was stressed that sharp blades on all agricultural equipment cut down gasoline requirements, reduced the strain on horses, did the work faster and better and made easier this task of shorthanded farmers.

CARE OF HARNESS

The refurbishing of harness with oil and polish was recommended with the prospect that farmers would have to return to horses for farm work this year.

The Department has suggested that baling and fencing wire be conserved as representing material made in factories required to produce war materials. War economy should be extended to the woodlot, with old, dead trees cleared out and used for fuel so less coal would have to be bought and labor in the mines conserved.

In many lines of farm equipment farmers are being urged to look on what they have at present as likely to be the last they will have for a considerable time and see to it every precaution is taken to make it last as long as possible,"an official said.

DOMINION PRESIDENT HOLSTEIN ASSOCIATION SPEAKS AT CLUB DINNER

Record Attendance at Annual Dinner of County Ass'n

A record crowd of over 150 attended the annual banquet of the Lennox and Addington Holstein Breeders' Association served last Wednesday evening by the members of the Queen of Sheba Rebekah Lodge at Argyll Assembly Hall.

Lloyd T. Cowle, President of the Association, was chairman for the programme which followed the dinner. Music included piano-accordion solos by Albert Case and a vocal solo by Alan Aylsworth.

The speaker of the evening was James Henderson, Portsmouth, the Dominion President of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, who responded to a toast to the Holstein Cow, proposed by Mr. R. M. Hollis, Port Perry, the Association's Fieldman for the district.

Before the address by Mr. Henderson, Mayor D. R. Hall gave an address of welcome to the Association and Warden W. A. Macleod expressed the appreciation of the County for the achievements of the Holstein Association in the county. Both D. R. Hall and Warden McCabe stressed the importance of farmers increasing production of all kinds of farm commodities to the greatest possible degree, so that the utmost help may be given the United Nations in winning the war.

Mr. Henderson, in his address, said it is important that everyone should have a proper realization of the effect the war is having on every person in Canada. The situation in the Pacific has made a great change on the whole Empire, because New Zealand and Australia, which formerly supplied Britain with a great deal of her food requirements, have been practically cut off by the Japanese invasion, consequently Canada must supply more and more farm produce to Britain. The least Canadians can do for the Empire is to keep up the required supplies, because of what Britain has done for Canada, likewise in keeping the enemy from our shores.

Mr. Henderson stated that Holstein breeders should be leaders in their communities in helping to supply the produce needed." He said that in order to keep up the flow of milk, special care and study must be given to the breeding of cattle. He also advised a study of proper feeding of cattle and the need for producing cows able to clear out the poor producers. In this connection he emphasized the value of Record of Production, and advised recording the whole herd and keeping at it, year after year.

Mr. Henderson closed his address by urging farmers to give careful thought to preparations for the post war period, when new and larger markets will be opened up to Canadian farmers.

Following Mr. Henderson's address Mr. Holtby showed some pictures of the Canadian National Exhibition.

MORALE DRIVE WEEK APRIL 19, TO BOOST WILL TO WIN

Toronto, (C.P.) — Plans to celebrate the week of April 19 with dedication services by all religious denominations throughout Canada, were announced by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews of Ontario, head of a committee comprising the nine provincial premiers, heads of religious denominations and prominent educationists and businessmen.

The announcement said the week would be called "The Great Crusade" and would be held in cooperation with similar observances in Great Britain, the United States, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. Object of the movement was to "stimulate spiritual morale of English-speaking people of the world in their fight against base forces arrayed against Christian civilization."

INTERNATIONAL MOVE

The statement continued: "The movement, which has assumed international proportions, was organized a year ago when on St. George's Day, Canada joined in a "Salute to Britain" as heartening cheer to men and women then guarding the one remaining bastion of human freedom in Europe."

Letters of suggestion for the special services have been sent to clergymen of all denominations in Canada. It was proposed that April 19th be celebrated as a "day of dedication to the great crusade," with April 26th to be observed as "Youth Sunday."

AIMS OF MOVEMENT

An accompanying explanation of the aims of the movement mentioned the "disillusionment" following the Great War and said the present war was the result of "causes which led to the first war." Those were defined as "our failure to recognize that without a spiritual renaissance, a complete change of heart among the nations as in each and every individual, no new world order will ever be built."

"The war must be fought and won as the greatest of all crusades," the explanation continued. "President Roosevelt has just asked for suggestions for a name for the war. It involves the fate of freedom everywhere and is therefore more than a war. Could a better name be found to express both the purpose and the magnitude of the struggle than 'the great crusade'?"

FATHERS AND SONS HEAR DR. BREWING AT GRACE CH. BANQUET

Splendid Attendance at Annual Father and Son Dinner

Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing, Minister of St George's United Church, Toronto, was the speaker at the annual Father and Son Banquet of Grace United Church, held last Friday Evening in the Sunday School Hall of the church. Dr. Brewing was introduced by Rev. Dr. A. Ard Wilson, Editor of The United Church Observer and an expression of appreciation was extended to him by Rev. C. D. McLellan the minister of the church.

Mr. Fred Stafford, the president of the Men's Club, presided for the programme which followed the dinner. The dinner was served by the Women's Association and Mrs. F. B. Elliot responded to the vote of appreciation extended to the association.

A toast to the fathers was given by Rodney Sexsmith, whose father, Ward Sexsmith, responded on behalf of the fathers.

Dr. Brewing asked four questions, which he answered himself, in a talk which was practical and interesting, and was delivered in a most entertaining manner. The questions were "Who was Your Grandfather?", "How Much are you Worth?" "What do you know?" and "What are You?" The conclusion which the men and boys could draw from the address was that while material things do have an effect on the life of a man, it is his spiritual quality which actually has the greatest influence in shaping his career.

Dr. Brewing said that it does matter who one's grandfather was, because heredity does have an influence. But it does not matter so much today, as it one hundred years ago, because now we have it in ourselves to change the course of things that come from our fathers. Most of our present day have been born into a new knowledge, which their grandfathers did not have and could not assimilate, even if new. Every boy should, nevertheless, remember that the quality of his forefathers is reflected in the generation to follow him.

Answering the question: "How Much are you Worth?" Dr. Brewing said that the individual Canadian citizen is the richest in the world, considering the resources of the country in which he lives. But the real worth is the measure of the man. We never ask what greatness is worth in money. It is the quality of life in the man which makes his worth.

In past generations it used to matter greatly what a man knew, because only a privileged few were educated and consequently those few held positions of prominence in a community. But now the greater proportion of people have the privilege of education. There are amazing opportunities, to a day, to learn and know things. The few cannot use their exclusive knowledge for their own benefit and the benefit of men who work under them, as they used to be able to ro, because of the greater quality of knowledge to-day. Nevertheless it does matter what a boy knows, when he gets out into the world and has to make a place for himself."

The final question: "What are you?" Dr. Brewing said, will tell most in the race of life. It is not strength, intellect or personality, but character which counts most. No man with a dark stream of impure thinking and action flowing through his life can make much of his life. The possibilities for the future of a boy, however, are unmeasurable. Dr. Brewing said, in concluding his address.

Conundrum Tea at St. Mary Magdalene's A Great Success

A very successful Conundrum Tea was held in the Sunday School room of St. Mary Magdalene's Church on Wednesday afternoon, under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of the church. Mrs. George J. INDIA REJECTS PROPOSALS

Nobody could have done a better job for India and the British Empire than Sir Stafford Cripps. He has been a life-long friend of India, and is a personal friend of Nehru. These two statesmen have much in common. Certainly their opinions on the needs of India were not far apart. It was this, as much as any other factor which led to a wave of optimism throughout the Allied countries, that the vexed problem of India was on the way to a solution.

It is not worth while trying to unearth the reasons for the rejection of the British proposals. Apparently the British Government was willing to go just as far as possible under present war conditions. Britain showed a generosity which has not always marked her attitude to India — but the proposals were not acceptable to the Indians — or at least to those who speak for them.

The attitude and spirit of Sir Stafford Cripps has been admirable all through the negotiations. Even when the proposals were rejected, he showed no bitterness and no desire to condemn any individual or group. In his statement, after he had received the rejection, Sir Stafford said: "The discussions are over. They will slip into history and they will leave their impress—a good, clean and healthy impress which will influence the future. But, the present and future press upon us and must be faced."

"India," he said, "is threatened. All who love India as I love India and you love India, must bring their energies, each in his own way, to her immediate help. That help cannot come through dissention and differences. It must come by a joining together of vital elements into a closely - knit unity. This is your task, wherever you can help, whatever your party or community."

Nehru, likewise speaking for India, said that even though the negotiations had broken down, India would do all in her power to defend herself, and to co-operate with the British against the Japanese. Thus the spirit of the two great peoples represented by their spokesmen is that while they could not effect a final solution to their differences, they would continue to co-operate to the full in the prosecution of the war. This is a great achievement, and may bode well for the future.

One great gain which the negotiations have achieved is that those who have been condemning the British Empire for their attitude to India, will have little or no cause for further criticism. Britain has done her part. The problem now rests entirely with the Indians themselves. Friends of India will feel disappointment that the offers have been rejected, but will rejoice that the spirit of co-operation, which will in time find a solution to the vexed problem, prevailed.

With Japan knocking at the gates of India, with the civil population of Madras already evacuated, it will take all the courage, all the resources, all the power which the Allied Forces can command, to check the onward rush of the Nipponese.

V

RESERVE UNITS

A vigorous campaign is under way to recruit up to strength, the Reserve Army. To join this army a person must be between the ages of 17-19 and 36-50, if single, or 31-50 if married, or if too low a medical category for active service. In Napanee, we have such a corps, which is below strength, and which needs many more recruits. The training involved is 40 days a year, made up of 45 evenings, which count 15 days, 15 days at camp and 10 on week-end manoeuvres. N. C. O.'s and Officers get an extra 15 days. Pay is at the rate of 1.20 a day for privates. If killed or injured on service, pensions are provided for survivors.

In times which are as critical and challenging as these, there is an opportunity for men who come within the age categories, to serve their district and country. With the war spreading from country to country, there is no telling when it may reach our shores. A Reserve Army may never be needed for the defence of Canada, and yet we have had sufficient evidence of the folly of unpreparedness. The local unit gives to all unable to serve in any other capacity, the opportunity to do their bit.

FINDING OUT THINGS

Hon. J. W. Noseworthy, C.C.F. Member of Parliament for South York, who recently defeated Hon. Arthur Meighen in a rather spectacular by-election, has been finding out a few things since he took his seat at Ottawa. In an address, on Sunday, he said that the importance of Parliament seemed to be diminishing fast. He said: "Over 6,000 Orders in Council were issued while Parliament was sitting, recently. "This," he said, "seems like an enormous number, but the majority are arranged by an inner circle. "In one instance," Mr. Noseworthy said, "a certain bill was passed unchanged even for the dotting of an 'i' after ten days' discussion. Bills are debated day after day and week after week, it seems to me, but eventually they go through in their original form. It makes one amazed at the futility of it all, amazed at the waste of time spent by the Members of the House debating the bills. It astounded me because I had never been associated with any group of persons who could not find some improved idea or suggestion that might help, following the discussion of any matter."

Mr. Noseworthy is not the first to have laid the charge against the Parliament. It is one of the most common charges that can be brought against the Democratic way of doing things. Democracy has been called a government of talk, and the totalitarians brand our parliaments as debating societies.

There is a great deal of truth in these assertions. Anyone who has had the opportunity to sit in on one of the sessions of Parliament must have wondered how on earth anything could get done; must have marvelled at the endurance of those brave members who sat through the sessions listening, day after day, to the endless talk, with, in the background the almost foregone conclusion that the debate would alter the issue under discussion, not at all.

While this is true, the question is, what is the alternative? There are two. One is the totalitarian state — under that form of government those in charge pay no attention to anybody else; they do not even go through the motions of consulting the chosen representatives, for, if they have any, they are "yes men" at best. The argument in favor of this sort of government is that it gets things done. Of course, it does, but the things done are those which the few self-appointed rulers want done. The people are not consulted.

The other alternative is a modified or improved form of democracy. We have no blue print, no ready-made plans for such modification, and yet the lack of interest on the part of the average voter in the parliament, is reflected in the house itself, and if there is to be more interest within the house, there must be more interested voters. This, to be sure, is a pretty general statement, and quite evidently something more definite is needed in the way of suggested improvement. We are living in a day of concentrated power, days when business and all the interests which affect life intimately are in the hands of small, but powerful groups. It seems to be the historic trend. If this is so, it may be that we are witnessing the last days of politics, as such. But the Democratic principle can be maintained even in days of concentration of power, so long as the people have the right to change those in power by means of the vote, and the right openly to criticise and oppose even those who rule. Perhaps in the days that lie ahead that is the way our democracy will work. It may have to do that if it is to meet the challenge of the newer ideologies. We are in transitional days. The changes which are impending are not alone geographic; they are economic, political, religious and social. Mr. Noseworthy and other progressives will do well to give some attention to these trends so as to present suggestions for the perfecting of a political machine geared to the new society.

DOWN TO FORTY

The Dominion Government has given warning that it intends to pass a regulation placing the maximum speed of an automobile on the roads throughout Canada at forty miles an hour. It is doubtful that the Government has constitutional authority for such a regulation; but we would not suggest that anyone of our readers should, after May 1st, drive at fifty, so as to test the constitutionality of the regulation. The Government can do a lot of things in wartime that it cannot do under ordinary circumstances. Under Section 92 of the B. N. A. the Province has power over property and civil rights, under which the operation of the automobile quite probably comes. But Section 91, while it has had a very narrow range of application, according to the Rowell-Sirois Report, yet gives the Dominion power to make laws for the "peace and order and good government of Canada." If driving at fifty or sixty can be thought of as against the peace and order and good government of Canada, then the constitutionality of the regulation cannot well be challenged, even theoretically.

But, in as much as there is a war on and the Provincial Governments are going to enforce the new Dominion regulation, we had better not argue about it. Anyway, there is little gas and less rubber, so we had better cut speed. Probably, this time next year, we will all be using wooden inner tubes, driving on the rims, or walking.

SPRING CLEANING

WALLPAPER ECONOMY

April is the month when a mark on the wall gives us a pain, and really discolored wallpaper reduces us to despair.

Before you decide either to repaper your walls or resign yourself to their depressing appearance, try washing a section of the wall which is hidden by a picture or furniture.

Moisten a soft rag with warm water and dab the paper, without rubbing, until it is evenly wet all over. Do not use too much water or it may make the paper cockle. If your experimental patch dries successfully, you can safely wash all the walls of the room. Do not stop work in the middle of a wall or you may leave a "tide mark."

If you find the paper will not wash, try dry cleaning it with bran.

Local treatment is usually satisfactory for dirty marks on otherwise fresh walls.

Rub non-greasy stains with a clean India-rubber. A grease mark can probably be removed by painting on benzine with a small brush. To prevent benzine from running down the wall, press a clean piece of blotting paper over it. Remember that benzine is highly inflammable.

Ink stains should be treated in the same way with a weak solution of oxalic acid, used very sparingly.

FACE LIFTS FOR FURNITURE

If your polished furniture is looking tired, you can easily restore its beauty.

First of all, wash the piece of furniture with warm water.

Wipe away the surplus moisture with a soft cloth, finishing with a rub with a soft chamois leather.

When it is quite dry, polish it over with a brush dipped in raw linseed oil, used sparingly. Leave the oil to dry, after which the furniture is ready to be treated with French polish.

Before beginning this part of the work, rub your hands with cold cream to fill the pores of the skin and slip on a pair of housemaid's gloves. Make a pad of cotton wool wrapped in two thicknesses of an old handkerchief.

Sprinkle the cotton wool with the polish and rub the pad over the surface in a circular or figure-eight movement.

Finish by rubbing it vigorously with a velvet pad.

Hot-iron marks on polished furniture can be removed by rubbing them with white oil, which you can buy from a hardware shop or decorating firm.

A dented or bruised surface can be treated by covering it with a damp woollen pad of three or four thicknesses and putting a hot iron on it.

Painting whitewood furniture is a simple job, but it is essential that the wood must be perfectly clean before the work is started. For a new piece of furniture, rub thoroughly all over with No. 0 sandpaper until it is perfectly smooth. Fill any cracks or level uneven surface with plastic wood.

CARPETS AND HANGINGS

Even if your carpet is not noticeably dirty, it needs a shampoo now and again because grit cuts the material and shortens its life.

Make a lather of soapflakes and warm water and add a teaspoon of liquid ammonia to each quart of water. Go down on your hands and knees and scrub the carpet gently in sections, scrubbing harder where there are stains. Finish each section by wiping it with a cloth wrung out in warm water, smoothing the pile in the right direction.

To remove fresh grease stains, cover with blotting paper and press with a hot iron.

A sprinkling of bran brushed in with a clean, stiff nail brush will freshen a high-colored carpet. Remove the remains of the bran with a vacuum cleaner.

A hot iron used over a damp cloth will successfully rout moths.

If a carpet or mat is frayed at the edges, bind it with carpet webbing sewn on with herringbone stitch. Do not backstitch the binding as this is liable to tear away from the edge of the carpet.

When you have washed your curtains, be sure to pull them straight by putting the long edges together. Hang them over a line lengthways.

TIMELY TIPS

If you are making new loose covers be sure to buy a little extra material for patching. Each time you wash the covers, wash the spare material as well, so that when the need for patching arises, the new fabric will match the old.

As it is usually the arms which wear out first, it is a good plan to make separate arm covers. When they are worn they may be discarded and the underneath arms take their place.

Spring is not only an opportune time to clean down and dress up the house. We must go over ourselves as well. The war situation will mean that instead of too many new things we shall dress up the old. But more than all this it is important that we oust from our minds all the petty grievances stored there, all the feelings of bitterness and scepticism which creep in like wine dust — or any like insidious harmers of happiness. Sit down quietly and check on yourself. Then decide "it's an ALL OUT effort."

20,000 CHILDREN WILL BE NEEDED TO WORK ON FARMS

Toronto, (C.P.) — Twenty thousand Ontario secondary school students will be needed to work on farms in the holiday season, A. Mac-Laren, farm service force director, said last week to a meeting of the Secondary Schools Headmaster's Association.

Students from 12 years of age up are being registered for farm help, he said. Camps were being established for girls from 16 to 19 who will be paid a minimum of 22½ cents an hour for farm work and in such areas as the Niagara Peninsula, where piece work prevails, the minimum must come up to this hourly rate.

Boys would be paid $30 for the first month they work if they are inexperienced and $35 if they worked on farms last year. For the remainder of their employment their salary will be settled between themselves and their employers, Mr. MacLaren said.

20 PER CENT WORK ON FARMS

Ottawa. (C.P.) — Canadians held on the farm by Government selective service regulations represent about 20 per cent. of the working population, compared with more than 38 per cent. of the gainfully employed at work on farms during the First Great War, officials estimated recently.

In spite of the smaller farm working force, production is high and may even be increased by reason of mechanized equipment developments.

By the selective service regulations announced March 24, the farm population was stabilized as at March 1, workers on the land at that date being considered sufficient to maintain food production for Canada and the Allies.

Through men joining the armed services and leaving the farm for industrial employment, officials estimate that up to 10 per cent. of farm workers in Canada left the type of work in 1941. As the labor shortage developed in varying severity in different parts of the country, the need of mechanized equipment was reflected in the figures.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, APRIL 19TH, 1942

GROWING TENSION WITH FALSE LEADERS

The Pharisees were not a bad lot. They were the elect in the church organization of their day. They were the pillars of the church — always on hand properly dressed and perfect in deportment. They knew the ritual off by heart. They knew when and how to go through the proper forms. They were rather rigid in their observance of the law, and somewhat narrow in their interpretation of the religious obligations which the temple imposed on the worshipper.

While there was much that was good in their attitude to life, yet they carried their demand for obedience to the letter of the law to a ridiculous extreme. And it was this that Jesus, in to-day's lesson, condemns. He had been invited by one of these Pharisees, to dinner. No Pharisee would sit down to a meal without pouring water over his hands in a ceremonial observance. So when Jesus neglected this ceremony, naturally, the Pharisees were shocked.

It gave Jesus the opportunity to teach a needed lesson to the Pharisees, Jesus had no use for those who sees. He told them that they were very insistent that the outside of the cup should be clean while they neglected the most important part, — the inside. Cleanse the inside, Jesus told them, and then the outside would be clean also.

Every room religion degenerates into formality! The vigorous early religion of the Hebrew people became through the process of the years, merely a lot of forms and rituals. There were sacrifices of food, animals and grain which had to be done in a regular way. It was during this formalism that Amos, Hosea and the other great prophets of the Old Testament times, poured out the burning power of their invective. "I hate, I despise your feasts," cried Amos. He makes God to say, and as a result of his movement, the church of their day underwent a genuine reformation.

But the idea of the reformation in time, became as formal as the worship items and the forms it sought to destroy. Jesus, in to-day's lesson, makes the same criticism of the Pharisees that the prophets made of the formalists of their day. They were

LOYAL CITIZENS
DO NOT HOARD!
Hoarders are people who buy and store away goods beyond their immediate needs.
They want to be in an unfair position over their neighbors.
Hoarders are traitors to their country and their fellow citizens, because by creating excessive and unnecessary demands for goods, they slow down the war effort.
There is no excuse for "panic buying" and hoarding. Everyone will have enough, if no one tries to get more than a fair share.
Hoarding must stop! Every unnecessary purchase makes it more difficult for Canada to do a full war job.
THERE'S A LAW AGAINST HOARDING
It is against the law to buy more than current needs.
Violation of the law is punishable by fines up to $5,000, and imprisonment for as long as two years.
AVOID ALL UNNECESSARY BUYING — AVOID WASTE
MAKE EVERYTHING LAST THE LONGEST TIME POSSIBLE
In cases where it is advisable for you to buy in advance of your immediate requirements—such as your next season's coal supply—you will be encouraged to do so by direct statement from responsible officials.

"Is that you, Henrietta dear?" he whispered.

"No," was the answering whisper. "I've just had a look at her. I'm the burglar. Move up!"

The hostess was trying to persuade one of her guests to contribute a song. "I'm very sorry," the guest replied, "but I'm afraid most of my vocal efforts are confined to singing in my bath."

"Well, I'll tell you what I'll do," said the hostess. "I'll put you down for a song and I'll mention the fact that you're out of practice."

As they walked home together Tom told Fred he was going to give his wife a serious talk on economy.

When they met again next day, Fred asked: "Well, did you give the missus that economy lecture?"

"I did," replied Tom.

"Any results?"

"Yes — I'm going to give up smoking."

2. She bounces into the grocer's, "I'll take none but POST'S Bran Flakes" she says. "They give three important benefits. One—enough bran for gentle action; two—useful amounts of iron and phosphorus; three—they're simply delicious to eat."

3. Now I fairly breeze in to breakfast. "Hurrah for delicious bran flakes," I sing, "you've chased away the blues and helped make me feel a man again." "You mean delicious POST'S Bran Flakes," reproves my aunt, "—never forget it!"

Eat them For 3 important Benefits:

1. A natural regulator which in the majority constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet.

This firm comprises five members who own and operate the Kingston and Brockville Business Colleges. Two members of the firm teach in the Kingston College and two at Brockville. Ownership of the Brockville Business College was obtained in 1906 and of the Kingston Business College in 1932. When it is considered that both these colleges were founded in 1832 and that they are managed by a family with a background of long experience and a record of long-standing connections with many Canadian business firms, it will be realized that young people who join our classes will receive good training and upon graduation, guidance in contacting good firms for office employment.

RESERVE ARMY PAY RATE SET

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Pay for the Canadian Reserve Army, now being an large ones reorganized, will continue on the existing basis, at rates slightly below those of the Active Army. Pay for higher ranks shows a corresponding deviation from that allowed the Active Forces.

As yet there has been no suggestion that Canada follow the example of Australia which, according to a recent press dispatch, placed its militia — corresponding to the Reserve Army in Canada—on the same basis as the full-time forces.

Officers and men in the Canadian Reserve Army are entitled to rations and shelter at public expense while in training camps and to transportation to and from camp.

A training day at camp for pay purposes is 24 hours but for drill and training at local headquarters where the units the men are paid on the basis that a morning, afternoon or evening parade lasting two hours is equal to one-third of a day, and tactical exercise or field training lasting five hours or more is equal to a whole day.

Church parades, small arms, training periods of inspections, if not a full day, count as one-half.

No dependants' allowances are payable on behalf of men in the Reserve Army but they are entitled to pensions if killed or injured in the discharge of the military duties.

THAT DOUGHNUT HOLE AGAIN!

BY BRIGADIER A. W. BREWER,
Divisional Commander of Hawaiian Islands

Honolulu. — A soldier recently said, "It's not the doughnut and coffee that The Salvation Army canteen passes out to us on firing line duty in Hawaii that we appreciate most. It's an unutterable something. . ." This lad, by the way, crouched on a rock in a secluded spot after being relieved of sentry one night when he made the remark. He added later, that he would wait for the arrival of The Army's mobile canteen, so that he might talk with one whom he said "was really interested in the soldier himself." He referred of course to the officer in charge of the canteen, whom he evidently had come to know.

Another lad standing guard on a cold rainy night made this statement: "The thing that does the most is to realize that someone cares enough for soldiers to come to them on a night like this."

Continuing I believe, made a statement to the effect that every space has value, and used a cup as an example. If or you failing to accept this thought, then possibly it is the hole in the doughnut that is the most valuable. Possibly it is kindly attitude of our women, they see their mother.

On the night recently, one of our women in Salvation Army uniform accompanied me in one of our mobile canteens. It was raining. It was close to midnight. It was pitch dark, and the wind shifted the tent. While serving one guard, a cough was heard from his buddy. Investigation found him wrapped in a blanket, catching a bit of sleep between shifts. He finally got up to have a cup of coffee and remarked, "I'll bet you're the lady who gave me coffee the other night at Post Three?" Speaking for the many officers working with the boys here in the Hawaiian Theatre of the Pacific we find many opportunities for moral and spiritual encouragement even if it is only a cheery "Hello" and a sincere "Goodnight, and God bless you.".

Our four mobile canteens here now serve approximately a thousand men every night betwixt dusk and dawn. This requires 150 dozen doughnuts and close to a hundred gallons of coffee a night.

WOMEN GIVE HAIRPINS UP
That Britain May
Have More Barbed Wire for Defence

Women in Britain are going without hairpins and hairgrips so that the mild steel from which they are made can be turned into barbed wire as a defence against the invader.

All hairgrips are in fact only one-fifth of the peace-time hairpin allowance of many millions a month. But hairgrips are in less skilled supply; the number now being produced each month is only one-tenth of the quantity used before the war. The reason is that supplies of the mild steel for hairpins, commonly known as "iron wire", are rather more plentiful than the hardened, tempered steel wire for grips.

Apart from material, labour supply limits the output severely. One of Britain's largest manufacturers is making hooks and eyes, snap fasteners, buckles and slides for the uniforms of the Navy, Army and Air Force, as well as women's services like the W.A.N.S., A.T.S. and W.A.A.F.

One difficulty, these manufacturers find, is that the skilled and unskilled workers are disinclined to make these accessories for civilian wear as they can find that they would rather be engaged on war work. It has to be explained to them that the very women workers on whom so much of Britain's industrial war effort depends have to have fastenings for their dresses and grips for their hair.

Letter To The Editor

To The Editor of
The Napanee Beaver,

Dear Editor, — How often do you hear the question on the street, "Have you seen the Pullis?" Perhaps not nearly as often as that grand sight deserves. Very few of us realize how fortunate we are in having such natural beauty as one of the boundaries of our popular riverside Park.

When the cascade is so beautiful in daylight, how much more so would be an artificial moonlight on a few strong lights? There are two lights in position now, just discarded car headlights, but they answer the purpose, and are only used during the tourist season when the falls have faded to a shadow of their present grandeur. These could be focussed on the upper rapids. Another two or three would illuminate the whirlpool with its clouds of spray.

The Committee deserves a great deal of credit for their work in the past years, converting a mill-yard and quagmire into the most picturesque park in this part of the Province.

— Interested.

CANADA HAS FINE WAR RECORD

AT SEA The Royal Canadian Navy now has 30,000 men and 400 fighting ships. No limit has been set to its expansion. As fast as ships can be built, trained crews will be ready to man them. Several thousand young Canadians are on the waiting lists of 18 training establishments across Canada. By this time next year, the Navy plans to have a strength of 40,000.

R. C. N. convoys may soon be needed in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and even in the St. Lawrence River itself.

The Navy has been carrying out its convoy duties and patrol work for the most part in silence, but neither achievements nor losses are lacking in its impressive war effort. More than 9,000 ships, carrying more than 55 million tons of cargo have been convoyed from Canadian shores. For individual feats of heroism 54 awards have been made to Navy personnel. The Canadian Navy has also suffered losses; two destroyers, three corvettes, and two other ships. It has also lost 43 officers and 421 men.

ON LAND Canada is strengthening home defences by the mobilization of the 7th and 8th Army Divisions. These forces will be held as reserves during existing and projected defences, particularly on the coasts. Many of the men for these new divisions will be made available by national selective service. Sea, land and air defences of the Atlantic coast Newfoundland forces have been placed under the single command of the senior officer in the area.

At present the Canadian Active Army in Britain consists of one corps of three infantry divisions, one armoured division, an army tank brigade, and army and corps units. In addition, there are lines of communication, base units and reinforcement units. When the programme is fulfilled it is complete there will be a Canadian Army overseas of two Army Corps with army troops, line of communication, and base units. These operational formations will be supplied and reinforced by depots and units now in the United Kingdom and from the armoured division, the army tank brigade and the additional corps troops and army troop units now forming in Canada.

The first Canadian troops landed in the United Kingdom in December 1939. There are now standing at the alert in key defence position. Troops from the Dominion are also stationed in the West Indies, Newfoundland, Gibraltar and defence areas in Canada.

IN THE AIR The R.C.A.F. is being rapidly strengthened for home defence to meet its broadly expanded responsibilities. Expenditures for home war establishment in 1942-43 will be over $315 millions. This compares with: 1939-40, over $28 millions; 1940-41, over $50 millions; 1941-42, over $115 millions. The new air program calls for large increases in the number of combat squadrons, for reconnaissance, anti-submarine, and fighter and bomber operations.

The British Commonwealth Air Training Plan is producing thousands of airmen and Canadian aircrews are reaching the battlefronts in large numbers. In Britain the Dominion's air force has been vastly expanded from the original three squadrons which participated in the "Battle of Britain."

Britain air strength is being developed largely on Canadian soil in the 90 odd schools of the Air Training Plan, and the bulk of the Royal Air Force established here. There are 140 Air Force establishments operating within the Plan; 2,000 buildings, and paved runways equal to 1,000 miles or highway of 21 ft. standard width.

Canadians, Australians and New Zealanders are being trained in the Plan.

MUNITIONS In 1941, the value of contracts placed in Canada for munitions and war supplies was $1,542 millions, an average of $4.5 millions daily. Over 600,000 Canadians — 75,000 of whom are women — are working in war industries. Another 100,000 workers will be added this year.

Munitions made include: tanks; army vehicles, of which 200,000 have been delivered; 10 types of guns; military and naval instruments; explosives, chemicals, and shells. Of the several varieties of small arms produced, the Bren gun alone reached nearly 4,500 units monthly. The ship building program totals more than $500 millions. In the present year Canada will produce almost as many merchant ships as Great Britain. Over 300 planes a month are being completed in Canadian factories. New plants are under construction to produce magnesium and synthetic rubber.

Describes Methods Securing Benefits Unemployment Ins.

Certain unemployment insured persons who have applied for benefit have been under the impression that the Employment and Claims Officer makes the decisions as to whether they are entitled to benefit. This is incorrect, Mr. Langdon, the local Manager, stated. He then described the procedure as follows:

All claims for benefit are passed on to the adjudicating officer stationed at each of the nine Regional and District offices across Canada. It is the duty of these officers, known as 'Insurance Officers' to consider all the evidence presented with each application. The duty of the 'Insurance Officer' is to review the claim, and if for some reason he cannot pass it, to notify the claimant that he is of the opinion the claim is not allowable but that if the person concerned is dissatisfied with the decision given by the insurance officer, he may appeal to the Court of Referees, consisting of an independent chairman appointed by the Governor in Council together with one representative of employers and one of insured persons who are selected from panels that have been set up under the Act. The claimant has the right to appeal to the Court of Referees within 21 days.

An appeal from a decision of the Court of Referees may be made to the Umpire (1) by an insurance officer; or (2) by an association of employed persons, of which the claimant is a member in good standing on the date when the claim was made; or (3) by the claimant, himself — (a) if the decision of the Court of Referees is not unanimous, (b) with the permission of the Chairman of the Court in any other case.

An appeal to the Umpire must be brought within six months. The decision of the Umpire, the Honourable Mr. Justice Lucien Cannon, will be final in all cases. The proceedings before the Court of Referees and any appeals arising therefrom to the Umpire will be kept as informal as possible. No expense need be incurred by a claimant or appellant.

TOXOID WEEK APRIL 19 TO 25

During the week of April 19th to 25th, health authorities throughout Canada will unite in cooperation with the Health League of Canada in a nation-wide effort to attract attention to the importance of immunizing children against diphtheria.

His Excellency the Governor-General will open the campaign by a broadcast over the National network at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, April 19th. The Honourable Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions and National Health, will appear in a moving-picture newsreel in Canadian theatres during the same week. Newspapers, radio, churches and schools will cooperate with health authorities in the campaign. Every Canadian parent shall remain uninformed of the fact that he may play his part in the campaign.

Diphtheria, uncontrolled, according to the Health League of Canada, is the greatest cause of death among children between the ages of two and five. There has been developed a preventive in the form of Toxoid. The process of preventing diphtheria with army troops, line of communication, and base units. These operational formations will be supplied and reinforced by depots and units now in the United Kingdom and from the armoured division, the army tank brigade and the additional corps troops and army troop units now forming in Canada.

The first Canadian troops landed in the United Kingdom in December 1939. There are now standing at the alert in key defence position. Troops from the Dominion are also stationed in the West Indies, Newfoundland, Gibraltar and defence areas in Canada.

IN THE AIR The R.C.A.F. is being rapidly strengthened for home defence to meet its broadly expanded responsibilities. Expenditures for home war establishment in 1942-43 will be over $315 millions. This compares with: 1939-40, over $28 millions; 1940-41, over $50 millions; 1941-42, over $115 millions. The new air program calls for large increases in the number of combat squadrons, for reconnaissance, anti-submarine, and fighter and bomber operations.

The British Commonwealth Air Training Plan is producing thousands of airmen and Canadian aircrews are reaching the battlefronts in large numbers. In Britain the Dominion's air force has been vastly expanded from the original three squadrons which participated in the "Battle of Britain."

NEW STAMPS TELL OF WAR

Replacement Series Will be Available in Mid-Summer

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Canada will soon have an entirely new set of postage stamps illustrating her part in the war.

"These stamps are in necessary replacement of those now in current throughout Canada and will depict Canada's war effort and the contributions being made by this country to the cause of the United Nations," Hon. W. P. Mulock, Postmaster-General said.

The new stamps are expected to be available sometime in May, Post Office officials meantime ask that philatelists refrain from sending in requests for them.

Details of the designs will be announced shortly, officials said.

Some of the stamps, it is understood, will bear new portraits of King George, in uniform. On others will be pictorial illustrative of various phases of Canada's part in the war.

WEDDING BELLS

YOUNG — SCHAMEHORN
A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Schamehorn, Roblin, at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, April 8th., when their daughter, Alena Jean, was united in marriage to Wray Maxwell Young, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Young of Roblindale, by Rev. L. R. Mock, of Switzerville.
The bridal party stood beneath an arch gaily decorated in pink and white streamers with a wedding bell in the centre. Similar colors were used in decorating the dining room.
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was very charming in a pale blue crepe street-length dress trimmed with white braid and matching accessories and wearing a corsage of pink and white carnations. She wore a white bridal wreath in her hair and carried a white Bible. Miss Ilean Young, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, wearing a dusky rose street-length dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.
The groom was attended by Mr. Nat. Kimmett.
Mrs. Floyd Schamehorn played the wedding music and during the signing of the register, Miss Maudie McConnell of Napanee sang, "I love you truly." A buffet luncheon was served to twenty guests which included only immediate members of both families. Later the bride and groom left amid showers of confetti and many good wishes for a motor trip to Welland, the bride travelling in a brown and beige suit with white and brown accessories.
On returning they will reside in their newly-built home at Roblindale.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING

Hello Homemakers ! The return of Spring's delightful days reminds us again of Spring Housecleaning duties. It is practical patriotism to do a thorough job of keeping everything we have in good condition — not only the electric cleaner, mops, brushes, metal utensils, polishing cloths, etc. Let's do everything we can to make them last longer because many of the family here at war industries will not be available in future for our civilian needs. So plan your day's work and cheerfully 'carry on.'

* * *

Keeping the house clean is only part of the homemakers' responsibility — there are also nourishing meals to be planned so the family here and our helath is of paramount importance these trying days. Canada's Homemakers are to be congratulated upon their untiring efforts to do their share — keep it up and we'll do through.

CLEANING EQUIPMENT CAN LAST EVER SO MUCH LONGER— READ THIS :

VACUUM CLEANER:

(1) Use attachments for every room. (2) Operate slowly in a straight line lengthwise of the rug. Overlap each section twice. (3) Hold the cord in your free hand to avoid any possible damage. (4) Be sure to pick up small sharp objects, (e.g., pins) before using the cleaner, as they puncture the dust bag. (5) Empty dust bag after each use. Turn inside out and brush four times a years. Don't wash. (6) Remove all threads from brush cleaner. (7) Wind the cord loosely to avoid damaging the fine wires inside. (8) Replace worn belts, brush, or dust immediately. (9) Dust motor housing and attachments. (10) Follow manufacturer's directions for lubrication.

BROOMS :

(1) Sweep evenly in one direction only — overlapping each stroke. Do not raise broom at end of each stroke to raise dust. (2) Dust off and hang brooms up after use. (3) Fibre brooms should be washed once a week in clear warm water. Hang up to dry.

SCRUB BRUSHES:

(1) Wash in soapsuds until the bristles are clean; rinse, and let dry in air with bristles down — after each use.

DUST CLOTHES:

Dust-collecting cloths are washed in soapsuds, rinsed in warm water and when dry are treated with oil solution and stored in a closed container. Treated Dusters: Mix one quarter lemon oil and two cups hot water and sprinkle on cloth. Roll up tightly.

DUST MOPS:

(1) The preliminary work of the electric cleaner over a bare floor keeps your dust mops clean. (2) Clean after each use. The best way is by the suction attachment of the vacuum cleaner or by shaking outof-doors. (3) Always hang up the mop after using.

WET MOPS:

(1) Wash in hot soapy water; rinse and shake outside. Comb string mop with a clothespin. Dry in the sun if possible.

CELLULOSE SPONGES:

Wash in warm soapy water, rinse thoroughly; squeeze—do not wring. Cellulose sponges may be sterilized in boiling water.

STEEL WOOL PADS:

A shelf or shelves and clips, on the wall, for all the cleaning materials in one place saves hundreds of unnecessary steps. Clean out and air the storage closet frequently.

NAPANEE W. C. T. U.

The March meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in Grace Church, the president, Mrs. Wartman, in the chair. Miss Rook took the devotional service prepared by Miss Mellow. The lesson was taken from the sixth chapter of Galatians, "Bear ye one another's burden and so fulfil the law of Christ" a challenge to express our Christianity in lives of Christian service. The minutes were read and after a short business period, Miss L. Gandier led in a discussion on the subject for the month. Interesting clippings from many sources were read showing the alarming increase in the use of narcotics, especially alcohol and cigarettes, information which should cause even the most indifferent to pause and, not only think, but act.

The narcotic desire or habit sorts out those who are most susceptible, those who cannot remain moderate. Some of these become victims very quickly, others, gradually, yet others only after years of steady drinking. Dr. Mayo has estimated that three in every ten who start drinking, take a chance at becoming an addict. There is no way of determining which of each ten youthful victims of each family or group, or High School class, are to be victims; no way except increase in the use of narcotics, especially alcohol and cigarettes, information which should cause even the most indifferent to pause and, not only think, but act.

The Provincial Council of Women, in their semi-annual meeting in Stratford, set forth in a strongly worded statement, its position on the liquor question. In part, it reads : "We deplore the human wreckage and the economic waste arising from the drinking habits of the people of Ontario, as well as the increasing dependence of our Governments on the revenue which is obtained at the cost of this wreckage. We ask every individual citizen to recognize his or her responsibility to eradicate the menace of social drinking."

We all know that if the young people of to-day were total abstainers, the liquor business would soon have to close its shops, hence its eagerness to create in our youth a taste for intoxicating drink. Every home is in danger and every home has its responsibility, not merely for self but also, for the sake of others. Are we, by precept, example and influence doing all we can to save the girls and boys from this terrible evil, and to hasten the day when liquor shall be outlawed? If not, why not ?

In the Garden

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

A GOOD TONIC

Even in invasion threatened Britain the authorities, early in the war, came to the conclusion that it was dangerous and inefficient for a man to work long hours without a break. They advised him to get away, to turn to something that would make him forget the war for an hour or two.

For this sort of relief both in Britain and in Canada, gardening has been universally recommended, and surrounded by grass, flowers, shrubbery or trim rows of thriving vegetables, a man or woman will soon have tired nerves restored. One can get out and weed, hoe or trim the grass when it would be impossible to sit down and read or knit. Many doctors declared there is something healing about digging in the clean, fresh earth, and one doesn't burn up a lot of gasoline in finding it.

CULTIVATION
A MAJOR FACTOR

Usually all the difference between a fine, thriving garden that one likes to show-off to the neighbors and the kind a man slinks away from to play golf, is one or two thorough cultivations. Before the garden is planted it should be spaded or plowed thoroughly, then just as the seeds or plants go in it should be cultivated or raked fine. When the first plants are coming through, old gardeners advise another through cultivation, and a couple more at ten days' intervals, later on.

This may sound like a lot of work but it is surprising how easy it is if carried out early and regularly. The weeds never get a chance to grow and the soil to bake. On the other hand, even in dry weather most vegetables will come right along, if the soil about them is kept fine and crumbly. This work will be much easier if one has the proper tools, a fairly big, hand-drawn cultivator for small vegetable gardens, a wheel hoe or even small tractor for the larger ones.

THINNING WILL PAY

Another important job that looks harder than it really is is thinning. No vegetable can develop properly unless it has plenty of room. Small things like carrots need about three inches between, beets about four, corn three sprouts to the hill. With fine seed much drudgery can be saved by sowing thinly in the first place. With flowers that are grown from seed, thinning is equally important. They must have room or They will grow spindly and break down probably in the first wind, storm.

SPREAD SOWINGS

Modern gardeners spread their sowing over two or three weeks. The old habit of putting in the whole garden on one Saturday afternoon was not a good one. Many things were planted too soon. The entire garden going in at once resulted in a feast of fresh garden peas, corn, carrots; then a famine.

A properly planted garden, with sowing spread from early Spring to early Summer should provide a steady supply of the freshest garden vegetables from the first week in July until weeks after killing frost. This, of course, is a general statement and does not apply to those extra balmy areas of Southern British Columbia and Ontario.

PLANTING CARE

Too often the seed or nursery stock is blamed for poor results when in reality the fault lies entirely in careless planting. The job is simple but experienced gardeners point out that it must be done properly for satisfactory results.

In the first place, these experts insist, the soil and climatic conditions must be favourable. By this they mean that seed should not be sown, or plants set out unless the soil is fine, moist—but not muddy—and it must be pressed firmly around the seed or plants to exclude air and ensure a supply of moisture.

They also mean that the weather must be right. It doesn't do to plant tender things like melons, cucumbers and tomatoes before danger of frost is over, and it doesn't do either to wait until Summer is at hand before planting hardy things like sweet peas, garden peas, grass and other hardy lines. These must make their first growth while the weather is cool and moist. If they don't, "root" growth will not be sufficient to carry them through the blazing days of Summer.

TOO EARLY,
TOO DEEP, TOO THICK

Generally speaking, the amateur gardener, it is claimed, plants too deep, too early and too thick. All these mistakes lead to trouble. Seed planted too deep will not germinate well. The general rule is three times the diameter, which means more pressing into the soil for fine seed like that of radish, poppy, carrot, etc., and about one or two inches deep for beans and peas. With bulbs and tubers, like gadolinas and potatoes, from six to ten inches deep is recommended, the heavier the soil the shallower the planting.

Too early planting, of course, with tender things that will not stand frost, is fatal. Many gardeners, too, rush all vegetable seeds in at the same time and usually a day to a week ahead of the regular season. This is all right, professionals point out, for a portion of the seed in each packet. With luck, one gets very early vegetables, but most of the seed should be saved for regular planting and some of it for later on. This ensures safety against early losses through weather and, what is more important, it spreads the harvesting season over several weeks, with really garden fresh vegetables coming along steadily for the table instead of a feast and a famine succession.

Precautions against planting seed too close together are based on a genuine desire to save the amateur gardener a lot of work and keep him fresh but in case the gaps get too close. If seed is properly spaced in the first place, there will be little thinning, which in most cases is a bit of a chore. With things like beans, peas, etc., the seed should be planted from three to four inches apart. With smaller seed like that of carrots, beets, lettuce, etc., it is difficult to space to the two inches the first plants should be apart, but with a little care it can be sown thinly. Sowing of very small seed can be aided by mixing the same with a little dry sand, then sowing the whole mixture.

GRASS CARE

The professional advises a thorough rolling of the lawn each Spring to press roots back firmly into the soil. They also urge one thorough weeding each year with a special spudder, and at least one good application of fertiliser. The latter is most important as it will tend to promote rapid growth, which will choke out most weeds. It also improves the colour.

We've heard plenty about Blitzkriegs, even though we haven't felt their sting. Others have stood up to them without flinching. Now, let's produce a Blitzkrieg all our own, right here in our Canadian factories. It can be done and it must be done.

It will take courage and resourcefulness. It will require self-sacrifice and long hard hours of work for everyone. We have to accomplish in months what our enemies have built up in years of stealthy planning. Blitzkriegs begin in factories. Let's show the Nazis and the Japs what a "Blitz" really is.

Don't Let Your Liver Make You an Invalid

People who are off colour say they're liverish or their liver is bad! Do you know how serious this is — that it may lead to permanent ill health — your whole system poisoned and run down?

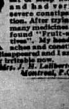
● Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands. If unhealthy, your body lacks this energy and becomes enfeebled—youthful vim disappears. Again your liver pours our bile to digest food, get rid of waste and allow proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order proper digestion and nourishment are prevented—you're poisoned with the waste that decomposes in your intestines. Then headaches and rheumatic pains arise from this poison. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. The whole system is affected and you feel "rotten," headachy, backachy, dizzy, tired out—a ready prey for sickness and disease.

Thousands of people are never sick, and have won prompter relief from these miseries with "Improved Fruit-a-tives Liver Tablets." The liver is toned up, the other organs function normally and lasting good health results. Today "Improved Fruit-a-tives" are Canada's largest selling liver tablets. They must be good! Try them yourself NOW. Let "Fruit-a-tives" put you back on the road to lasting health—feel like a new person. 25c, 50c.

"Constantly In Pain, Now A New Woman"

For a long time I felt very miserable with liver trouble and constipation which brought on such bad headaches that I could hardly bear it. I started Fruit-a-tives and felt better at once. After using only one box the awful headaches were gone, constipation left me and I felt like a new woman."
Miss J. Duplante, Cornwall, Ont.

"Suffered For Years, Now Feel Great"



I was always irritable, tired, headachy. I could not eat or sleep well and had very severe constipation. After taking many medicines I found "Fruit-a-tives". My headaches and constipation have disappeared and I am never tired or irritable now."

MPORTANT RULING IVEN BY MAGISTRATE N MUSKRAT TRAPPING

Case Heard in Police Court Over Ownership of Muskrat

Magistrate Garvin, on Monday, dismissed the charge against Stafford ..., of stealing a muskrat from ... Walmsley. The case is of ... and of interest to many in ... district who are engaged, each ... in trapping muskrats and for ... reason the magistrate's judg... in part) is set forth as fol...

In this case the accused, Stafford ..., is charged that "at the Township of Richmond, in the County of ... and Addington, on the 21st ... of March, 192, did unlawfully ... one musk-rat, the property of ... Walmsley, and of a less value ... $25.00, contrary to Section 386 ... the Criminal Code."

The facts are briefly as follows: ... Howard Walmsley, who is the ... complainant in this case, al... the information was sworn ... Provincial Officer Barrett, has ... trapper for muskrats on a two ... stretch of both sides of the Nap... River during the 1941 muskrat season. This two mile ... with along one shore passed and ... the shore line of property ... by the wife of the accused ... had given him permission to ... trapper as her property rights ... the water of a shore line along ... Napanee River would entitle her ... give to her husband. The com... suspected that some person ... unknown to him was re... this from traps set by him.

Accordingly, with the object of ... criminal who was presently ... caught a rat, and along with one ... Howard Hawley, rowed along—the ... accused this out which was ... apparently still alive in one of his ... traps. This trap was attached ... by a stake on a feed bed made ... himself alongside the shore of the ... property. I find from the evid... that said stake was about 15 ... out from where the water and ... land met on that day and being ... approximate high water mark. ... evidence is conflicting as to ... whether the stake was on the inside ... the outside of the low water mark. ... is not necessary to determine this ... question as it can safely be found ... I do find, that the stake was out... the high water mark. The said ... Walmsley and Howard Hawley ... concealed themselves nearby and ... hided. After about fifteen minutes ... accused came along and removed ... rat from the trap. Upon these ... the accused is charged as set ... above.

Before dealing with the charge in ... information, I would like to say as ... a Magistrate's jurisdiction is re... to questions of title to lands. ... I have decided that there can ... no question as to the title to the ... bed even though the accused and ... complainant were both claiming as ... title rights.

It is quite clear that the ownership ... the bed in a navigable river in ... Ontario below the high water mark ... in the Crown in the right of the ... province.

Wild animals in a state of nature, ... killed, belong to the owner of ... land upon which the yare killed, ... matter who kills them, unless the ... owner has in some way parted with ... right to them.

In this case the real complainant ... not the Province of Ontario or ... property insofar as it is ... ted about eleven miles from the ... ts in question according to his ... evidence. Therefore, the rat in ... estion, strictly speaking, became ... property of the Province of Ont... or some private person other ... than the real complainant.

When an accused is charged with ... theft under the Criminal Code the ... question of ownership of "personal ... property must be determined and ... decided by the Court in its strictest ... sense. I am going to hold that the ... ownership of that rat is in itself, ... as either in the Province of Ont... or some other private person ... other than the real complainant; ... say some other person other than ... the complainant because I am ... not sure on the evidence whether the ... rat was originally trapped below or ... above the high water mark although ... believe it was trapped below the ... high water mark and was the pro... of a rat property of Ontario ... for some reason that I will immediately ... deal with. I think it is a fair inference to draw from the evidence of ... the real complainant who struck me ... as being a honest boy trying to do ... no crime in this matter, that the rat ... originally trapped in a trap that was ... on a feed bed made by himself, ... legal. Under the Ontario Game ... and Fisheries Laws, 1940 (Office ... Consolidation) Part VII, Section 31, ... says it shall be unlawful for any ... person to set a feed-house. Anyone ... violating said section is liable to a ... penalty of not less than $10. and ... not more than $100. The evidence in ... this case discloses that the real ... complainant, Harold Walmsley, place... the trapped rat in a trap on a ... feed bed or feed-house set illegally ... in order to "trap" the accused Stafford Burns. Indeed, the real complainant admitted that he had set ... many beds along a two mile stretch ... both sides of the river and ac...

WILLING TO GIVE FREE SERVICES FOR PLEBISCITE

Mr. George T. Ham, Sandhurst, who for many years was the Clerk of the Municipality of South Frontenac, ericksburgh, has been appointed a deputy returning officer for the plebiscite to be held on Monday, April 27th.

Mr. Ham, in speaking of his appointment said, he would be glad to give his services free of charge to the government, provided other appointees would agree to do the same.

There is a set remuneration payable to such officers by the government, which, if accepted, would cost the Dominion a great deal of money that could be well diverted to other war purposes.

No doubt a great many voting officials will be glad to do what Mr. Ham proposes.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. BERT SEYMOUR AT GRACE CHURCH

Recognition of her eighteen years' service as leader of the choir of Grace United Church, was made to Mrs. Bert Seymour at a social evening held in the church school room on Thursday evening when the choir and the official board of the church made presentations to her.

When Mrs. Seymour arrived at the church she was greeted by a large number of the members of the choir and the official board and church members, who had gathered to express their appreciation of her services, and regret at her decision to retire from the active leadership.

Mr. Gerald F. Smith, the recording steward of the church, was chairman for the evening's programme. Mr. Smith spoke on behalf of the Board and the Choir and Rev. C. D. McLellan, the minister, spoke for the congregation. Mr. Seymour was commended for her qualities of leadership and special mention was made of the splendid spirit of cooperation which had existed between the leader, the organist, Mrs. R. M. Black and the members of the choir.

On behalf of the choir Mrs. Seymour was presented with a handsome coffee table and from the church board, she received a nest of walnut tables. The presentations were made by Miss Rowena Smith and Miss Mary Elliott.

The programme for the evening included games and refreshments.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT W.M.S PRESBYTERIAL IN TRINITY CHURCH

Mrs. F. L. Hooper Re-elected President of Ass'n

The Seventeenth Annual Meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, was held in Trinity Church, Napanee, on Wednesday of last week. Delegates were present, from all parts of the Presbytery, to carry back to their local fields the inspiration and instruction gleaned from the convention. The theme for the day was "Forward in This Service."

A meeting of the executive was held on the previous evening at which Mrs. F. L. Hooper, Presbyterial President, conducted a worship service having for its theme, "Hindrances and Helps in our Work." Mrs. Hooper gave a helpful talk on the topic, interspersed with adaptable scripture readings by different members. The service was closed with some of the achievements of the Women's Missionary Society since its organization in 1885 and said that holy courage is the greatest Christian virtue and as it was needed since the days of the disciples, so it is needed to-day and to-morrow.

"There's a work of God, half-done; There's the Kingdom of His Son; There's the triumph just begun— Put it through!

To you the Task is given; By you the bolt is driven; By the very God of Heaven — Put it through."

Prayer by Mrs. Moos and a solo by Mrs. Bruce Finlay, closed a very inspirational devotional period.

EVERY CANADIAN HAS RIGHT TO VOTE ON PLEBISCITE

Next Monday is "Plebiscite Day" and every Canadian voter has been informed that it is his privilege to exercise the right of ballot.

The pools will be open on April 27 from 8:00 in the morning until 8:00 in the evening, Daylight Saving Time.

While lists of voters have been prepared, it is important to remember that they are "open" lists—that is, either urban or rural polling divisions, any qualified voter whose name has been omitted may vote on polling day in his polling division by taking the required oath and being vouched for by a voter whose name appears on the list of voters for such polling division. If a person so omitted lives in an urban polling division, he must produce his National Registration Certificate as well as take an oath.

Generally speaking, every person over 21 years of age, resident in Canada during the last twelve months and resident in his or her polling district as at March 30th last, can vote.

Every Canadian on active service or in training in any of His Majesty's forces or corps, within or without Canada, is entitled to vote on the Plebiscite in advance of polling day.

The plebiscite is a direct vote of all the voters in Canada on an important question to ascertain the views of the Canadian people on the following question:

"Are you in favour of releasing the Government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

Archbishop Postpones Kingston Conference

Kingston, Ont. (C.P.) — Archbishop M. J. O'Brien announced the annual spring theological conference of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Kingston has been postponed due to war-time restrictions on gasoline and tires and a desire to co-operate with the wishes of the Government. Archbishop O'Brien said delegates to arrive at approximate 3,000 mailed to attend the annual conference.

TWO MORE SOLDIERS RETURN TO HOMES FROM OVERSEAS

On Saturday, Sgt. George Vankoughnet, a member of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and Gunner J. L. Boyes of the 11th Army Field Regiment, R.C.A., who have served in England for almost two and a half years, returned to their homes. Sergt. Vankoughnet came to Napanee as the guest of his aunt, Miss Emma Vanalstine, and Gnr. Boyes proceeded to Toronto where his wife and two children are residing.

Both men have returned to Canada to take officers' training, at Brockville.

Magistrate's Court

On Monday, Fred G. Connolly and John H. Burkett, two 16-year-old boys from Montreal, appeared before Magistrate Garvin on charges of stealing a motor car belonging to George Goodrich, who lives on No. 2 Highway, just west of Napanee. After hearing the evidence the Magistrate allowed the boys to be suspended sentence for two years after warning them of the seriousness of the offence they had committed. The Crown Attorney, K. S. Ham, concurred in the Magistrate's judgment.

The boys, while walking on No. 2 Highway, saw Mr. Goodrich's car with the keys in it and drove it away. The car was recovered at Brockville, unharmed and returned to Mr. Goodrich, by Chief Moore. The boys served one month at Prescott by the theft of a parcel of clothing and on release from gaol were brought to Napanee. Neither one had a previous record and promised the Magistrate to get jobs and go to work.

FIRE DESTROYS LENNOX LUMBER COMPANY MILL HEAVY LOSS INCURRED

Large Stock of Lumber Prey to Flames

In one of the most disastrous fires in Napanee for many years, The Lennox Lumber Company mill was completely destroyed, early on Wednesday morning. The replacement value of the buildings and stock destroyed is estimated at around $100,000.

The fire, which was of unknown origin, was discovered about 1:15 a.m. and when the alarm was turned in, had made such headway that nothing could be done to save the plant.

The main building, about 100 by 75 feet, built of brick, which contained all the machinery, a low frame building nearly 75 ft. long, in which a great deal of dressed lumber, doors, sash and other made-up stock was stored, besides several piles of lumber estimated to hold 50,000 feet of material, were completely destroyed.

The fire, which was one of the most spectacular seen in years in Napanee, lighted almost the whole town and could be seen for many miles around the countryside.

Fortunately there was very little wind while the fire was in progress and a great many piles of lumber in the yard and another large frame building, in which stocks of lumber were kept, did not catch fire.

One of the most serious features of the fire is the great difficulty in replacing the machinery, on which there are many restrictions because of the war.

The business was established nearly 75 years ago by the late Robert Light and was conducted by him until his death, after which his son, the late Joseph Light, carried on the business until his death, a few years ago. After Mr. Jos. Light's death, the business was acquired by a joint stock company composed of Napanee business men. Mr. Geo. J. Tustin, M.P., is the heaviest stock holder in the company. Mr. Tustin had returned to Ottawa, on Monday, for the session of Parliament. He was informed of the fire early Wednesday morning and came to Napanee during the day.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, as during the whole of the previous day there had been no fire in any part of the building. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

NEARLY 500 CHILDREN INOCULATED AGAINST DIPHTHERIA IN NAPANEE

Clinics Held Last Week in Public Schools and for Pre-School Children

The Town of Napanee very successfully collaborated in the "Toxoid Week" sponsored by the Health League of Canada. Last week, nearly 500 children of the town were given their first inoculation against diphtheria. 99 Pre-school children were treated by Dr. W. H. Duffett, the Medical Officer of Health, and Miss K. F. Docker, the Victorian Order Nurse, at a clinic held at the Napanee Town Hall, on Wednesday afternoon. On Thursday, approximately 400 pupils, in the public schools, were given their first inoculation.

Consent cards for the toxoid treatment were sent out by the Medical Officer of Health to the parents of the school pupils and practically all were returned signed by the parents. Notices of the clinic for pre-school children were carried in the Napanee papers and the response was considered excellent.

On Wednesday of this week, the Dr. and Nurse will visit the Collegiate, where he expects to inoculate at least fifty of the pupils.

Three inoculations at intervals of three weeks, are required to complete the treatment.

"Toxoid is a simple, safe, sure preventive against diphtheria. In the past three years 6,071 Canadians contracted diphtheria with over 800 deaths resulting. These were needless deaths, for diphtheria is a preventable disease. It is perhaps the most terrible of all disease of childhood, killing more children than any other infectious disease between the ages of two and five. It can easily be stamped out when all children are immunized by Toxoid injections.

DIVIDED LOYALTIES

Residents of Napanee have had a hard time recently, as they listened to the radio broadcasts of the Stanley Cup hockey games. On the one hand Jack Adams was like one of ourselves. He is well known here and has spent a good deal of time in our community. It was natural to feel a bit sympathetic towards the team he led into the hockey finals. But then there were the Maple Leafs. They were our own representatives in a sense; at least they were representing a Canadian city in a struggle with an American city. There is still enough of the small boy about most of us to want to see the home town win — but which was the home town, the Maple Leafs we knew not at all intimately, or the Red Wings, whose manager we knew personally. That was the dilemma.

We were rather disappointed when Jack had to be ordered off the ice, when the Maple Leafs won their first game, after three straight for Detroit. But excitement does strange things, even to the most complacent, and when Jack, at the close of the game on Saturday, personally congratulated the winners, we knew it was the real Jack we had always known.

Certainly the two teams put up a great exhibition. Had it been made to order, the series could not have been better arranged to maintain public interest. To have come from behind, as the Leafs did, tie the series and then in the last game come from behind to win the coveted Stanley Cup, was a great achievement, and except for one game, when the Red Wings blew up, they were a strong, tricky and powerful opposition.

And now Toronto has the Stanley Cup for the first time in ten years. Toronto deserved it on the play, and Jack Adams and his players were great in defeat.

FRENCH COLLABORATION

The political events in France are the most significant since the nation capitulated. Pierre Laval has been named, by Marshal Petain, as the new chief of the Vichy Government. In his first address to the nation, after assuming office, Laval made it clear that he stood for closer collaboration with Germany. He made no apologies for saying that he had always stood for "loyal participation" in Hitler's new order for Europe.

This makes the issue clear. The policies of France, so long as Laval remains the real power in the Government, will be directed towards a closer union with Germany. There can be no doubt but that a united Europe is a consummation much to be desired. If a united Europe could be achieved, which would give to all the various nations, which make up its vast population, some vital part in the government of such a United States of Europe, it would probably end the bitterness, social antagonism and national animosities and rivalries which have bedevilled that unhappy Continent for a thousand years.

But there is a fly in the ointment—and that fly is the mental attitude of the Germans themselves. There can be no collaboration on the basis of social superiority. There can be no United States of Europe when one State—Germany—maintains that she is superior to all other races, and that the Czechs, the Poles, and all the rest are of such an inferior race as to be fit only to become slaves and lackeys for the German people. As much as unity is to be desired, it cannot be achieved by the methods of the slave driver. Laval is deceiving nobody. The alternative which he placed before the French people — "British help and misery or an integrated Europe where French honour and vital interests will be respected, is sheer misrepresentation. That, as the history of the past three years shows, is not the alternative. The alternative is slavery under Hitler or the salvation of the French soul by protest against the domination of groups of self-styled, divinely appointed, ruthless slave owners.

Hitler has, in all likelihood, paid a big price for Laval's collaboration, and leadership. He may even have promised to restore some of occupied France to its rightful owners. He did this, not because of any spirit of generous feeling towards the French, but because of his fear of the growing strength and power of the British and American forces.

GREEDY NAZIS LOOT EUROPE

Food and Supplies Ravaged From Occupied Areas

Confidential reports from Europe recently, said the Vichy crisis would come at a critical time when misery and famine were spreading in Greece, Yugoslavia, France, Belgium and parts of French North Africa, and in fact extended throughout German occupied and German-dominated Europe.

It was asserted that Germany was getting nearly 30 per cent of the food which France imported from its African colonies by seizing as much as 80 per cent at Marseilles—where the Germans have no right to be—and half the remainder in occupied territory.

Germany has requisitioned 52,000 horses, more than 1,000 railroad locomotives, thousands of railroad cars and many rails, it was said, and has even obliged the French to scrape half the axle grease from the axle bones of French rolling stock and turn an equivalent amount over to it.

The result, it was said, is that French farmers cannot get fuel for tractors, have no horses and cannot plant their crops, as that farm planting will be reduced this year from 30 to 50 per cent. There is no fertilizer.

Germany has made urgent attempts to recruit 560,000 French workers for its factories, it was said, after forcing more than 800,000 of the 1,250,000 French war prisoners to work in its factories or on its farms.

Germany has obtained only about 100,000 civilian workers, it was said, in more than one year of recruiting, and most of these have refused, at the end of their contract terms to continue their work.

Hence Germany has started to deport many "Jews and Communists" from France to Germany and Poland, ostensibly for terroristic acts but actually for forced labor.

These advices said also that there was growing suspicion that some alleged terroristic incidents in occupied France are the result of fights between Germans themselves.

Especially, the advices said it was definite that "attacks" at Bordeaux, for which the Germans executed 50 French citizens, were a settling of accounts between two Germans.

Only the Germans, it was said, have heard of other "attacks" in France as the result of which the Germans demanded that the French police turn over selected persons for deportation. The deportees, it was added, are invariably farmers and factory hands.

MOUNTBATTEN

Written for
The Christian Science Monitor

In many respects Lord Louis Mountbatten is one of the most colorful figures the war has produced.

The new head of the Commandos and chief of the combined operations of the British Army, Navy and Royal Air Force has the attributes of leadership that capture popular imagination. In addition he has proven himself a dashing fighting man and an officer who commands the respect and devotion of his men.

Lord Louis is a man of high birth and great wealth, who has sought by every means at his command to be in the forefront of battle, both at sea and on the land.

He is a second cousin of King George VI. He was born on June 25, 1900, and is the son of the Admiral of the Fleet at the outbreak of the first World War, the Marquis of Milford Haven, and Princess Victoria eldest daughter of Queen Victoria's daughter, Princess Alice.

START IN PRESENT WAR

Lord Louis' service in this war started when he commissioned the destroyer Kelly in August, 1939, after previously being appointed to the command of the ship and of the newly formed Fifth Destroyer Flotilla.

When the Kelly was damaged by mines in the North Sea four months later, Lord Louis shifted his command to another vessel and then returned to the Kelly until it was again damaged by torpedoes during the Norwegian campaign.

After transferring from ship to ship of the flotilla for independent operations along the English East Coast, Lord Louis was second in command of a force which bombarded Cherbourg and pursued enemy destroyers back to Brest. On November 29th, 1940, his ship, the Javelin, received two torpedo hits when the Fifth Destroyer Flotilla fought a night action against German destroyers in the English Channel.

A month later he was back on the recommissioned Kelly, and that spring was in command of the second bombardment of Benghazi. On May 23, 1941, the Kelly went down in the Battle of Crete.

Late last summer he arrived in the United States to take command of the British aircraft carrier Illustrious and to supervise its repairs in an American shipyard. He was then assigned to "special duties" by the War Cabinet — a task then believed to involve his talents as a strategist.

WORLD WAR SERVICE

Lord Louis has seen service in the Royal Navy since 1913. During the first World War, he was on Admiral Beatty's flagship, H. M. S. Lion and was transferred to the new flagship Queen Elizabeth. Later he served in the Twelfth Submarine Flotilla and then in the Portsmouth Escort Flotilla.

He accompanied the Prince of Wales on his tour of Australia and India in 1920 and also visited the United States Pacific Fleet at San Diego, Calif.

He was married in 1922 to Edwina, eldest daughter of the late Lord Mount Temple, later Minister of Transport, and visited the United States on his honeymoon, and again in 1924 with the Prince of Wales.

After specializing in signals and wireless, Lord Louis held a number of specialist appointments, including that of Fleet Wireless Officer with the Mediterranean Fleet from 1931 to 1933.

He was promoted to the rank of commander in 1932 and to captain in 1937 after serving a tour of duty in the Naval Air Division of the Admiralty. He visited the United States Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., in 1938.

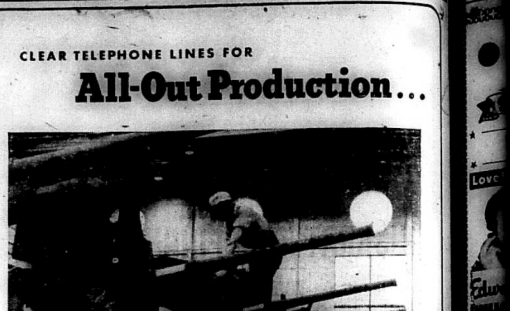
CLEAR TELEPHONE LINES FOR

All-Out Production...



...To stop tanks in their tracks

The two-pound armour-piercing shells of these anti-tank guns are poison to Panzer columns. Canada is now making them in quantity. But she needs thousands more, just as fast as they can be turned out.

Many of the 500 different parts that go into these guns come from sub-contractors. The materials for these parts, in turn, come from a dozen different sources. To keep these supplies moving, busy men reach for their telephones all day long — and often far into the night — checking deliveries, issuing instructions, meeting sudden emergencies.

Don't let the careless use of your telephone cause needless delays. Every time you make a telephone call, remember this: your careful observance of "Wartime Telephone Tactics" helps to keep interlocking communication lines clear . . . permits other, important calls to get through promptly.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, APRIL 26TH, 1942

Lesson Text: Luke 13; 22-35

WAYSIDE CONVERSATIONS

Jesus was a travelling salesman of a great and good life and of a great and good kingdom. Everywhere he went he engaged men and women in conversation, and turned its direction towards the deep things of the Spirit. He had left Galilee, where the events written in this lesson took place. He was moving about from place to place in the country, east of Jordan. A certain citizen, whose name is not given, said to Him: "Lord are there few that will be saved?" He quite probably expected Jesus to say, Oh, yes. Just a few people who have the right ancestry and the proper connections, or belong to the proper society. Jesus as He so often did answered this man in a way that surprised him. He said: "You will not find an easy pathway to the Kingdom; the road is narrow and difficult, and plenty of people who try to find the door, will miss it." This is something that the modern world has forgotten. Of course, we all want to get the prizes, but not all are, by any means, willing to pay the price. This is true of every walk of life. It seems only yesterday that almost every person in Canada was seeking to become rich and comfortable overnight by gambling in the stock market. Of course the discovery was made, with dire results that not everybody can get wealthy by playing on everybody else. And in the end to that, and this end for a great people came with the financial crash of 1929. The good life is like that. It cannot be achieved by any short cut. Only those willing to pay the price will achieve it.

This sort of teaching came as a shock to the Jews. They supposed themselves the chosen of God, and because of correct ancestry and certain perfection of ritual form, would achieve Heaven. Not so, says Jesus. When you reach the end of the road and seek life in the larger and wider world, you will be surprised to find the Lord of all life says: "depart far I never knew you. All sorts of people, regardless of race and creed and color will come to the Christ Judge, and will be assessed by their character and not by any man-made standard.

Certain pharisees are the next group with whom Jesus deals. Reported to have had a conversation with Jesus, they said to Him, "Get out of here, Herod Antipas was Tetrarch of Galilee. It was he who had put John the Baptist out of the way. They might well seek the death of Jesus. The answer of Jesus to this was kindly bit of advice was that he should go and tell the 'old fox' the things that Jesus was doing, and that he added that he would be put to death by Herod but these accidental good people of Jerusalem, who had already killed the prophets.

Now true this comment of Jesus has been in the long history of religion. The prophet is always condemned by the world. He is always cursed by those who want things left as they are. There were prophets in plenty during the past twenty-five years who were warning against the shape of things to come. Who said that moral laxity was eating at the very vitals of our civilization. Were they listened to — they were called Billyboys, bolsheviks, moonshiners, mystics. Many and many a man could found his position made uncomfortable because he dared to use his pulpit as the vehicle for prophetic utterances. The prophet does not live in an easy time. But the world would be a different place to live in today if listened to the prophets. Not than to some of the siren voices of the "twenties" and the "thirties." We must have scientists, we must have business men; we must have legislators; but it is the prophet, who stands right into eternal things, enables us to speak out of the depths of our understanding, who alone can give comfort to a civilization.

It is in this chapter, too, that Jesus gives His lament over Jerusalem. He knew the city, but He loved over it. "How often I would have gathered you under my wings, but ye would not." The great city of its toiling, broiling masses, its energy, weary and distracted people have been a home for the Son of Man. It might have been a citadel of the Kingdom of God. But They would not. The inhabitants were as sheep without a shepherd. The city was a desolate place because of its lack of direction. Its people, its lack of consecration, a great and holy cause.

This situation would not be changed until there was a change of heart. Jesus said to the people, "Ye shall say: Blessed is he that cometh in the Name

THE DEFENCE OF INDIA

BY SONIA TOMARA

India's political claims soon may be overshadowed by the military operations on India's shores. The British battle in Burma is a battle for time. It is waged in the low marshy part of the land over rice paddies, where the rainy season will be brought by the monsoon in the middle of May, the same time as in in India.

The Japanese, as well as the British, know what their assignment is. If the Japanese troops manage to reach the hilly country around Mandalay before the monsoon they will have achieved their objective. Comparatively little water falls in the Burmese hills, while the low countries are transformed into endless lagoons. If the British can stop the enemy for another six weeks they will have a few months at their disposal. As things are going, it does not seem, however, that the British can win the battle for Burma.

This is why the problem of India's defence acquires such an important, ance today. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander-in-chief in India, has been the sole master of it.

It is a difficult task, indeed, to defend the vast subcontinent with the a force of several hundred thousand men. If it were not as difficult for the Japanese to transport into the Indian Ocean troops already widely spread out it might seem hopeless. But today the problem of transportation and supplies is turning against the Japanese and this may hall them at India's doorstep.

POLITICAL SETTLEMENT

The political settlement of the Indian crisis is not of primary importance for India's defence. It is naturally valuable for the British commander to have the Indian population satisfied, at least in principle, with an accord reached in New Delhi. But all factions in India never could be satisfied and the great part of India's 390,000,000 people hardly will know about the accord and will continue to sweat over the rice fields to make their day's living.

But the size and the strength of the Indian army depends entirely on the equipment which can be had for it. It is so far a volunteer army of 900,000 men.

Until the fall of France; in fact, hardly until the Japanese attack in the Pacific, the British command in India had not prepared to repulse a land enemy from the East. The Indian army has defended the northwest frontier and has fought abroad. About 800,000 troops have been thrown out of the country to fight in the Middle East, Abyssinia, Malaya and Burma. Almost all of them were concentration camps. It is unlikely that India today has much more than an 11 million men's army armed and equipped.

OFFICERS NEEDED

Hundreds of thousands of men could be added almost overnight. There are always plenty of men in India anxious to fight and to be fed and paid for it! But India produces only light arms and not too many of these. She has not enough trained Indian officers. Her ancient iron mines and steel works near Calcutta produce only armor plate bars and guns. She can assemble planes and tanks and even make a few. But there are not enough machine tools in India. During the first two years of the war India was absorbed by her own defence and production, and the development of India's war industry was neglected. Plans are laid now to increase the production by the summer of 1943. But the Japanese likely to wait that long with their offensive.

While India's northwest frontier with the famous Khyber Pass leading into Afghanistan is strongly fortified, little had been done until late to strengthen the eastern shore of India, where the Japanese are now abreast. If the enemy attacks India in the near future it is evident that the two main targets will be Bengal and the island of Ceylon with the powerful base of Trincomalee.

VITAL POSSESSIONS

The conquest of Bengal would give the Japanese possession of Indian iron ore and coal—and Japan needs steel. It would bottle up the Ganges River, at whose delta stands Calcutta, a city second in population only to London in the British Empire. Its conquest would not be easy. The Ganges flood is a huge swamp, infested by tigers, snakes and crocodiles. It takes eight hours to sail up the Hugli River from the ocean to the city, and all the rivers of the delta are full of shifting sands.

Rice fields surround Calcutta and stretch along the whole eastern coast of India down to Madras. From Madras to Calcutta and from Calcutta to all other provinces of India. The Indian people will live along the eastern coast are not fighters, and General Wavell could not rely on their cooperation to repel the invaders.

Even a better prize for the Japanese would be Ceylon, the pear-shaped, lake island which commands the Indian Ocean and which, unlike India, is a colony of the British Empire. With Ceylon in their hands, the Japanese could blockade Madras and Calcutta and threaten the latter almost to Bombay. It is not far from Ceylon to the coast of India. In legendary time, Rama, the godlike warrior, was led to the island over Adam's bridge of reefs and islets by the monkey god Hanuman. The sons of the rising sun could easily make the reverse journey with the help of their machines, and penetrate into India through its southern tip. Once more forced to the defensive, the British are obliged in India to guard a long coastline and to prepare for new Japanese landings in the north and in the south.

WILL HER WARSHIP CREWS FIGHT ?

IF FRANCE CAPITULATES

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington. — The increasing threat that Germany may gain control of the French fleet is regarded by United States naval authorities as a grave menace to Britain's supply lines in the Mediterranean and thus a direct threat to the security of her armies in North Africa.

Beyond this immediate result, these experts said, an out-and-out Vichy-Berlin coalition eventually would jeopardize Anglo-American domination of the North Atlantic supply routes to Russia, and a general realignment of Allied naval strategy would have to be undertaken.

CREWS ARE PROBLEM

In making effective use of the French ships, however, it would be imperative that the Axis have the enthusiastic support of their officers and crews, and there is considerable speculation, here as to whether that could be counted on in all cases.

Some experts suggest the French might have more stomach for fighting the Axis battle than the Italians seem to have shown to date. These authorities said there is no question the Italian navy has made a consistently poor showing in the Mediterranean largely because "their hearts just aren't in their work."

However, despite the British victories at Taranto and Cape Matapan and in various other lesser engagements, the Italian forces in the Mediterranean remain considerable. If Vichy capitulates completely there would be added to these according to the best available unofficial estimates:—

The five battleships Provence, Dunkerque, Strasbourg, Richelieu and Jean Bart (assuming the latter has been completed—a doubtful possibility), all in various stages of readiness to fight;

Two battleships building, the Gascogne and Clemenceau;

Two aircraft carriers building, the Painleve and Joffre;

Four heavy cruisers;

Eight light cruisers built and three building;

Fifty-two destroyers built, and 20 building (five others under construction are reported to have been taken over by the Germans many months ago);

Fifty-nine submarines built and 22 building.

CHANCES REMOTE

Also under nominal Vichy control are the aircraft carrier Bearn and the light cruisers Jeanne D'Arc and Emile Bertin, at Martinique and Guadeloupe. It would be the job of the United States Navy to see that those vessels did not leave the Caribbean. Chances are that the rat in their passing into Axis hands are remote.

There is the possibility the ships might be surrendered to the Germans to be fought with German crews. A considerable training period would be necessary for the Germans to become familiar with the arms and working of the vessels.

A portion of the former French fleet now is in Alexandria, demilitarized under an agreement of July, 1940, Britain could seize these vessels if the Germans took the French fleet, but it would take months to put their armament back in place and restore them to fighting condition.

The battleship Lorraine and the cruisers Suffren, Duquesne, Tourville and Jean-Tvown have been extensively demilitarized. The old battleships Courbet and Paris, also laid up at British ports, are said to have been removed from the effective list by the French themselves on completion of the Jean Bart. Neither has done more than sixteen knots and the Courbet served the French mainly as a gunnery training ship.

LINES OPEN

The United Nations have been able to maintain their essential supply lines to all parts of the earth because wherever necessary to do so with the possible exception of the far western Pacific, they have been able to concentrate naval superiority.

This superiority has resulted from the fact that Germany did not have a fleet comparable to Britain and the United States; that Britain had crippled the Italian fleet and that the Japanese fleet has had its own problems of guarding convoys and communication lines.

Britain has been able to move supply convoys in the Mediterranean despite some losses and has also been able to make the Axis task of supplying their North African army extremely difficult.

If Germany can bring overwhelming even though qualitatively inferior forces into the Mediterranean this spring or summer, Britain either force Britain out or compel her to bolster her own Mediterranean fleet at the expense of protecting her United States and Russian supply routes.

To force Britain out would mean moving all Allied supplies around Africa to the Red Sea, while the Axis meanwhile would have free access across the Mediterranean and it would also jeopardize the strongholds of Malta and Gibraltar.

Should they gain their ends in the Mediterranean the Axis admirals would then almost certainly try to force an open passage through Gibraltar into the Atlantic to upset Allied naval domination there. Once out they might be able to operate in co-operation with the German home fleet, and its powerfully armed heavy and pocket battleships, to disrupt the movement of supplies from America.

Such action probably would have the secondary purpose of weakening the United States Pacific fleet either by forcing transfer of warships from the Pacific to the Atlantic or by preventing the reinforcement of that fleet with new ships.

Important Ruling

cordingly is liable even now on his own evidence to such penalty or penalties. Under the circumstances of catching a rat in a trap, I hold that no person can gain the ownership of a rat from the Province of Ontario because a license to trap muskrats does not permit a person to trap illegally. Further, in this case, I am not certain on the evidence when the rat did die. It may well be that the rat was not finally reduced into a dead rat until the accused took it on his own land or that of his wife above the high water mark. Of course, I am not holding that the accused was justified in taking the rat in the sense that he was acting within his legal rights. I would say that any game warden would be acting in a legal manner in removing a rat from a trap set illegally and it may well be that any individual authorized to trap would be justified in so doing. Accordingly, there is some possibility that the property in the rat became that of the accused and if such were the case he certainly couldn't be guilty of stealing from himself.

Counsel for the Crown states that this case is of importance not particularly because of the value of the muskrat allegedly stolen (its value was said to be about $2.50) but to determine the legal rights and privileges of muskrat trappers in this district of whom he stated there were a considerable number. Accordingly, after such review of the evidence I might summarize the rights of trappers on the Napanee River, to be as follows:

1 Any person being the holder of a proper license to trap muskrats may trap same when the actual trapping is done in a legal manner and the trapping is done at any place below the high water mark.

2 In respect to property above the high water mark only the owner of such property or person authorized by him to trap may trap. If the owner is a farmer or his sons, no license is required while trapping on his or their land.

3 No person other than the person or his licensed agent has the right to remove rats from another person's traps set legally below the high water mark, in Napanee River.

4 Any person who sets traps illegally and does thereby injure the rights of others who set traps legally should not invoke or expect any protection from the law if their rats are removed.

In this case at hand I believe that the accused acted upon a bonafide belief that he had a right to do the act complained of .That belief was ill-founded so far as ownership of property was concerned as the trap from which he took the rat in question was not upon his property. Not being upon his property did he have a right to take it from a trap that was "set illegally? He could not be presumed to know that the rat had not actually been caught in that trap.

Under all the circumstances in this case I am dismissing the charge against the accused for two reasons: the evidence would indicate that the muskrat was trapped illegally and under these circumstances the Province of Ontario would be the owner. If a game warden had come along I believe it would have been his duty to seize the rat. Therefore, the accused could not be guilty as charged. that is, with the theft of a muskrat.

Napanee Coal Prices on a Cash Basis

The Federal Coal Administrator is urging the Coal Trade and consuming public to start taking in as large a supply of fuel as possible at an early date.

The War Time Prices and Trade Board has issued regulations governing prices and restraining credit to consumers.

In order to meet the wishes of the Government and in the best interests of both the Coal Trade and the Consumers it is considered that the fuel business should be placed on a strictly Cash Basis.

Therefore the Fuel Merchants of Napanee commencing Wednesday, April 22nd, are closing their books for credit and thereafter all fuel must be paid for in advance or paid for on delivery —There will be no exceptions to this rule.

THE BLIND AND THE INSTITUTE

The Napanee Committee of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, of which Mr. M. P. Graham is Chairman, is holding a campaign to raise funds to carry on its work among the blind of this town and county. "The public," said the local Field Secretary of the Institute, "is entitled to know why it is necessary to conduct this campaign." The answer is simple. It is in order to enable the Institute to carry on its work. It is to provide employment for those blind people who are physically competent to take a place in the industrial or business world. It is to provide braille books, magazines and talking books for blind people to whom ordinary libraries are no use. It is to send home teachers into the homes of men and women who have lost their sight so that they may learn to read and write braille," to operate the typewriter and to become proficient at some handicraft, which will occupy their time and their minds and give them a chance to earn a few dollars. It is to sustain societies designed to insure that they suffer no actual hardship. It is to give them the friendly help of a fellow-citizen interested in their welfare; to assist them with the social and economic problems. It is to make certain that they get competent medical attention so that, if there is a chance of their sight being restored, that restoration or chance is not denied them. It is to make life worth living for them. It is essential for blind people that the Canadian National Institute for the Blind be supported because there is no other agency in Ontario equipped to give them the services they require. In every fair-sized community in Ontario there is a Board or a Committee working under the auspices of the C. N. I. B. These groups are composed of public-spirited men and women giving their time voluntarily to the solutions of the problems of the local blind. There is one of these committees in Napanee. The members know the situation. They know the need. They want your help. It is not a great sum that is required in Napanee, but failure to supply the necessary amount would mean a disastrous change in the lives of many blind people. The money raised in the coming campaign will be used to make the Institute's services available to the 22 blind persons in Napanee and Lennox and Addington County and to carry on prevention of blindness activities in this district. The Tag Day for the Blind will be held in Napanee on Saturday, May 2nd.

PLAN ADOPTED TO GET SCRAP

IMPLEMENT FIRM WILL COLLECT FROM FARMERS

Ottawa, (C.P.) — War Services Minister, Joseph Thorson, announced recently he has given formal approval to an offer by International Harvester Co. of Canada, Limited, involving use of the company's 3,000 dealers and advertising facilities in promotion of farm salvage across Canada.

The plan, drawn up by salvage Director William Knighbley in cooperation with company officials, provides for establishment of collection points in localities where there are no scrap-dealers. Farmers will be given receipts for poundage deliv., and, receiving cash sums for the receipts after the salvage had been sold.

Dealers of the company will act as agents to locate scrap and active junk dealers where it can be obtained. A press and radio campaign is being sponsored by the company to interest farmers in salvage. Placards, postcards and personal canvassing also will be involved in the promotional campaign.

The announcement said "agents will urge farmers to donate the (salvage) proceeds toward charitable

"When dealers make deliveries of equipment to farmers, the empty truck will be used to gather scrap to collection point," Mr. Thorson said.

The plan was presented to Mr. Thorson by W. O. Maxwell, H. C. Bland and A. W. Wright, company representatives. Mr. Ray said in the United States, where the plan has been operating since February, an estimate 500,000 tons of steel and other scrap had already been collected.

RED CROSS NEWS

Mrs. W. G. Paul and Mrs. W. T. Mackenzie served the regular Saturday afternoon tea at the Red Cross rooms, with Miss Anne Allingham pouring and Miss Elizabeth Keith, assisting. During the week nine quilts were turned in from the Mohawk W. I. These quilts, very original in design were particularly beautifully quilted. Thirteen additional quilts brought in Saturday, from various units. The cutting room is turning out women's dresses of fine green wool, very lovely. Ten served each Saturday at four. Everyone welcome.

It was her first day at the job, and the new maid was a bit slow in answering the bell. So the master of the house strode into the kitchen. He found her scrubbing the floor.

"You're pretty dirty," he remarked, eyeing her sullen profile.

"Yes, sir," she replied coyly, "but I'm prettier clean."

OBITUARY

MRS. ARCHIE ASSELSTINE

Mrs. Gertrude Asselstine, widow of Archie Asselstine, Moscow, died at the home of her son, Mr. Percy Asselstine, Adelphi Street, Napanee, on Thursday, April 16. She had been in ill-health for some months, but her death came suddenly and was a great shock to her family and friends.

Mrs. Asselstine was born in Sydenham, the daughter of Joseph and Lydia Guess. She spent her early life in the village of Sydenham where she attended the public and high schools.

In 1901 she was married to Archie Asselstine, Moscow, and lived at Moscow until Mr. Asselstine's death in 1940, maintaining an ideal home, well known to their many friends.

Mrs. Asselstine was a valued member of women's organizations in Sydenham, Moscow and the surrounding county. Her devotion to her home and family was unceasing and she was always generous and willing in aiding individual groups which needed help.

She leaves to mourn the loss of a loving mother, one son, Percival Asselstine, Napanee; two daughters, Mrs. Doris Wilson, Strathcona, and Mrs. Hobart Empey, Kingston.

A private funeral was conducted at the home of her son in Napanee, on Saturday by Rev. W. G. Fletcher, United Church Minister of Moscow, who was assisted by, Rev. G. M. Chidley, of Trinity United Church, Napanee. Interment was made in the family plot in Moscow.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Morley Huffman, Edgar Drew, Carmen Patterson, Allan Bell, Arthur Baker and Trevor Armstrong.

Cut Down the Risk Accidents on Farms

Every farmer knows how serious the labour shortage now is. A few tips on how to conserve your own efficiency and the efficiency of farm help are offered by the Field Husbandry Division, Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Remove the possibilities of accidents. A board with a nail in it, careless handling of tools, or a gun, the cover off a well, hay hading an open trap in the loft, an exposed electric wire or a faulty flue, or any one of a thousand common causes are responsible for many, every year hundreds of accidents, big and little, take a considerable toll of the time and energy of farmers. These are days when the call for essential food products is so urgent on Canada that every farmer or worker the nation can afford accidents.

It is not going to cost any money or much time to fix the projecting nail in the step or elsewhere, or to see that the hayloft trap door is kept clear and closed. Every farmer can be his own safety engineer. Not only can the risk of accidents be cut down but fire hazards can be reduced by the exercise of care. A pail of mud or manure in the place where the fire hazard is greatest, is a good thing.

A good slogan these days is Farm Safety for defence and efficiency — or Safety First.

WEDDING BELLS

WARK - BARROWMAN

At a pretty candle-light ceremony in the drawing-room of Mr. and Mrs. William Barrowman's home, 58 Cloke Ave., Hamilton, their daughter, Rosena Martha, became the bride of Mr. James Thornton Wark, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Wark, on Saturday afternoon, April 18, 1942. The Rev. R. J. Fricker, Priest of Toronto, a friend of the groom performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white sheer crepe, in classic style, with a fingertip veil and carried pink carnations with baby's breath. Her sister, Mrs. G. J. Fricker of Peterborough, was matron of honour and wore a sheer crepe gown in St. James' pink, with a powder blue hat of tulle, with pink trimming. She carried a nosegay of pink sweet peas and blue forget-me-nots. Miss Norma Stewart of Toronto, played the wedding music.

Mr. Stuart Tulk attended the groom as best man.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. H. C. Price, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. J. Harris, Mrs. O. Rigg, Mr. and Mrs. Hume Mallory, Miss Frances Pond, Miss Gertrude Penn, all of Toronto, and Mrs. O. J. Prisken, Peterboro.

After the wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Wark will reside in Hamilton.

OTTAWA ORDERS NEW CUTS IN GAS RATIONS

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Hundreds and perhaps thousands of Canadian motorists will be affected by a downward re-allocation of gasoline category ratings, the Munitions and Supply Department announced on behalf of Hon. C. D. Howe, Munitions Minister.

The move was made because of the "increasingly serious shortage of crude petroleum," a department statement said. It quoted Mr. Howe as saying:

"The time is past when we should mince words. The war situation is grave. Tanker sinkings have proved a serious blow to our war program. The inventory position is serious enough to justify drastic steps, and the first of these steps will be the re-allocation of gasoline category ratings throughout the country."

Amplifying the Minister's statement, G. R. Cottrelle, Oil Controller, of Toronto, said many vehicles in the higher passenger car categories will be reduced to lower categories, and many others will be reduced to Category "A", allowing from 300 to 360 gallons a year under the present regulations.

"In addition, we intend to keep a very close check on all commercial category vehicles and if necessary, these too will lose their special privileges," Mr. Cottrelle said. "The commercial vehicle owner must realize that his extra allowance is contingent upon his willingness to co-operate in cutting down gasoline consumption.

ALLOWANCE CUTS

"It is our intention to reduce the allowance for those whose businesses have been curtailed because of the war. We shall also insist, wherever possible, on the elimination of the use of cars in business." There are many who can rearrange their activities to this end, and we will see that they do so."

The controller said the work of reallocating the special categories will take several weeks.

"Each case will be dealt with on its own merits," he said, "and in many instances we shall have to seek additional information."

Gasoline rationing went into effect across Canada April 1st.

MRS. E.W. EDMONDS WRITES OF LIFE IN CHINA

The following is a copy of a letter from Mrs. E. W. Edmonds (Lorenia Wilson), in West China.

The Canadian School,
Jenshow Sze, West China,
Thursday, March 17th, 1942.

Dear Loved Ones at Home:

I shall send this letter to Dad and ask you to pass it on to Mary and Claude and then over to Ruth MacKay and so on to all of the family. Thank you!

We have just had the joy of receiving two Christmas cards sent one to Nettie and the other to me on September 9th, by the MacKays. In nine were three maps, for which we thank Ruth, very much. I wrote Ruth a circular on February 2nd but it went from India by boat. I shall try to send this all the way by air so you may receive it first.

We are all well and happily and busily at work. It looks now as though you couldn't see Arthur this year. He along with the other ones finishing their junior matriculation, will have to take their matriculation work here. We are thankful to all be well and in safety as far as one can be, anywhere, in these times.

I am enjoying so much my classes in ancient history. As I review the story of those Roman wars, I marvel that the world has ever learned out of the folly of war. The terrible cost of it. Last Saturday night we celebrated Valentine's Day here by a party of the whole school. It was Nettie's first party and she enjoyed herself immensely. The school plan had been to wear costumes in red and white, but a sudden bit of cold weather, when the temperature went down to 28 degrees above zero (the coldest here for ten years) made the costumes change that plan. Each person, young and old, teachers and scholars, had drawn a name. To the owner of this name a Valentine had to be sent. This ensured everyone receiving, at least, one Valentine. However, each one received about five or six at least. We played group games such as "Heart Hunt," "Musical Arms," "My Friend's Clothes," and closed with a circle of "Auld Lang Syne" and the Canadian School song and yell.

Wednesday, the 11th, snow began to fall. On Thursday, the 12th, we awakened to find a steady fall. You who are accustomed to snow cannot realize what a thrill these children had out of the snow. At breakfast, Nettie and Ruth were hurried to gather pailsful and Mrs. Allan made ice cream for our supper. We had delicate sauce with walnut meats on top. Was it luscious? The first ice cream since 1938. Shortly morning the world was beautiful, draped in snow. It also happened to be the New Year Day of the Chinese Lunar Calendar so the Chinese had their great big holiday of the year. The High School girls, which includes Arthur and Robert, got up about 7:00 a.m., and went to one of the nearby hills for a snow fight before breakfast they had.

Yesterday the snow had melted; although there was white frost again this morning, the snow is no more.

You may remember that Mrs. Liu last year about the Chinese New Year and how it was observed in the "country" where they lived. The coal carriers on the road stop, ped work for one whole week. Here the church is taking advantage of the holiday season among the Chinese and is holding special evangelistic services for a week, and so during. The average Szechuanese is busy every day of the year except two weeks at the New Year vacation. These first two days of these special services are being delighted to report that the church has been full. True, the crowd is a bit restless, but they are getting the opportunity to hear the gospel.

The annual Mission Meetings have been held the past two weeks, in Chengtu. Our representative, Rev. Howard Veals, came home especially a day early travelling by bicycle for a day and a half on snowy roads (two inches of snow in some places) in order to be here to help with these evangelistic services. While all China is celebrating the entrance of a New Year, we, at the Canadian School, carry on the same schedule as you do on Boxing Day. We take our weekly holiday on Monday instead of on Saturday.

Did I tell you of flying deadly mounts. As yet, no mail has reached us via the new route, but mail which was in Hong Kong prior to December 25, seems to be gradually filtering in so we still hope to have some mail in letters. We have heard of fifty British sailors who escaped from Hong Kong appearing in Kweilin en route to Burma. Some of our missionaries there with the Red Cross, have helped them. They need everything and so were wearing Chinese padded coats. They also had no facilities for shaving so had to grow beards. This was a month after their escape. Their insects, a dog and a cat, travelled with them. Interesting will be the tales, when they are told.

Did I tell you of Nettie's flying? He is now as tall as I am. He can wear all of Arthur's clothes now as far as size is concerned. Apparently he has only started, so I'll have two big sons when I come on furlough. Do you want to know what big grandsons you have.

This cold weather, I always especially think of Dad and Mary and Claude. Ruth and Donald, as you are the only ones who have a furnace in the immediate connection who, I know, who will have to live with coal fires in stoves. We do. Somehow we find it impossible to keep warm in this weather. I know you will wonder but it seems that the dampness here penetrates so much. I am wearing here in the house, right now a woollen underwear, woollen stockings, woollen sweater and two sweater coats and still am cold. In the downstairs we have one coal stove and two fireplaces going all the time. Coal is $32.00 per ton here and much more than that in Chengtu and Chungking. So you can see how we regret having to have so many fires. Fortunately we shall not have a month more of cold weather. We shall soon be complaining of the heat.

You will be interested to know that cables have been coming through safely since the war in the Pacific even though letters have not. Should any need arise the Mission rooms could send a cable message. I shall be interested to know just when my letters do reach each of you.

One of the missionaries of the London Missionary Society, England, Miss Eva Spicer, has just returned from furlough. She came via Durban, Calcutta. Some American friends left Chengtu on Friday, the 13th, to try the same route. We shall see as the weeks and months pass just what will be best for Arthur to do. At present it looks a bit too risky to attempt to travel. There it still much in can learn here.

I shall be glad of news of each and all of you. What kind of a winter have you had, Dad? Have you had good health? Mrs. Allan often reads us news. She has just had her 63rd birthday. Her children called her "birthday greetings." That is one proof we have that cables are coming through.

I hope we can get some snaps to you people soon. Nettie is growing well these days. She seems to be especially interested in music. Mrs. Neals is teaching her a bit each morning. Her little friend, Donnie Derk, will be leaving the first of March for Tibet, with his parents. She will have to find a new friend

May you be kept safe in the Father's loving care.

OBITUARIES

SAMPSON KING

A highly respected resident of Man, cow, in the person of Sampson King, passed peacefully away at his home on Saturday, April 11th, in the 81st year of his age. He had been in poor health for some time prior to his death.

The late Mr. King was a successful farmer and before coming to Moscow resided in the Fifth Lake district, east of Enterprise and was one of the pioneers of that community, clearing the land in summer and working in the lumber camps in the winter.

The funeral was held from his late residence on Monday and was conducted by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Fletcher of Yarker, and was largely attended by relatives and friends.

The late Mr. King was a faithful member of the United Church, a lifelong member of the Royal Orange Association and a Conservative in politics. He was also for a number of years Chaplain of L. O. B. No 2711, the members of which officiated at his funeral.

There are left to mourn his loss, five sons: Henry King and Marshall King, of Glasgow, Bruce King of Oshawa, Stanley King of Rochester, N.Y., and Cecil King on the homestead. There are also nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mrs. King passed on some years ago.

Interment took place in the family plot in the Moscow Cemetery.

BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERIAL W. M. S. HOLDS SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL MEETING AT TRINITY UNITED CHURCH, NAPANEE

Members of the Kingston Presbyterial who were present were welcomed by Mrs. Hooper and a reply was made by Miss Chown.

Mrs. Georgina Jenkins, convener of committees, announced the names of those serving on the Resolutions and Memorials and Courtesy Committees.

An interesting report of the executive meetings held during the year was given by the recording secretary, Mrs. Erle Denyes.

$12,563.75 RAISED DURING YEAR

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Fraser, showed that $12,563.75 had been raised during the year and that $12,375 had been contributed to the branch treasurer.

Mrs. E. Osborne, Christian Stewardship secretary, reported many encouraging features in the work being done in her department, and said that new efforts were being put forth each year to increase the interest in missions, and that women were giving more and more of their time and talents toward that end.

Mrs. W. S. Gordon, Literature Secretary, had a splendid display of books and leaflets available through the Women's Missionary Society and in a brief address, said that knowledge of a subject must come before interest and urged the delegates to make use of the splendid literature, and to encourage the young people to read more books of this kind.

An impressive memorial service for departed members was conducted by Mrs. J. L. Ross, Mrs. E. Maybee and Mrs. W. C. Haggerty. After a scripture reading and prayer, Mrs. Ross read poems as a tribute to the deceased, as Mrs. Maybee lighted a candle in memory of those who have passed on in each section. Mrs. Haggerty read the names of the deceased.

The morning session was brought to a close with a Communion Service conducted by Rev. Murray Chidley and Rev. C. D. MacLennan, when the members of the executive, the delegates and visitors partook of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The theme of the opening worship service was "Courage from Present Experience," and was in charge of Mrs. McLennan of King St. Auxiliary, Trenton. After a scripture reading and a solo by Mrs. Harry Crews, an inspirational address was given by Mrs. Adams, on the theme "Courage," she said, 'is born in faith in God and that is what we need most at the present time. To gain strength for the difficult tasks we are facing to-day we must lift up our eyes to the hills from whence cometh our help. Other countries, such as Norway, England and China, are examples of what courage can do. God is working out His plan in His own way, and He has no other hands to use but ours. Let us face this work with courage gained from prayer and faith in God."

The service was closed with a hymn and prayer.

AWARDS PRESENTED

Mrs. Hooper again took charge of the meeting and called on Mrs. A. McCreary, Mission Band Secretary, to present the awards which were, as follows:

Certificate of Recognition—Daisy Band, of the West Presbyterial.

Silver Seal — Mount Pleasant - Rawdon, and Switzerville.

Gold Seal — Eldorado, Selby, Holloway Street Church, Belleville, and Elmbrook.

Green Seal—Cannifton, Plainfield, Moscow, Ivanhoe, and Tweed.

STATISTICAL REPORT

"The Story of the Year" was presented by Mrs. C. E. Knox, corresponding secretary. She reported 81 auxiliaries, with 2061 members, eight mission bands, seven mission circles, eleven C. G. I. T. groups, 53 mission bands, 29 baby bands. Three new life memberships were paid during the year, when 1100 women met monthly to plan, pray and work for the extension of God's Kingdom. Mrs. Knox mentioned many outstanding features of the work which was carried on during the year by the different departments. Special speakers, lantern slides, plays and pageants were used to create interest in the mission work.

The offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. A. Empey.

MRS. FORBES SPEAKS

The convention was very fortunate in having for a guest speaker, Mrs. G. E. Forbes, past-president of the Dominion Board, who took for her topic, "Stop, Look and Think." Mrs. Forbes brought greetings from the Dominion Board and then proceeded to speak on her topic, saying that women had never been so busy doing worthwhile things as at the present time. This, however, is not enough. We must stop our work long enough to look at the black, despairing conditions in the world as it is to-day and consider what can be done to brighten it. The highlight of the whole work of the Universal Church of Jesus Christ standing out clearly against the dark background. Although some of the mission work is at a standstill, native Christians are still carrying on and the Church is growing even in Korea and Japan. We must be ready for the day when our missionaries will go back to these countries to continue their work. Mrs. Forbes stressed the fact that women were never so influential as at the present time, when they are co-operating with the Government in observing the price ceiling and are being called to important governmental posts. The United Thankofferings of women are also helping to wipe out the deficit of the United Church. We must be ready to accept these responsibilities so that our work may be worthwhile. We must also stop and think of ways and means of creating a new world order after the War, so that the past-war mistakes of the Great War of 1914-1918 may not be repeated. Let our thinking be God-centred, she said, coming to Him, in prayer, for guidance, so that we may be worthwhile members of the Universal Church of Christ.

Under the topic, "Looking Forward," Mrs. F. J. Nickle, Missionary Monthly Secretary, Mrs. Manley Fox, secretary of Temperance and Christian Citizenship; Mrs. A. S. Doggett, Associate Helpers secretary, Mrs. T. C. Armstrong, Press secretary, Mrs. Jean Mae Hawley, supply secretary, in brief two-minute addresses presented some helpful suggestions for the workers, in their several departments.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

The following resolutions were brought in by Mrs. E. Farnsworth, convener of the Resolutions Committee, and adopted:

(1) Whereas there is evident feeling on the part of certain Presbyterials that there is lack of spirit of co-operation between auxiliaries and Presbyterial at annual meeting time, we recommend that the Dominion Board give consideration to adding a question to the Auxiliary annual report form, such as, "Have your junior organizations sent their annual reports to the Presbyterial?"

(2) The fact that the Dominion President of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada (Mrs. L. F. Stephens) was among those called to Ottawa to confer with the Minister of Finance and Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and that literature has been sent to the president of each auxiliary for distribution and discussion, proves that the Government recognizes the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada as an influential organization. We would then suggest that the Presbyterial draft a letter to the government calling attention to the fact that this society would be more interested in co-operating with the government if they, in turn, would give some attention to the petitions sent to the government begging for the curtailment of alcoholic beverages in view of the disgraceful waste of money, material and man power, during war time.

(3) Whereas the people of the Dominion of Canada are being advised to give to the utmost in support of the war effort so as to assure a complete victory over the Axis powers, and whereas we are advised that it is absolutely necessary to save both materials and foods to the limit of our ability, and whereas there is a tremendous increase in the sale and values in the consumption of alcoholic beverages as well as a great loss of time and materials due to destruction of property by intoxicated persons, and whereas the alcoholic beverages sold in beer parlors, in camps and airports, are injurious to the health and morals of the young men of the country, be it resolved by the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, Belleville Presbyterial assembled in the United Church of Canada assembled in the town of Napanee on Monday, April 20th, 1942, that we recommend to the Wartime legislators prohibiting the sale of all alcoholic beverages for the duration of the war.

The installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. C. E. Forbes.

SUPPER MEETING

Rev. Murray Chidley was chairman at the supper meeting when the toast to the King, Mrs. Percy Aselstine, president of Trinity Church Auxiliary, and friendship of all those present. Greetings were then brought to the gathering by His Worship, Mayor Hall, M.D., Rev. E. S. Swayne, chairman of the Presbytery, Miss E. Dunoon, Conference Branch president, Mrs. B. Farnsworth, County W. C. T. U. president, Mrs. Gerald Herrington, County Women's Association president, and the Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church. The response to the greetings was very ably given by Mrs. W. C. Haggerty.

EVENING SESSION

The devotional period of the evening session was in charge of the Trinity Church Mission Circle, who were assisted by the Junior Choir.

Mrs. Gordon Johnson was in charge. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. VanSteenberg. Miss Evelyn McIlroy then spoke on the topic "Courage for Future Advance." The scriptural basis of her address was the words of St. Paul: "I have brought on me the marks of Jesus Christ." She said that the young people of to-day need courage to meet the problems of post-Christianity. She mentioned the admonition of Winston Churchill: "Lift up your hearts," and said that it is encouraging to know that the Kingdom of God is continuing to grow and that the children of to-day must carry on this work to its completion. Courage is needed for this task and prayers must go up for strength equal to the task.

A solo, "Give of your best to the Master," was sung by Mrs. A. Case and the junior choir gave two numbers.

GIFT TO MRS. HOOPER

Mrs. George Finlay and Mrs. Erle Denyes, on behalf of the executive, presented Mrs. Hooper with a flower vase in appreciation of her work during the past four years and Mrs. Hooper made a suitable reply.

The offering was received by members of the C. G. I. T. and dedicated by Mrs. A. H. Foster.

Mrs. G. F. Horsey then gave a splendid illustrated address on the topic, "A Going Concern." Mrs. Forbes took as her theme a Chinese dress such as those designed by Madame Chiang Kai Shek and worn by the modern Chinese woman. Her address and lantern slides showed that the Christian Church is a "going concern" in China to-day, even though the country is being devastated by Japanese bombs.

A solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd" was sung by Mrs. Harold Dennison.

The report of the Courtesy Committee was brought in by Mrs. Percy MacMullen who mentioned the kindness of the pastor and church officials in loaning their church for the meeting, the bountiful meals provided by the Trinity Church Mission Circle and Auxiliary and by Grace Church Auxiliary, the inspirational addresses given by Mrs. G. F. Forbes, the splendid programme prepared by Mrs. Hooper and the secretary, the work of the Press Secretary, Mrs. T. C. Armstrong, and the music provided by the Trinity Junior Choir and the soloists.

The meeting was closed with the National Anthem and the benediction, which was pronounced by Rev. Murray Chidley.

Feeding Work Horses When Idle

Experimental Farms Service

There is a vast difference between feeding work horses when idle and feeding idle work horses. The latter require a maintenance ration to keep them in good condition while the former require careful attention to keep the teamster or stable-man as sore may be, which work horses certainly have when they are first compelled to do a complete idleness as soon as many This is when trouble occurs. Sympathetic and proper feeding will help or causes "big head" in valuable work horses which is an unsightly sore and usually shortens the life of the work horse while the latter usually causes death. Dr. P. J. Ballantyne, Superintendent of the Animal Nutrition Experimental station Kapuskasing, Ont.

When work horses come off hard work and heavy feed, the amount of grain fed should be reduced by half, at the same time adding more bran to the oats fed. If the work is long and is usually put into the horses known as Mrs. Davis' summer residence.

Mr. Arthur Wilson, of Brookside, has purchased the farm known as the late Charlie Curle farm, and intends to move there in the near future.

THE SWING IS TO SCHEDULED MEALS

Hello Homemakers! I ask you! Can you prepare three delicious satisfying, health-giving meals in less than two hours a day? For four people? An hour and a half is really time enough. But there is a big secret to make it possible.

First, plan your meals and work for the day — or, better still, for the week. Then dinner, the biggest meal of the day. After deciding on your meat, it's important to choose vegetables in accordance with that will be cooked by the time the meat is ready. If desserts are served hot, they should be quick-cooking — made between the time the vegetables are put on and the serving hour — or deserts that can stand before baking. It's a good idea to consult your clock and write down the time needed to prepare and cook the various dishes. Don't forget that a timed-to-the-minute oven means full-flavoured food with conserved vitamins.

Can. Corps Repeating History C.E.F. in 1918

Canadian Corps Was "Ace-In-Hole" For August, 1918, Drive — Ready For Dual Job Now

C. E. F. DIVISIONS HELD IN RESERVE PLAYED SPEARHEAD ROLE IN AUGUST ASSAULT

Two-Way Training of Present Canadian Corps Looks Like History Repeating Itself

— BY KIM BEATTIE —

With the Canadian Corps (Overseas) :— When Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton told newspapermen in mid-1941 that the Canadian Corps was "a dagger pointed at the seat of Berlin," he symbolized the basic purpose and future intent of Canada's Overseas Army.

He was not vaingloriously lauding Canadian shock-troop abilities. Nor did he infer that there was a Canadian intention deliberately to avoid becoming involved in action in order to hold the Corps intact for the day the tide of war will inevitably turn. It would be the British authorities, not the Canadian, who would likely raise the great objection to proposals which mean moving the Canadians out of Southern England. While that all-out invasion threat crouches across the Channel, the compact Canadian Corps is a formidable deterrent, and a comforting guarantee if it is attempted.

What he did mean was that every effort would be made to ensure that the Canadian Corps would retain its offensive attributes. He meant that the long defensive period would not be permitted to deteriorate the Corps' offensive spirit, power and quality.

He was promising Canada — and the enemy! — that the day would come, invasion or no invasion, when the Canadian Corps would go on the attack, and that it would constantly prepare and would always be ready for that hour.

NO HALF-WAY TRAINING

Through the long months of the tinued to be the obvious policy of past winter that intention has con. the Corps under Lieut.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar. It is true that relentless preparation for the Corps' key role in the looming "invasion battle" has occupied all minds. That threatening possibility, now rising (now waning, but always there, has never ceased to be faced. There have been no half - way measures in training equipping and preparing for it. All the bleak winter long, the men of the Corps have devoted hours of hard work to England's southern defence lines, and to how they will beat back a sea and air assault.

POWERFUL, OFFENSIVE FIGHTING MACHINE

But despite this preoccupation with what will be the most grim and momentously crucial defensive fight in the history of modern war, if it takes place, and which no Canadian soldier, general or private, minimizes, the Canadian Corps of this spring of 1942 is also the immensely powerful offensive fighting machine which Canada hoped and expected it would be when the first recruiting offices opened in September, 1939.

That is not a paradox, and no mystery makes it a simple fact.

It is, however, the result of careful strategic foresight and planning, plus a remarkable achievement in tactical organization and training.

The aggressive fighting spirit of the Canadian Corps is running higher than ever; and the full explanation of why that is so after nearly two years of inaction, since Dunkirk, will some day constitute a unique chronicle of troop-morale building and husbanding. Even more outstanding in military history will be the detailed record of how the Canadians have kept both tactically and mentally assault - minded through many months on static defence lines.

Only leadership could have been responsible for maintaining Canadian troop-quality. No other factor could have attained such diversity and elasticity of tactical ability.

DUAL PURPOSE OF CANADIAN CORPS

Canada has reason to be grateful to her leaders who have accomplished it, who have the Canadian Corps at peak physical fitness and fighting resolve as they await momentous events this spring, ready for either defensive or offensive operations. If invasion comes, the Canadian Corps is soberly confident it will turn back the menace; if Hitler again flinches from the one great gamble whereby he can still hope to hold the bulk of his spoils, the Canadian Corps is ready to attack.

Although that dual purpose has never been announced in so many words, an observer of the Canadians' tactical habits in their training fields can come to no other conclusion. It has clearly been the intention, and the striking success, of Lieut.-Gen. McNaughton, until he became ill last autumn then of Major-General G. R. Pearkes, who commanded until the arrival of Lieut.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, then of the latter who has continued to foster and inspire Canadian defensive and offensive attributes since the end of last year.

Their effort is not diminished by the obvious reminder that all good armies should be able to fight equally well either offensively or defensively. All armies are meant to have such two-way ability; but impatiability few land forces have ever been able to stay for months on the defence without loss in their offensive value.

SUPERLATIVE SHOCK TROOPS

But the Canadians have done it. They have much more than just fine all-around soldiers; they are superlative shock-troops first of all, forced to mark time in a static defence post. To accomplish what has been achieved by the Corps, Divisional, Brigade, Unit Commanders and the General Staff at home, probably called for higher leadership-quality in turn, than Canadian troops ever before required. Generalship on today's furious, unprecedented battlefields demands much more than the last war's an dithe traditional, firm character and tactical skill; and command of inactive troops today requires the elements of imagination and drive to an ever greater degree than in the field.

Further, in the case of the Canadians it has meant controlling and holding the interest of a more alertly intelligent, a more restless, better-read and a more widely-informed body of men, than ever before were molded into a great fighting force. For it is doubtful if any troops have ever had a higher average intelligence than the Canadian Corps.

NEWER, FASTER, DIVERSIFIED METHOD

Canadian leadership has also had to meet changing situations amid expansion, while they prepared their troops for today's swift, unorthodox and surprise-rife campaigns. To hold interest, and to do that; they had to adopt newer, faster, and more diversified methods of doing everything a soldier does, or might have to do better than he has ever done it before. They have had to improvise and invent, and to spread the doctrine throughout the Corps that resource and initiative are the great attributes of the successful modern soldier, while rigidly retaining a sound base of tried fighting tactics.

Two overriding factors greatly influenced the molding of the Canadian Corps into the mighty dual-purpose fighting force which it is today. One, of course, was the sound common sense and keen foresight of our trained strategists faced with the particular needs of the important defensive tactical position in which the Canadians found themselves.

The other was our military leaders' sense of responsibility to the people of Canada.

At the outbreak of war, for instance, everyone, including the enemy, instantly recalled the formidable shock-troop reputation of the Canadian Corps. It was certainly prominent in all Canadian minds the moment mobilization was ordered.

The great sweep of the world conflict, and the intensified fury of individual campaigns, were not visualized. No Canadian foresaw the Corps being inactive for such a protracted period. None thought there would be holding a defensive position in the British Isles in the spring of 1942.

CANADIANS AS SHOCK TROOPS

But all Canadians did picture the same definite part for their fighting men. They would be shock-troops. That, above all, Canada was sure that the new Canadian Corps fighting as an entity, would play a dominating role in great British offensives. Canada expected them to fight back to their historic offensive work of the summer and autumn of 1918, when the old Canadian Corps was perhaps the most compact and heavily fire-powered striking weapon on any front.

Major-General Pearkes

Major-general G. R. PEARKES, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., who started as a private in the last war.

Sense of responsibility is stronger in the good military leader than in any other man, and Canada's have never lost sight of those Canadian convictions and expectations regarding the employment of the Canadian Corps. Not only is the Corps based on hitting power, on tremendous artillery and tank-strength, but nothing now evident has been left undone in any feature of the Corps' creation, expansion and training that would prevent Canada's land-arm from carrying the fight to the enemy in smashing lunges and irresistible hammer-blows.

Not only has the realization been kept foremost that failure to take advantage of the natural offensive propensities of Canadian troops would be stupid, but the Corps' planners and commanders also felt that a mighty offensive weapon was due to Canada, whose expectations practically ordained it.

There can be no doubt that this responsibility has been a great influence and spur. If they had not built such a type of fighting machine they would have felt that they had broken faith.

OPPORTUNITY WILL COME

Nor is there any doubt that failure to aim at a full offensive share in the battles of decision would have brought a storm of protest from Canada; and if by some strange quirk in men's luck the chance does not come, expert Canadian shock-trooper will know a soldier's heart-break.

But if anything is sure in this war, their opportunity will come.

The mistakes and triumphs of the past are often the best guides available whereby a strategist can plan an army or a campaign. Canada's army planners were kind - minded years before the lessons of this war, they successfully resisted old-style customs and obsolete doctrines when war struck. But in planning the present Canadian Corps, Defence Minister Col. J. L. Ralston, and General McNaughton and Crerar, certainly remembered events of the black spring of 1918. They adopted the same power-building policy.

STRIKING PARALLELS EXIST

There are striking parallels concerning the Canadian Corps and the grave situation in the grim spring of 1918, which preceded victory. In March, when the British Fifth Army was bent, and almost broken, three of the four Canadian Divisions were held in reserve. They were held out of the line and out of the attrition. They were rested, freshened, refitted, and made ready for August 8th when the last war's tide came to that inevitable turn.

The story of how the Canadians were then prepared for distant hope of final triumph, in the midst and face of successive reverses and near-disasters, revealed the sure confidence of the British High Command that the trend of war's fortunes actually would turn. It also revealed the Canadian foresightedness, the careful planning and intensive training that readied the Canadian Corps as an offensive formation for the opportunity.

When it finally came, the Corps spearheaded the assault and penetrated twelve miles between the jump-off at dawn and noon. From then on to the end they assaulted and assaulted, with brief spells between to change fronts, to bring up the guns, and to take in the steady stream of reinforcements each fighting inevitably demands.

ONLY TIME FACTOR MISSING

At the present time only one factor is missing to make the spring of 1942 almost identical with the spring of 1918. The news is again black enough. God knows. The Canadians' comrades in arms are carrying the fight and its penalties. Once again, through no fault of its own, its leadership, or its government, the Canadian Corps is on the sidelines while the setbacks and defeats are suffered by other troops. Again, the Canadian Corps is expecting attack, and standing ready to be thrown into a desperate defensive fight, as they were 24 years ago. Uniquely similar, too, is the inspiring story of how the Canadian Corps has been trained, fitted, equipped, and directly pointed to fight as a major hitting weapon while standing on guard. They are once again shock - troops waiting battle.

The only feature absent is the hour. And whether they must first fight their bloody life on their miserable coasts, or whether they are given their long-dreamed hope and are flung at once as a vital cog in the mounting of a great British assault, the order to "Stand to!" or "Attack!" will find them ready.

UNPREDICTABLE AND RESOURCEFUL

If their maiden fight is a defensive battle, the Nazis will find them dismayingly unpredictable and resourceful. Their principal idea of defence is to attack. They will not dig in and stay dug in any longer than necessary to get set to move and take the initiative. They are adept in tank tactics, going either way. They are enthusiasts in close - combat, street-fighting, stealth patrols, and the long hawk arts of the guerrilla and Commando. Individually, they are as dangerous to tackle, even unarmed, as a wild cat. Para-troopers will dread them. I would rather have

TTAWA INTIMATES
ICE STRUCTURE
R MILK

tawa, (C.P.) — War-time Prices Trade Board officials said last they anticipate an early announcement of a price-structure for milk, effective throughout the country.

They said it is expected the plan, resulting from studies conducted by a special committee, will be in effect by May 1st, and notice has been given that the existing subsidy on milk will be cancelled at the end of this month.

Officials estimated that milk subsidy payments, announced last December 19, represented a major part of the total Prices Board outlays on subsidies now estimated at between $1,500,000 do $2,000,000 since the board started operations.

The special committee which reviewed the milk supply situation from coast to coast had the objective of stimulating increased production and at the same time stabilizing the average annual cost of milk and dairy products to the Canadian consumer.

The committee's report, now being studied by the Prices Board was understood to give recognition to the necessity of adjusting prices as between different localities and different uses of milk.

Costs and methods of distribution were examined with a view to finding all possible means of economy in this direction, and recommendations for certain changes in this respect were understood to have been made.

Last fall various provincial milk control authorities conferred with the Prices Board on rates. In a number of areas increases in amounts paid the producer were approved by the provincial authorities before the Dominion-wide price ceiling came into effect on December 1.

While the Prices Board recognized that areas where there had been no change in price could logically seek increases, it ruled that the retail ceiling price should be maintained and decided to meet the situation in these areas by payment of subsidies.

On and after December 22 the production of milk was encouraged by payment of a subsidy of 30 cents a hundredweight over and above the existing price to producers of fluid milk sold in all areas where no increase in prices had taken place since August 1st.

A subsidy of 40 cents a hundredweight over and above a maximum price of $1.70 a hundredweight, or the existing price, whichever was the higher, was paid producers of milk sold to manufacturers of concentrated milk products.

FOREST MILLS W. A.

The Forest Mills W. A. met at the home of Mrs. Elburn Cook on Tuesday, April 14th. The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by prayer by the pastor. Rev. J. T. Caswell and the Apostles' Creed. Reading by Mrs. Pastor. Rev. Oliver, written to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fox, thanking them for their kind expressions of sympathy and explaining the sickness and death of Mrs. Oliver. A hymn was sung and the roll call answered. A circuit picnic was discussed. Mrs. J. Benn, Red Cross convener, delivered the raw material from which the best bags and sacks are made. In fact it is going to be very difficult to get supplies of jute in any quantities. Jute comes principally from India and is used in various classes of textiles from fine fabrics to coarse bagging, in cordage, binding twine and so meet a variety of needs on the farm.

If you have a number of bags or sacks on hand, the first important measure to preserve them is to keep them dry. Damp rots jute in time. The bags you have, and odd pieces of burlap, shake them out and spread out in a dry place where you are sure rats and mice cannot get at them. Any kind of cotton or duck bag or sack should also be preserved. You can mend any holes with the odd pieces of material you have, providing of course such pieces are in good condition. What supplies of burlap and cotton material are on hand are requqired for the fighting forces — so it is advisable to take care of any bags or sacks, as you may not be able to get any more — and it looks as if you won't for a long time.

In doing so they can follow the example of the martyr of old. St. George of England.

Archdeacon Dumbrille, who con- ducted the service, offered special prayers for the youth of the Empire, those who are serving at home and abroad in the army, the navy and the air force. Mr. Albert Hill road the lesson.

A Correction

In the sub-heading of the article in last week's "Beaver" about the W. M. S. Provincial, the statement was made in error that Mrs. F. L. Hooper was re-elected president of the Association.

Mrs. S. W. Spafford, of Trenton, R.R. 5, is the new president of the Presbyterial and Mrs. Hooper is the past-president.

DRASTIC CURBS ON TIRES LOOM

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Alan H. William- son, supplies controller, is drafting new regulations for restriction of dealings in tires and tubes, "more drastic than any previous tire regula- tions," the Munitions and Supply De- partment said, recently.

The aim, said a department state- ment, is to provide sufficient tires and tubes for vehicle owners whose needs are vital to the war program.

The regulations will not call for commandeering of tires and tubes from non-essential cars, it said, but "cannot Mr. Williamson as saying: 'We cannot rule out the possibili- ty that this step may be necessary in the future but we would not take such a step except as a last resort. If tires were seized today they could not be used immediately by the really essential vehicle owners, and would have to be stored away.

Tires not properly stored deter- iorate almost as rapidly as tires in moderate use, so no good purpose would have been served by the seiz- ure.

The Controller said tires with very little mileage left in them will still be salvageable, even if they remain in use.

For two or more decades this con- tinent has been rolling on rubber, Mr. Williamson said, and "it is vir- tually impossible, and certainly not efficient, to fall back on a more pri- mitive means of transportation when the need for getting about with a reasonable degree of rapidity is greater than ever before.

"So that our tempo may not be slowed down and so that still great- er pressure on our already over- burdened public transportation sys- tems may be avoided, as many cars as possible must be kept on the road," he added. "For his own sake, and for the sake of the war program, it is the duty of every motorist to con- serve his tires as long as possible."

SMALL FIRES LAST WEEK

The firemen were called Saturday morning to Alex. Navin's home, on Robert Street, where a chimney fire was reported. No damage was done to the house.

On Friday afternoon a grass fire was started at the C. N. R. stock- yard and the firemen were called to extinguish the blaze, which was rap- idly gaining headway, but was soon under control.

Good work was done with the new fire truck and pumper at the Lennox Lumber Company fire, on Wednes- day morning of last week. By using the new pumper on the truck, two streams of water were played on lumber piles and buildings holding stock and a good deal of valuable property was undoubtedly saved.

The Oddfellows of the Napanee District sponsored a concert and out- tainment in the Napanee Town Hall last Saturday, in aid of the British War Victims Fund, from which the sum of $60 was realized and forwarded to Toronto.

During the afternoon the enter- tainment consisted of a showing of motion pictures which were in charge of members of the staff of the Tor- onto Evening Telegram. At the even- ing performance, more pictures were shown. Musical numbers were given by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Case and Mr. Fred McPherson, of Wilton, gave a demonstration of cartoon work. Mr. H. E. Follis played several piano numbers before the program started.

Dr. D. R. Hall, mayor of Napanee, was chairman. He extended a wel- come to those attending the concert and spoke of the great need for rais- ing money for the Fund. Before the close of the evening performance, Mr. Fred McPherson expressed ap- preciation of the services of all who had contributed to the success of the event.

The lodges of Napanee assumed the responsibility of paying the ex- penses, so the proceeds were ent- irely clear.

RAIDS AND FRENCH THREAT OF REVOLT WORRYING HITLER

BY LOUIS F. KEEMIE

The combination of the British air offensive in Western Europe and the spreading spirit of revolt in France are becoming increasingly important in the war against Hitler as the former prepares for the Su- preme test in Russia.

The Russian campaign entered its eleventh week today with the in- itiative still in the hands of the Russians, although there was some- thing of a lull in the fighting be- cause of weather conditions. Spring thaws have mired a large part of the battle front to such an extent that it appeared probable a general Ger- man offensive would not start for- about three weeks.

When it does start it is quite likely that the British will intensify their heavy air attacks on the occupied countries and the German industri- al region. The Commando raids are expected to be increased.

The primary aim in hitting on Hit- ler's nerves. Coupled with this is the terror in France, which has been intensified by Hitler's imposition of the Laval regime on its people.

The mounting toll of executions and threats which Hitler is out to crush the spirit of the French. But these ngerisals are likely to defeat their purpose and create a feeling of hope- less despair of ever being free again until Hitler is crushed. This condi- tion would make it necessary for Hitler not only to maintain all the armed forces he already has in France, but perhaps to increase them.

British aerial and land activity has the same effect. Most important for Russia is the number of combin- ed planes and pilots Hitler is compell- ed to keep in Western Europe and away from the Eastern front. Wheth- er Hitler has lost air superiority over Russia is only a matter of specula- tion, although the Russians say he has.

The point is, if Hitler starts his big offensive with an air force in- ferior to the Russians, he is under a severe handicap at the very be- ginning. It is a handicap that did not exist when Hitler made his crush- ing advances in the earlier months of the war.

Hitler's air losses in the winter campaign undoubtedly have been heavy, although there is nothing to base an estimate on except Russian figures. Germany has an article in the Moscow newspaper Krasnaia Zvezda by a Major General of Avi- ation, in which he says losses run- wards of 13,000 planes and 38,000 air personnel, an almost incredibly high figure. The same writer reports that young and inadequately trained pilots are replacing the skilled fliers which Hitler had at the start of the campaign.

Whatever the real situation, the air factor should play an important part in the spring campaign. With- out the industrial centres and which they had last year, Hitler's tanks and mobile units would be severely handicapped.

I.O.O.F. OBSERVES 123RD ANNIVERSARY BY CHURCH SERVICE

Attend Divine Worship Service in St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church

The 123rd anniversary of the found- ing of Oddfellowship in America was observed by the Oddfellows lodges of Napanee and the surrounding district in a service held in All in St. Mary Magdalene's Church, last Sunday morning. The Venerable Archdeacon T. R. J. Dumbrille, rector of the church, preached a sermon based on the text: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neigh- bor as thyself."

There was a large attendance of members of the lodges, Archdeacon Dumbrille said he would speak as an outsider looking in on the activ- ities of the Oddfellows Order and would try to say something by way of encouragement. He said that the I. O. O. F. is not a political or a commercial organization, but a phil- anthropic and fraternal society, with the object of helping the afflicted and distressed.

It is a most Christian work the Oddfellows Order is engaged in. But Christianity, he said, has no monop- oly on philanthropy. Throughout the ages there have always been some people who loved and served their fellow men, but it remained for Christ to give the best example of brotherly love.

The ancient idea held by many was to love one's friends and hate one's enemies. But Christ said "Do good to them that despitefully use you." He himself went about doing good to many who were his enemies. He helped many unattractive people — beggars, lepers and outcasts. As a result of Christ's teaching, many agencies have been set up for the alleviation of hardships and the burden of life. This kind of philan- thropy finds, to-day, its widest scope for the war has created much suf- fering and distress. "We can all be Oddfellows," Mr. Dumbrille said, "in deeds, if not in name."

There is another kind of love than love for our fellow men, Mr. Dum- brille said. It is the love of God, which is not a natural love, as is the love for our fellow men. It requires thoughtfulness to love God. It should not be so, but it is a fact that it is. Not everyone can say, "I love God." We do not naturally love God, be- cause we have a misconception of the character of God, due to false in- struction. There is a feeling that God is a God of justice, but it is not generally believed that He is as well a God of Love. It was for the purpose of showing God in His true light that Jesus came. It is im- possible, if we realise that God is like Jesus, not to love God. It should be our first duty to love God. If we do love Him, we show our love by our obedience to Him. If we love Him and obey Him, we love our fel- low men and do whatever we can to relieve their distress and help them in times of trouble.

G. H. CHALLIES SPEAKS TO LIONS CLUB ON WATERWAYS PROJECT

Points Out Advantages Especially for Ontario

Mr G. H. Challies, M. L. A. for Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry, Provincial Secretary in the Henry Government, spoke at the Monday evening meeting of the Napanee Lions Club on the proposed St. Law- rence-Great Lakes Seaway. The pres- ident of the club, G. F. Smith, pre- sided. Mr. Challies was introduced by Bert Seymour and George Dale expressed the appreciation of the club to Mr. Challies. Guests in- cluded several members of the Rotary Club.

W. E. Milton, a member of the Kingston Lions Club, district repre- sentative of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, was also pre- sent at the meeting, speaking in the interests of the Tag Day and cam- paign for funds for the Institute, which is being carried on in Nap- anee and the County, this week.

Mr. Challies said that plans have been periodically under considera- tion for the construction of a deep, ocean waterway between the Atlantic and the Great Lakes. Such projects have been considered by Canada alone, by the United States alone and jointly by the two countries. Alternate routes suggested have been by the Ottawa River, by the Great Lakes across New York State to the Hudson River and the Lower Lakes, and the St. Lawrence. It is the latter plan which is now before the Governments of Canada and the United States and is the one in which Ontario is vitally interested.

At the present time a boat with a 14 ft. draft may travel westward to the head of Lake Superior, a dist- ance of 2,600 miles from the Atlantic. In order to convert this route to make it possible for boats of 25 ft. draft to navigate, it would take less than 25 miles of channel improvement after power projects are completed.

Examination of the project's ocean-going freight ships of the principal nations of the world in De- cember 1939, indicated that 70.91 per cent of the vessels and 59 per cent of the gross tons were in the group with 25 feet or less draft. Of the freight ships under U. S. registry, 64.71 per cent of the vessels and 53.8 per cent of the tonnage are in this category. If the deep sea water- way is constructed there is no claim, for the reason why it should not be used a good part of the year and a large part of the cargo ships of the world will be able to navigate the seaways.

With the advent of this develop- ment, the industrial centres will grow up and great terminal ports will accept goods from the world markets coming in unbroken cargoes. "Eastern Ontario" said Mr. Challies "should become the Ruhr Valley of the Dominion."

Speaking of the potential power development resulting, Mr. Challies said that in the International sec- tion, there would be available for Ontario 1,200,000 H.P. and a like amount on the United States shore. Provincial Electrician Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is saying that it would cost one-fourth mill per kilowatt hour to transmit 100 miles, nine-tenths of a mill per kilo- watt hour for 200 miles and one mill per kilowatt hour for 300 miles. Thus 85 per cent of power can be transmitted on a 300-mile radius for less than 4 mills per kilowatt hour.

The estimated cost of the project to Canada is $144,425,000 and to the United States $250,000,000.

In his address, Mr. Challies said it was certain that the 1932 agreement would be implemented for if it itself proved to have been available for the present purpose. One does not need to be an engineer to visualize what this would mean to Canada, Ontario and especially to Eastern Ontario.

Lightning Destroys Barn Near Moscow

A terrific electric storm struck the Moscow district early Saturday morn- ing, about 4 o'clock, when the barn owned by Mr. Stanley Sautner and Sons was destroyed by light- ning.

Mr. Sautner only recently removed from Western Canada and purchased the farm on the 2nd line, which is located in the Township of Port- land. There was no live stock in the building at the time of the fire and the greater part of the barn was in season and full of farm machinery.

Neighbors were on hand and as- sisted in preventing the fire from spreading to the house, which is close by. There was no insurance.

SMALL MARKET ON SATURDAY

Only a small amount of farm pro- duce was offered for sale on the Napanee Market on Saturday, the farmers' stalls for sale and the price range was from $12 to $25 per pair, depending on the size.

Eggs were selling at 30c and 35c dozen, and potatoes at $1.75 bag.

THE VOTE

As was to be expected, the Dominion, on Monday, released the Government from its pre-election pledges. From now on the present Government will have no excuse to offer for lack of vigor in prosecution of every phase of the war effort. The country has twice spoken on the subject, and if there were any restrictions on its efforts due to pre-election pledges, they are removed and the people desire that the full weight of the financial and man-power of the nation should be exerted to the winning of the war. We do not mean, by this, that much has not already been done. When the history of the past two years of our Canadian life is written, it may well be shown that we have achieved results in organization, manufacturing, enlistments, and finances, that a few years ago would have been deemed absolutely impossible. Canada has done a good job, but it is capable of doing more, and the people have turned on the green light. It is up to the Government to step on the accelerator.

It would be an unfortunate thing if the Government should interpret this vote simply as a sanction of the policy of conscription of man power for overseas service. That is not enough. If Canada is to pull her full weight, then some sort of selective service should be worked out. It would be short-sighted, indeed, if the Government should simply conscript men for overseas service and neglect the service which men in all walks of life can render the State. Many people would feel much better in their present occupation if they had the assurance of the Government that, by continuing there, they are rendering the best of which they are capable for the national effort.

Then, too, industry and finance should be brought more definitely under the control of the Government. There are those businesses, prospering by the wartime boom, which are using up their funds in ways that are, to say the least, questionable. Some are paying back dividends, dividends that were held-up during the depression. That might be permissible if, at the same time the Government received its 75 per cent. of them in excess profits. Others are clearing off debentures long before they become due, in an endeavor to use up profits and get rid of surpluses. Much more vigilance must be exercised in this area.

The green light does not mean that only young men are to be conscripted. If it means anything, it means that Canada must demand one hundred per cent from manpower and from finance, to the winning of the war.

What does the vote in Quebec signify? It brands our French-Canadian fellow-citizens as selfish isolationists. They were warned by Chief Justice Saint Laurent, before the vote, that the dream of a French State on the banks of the St. Lawrence, must be forgotten. Quebec is a sad plight. France is now collaborating with our enemies. Whatever ties Quebec had with France are all but severed. Quebec wants to live to herself. That, as the situation in Belgium, Holland and the other occupied countries makes clear, is impossible. French-Canada must become British to survive, and the quicker they and the Roman Catholic Church learns that, the better for themselves and all concerned. Whether she likes it or not, French-Canada must bear her share of the responsibilities, as well as share the privileges of membership in the Dominion.

V

WE MEAN BUSINESS

Mr. E. B. Jolliffe, the newly-elected 33-year-old leader of the Ontario Canadian Commonwealth Federation, has lost no time in making the position of his party, clear. Speaking at Vaughan Road Collegiate Institute on Friday, he said his party was out to drive the Hepburn Government from office. "It is up to us," he said, "to see that the Hepburn Government does not die of old age. The Conservative Government did not die of malnutrition, it died of old age," said Mr. Jolliffe. "But we are not going into provincial politics to carry on a party scrap; we are going into the field with a programme carefully thought out—we mean business!"

These are significant words. The older parties would do well to heed them. Recently, the action of Colonel Drew, in connection with the gambling situation, shows that the Conservative Party has power, if it wishes to use it. But, too often, the distinctive feature of Conservatism and Liberalism has been lost in the struggle for office. It has been a case of one in and the other out, there has been little to choose between them in the way of policy. Now is the time for the Conservative Party to draw up a vigorous progressive platform, and stake its future on that. Only by so doing will it meet the need of the new day and merit the confidence of its supporters.

NOT OVER IT YET

Japan has not recovered, yet, from the unexpected and altogether unlooked for bombing of the Nipponese industrial centres of Yokohama, Nagoya, and Kobe. The Japanese seem to have been stunned by the suddenness of the blow. At first they passed it off as a minor event, and then they admitted heavy losses in property and life. The head of the Home Defence, Lieut.-General Akira Muto was discharged, and precautions were taken to minimize the effect of future bombings.

Several results are noticeable from this bombing. Japan was not ready. The Japanese had supposed they were secure in their island home; but they have now learned that, like Chungking, London, and Germany, no nation is immune from attack. This may cause the Japanese to revise their whole policy of war. Japan is a very densely populated place. The cities, apart from the downtown sections, which are much like those in Ontario and Quebec, are made up of small, flimsily-built houses. These could not possibly withstand a bombing raid; if the raid was very severe they would burn like so much timber. The Japanese know that, but the possibility of a bombing raid on their country was never taken too seriously. They planned their strategy around attack and not defence, and now they have discovered that their cities are vulnerable and they may have to alter their whole war strategy. This will naturally tend to weaken their expeditionary forces. If Japan is, itself, open to attack and the lines of communication threatened, it will be necessary for the Japanese to go a bit easy in extending its offense and leaving its rear insufficiently protected.

Then, too, the effect of bombing Japan has had a marked influence on the morale of other peoples in the East. In the East, the Japanese have a reputation like the Germans in the West—the myth of invincibility—and now that that has been punctured, there is great rejoicing in China and among those who have suffered from Japan's ambitions. The bombing of Japan may well signify a turning point in the operations in the East.

There is no doubt similar and perhaps more devastating attacks are being planned, and with each successive attack, the Japanese effort and influence will be weakened and that of their enemies proportionately heightened.

ANOTHER FRONT

There is much discussion about another front. It is not hard to understand why this should be. A fundamental German policy developed out of the experience of the First World War, is that Germany would never fight on two major fronts again. Hitler's strategy has been to bring the whole force of the German military might against one nation at a time. The policy succeeded until the Germans came into conflict with the Russians. There they were unable to conquer these new dynamic peoples from the U.S.S.R. Not only were the German forces halted, but they were forced to surrender the military initiative to the Russians. This, combined with a severe winter, for which the Nazis were not prepared, has completely changed the picture.

Now there is much talk of another front. Lord Beaverbrook has come out, openly, pressing on Britain the necessity of opening a front in France so as to divide the Nazi forces. There has been a lot of running back and forth between Britain and the United States, recently. American troops are in Ireland. American aeroplanes are being delivered to Britain in ever-increasing numbers. Germany is being unmercifully bombed by the R. A. F. The Commandos are raiding the coasts of France, repeatedly. All this might be taken as an evidence that the Allies intend to open the new front.

On the other hand, it is difficult to know how much of this is part of a war of nerves. Britain has learned a lot from Germany, and it may be that all this debate, all this show of aggression is designed to keep the Germans guessing, thus causing them to withdraw troops and air forces from Russia, to meet a threat from several quarters at the same time. If this is what is planned, it seems to be having some effect, for Hitler is taking extra care to see that the Western Army is well-manned and well-officered.

But, it must never be supposed that the Germans have abandoned either their fundamental policy of "one at a time" with no two fronts. The Allies, who have made many mistakes in this war, should not make the mistake of overlooking this fact, and it may be that Germany, in the pursuance of this, will suddenly spring a surprise by seeking a knock-out blow in the West, instead of in the East. There are evidences that this may be the German grand strategy. The German Fleet now a formidable one, is at Trondheim. Hitler has appointed one of his most capable generals in charge of operations in the West, in the person of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt. Hitler has succeeded in getting Laval, pro-German French leader, appointed as heac of the Vichy Government. Whether all this is a precaution against an Allied effort to open a new front or a German plan for springing an all - out attack on Britain and on the British Navy at the same time, only the unfolding events will reveal.

Parcels From Canada "Godsend" Say Prisoners

(BY JOSEPH M. LEVY)

(Copyright)

Released by Canadian Newspapers through Canadian Red Cross Society by courtesy of The New York Times and The Toronto Globe and Mail.)

Cairo, April 12. — Still not quite over that "back-from-the-dead" feeling, British prisoners who have arrived in Egypt from Italy in the first contingent under the new exchange plan sat on hospital cots and told how it felt to be day after day in a prisoners-of-war camp after having plenty to eat, no touch with relatives and friends, with no hope of anything different in the near future.

They also tried to tell how it felt to "come back" again. But their words failed them. "God, it's great!" was about the best that they could muster.

They arrived at Cairo yesterday, after having travelled from Italy via Sunderland where they left the Italian vessel and boarded the British ship Llandover Castle. A group of Italians who left Alexandria a little more than a week ago figured in the exchange at Smyrna.

"One of the nicest things about getting back is having access to news that hasn't come through in the Italian papers," a British prisoner said.

"In the big camp at Sulmona, where we stayed, prisoners translated Italian newspapers into English and published their own news bulletin.

"But we had to get our news by reading between the lines," he explained.

The former prisoners of war have now discovered, to their amusement, that the Italian newspapers have been praising 'the terrific resistance of our heroic troops in East Africa' three months after Gondar, the last Italian stronghold in Ethiopia fell.

Some Italian soldiers were decent about the camps had been in the United States, but had been deported or had been conscripted while home on visits.

"They could speak English, and most of them were quite kind," one Briton said. "I gathered that none of them thought much of the war."

Several prisoners said that Canadians ought to be told how much their Red Cross parcels had helped. Although there were at first many difficulties in reaching the prisoners, and although some men heard nothing for months, the Red Cross letters and parcels came frequently and were a godsend.

"I don't know what we'd have done without those parcels," one sergeant said.

One difficulty was that the Italians, having heard that the prisoners were trying to build up a food reserve, punctured all tinned goods before they distributed the Red Cross parcels. The contents were still usable however, if eaten before the hot climate did its work.

Men complained from parcels included playing cards and technical books. Novels usually got through. The men spent most of their time in reading or playing cards with those decks that they managed to obtain.

The Sulmona Camps, eighty miles east of Rome, where most of these men had been imprisoned, was built during the last days of the first war. It consists of brick huts. Eighty men were kept in each hut. Daily issues included two meals, five cigarets and one loaf. Cash payments were not always prompt.

Except for two musters a day the men had little to do. The Germans in Libya do everything possible to induce men to work, but the Italians use only volunteers. Prisoners who had been teachers before the war gave lessons in French and Italian and in subjects such as wireless, but lack of technical books was a great handicap.

"It was bearable, but we're certainly glad to be out." That is the consensus of "the men who came back."

V

THE RELIGIONS, CASTES AND SECTS OF INDIA

THE HINDUS. This is by far the largest religious community in India, totalling nearly 256 million members of the population. Originally Hindustan, one of the world's oldest faiths, had only four castes—the Brahmin (priest), the Kshatriya (soldier), the Vaisya (merchant), and the Sudra (laborer). But in the course of centuries, the main castes and sub-castes now number nearly 3,000. The members of a caste, if they are strictly orthodox, cannot intermarry or even eat with those outside their own caste. But most numerous are the depressed classes, who are without caste, the untouchables who total 40 million and are not permitted to engage in any but the lowliest tasks, such as work in the leather tanneries, removal of garbage, etc. and whose very shadows must not fall on the food of caste Hindus. In Madras there are 6,000,000 of them—enough to be the most powerful group in the political life of the province.

For the Hindu, broadly speaking, his log is fixed by birth. Strictly speaking, he may not rise from a lower caste to a higher, but may look forward to being re-born in a higher caste as a reward for good deeds in his present life. Some movement from one caste to another is now in fact take place in exceptional.

There are millions of Hindu gods, all regarded as different manifestations of the one Divine Spirit. Some of the Hindu sects such as the Sikhs, are racial groups with their own special rites and variations of belief. There is even one sect called the Nikkel Sen, which reveres theopirit of the British 19th Century General Nicholson, whose bravery and martial skill is considered to have been more than normal.

The Moslems, second largest religious community in India, embracing about 88 million persons, form the majorities of the populations of the British Indian Provinces of Bengal, North West Frontier, Punjab and Sind, as well as in several of the Indian States ruled by Indian Princes. There are also large communities of the Moslems in practically every other province and state. Their fearlessness as fighters is attributed largely to their belief in Kismet — or fate — the doctrine that every man's life is predestined by God. From this belief it is argued that if one is destined to die, then holding back from battle will be of no use.

The Buddhists include only about 400,000 people in India, most of them in Burma and Ceylon. This religion is away from Hinduism and its founder, Gautama Buddha, was probably the first to preach the good Samaritan and British democratic doctrine "all men are born equal."

The Jains, who number about one and a quarter million, are closely akin to the Hindus. In fact, Brahmin priests frequently officiate at their ceremonies. They are largely of the Bunnia (trading) class, and are to be found chiefly in Bombay. They are the most extreme of vegetarians, even plants in which insects may be living a road to avoid treading on insects.

The Parsis. This comparatively small group of 110,000 Indians, usually found in such cities as Poona, Bombay and Karachi, are of Persian descents, descendants of Persian immigrants. Theirs is the religion of Zoroaster and they are commonly but erroneously thought to be sun worshippers. Sun and fire are regarded as the visible emblems of their Supreme God, who has neither face, form, color, nor shape, being beyond the comprehension of mortal man. The Parsis are mostly engaged in business or the learned professions, rarely in agriculture. There are many of them serving as medical officers in the British Army.

The Parsis are the entrepreneurs of business. The Tata family, for example, are Parsis. The Bombay Burma Trading Corporation and Steel Company which owns the largest single plant of its kind in the British Empire, is Parsis are largely responsible for the fact that India is the seventh industrial nation of the world.

The Sikhs, of which there are over five and a half millions, are also a sect of Hindustan. Most of them live in the Punjab, Sind and the North West Frontier Province. There are several subsects within their sect.

The Singhs (Lions), a sect of soldiers are famous for their proud martial spirit. Nearly every Singh Sikh is the son of a Singh, but no man is born a Singh. He must be initiated into the faith with the special rites and ceremonies of their sect.

All Sikhs are fighting men, with a love of military life and of drill. Regiments are their pride of the Indian Army and Sikh soldiers are to be found among the pathans of the North West Frontier who claim to be Jewish by race, but are Moslems by religion.

The Animists. In addition to the main religions there are scores of lesser creeds. Important among them is the group of tribal religions, adhered to by over twenty-four million people, scientifically known as Animistic. These primitive beliefs, based on the fear of the forces of nature, are to be found among the primitive tribes of the jungle.

LEAKS IN LIFEBOATS

Ships' crews and passengers cast away upon the high seas need no longer be kept constantly at work bailing out with anything from buckets or tins to hats to keep their splintered and bullet-riddled boats from being swamped. A new plugging compound which completely fills any hole or crack, however irregular, is now available for every lifeboat in Britain's Merchant Service. The compound, a fibrous material, has only to be kneaded for a minute or two to plug up the leak and make the boat seaworthy. It has a binding effect, setting and hardening in water.

First experiments with the material were carried out by knocking a hole in a large barrel filled with salt water. The leakage was stopped at once. A "Saving Life at Sea" display now touring many big English towns includes eight model lifeboats and a glass tank filled with water in which the public tests the new compound by making holes in the models and plugging them up.

Britain's Ministry of War Transport and the Admiralty have both approved this device as a temporary repair compound for use in the temporary zone. Tests are at present being carried out by the Royal Engineers, as the compound may be useful for bridging establishments and pontoons.

TEN POUNDS OF FRUIT From One Tomato Plant Grown Without Soil

To increase the war supply of fresh vegetables, people in Britain are trying out hydroponics, or the science of growing plants in water containing chemical food.

Several experiments have been carried out by British scientists with various systems of water culture. One method is to suspend the plants in a wire tray over a tank containing the nutrient solution, into which the roots drop. In other systems which have yielded good results plants are grown in sand, gravel or clean cinders to which the nutrient solution is applied.

The simplest method of all is the "hand-watering" system which requires no special equipment. All is needed is a barrel for the solution, administered by an ordinary water-can in measured amounts. Plants grown in pure-washed sand in pots or well-drained beds, in serious experiments both outdoors and under glass have been found to flourish, and with this technique no difficulty is found in getting from 8 to 10 pounds of tomatoes per plant. Similarly heavy yields of carrots, turnips, lettuce, beetroot, and other crops have been obtained.

It is now simple enough to get the right amount of plant food and any intelligent amateur can prepare nutrient solutions from pure chemicals or from fertilizers and high-grade Epsom salts, provided he keeps exactly the quantities specified for the mixture.

V

BLIND WAR WORKERS

Government offices in London are now employing blind stenographers and typists. They take down shorthand on machine-like devices and put the characters on long strips of paper. These notes are then transcribed on the typewriter by the blind. All told, there are already several hundred blind stenographers and typists at work in Britain, most of them with Local Authorities and in the country.

Some two hundred and fifty others have been trained as basket-makers, and a number of them are employed by the Ministry of Labor, the Air Ministry and by private firms.

In several cities throughout the country, 1,750 blind men and women are turning out rope in workshops and factories big quantities of which are going to help the war effort. Baskets are of many sizes and shapes, ranging from Red Cross, hospitals, and Air Raid Precaution services.

Britain's Ministry of Supply has given a good deal of work to the blind, including contracts for thousands of special baskets for carrying bottles of chemicals and acids. Brushes and brooms are also being made too.

V

FACTORY CONVERSION

During the past six months more than 4,000 factories have been changed over to war work. A number of square feet of floor space to suit manufacturing processes or to engage purposes. Carpets, canvas, jerry glass, gloves, hosiery, leather, pottery, toilet preparations and dried vegetables, furs and woolens have been among industries which have practically or frequently been made. Big change-overs have been very rare and in what was a boot and shoe factory, Air-engine parts are now made in the same machines as the manufacturer of cups is now producing airplane parts.

However, out of the 50,000 square feet of floor space is being used production two-thirds of it has been changed over and more is being emergency production, where part stand ready to swim into use if and ready to carry on emergency arises. In some cases, factories are held ready for the installation of machinery from bombed plants, so that production can be carried on with no delay.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MAY 3RD, 1942

Mark 11: 1-11; Luke 19: 41-44

"THE DAY OF ACCLAIM"

In this lesson, we begin a study of the events of the last week of our Lord's Life. It is often called Passion Week. Perhaps more accurately it is known as Holy Week. We have passed the Passion Week in our church calendar, and it might be well, therefore, if these lessons were clipped and filed, as they give the day by day events in the life of our Lord's most important last week on earth.

Jesus knew himself to be the Messiah. He desired that his proclamation of that claim should conform, as far as possible, with the prophecies of the Old Testamnt, concerning the coming of the Messiah, and so he enacts the scene described in Zechariah 9. 9. It is significant that Jesus thus grounded this important event on history. Jesus knew His history and He rooted His own ministry in it. That is something we have to learn all over again. Indeed it is something we are learning through the sad and terrifying experiences of war. The teaching of history is plain: Righteousness exalteth a nation. Nations grow wealthy and think themselves self-sufficient. They disregard the laws of God. They disregard the clear teaching of history. The result is that the lessons so often taught have to be learned over again. In this, nations are like individuals. Children refuse the voice of experience and so often have to learn for themselves and often at great cost, what they might easily enough have found out from those who had gone the way before. History can only be disregarded at great national and individual peril.

Jesus then getting a colt, rode into the city. It was Passover time. The city was crowded with people. They had come up to Jerusalem to observe the feast. These great religious observances played a very important part in the life of the average Jew. As a matter of fact, it was the duty that they go to Jerusalem once a year for taxation purposes. And doubtless, most all the people in it went at Passover time. It was a great get-together, when people who had not been friends and relatives for a year were reunited in a great week of services, centering around the Church. To this crowded city Jesus came. The people acclaimed Him with demonstrations of enthusiasm and loyalty. They threw their garments on the ground for Him to ride over, they waved branches of palm trees and singing as they accompanied Him through the crowded, narrow streets to the temple.

As Jesus looked out over the city before He entered it, He wept. He wept in sorrow and tragic but recorded history and indeed compassion for the future of the city. He saw the inevitability of their woe. He saw that much of what they had done was but tinsel and—and He wept. A city is a human personality, as well as a place, at its best. The modern city is no exception.

If Jesus wept over Jerusalem, may we not legitimately and properly over the garish life of our so modern, up-to-date society? Jesus knew that change as person come changed, and moved to the life of Him who is the Shepherd of Souls.

Jesus went into the temple and looked around. It is not the last lesson that He was to cast out the changers. Other gospels record it. Sufficient for us here to note that He went about to the church and observing all, left. This Palm Sunday lesson is quite clear and Jesus proclaimed His messiahship was received with much popular acclaim. When He reached the city the crowd had dwindled. When He left He had only His twelve with Him. The crowd which had met Him as He entered, deserted Him. He left. On Friday, only four of the twelve were with Him during His death. That is the way of it. They are fickle. We are no different. Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord," and then crying "Crucify Him." The Palm Sunday crowd met every week in lesson and study it, will be sorry much about their judgment in our own way, each has to be option of our fellows. We have to be popular; we do not the community think well of there is always present the temptation to pay too big a price for popularity. Many and many a life has denied his conscience and betrayed his best judgment for the "set" or the "gang" or "group," only to discover that they were not worth the price. Let it follows, as the day, thou canst not false to any man."

MARLBANK

Marlbank, April 25. — Mr. Oscar Asselstine passed away at his home in this village on April 11th, at the ripe old age of 85 years and 4 months. The deceased had been ailing for some time, but was only confined to his bed a few weeks prior to his death. He was tenderly cared for by his devoted daughter, Mrs. Ida McLaughlin, who has resided with her father for a number of years. The funeral was held from the residence to the United Church on Monday, and was largely attended. The service was in charge of Rev. W. H. Truscott, assisted by Rev. J. Whyte, of Verona, a former pastor on this charge about 47 years ago. Rev. Mr. Whyte read the text, chosen by the deceased, from Kings II., also a portion of the II Corinthians, and delivered a comforting address to the bereaved family. The hymns also had been chosen by the deceased, and were "Pass Me Not O Gentle Saviour", "Rock of Ages", and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus". A beautiful solo was rendered by Mr. Wartman, accompanied by Mrs. Chas. Kimmett, of Roblin, at the organ. After the service the remains were conveyed to the Asselstine burying ground. The pallbearers were grandsons of the deceased, namely, Aubrey, Oscar, Bruce and Bert Asselstine, Frank McLaughlin and John Kimmett. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. I. McLaughlin and Miss Kathryn Asselstine, of Windsor, and three sons, Dr. Stanley Asselstine, of Windsor, and Fred, W. and W. O., Marlbank

The meeting of the W. A. was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. O. Asselstine, and was in charge of the President, Mrs. Stout. The meeting was opened by a hymn. The theme was "Easter and Its Meaning." The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Burd, who also led in prayer, followed by three sentence prayers by Mrs. R. Asselstine, Mrs. W. Lewis and Mrs. Badgley. Another hymn was sung. The program consisted of a solo by Mildred Marlin, a reading by Jean Beckwith, after which a sale of plants and seeds was conducted, from which the sum of $2.16 was raised. Birthday money etc., and lunch money $2.70. In the absence of the Secretary, the minutes and roll call were read by Mrs. R. Asselstine. A letter of appreciation was read by the President from Mrs. M. F. Beckwith for the lovely plants, also cards and letters received while ill in hospital. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which a contest was enjoyed. Mildred Marlin won the prize. A delightful lunch was served by the committee in charge.

At the Red Cross meeting on Thursday nine boxes were packed for boys overseas. The entire contents were donated. A small attendance was noted, owing to the busy season, and we hope for a full attendance next week. A variety sale will be held in aid of the Red Cross. The next meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. M. Brown, who read the prayer, and discussed several items of business. The Secretary was asked to write a letter of acknowledgment to Dr. S. Asselstine and sister, Miss Kathryn, for their generous gift of $5.00 each to the funds of the Red Cross here, which is greatly appreciated. A letter is also to be written to the mother of the L.O.L. asking for the use of the hall for a social evening in May.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Marlin are moving to their home here in the village, after an absence of some years on their farm near Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Young and family, who have been occupying Mr. Marlin's house, are moving in the C. N. R. station here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Somers, of Toronto, spent a couple of days here with his mother, Mrs. Rilla Mowers.

Vitamins From Blue Beach Gad Effective In Early School Days

BY W. H. JOHNSTON

Early school life in the old school house days in Western Ontario has often been told but to few has the power been given to describe it so graphically and humorously as to Gavin Hamilton Green in his popular book, "The Old School," published in Goderich by The Signal-Star Press.

The author, in plain catchy phrases, writes of conditions and happenings in connection with the children in those days in the woods, seventy to eighty years ago, when he was a very much alive youngster. Here are a few of his sentences:

"I went to school in those good old days when A B C was A B C and f-a-t-h-e-r was 'father' not 'fother'; when girls and boys when barefoot to school; when girls dressed in wincey and print in summer and homespun dresses ornamented with a few rows of cloth braid in winter. Boys wore duck trousers and factory-cotton shirts in summer and a suit of home-spun full cloth in winter, shoes with copper toes or long boots with red tops.

"Our dinners were mostly bread and treacle, with butter on special days. Pies, cakes, apples etc., were luxuries. A boy with an apple could do a brisk trade at so much a bite if he felt so inclined. If he hogged the apple he generally gave the core to his chum. Boys smoked elm roots for cigars. A boy who could sport a clay pipe smoked mullein leaves. Tims did he lord it over the elm rooters. In those good old days we chewed one another's gum. This was before the microbe appeared on the scene. All the 'microbes' I knew in those days, were the little fellows our mothers combed out of our heads with a fine-tooth comb every morning before we went to school. Those she didn't get were like Mary's little lamb and went with us to school although it was against the rule.

"If there were other microbes then that tried to live inside of us they had a hard row to hoe, considering the doctoring that we had to take of a mixture of sulphur and black-strap molasses. Every springtime our mothers started to dope us as soon as the buds came on the trees, staying on the job until the blossoms fell off. The dose was a tablespoon every morning with a teacup of salts as a chaser or a cup of senna on going to bed. We survived but the poor microbes must have returned to earth in a hurry if they ever existed. However, I never saw them or heard of them in my boyhood days.

"And when they talk of your vitamins A B C today when the school children have to be babied up with pasteurized milk in school hours to keep up their vitamins A B C. In my school days we were turned out with a blue bench and to keep up our vitamins A B C I got my share of the blue bench vitamins in my school days as I went to seven different schools and fourteen different teachers. If there were other vitamins in those days besides those of the big blue bench gad variety we must have got them in our eats and drinks as nature provided them in the raw state, for I know we ate lots of raw eats, such as turnips, green apples, wild black cherries, beech leaves, sorrel, sour grass, slippery elm bark, chewed hemlock and cedar gum, plank buttermilk, skim milk, when we could get it; drank water out of creeks, ponds, ditches, swale holes or anywhere we sak water when we were thirsty. Whether there were vitamins or ditamins in these eats and drinks I know not but we flourished like a green bay tree and grew to be over six feet tall.

"Yes, those were the good old days of the blue beech gad and the rawhide whip. The belief was scriptural in the old log school that if you spared the rod you spoiled the child. If you were late for school you got a whipping. If you did not know your lesson you got another. Whatever school rule you broke you got a whipping and you generally got another when you reached home. In those days we took our whippings as a matter of course, but take it all in all, I think I would sooner take the whippings we got than do the homework of girls and boys of these enlightened days. We had no homework to do. Our school paraphernalia consisted of readers, copy books, bottle of ink, pen, slate and slate pencil. They always remained in the school; there was nothing to carry home. This left us free and easy if we wished to scrap on our way."

THE GOAT THAT SMOKED

Those who are experts in the realm of curious and unimportant knowledge may be able to tell why goats have frequently been adopted as mascots by armed forces units. The U. S. navy runs strong to the goat—mascot idea, and recently presented Lord Louis Mountbatten, head captain of the "Illustrious", with a goat. Mountbatten, who had had three or four ships shattered while he was flotilla destroyer leader, and had himself escaped scatheless, duly accepted the goat — and then promptly added his first "war wound." The goat bit him.

The Royal Air Force squadrons in England have been suffering from a plethora of pet mascots. The goats are usually found not to be appeasers. In some cases they have adopted their squadrons, and insist on an active service life, without the least intention of submitting to military discipline.

One goat chewed up almost every pom-metallic object at his pet station. He breakfasted one day on three respirators, complete with haversacks, then vanished. His record for chewing through his stake rope was four minutes, thirteen seconds. Members of his squadron kept a pool on his efforts. Another bearded rascal has been named William E. Goat. He has been a considerable license and takes more. He has mastered the knack of rearing on his hind legs and snatching cigarettes from smokers' mouths. Swallowing a lighted cigarette appears to cause no disaster.

HYDRO SERVICE Carries On!

"Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds." Herodotus.

● When there's a storm, most people seek shelter, but that is when Hydro is busiest. Between darkness and dawn come hours of rest and sleep, but, with Hydro, every hour begins a new day.

Light for homes, hospitals and factories—heat for blast furnaces—or to cook meals in your home—energy to turn thousands of motors in factories, mines, shipyards—this is the work of your Hydro.

Hydro is helping to shorten the war. Over 1,000,000 Hydro-electric horsepower is at work on war materials.

Let us all be thrifty in our use of Hydro. New war plants must be energized and existing plants are constantly being harnessed to the war effort. Let war needs come first.

AN APPEAL TO THE HOUSEWIFE

You can do so much to save electricity. Don't let the kettle over-boil. Watch the switches on your electric range—turn out all lights when not needed. Resolve to save some current every day to help Ontario's war industries.

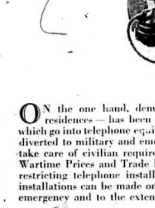
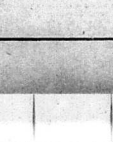
WAR does a PINCERS MOVEMENT on Telephones



On the one hand, demand for new telephone installations — especially in residences — has been greater than ever before. On the other, the materials which go into telephone equipment and the equipment itself have both been largely diverted to military and emergency use. Result: a serious shortage of facilities to take care of civilian requirements—of wire, cable, switchboards, instruments. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has charged us with the responsibility of rigidly restricting telephone installations. We have no alternative. From now on, new installations can be made only where they can be justified in the light of the war emergency and to the extent that facilities are available.

In appealing for your cooperation, we urge that you ask for a telephone only where such recognized essential service is involved. And to all telephone users, we again stress the need for consistent practice of "Wartime Telephone Tactics"—your contribution to keeping telephone lines clear for urgent war business.



WARTIME TELEPHONE TACTICS

- BE SURE you have the right number, consult the directory.
- BE BRIEF. Clear your line for the next call.
- SPEAK DISTINCTLY, directly into the mouthpiece.
- USE OFF-PEAK hours for Long Distance calls: before 9.30 a.m., 1-2 p.m., 5-7 p.m., after 9 p.m.

These things may look trifling, but on 6,500,000 daily telephone calls, they are very important.

BUSINESS COLLEGE CHAT

On Monday, April 27th, our duty is to vote — and to vote YES.

Our duties on other days are to train young people so that they can answer YES when asked if they can accept some responsibilities in a business office. Stenographers, clerks, typists, bookkeepers, and office machine operators are in great demand.

On April 20th, Members in the House of Commons at Ottawa were informed that 13,562 Civil Service office workers have been engaged since January 1, 1941. Of this total, 6,747 were grade 1; 6,629 were grade 2, and 186 were grade 3.

So great is the demand for skilled office workers, that business training colleges are experiencing difficulty in keeping their students until they have completed their courses.

Freda Montgomery, of Brinston, who completed her business training at our Summer Classes two years ago, is now employed in the Toronto offices of Richardsons, grain dealers.

Clorinthe Poland, R.N., a student of the 1941-1942 term, writes from her home in Prescott that she has taken an office position there.

Although it is advisable to start a business course at the beginning of a regular term, young people may enrol at any time which suits their convenience. Write, phone or call for complete information.

VOLUNTEER

The Irish are a surprising people. An American recently fell into conversation on the mail boat with a young Irishman who said, on being asked, that he "hated the English." The American suggested that they were at least preferable to Germans. The Irishman agreed. "Well, then," said the American, "you probably prefer a British victory?" "Yes," said the Irishman. "In that case it would be logical, would it not, to do something to help the British to win?" "Yes, I suppose so," came the reluctant answer. "Perhaps I should explain that I am myself a fighter pilot in the R.A.F. going home on leave."

The number of those in Eire who have voluntarily joined the British Forces is in fact extraordinary high — almost as high in proportion to population as the corresponding figures for Northern Ireland.

Among men and boys one in twenty-five is color-blind, but color-blindness is ten times as rare among women and girls.

WOMEN SHARE IN THE FIGHTING ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Moscow, (C.P.) — Women bomber and fighter pilots are playing an important part in Russia's air war against Germany.

"There is no differentiation between the sexes in the Soviet Union," said Valentina Grizodubova, 36-year-old mother, famous throughout Russia as a bomber pilot.

Valentina, attractive and very feminine, with curly dark hair, brown eyes, shapely mouth and dimples, began flying fourteen years ago. Her husband is a pilot, her father was a pilot, and her five-year-old son already has earned the nickname of "Little Falcon."

"I have bombed German communications and troops and I have been attacked in daylight by Nazi fighters, but came through safely, escorted by Soviet fighters", Valentina, who holds the rank of Major told British newspapermen, in an interview.

"I am a squadron leader, and I like heavy bombers — the heavier the type and the greater the range, the more I am pleased. I should like to fly one of your big four-engined bombers."

Valentina told how Soviet women fliers are playing a steadily increasing part in the air war. Scores of women are engaged in bomber operations — one 45-year-old woman is a navigator — and many more are fighter pilots. Some girls have been trained to fly Hurricanes.

"A friend of mine, Vera Lomako, who shot down one Nazi plane, was flying a month before the birth of her daughter and very soon afterwards shot down several more planes," Valentina said. "She is 21 and has the pilot's license."

Valentina scoffed at a suggestion women may not be as well suited for flying warplanes as men.

"In my experience girls make just as good pilots as men," she said. "You cannot judge by appearances. I know girls so quiet and apparently timid that they blush when spoken to, yet they pilot bombers over Germany without a qualm.

"Some of our girls have flown 1,000 hours. It makes no difference whether the crews are all men all women or mixed. I find that men have no objection to taking orders from women."

Not only in the air that Soviet women are sharing in the fighting. Valentina told of Scheitinina, a sea captain, who is tank commander, radio operators in submarines, and of thousands of women in the pioneer corps.

"I know girls who have taken part in the fiercest fighting of the war and who, coming home on leave, have changed into neat frocks," she said, "their hair brushed and combed, you would never dream that a few hours before they were in the fighting.

"No country at war, to-day, can afford to ignore the tremendous reservoir of power that exists in the passion and willingness with which women will fight Fascist murderers."

ONLY FEW CLASSES ELIGIBLE FOR TIRES

Under the influence of the critical rubber situation, offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board are receiving many enquiries from individuals who are apparently under the impression that their professions or business qualify them for permission to purchase new auto. mobile tires. The Board points out that actually only people belonging to a limited number of categories designated as essential are eligible for such a preference and that others need have no expectation of being able to obtain new tires after those with which their vehicles are now equipped have worn out.

WES. ALKENBRACK WRITES ABOUT LEAVE – IN YORK

Overseas with the Home Forces in England.
March 5th, 1942.

Dear Mother and All — Lots of mail to-day! A letter from you, one from Dad and Pat and one from Katherine and Bill Boyle and Pearl Clement. I'm so glad to know that dear old Dad is getting well recovering from his accident, so nicely. Isn't it splendid it was just one of God's own good miracles, that he was hurt no more. How happy we all are!

Your description of Christmas Day dinner moved me very deeply, mother —the tears came so that I couldn't read the letter and it all seemed as if I were at home again, and I could hear you speaking to me. All the dear old days when there was no trouble, and war passed before me—all somehow I never feel far from home. Be brave, mother, and always smile and never doubt the purpose that keeps me so far away. Do you remember a verse written by James Whitcomb Riley—

"Dear heart, forget the troubles
you have had,
All the heartache and the grief
that made you sad.
Banish all your many fears
Smile away the bitter tears,
And throughout the coming years
— Just be glad!"

Let's you and I remember that little poem, mother.

I was so glad to hear that Harbor Gunnell was able to spend Christmas with you. No doubt, he is often lonesome for home and Christmas at our place perhaps pictures him up more than anything else could. Just as Harbor said, we are never among strangers — I know, for I have seen some English hospitality. And now I must tell you all about it.

I've just returned from a week's leave which I spent in "Old York," and I had a really marvellous time! I was telling you that I had an invitation from a family there to spend a leave with them. Their name is Steele, and I met their daughter, Ethel, in Amherst, Nova Scotia. She was evacuated to Canada. After I arrived in England I wrote her a letter and she sent me her folks' address and asked me to write them. I did so and received an invitation to come up and see them. They are wonderful people and treated me like one of the family. I never saw such hospitality before, and it seemed they couldn't do enough for me. Mr. Steele is a business man and has a large hardware store in York. He is a typical Yorkshireman, Mrs. Steele is Scotch (and very Scotch). They have a very comfortable home. In fact, it seemed quite luxurious to me after months in barracks and huts. They have two daughters and one son. Four of the girls were evacuated to Canada. The one girl at home, Dorothy, is 21 and has been in service in the A.T.S. for two years. Their son, Bill, although he's only eight, sees in an officer in the Royal Marines, and has been all over the world. Strange enough, he had his leave at the same time as mine and it was very lucky for me because he took me around and showed me the city. We had a most splendid together. Of course, we "slept in" every morning! And then there's the English custom of tea when you get up in the morning. Mrs. Seale insisted on bringing us up a cup of tea when she woke us in the morning. Just imagine that!

I'll write you, mother, you wouldn't like that!!

She's a very busy woman. Shopping over here is an ordeal. Coupons for everything — food, clothing — even soap, and Mrs. Seale has to go down early every morning and get just whatever she can for her family. The Army supplied me with a ration card which I took with me, of course). That enables the people with whom you're staying to feed you. But the meals seemed awfully good to me. There was beef, mutton and always lots of Yorkshire pudding, and that Yorkshire pudding is really good! 'Tell Ted Roebuck he comes from a great country!)

And for tea (4:30 in the afternoon) we usually had fresh North Sea cod which I thought was very good. And lots and lots of tea, of course!

My, you'd like Mrs. Seales, mother. She's a real Scotch lady, with a brogue you'd recognize anywhere — very generous and anxious to make you feel at home. How I wish that you could meet her. Of course I told her all about my mother, and I told her, too, that she'd be hearing from you when you heard about the welcome she gave Parks of me.

York is the most interesting place I've seen over here. It is one of the old walled cities and the fortifications are well preserved and just as they were hundreds of years ago. To get into the main part of the city you still have to go through the original gates ("bars" they are called over there) of the city and are built around the walls. The cathedral, Yorkminster, is the most beautiful structure of all that I've seen, even more so than Westminster, in London. It is in perfect repair, a huge place and very old. The stained glass windows have been removed because of the danger from bombs, but will all be restored after the war. Did you know that Canada's own George Black Wolfe was born here? I saw his birthplace — the "Black Swan Inn." It is a typical Elizabeth, an house, with oak beams set into the plastered walls. It has a fine old staircase and the room in which Wolfe was born, has oak panelled walls that are black with age. You can imagine I felt quite thrilled I looked on this—the birthplace of the man who won Canada for England.

I also was in the tower where Dick Turpin, the famous English highway robber was tried and hung. The whole city is full of historic, thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth century houses. Of course, there is the Guildhall from which Clive of India set out and dozens of other merchant adventurers.

Bill took me to all these places and he saw to it that I saw everything. We visited all the antique shops, too, of which there are many. I sent along some literature on the city, books and pictures, etc. I hope you get them. There is so much of beauty in these old cities. How I wish I had more time to visit the places I want to see. Anyway, I had a wonderful leave with wonderful people, and I'm very happy.

I tried to be as little trouble to them as possible. It was tough to have to go back to the army again! When I left Mrs. Steele told me that "I was like one of her own family," and I guess the tears weren't far from my eyes. They want me to come back again and I certainly will. Please write her, mother, and add your thanks to mine for their kindness.

God bless you all and keep you safe.

NAPANEE Coal Prices on a Cash Basis

The Federal Coal Administrator is urging the Coal Trade and consuming public to start taking in as large a supply of coal as possible at an early date.

The War Time Prices and Trade Board has issued regulations governing prices and restraining credit to consumers.

In order to meet the wishes of the Government and in the best interests of both the Coal Trade and the Consumers it is considered that the fuel business should be placed on a strictly Cash Basis.

Therefore the Fuel Merchants of Napanee commencing Wednesday, April 22nd, are closing their books for credit and thereafter all fuel must be paid for in advance or paid for on delivery —There will be no exceptions to this rule.

KS CITY WORKERS FARM HARVEST

re is every indication that Ontario's workers will urgently require help from cities, towns and villages at harvest time if wartime labor is to be kept constantly moving," the United Kingdom, states P. During the past few weeks farmers will be working hours at high pressure together with the ground. Harvesting crop is a national problem which possible can be met only by help from cities and towns, Dewan pointed out that a of urban centres had already formed organizations to aid with their crops. similar organizations in all centres. Volunteers can then register with their local organization for harvest work on farms of friends or relatives, or go out in carloads of four or five to nearby farms. Local organizations already formed are co-operating with the Farm Service Force, Agricultural Representatives and Employment Agencies, Mr. Dewan declared.

No one could predict harvest weather. Heavy rains would add much difficulty. Properly harvested, crops mean just as much to urban dwellers as to farmers, for unharvested crops would mean a food shortage.

The best form of efficiency, said Mr. Dewan, is the spontaneous co-operation of a free people.

"BRING YOUR SUGAR" INVITATION SUGGESTS

The wording, "Bring your own sugar," attached to an invitation to the people of an Eastern Ontario Rural community to attend a recent banquet organized by the Regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board at Brockville, as a commendable attempt on the part of its sponsors to observe the sugar rationing regulations. It is pointed out, however, that those regulations permit the buying of sugar for church or community gatherings at which refreshments or meals are served in specified quantities, details of which are obtainable at any office of the Board.

Among a ton of wastepaper from Windsor Castle were menus of banquets in Queen Victoria's time.

GROCERY PRICE BOOSTS CURBED

Ottawa, (CP) — Price increases in groceries will not be permitted to result from a recent order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board basing maximum prices for certain grocery items on those established last June instead of the basic price ceiling period, September 15 to October 11, Price Commissioner Donald A. M. C. Camp Borden, Ont.

It said the recent order will not apply in exceptional cases where after June price may have been higher than that in the basic period.

The order required manufacturers of certain specified groceries to reduce their prices on and after April 13 to not more than the highest price charged during June, 1941. The intention was to keep replacement costs of wholesalers and retailers at reasonable levels having regard to their own maximum selling prices.

The present amendment is designed to ensure that prices are not in any case increased above those prevailing during the basic period. It applies the order immediately in each case where its effect would be to fix a manufacturer's maximum price at a higher level than that which existed prior to the effective date of the order.

At the same time soda biscuits, sweet biscuits, processed cheese, wax paper and toilet paper were removed from the list of groceries to which the order applies, and certain changes were made in the descriptions of several other items. The order is made, inapplicable to the distilled liquor because other arrangements have been made by the Board to adjust the "squeeze" on wholesalers and retailers.

WEDDING BELLS

WEESE - McCONNELL

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage, Enterprise, on Saturday, April 25, by the Rev. H. E. Prair, when Helen Marie only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McConnell, Roblin, became the bride of LaVerne Calvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weese, of Centreville.

The bride wore a street-length dress of powder blue crepe with matching accessories, and a corsage of white carnations. She was attended by Miss Florabelle Weese, sister of the groom, who wore a street length dress of rose crepe, with corsage of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by Mr. William C. McConnell, brother of the bride.

The wedding party returned to the home of the bride's parents, where a buffet luncheon was served to immediate luncheon of both families.

Later the happy couple left on a wedding trip to Toronto and other points, amid showers of confetti and best wishes.

For travelling the bride chose a frock of rose printed crepe, beige English tweed coat with brown accessories.

Upon their return they will reside at Centreville, where the groom is a prosperous young farmer.

The Late Mrs. Albert B. Root

The death of Mrs. Albert B. Root occurred at the family home, Water Street, Napanee, early Sunday morning, April 26th. She had been in poor health for some years and had been seriously ill for several weeks, so her death was not unexpected.

Mrs. Root was a woman who was devoted to her family and home, but who extended her interest to a wide circle of friends, many of whom had benefited from her generosity and kindness in unnumbered ways. She was especially good to the children in the neighborhood in which she lived and to people who were sick or in trouble. Her many friends and relatives here always assured a sincere welcome when they visited the home and found new reasons, each time to consider her a most hospitable hostess.

Mrs. Root was born 69 years ago at Lime Lake and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tyner, well known residents of that district. As a young woman, she came to Napanee and was married 45 years ago to Albert B. Root, of The Beaver Office staff, and had lived at her late home, Water St., for 42 years. Throughout her long illness she was given devoted care by her husband and her only child, Margaret(Mrs. W. P. Cook.

Besides her husband and daughter she leaves two sisters, Mrs. Melville Dafoe, Richmond and Mrs. Margaret Burley, Toronto; and two brothers, George Tyner, Lime Lake and William J. Tyner, Richmond. Several brothers and sisters predeceased her.

After funeral was conducted Tuesday afternoon at her late residence, by Rev. C. D. McLellan, minister of Grace United Church, of which she had been a member for many years, and interment followed in the family plot at Riverside Cemetery.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Wm. Templeton, Harold Follis, Donald A. Miller and C. L. Graham.

OBITUARIES

OSCAR ASSELSTINE

On April 11, 1942, there passed away from the community Oscar Asselstine, aged 76 years and eight months, a descendant of a Dutch U. E. L. family. His father, William C. Asselstine was among the first settlers of Camden Township.

Widely known throughout Lennox & Addington and Hastings counties, as a livestock dealer, also a farmer of Richmond township, he was industrious and a man of integrity and also had an abiding faith in the life hereafter. Mentally he remained clear to the end. Frequently he recalled the advancement in transportation he had seen during his span. His wife, Marion Ann Bell and Robert W. Asselstine, of Asselstine, died in August, 1934. Two sisters, Mrs. Ephie Hilbert, of Nanaimo, B. British Columbia, and Mrs. Cyrus Asselstine, survive him.

The funeral service, held on April 13th, was conducted by Rev. Truscott, pastor, and the sermon was preached by Rev. J. Ed White, a former pastor. The pallbearers were his six grandsons. Interment was made in the family plot.

Mrs. Rebecca Valleau Recently Celebrated 95th Birthday

An interesting article appeared recently in the Toronto Star Weekly concerning Mrs. Rebecca Valleau of Ardtara, Saskatchewan, a sister of Alpine Wavels, Napanee, and Carlton Weeds of Roblin.

Mrs. Valleau has just celebrated her 95th birthday and is now enjoying fairly good health and is remarkably keen mentally. She has three sons, two of whom are progressive farmers in Saskatchewan and one is a member of the Saskatchewan Legislature for the Ardtara district.

Mrs. Valleau has four brothers living. Thomas, the eldest, lives in Picton; Stewart, in Saskatchewan; Alpine in Napanee and Carlton, in Roblin. The average age of Mrs. Valleau and her four brothers is just a little over 85 years.

The article in the Star Weekly says in part: "Five years ago, at the age of 90, she studied high school Latin as a winter pastime and passed the examination with flying colors.

"Mrs. Valleau was born in 1847, in Newburgh, Ontario. At the age of 17, she started teaching school at a salary of $6 per month and 'board around.' She gave 35 years of talented service in teaching. In 1862 she married W. Valleau of Napanee, Ont., and the next 31 years were spent in farming in Ontario. In 1903 they moved to northeastern Saskatchewan where a seemingly trackless waste of bush and swamp was being opened up for homesteads. In company with several other families filled with the same adventurous spirit and courage the Valleau family began what is today one of the finest communities in the west — in citizens, farms and products.

"Here in those early days and in spite of her 66 years, Mrs. Valleau was the first teacher of the Moose Range school. Eight years later her husband died, and since then Mrs. Valleau has made her home with her eldest son."

MAKING ROPE LAST LONGER

(Experimental Farms News)

Rope is a vital necessity to the fighting forces, particularly to the Navy, so it should be conserved as the supply of rope from Manila ceases. On the farm rope is used for many operations in the handling of produce and livestock, and with proper care it will give additional days of service. W. Eaglesham, Assistant, Agricultural Engineering) Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, offers the following suggestions which may assist in conserving rope:

Avoid overloads — Overloading a rope is costly and dangerous. If a rope breaks men may be injured and materials damaged. When using a rope, select one which is large enough to carry the load with safety. Where a heavy rope is not available, reduce the strain on a lighter one by using a block and tackle or an additional number of strands of light rope to carry the load. Because of the restriction on the use of manila fibre, most of the rope now being produced has a substitute fibre in it. This rope has a strength of 60 to 80 per cent of standard manila rope and the size of rope used should be selected accordingly.

Prevent Kinks. When removing a rope from a coil, select the end of the rope which causes the coils to unwind in a counter-clockwise direction. Recoil a rope that has been allowed to unwind in a counter-clockwise direction by passing the pulled loops through restricted openings in pulley blocks, etc., will shear fibres and weaken a rope.

Beware of Chemicals — Paint, battery acid, manure, linseed oil, alkali solutions and similar materials are injurious to rope. If a rope comes in contact with water soluble materials the rope should be washed to remove the injurious chemicals.

Prevent Fraying. — Much rope is wasted by allowing the ends of the rope to become "tattered" or frayed. Before a rope is put into use each end should be "whipped" by wrapping it with a piece of light cord or with a strip of electrician's tape to hold the strands together.

Reduce Internal Wear. — If a large rope is run over a small pulley the movement of the fibres in the rope causes excessive wear. Always use large diameter pulley blocks when using a heavy rope.

Rope which is dragged over soil picks up sand and other abrasive particles that work into the strands and cut the fibres.

Eliminate Mechanical Injury — A rope system should always be arranged in such a manner that the rope does not rub against beams or posts. Pulley blocks should be kept in line and a rope should not be attached to a load which has sharp metal corners unless the rope is protected with a piece of wood or other material.

Proper Storage. — Dry rot in a rope can be prevented by storing rope in an unheated room which has free air circulation. Never store a wet rope before coiling it for storage.

Cleaning a Rope. — A rope which becomes dirty can be washed in clear water. After washing, dry the rope by laying it out on an open floor before it is coiled.

Lubricating a Rope. — When ropes are manufactured they are given sufficient lubrication for the proper life of the rope and therefore lubrication is rarely necessary. If a rope becomes dry and stiff due to very abnormal use, it can be lubricated with a light petroleum oil by inheating a rope the oil should be sprayed into the rope between the strands in a quantity no greater than the fibres will absorb.

Repairing a Rope. — When one strand of a rope is broken, a new strand can be laid into the rope and the loose ends can be wovch into the rope.

Outline Policy on Gardens and Canning

In so far as home gardens are concerned it is felt that encouragement should be given to all rural communities to be in a position to assist self-supporting in vegetables, the Agricultural Supply Board states. Every effort in the home would aid materially in limiting unnecessary transportation and aid in conserving family purchasing power. The encouragement of an increased number of city vegetable gardens and new communities of the size that is convenient pool recommended. While there is enough vegetable seed in Canada to serve will be slightly below normal for some crops and its seems desirable to maintain adequate reserves against possible seed crop failures. In addition, fertilizers and sprays are made from materials which are vital to the war effort and it is important to avoid waste in their use, the Board states. On the other hand, it is not desired to discourage those who have, in the past, successfully operated either a community or a home garden. In fact, they should be encouraged to maintain their production.

It is desirable that home canning of fruits and vegetables should be undertaken up to the limit that proper facilities and equipment will permit, states the Board. Available information indicates, however, that there are only sufficient new rubber rings and glass jars for normal demands. Furthermore, it is felt that it would be unwise to encourage canneries to can for the home non-sold vegetables, unless pressure cooking equipment is available. As the supply of pressure cookers is limited, only those who already possess presently used, or those who in the past have successfully used the hot water method will be fit a position to can vegetables this year. In the case of fruits and tomatoes, which can be successfully canned by the water method, advice will be released by the Board, if necessary, in plenty of time to take care of any anticipated surplus in the event of either an unexpected reduction in the available tinplate, or an unexpected increase in available supplies.

THE CORNSTARCH DESSERTS ARE TEMPTING FAVOURITE

Help Homemakers!

If you are feeling the pinch and trying to stretch your sugar quota, don't forget that cornstarch desserts require less sugar—and every little saving counts. In these sterner days, too, we are turning again to the simpler foods and among these the cornstarch desserts are an old time favourite.

—V—

So many delicious desserts can be made with cornstarch—and fruit and the fruit can serve as the only sweetener. Then, too, cornstarch is an energy food and has more flavour than flour — so we suggest that you use it often. With it, you can be sure of the just-right thickening for pie and cake fillings, and you can even use it for a cake ingredient. Of course, you will need it for the moulding of those sweet dishes that are so tempting when served in dessert glasses or turned out on dessert plates, and those frozen dishes that every one admires and enjoys. You can make a brilliant clear sauce with it — or even a meat sauce. Eggs may be omitted in many recipes if cornstarch is substituted as a thickening agent. Delicious deserts with cornstarch are good at any time but especially acceptable for Spring meals.

—V—

Here are some suggestions that will help you to make more and better desserts with cornstarch:

1 Measure the cornstarch and liquid accurately.
2 Mix cornstarch with an equal amount of cold liquid before adding hot liquid, blending together thoroughly.
3 Stir the hot liquid gradually into the cornstarch and sugar, rather than adding the cornstarch mixture to the hot liquid.
4 Stir constantly until thick — then cook until no raw flavour remains. Cover and cook on the retained heat when electric element is turned off.
5 In order to retain the aroma, acid fruit juices or flavouring should be added after cornstarch is cooked.

—V—

In the Garden

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

This Spring, as a war economy, thousands of thousands of Canadians are planning their first vegetable garden.

Much grief, sore backs and time will be saved, the experts point out, with a little preliminary planning. In the war gardens of 25 years ago, there were miles of lettuce, radish and spinach growing, which marauding sparrows goth the only benefit.

The beginner should bear in mind that almost six to ten feet of a row will supply the average family with all the radishes and lettuce needed for an early spring salad and that the rest of the space should be utilized for something else. The beginner should also realize that the main purpose of an amateur garden is to supply vegetables fresher than can ever be purchased. To get the maximum freshness, vegetables must be:

First — Grown quickly.

Third — They should not be pickled until just before cooking or serving.

Now to grow vegetables quickly means frequent cultivation, watering where necessary and, if possible, an application of good fertilizer. All of this, plus proper thinning of closely seeded stuff like carrots, seed onions, etc., should push growths along which means vegetables retain and tender. It is only when beets, carrots, radish, etc. get a check in growth or become overmature that they turn woody.

In order that the supply of vegetables be just right at picking, that is not too immature and not too old, the wise gardener spreads his sowings out over several weeks so that something will be coming along all the time. This is especially necessary with tender things like baby carrots, peas, beans, young beets and garden corn.

TENDER VEGETABLES

The greatest single chore in any garden is the keeping down of surplus growth, whether that growth be weeds or unwanted other plants. The greatest single factor in curing down this chore is first to have flowers and vegetables properly spaced, and to have rows or intervals between flowers and shrubs wide enough to permit quick and easy cultivation.

For keeping down weeds and unwanted grass or other plants, garden tools are required to keep their hoes, spades and cultivators sharp. A sharp hoe will cover the ground twice as fast and with less backache than a dull one. Also, the professionals advise some little variety in garden implements, two or three sizes of cultivators, so that one can get in close to small plants, will cover the ground quickly between rows.

There are flowers to fit any situation. For those people who have neither the time nor inclination there are such things as alysum, dwarf marigolds, portulaca and California poppies that thrive almost on neglect. Once started they will look after themselves.

LABOUR SAVERS

Make Gardens Work For National Health

No fancy gardens this year! Canadians are urged to put gardening on a practical basis, with nutrition, and conservation of seed, garden tools and time. A good garden policy is advised — sharing tools, dividing packets of seed and exchanging produce.

Family tastes must be considered. The following vegetables, all rich in vitamins fresh or canned, will serve as a guide as to what to plant: — Tomatoes, Lettuce, Turnip Greens, Chard, Cabbage, Kale, Onions, Beets, Carrots, Potatoes, Rutabaga, Peas, Parsnips.

Rich in vitamin C, tomatoes are also a good source of vitamin A, and thiamin of the B group, canned as well as fresh. Cabbage, cooked or in cole slaw, is also a healthy winter dish as sauerkraut. Peas, dried green can be stored for winter use, and beans when mature are a staple art-

PRACTICAL HINTS ON SHEARING SHEEP

In view of the great importance of wool in wartime, particular care should be observed in the marketing of fleece so that damaged or defective wool may be classed as seedy, chaffy, burry, black or grey, tag, damp, fleeces carrying tags, fleeces stained with paint or oil, fleeces tied with binder twine, other fleeces, and wood from dead sheep.

Do not throw hay or straw over the backs of fibres at feeding time. Do not allow sheep to feed around hay or straw stacks; the result is sure to be seedy or chaffy fleece. Always shear on a clean floor. Pack the fleece in clean sacks and do not expose fleeces in the corner of a barn, shed, or granary where the wool would get mixed with seeds, chaff, grains, feathers, horsehair, and other foreign matter.

Wool should not be shorn when the sheep are damp after a rain. Wool from dead sheep should be removed as soon as possible, preferably by shearing, to prevent discoloration. The wool should be packed in a separate bag. At shearing time, all dark portions of clippings should be separated and marketed with the white wool, or, if there is a large amount of them, they could be put in a small bag by themselves.

Proper attention should be paid to the rolling of the fleece. It should be rolled flesh side out. It is advisedly bad practice to roll short dark head and leg clippings inside the fleece. They should be removed from the fleece in all cases and packed separately. The tags may discolour the wool and they increase freight charges.

No tar, paint oil of any kind, or other insoluble substance should be used for branding range ewes or remarking sheep. Only soluble branding fluids that do not stain the fleece should be used. The use of binder twine or sisal string should never be used, the paper twine, if paper twine is not available. Have the fleece untied. Further information may be found in the War Time Production Series Pamphlet No. 17 which may be obtained free from the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

MORE SHOPPERS NOW CARRY OWN PARCELS

Reports reaching Eastern Ontario offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board point to increasingly public response to the request that shoppers should, wherever possible, carry their own parcels and thus assist in the conservation of automobile tires, gasoline and vehicles. Shoppers are also co-operating in the saving of paper by accepting goods without unnecessary wrappings.

Crab Grass Control In Garden Lawns

Crab grass is one which tends to control crab grass may be briefly summarized as follows:

1 Spring Fertilization. Apply a suitable lawn fertilizer just before active growth begins.
2 Mowing. Mow frequently to a right of not less than one and one-half inches.
3 Watering. Do not give frequent light sprinklings. Periodic deep watering is much more desirable.
4 Hand Weeding. The best time to weed crab grass is in the seedling stage, which are used in various ways for the war effort, especially in those districts where children rely on the fish manufacturers for their industrial dyes.

There has been no drop in the sale of stamps. People are using the mails as heavily as ever, although the millions of circulars sent out by mail order houses, money lenders, football pool promoters and others have disappeared. But this has not affected in the mails, because a great many more personal letters are being written. There are 2,000,000 men in the armed forces at home and overseas and they keep a correspondence with their families and friends, and there are thousands more who have been drafted into factories far removed from their homes. There are business houses whose offices have been evacuated from the towns and consequently must carry on more of their business by mail. Then, there is the whole new range of wartime regulations, requiring the mailing and sending of forms, thus adding tremendously to the mailman's journey.

So the printers of Britain's postage stamps are as busy as they ever were and are still turning out about 20,000,000 stamps a day throughout the year, Sunday excepted.

TREE WOUND-DRESSING

(Science Service News)

Wound-dressings for trees are applied to injuries, whether infested or not, for the purpose of stimulating the healing processes while preventing or curing disease and decay. The cankers, states R. S. Willson. They have shown that, generally speaking, a disinfectant and a water-proofing material were more effective when used together than when either was used alone. Some waterproof dressings, more or less disinfectant in themselves, for example white-lead paints, some patent tree wound paints, etc., gave better performance than more waterproof materials such as asphalt tree emulsions. With both types, however, results were more satisfactory when the cankers were first swabbed with a disinfectant of proven worth, such as corrosive sublimate 1-500 (1 ounce in 3 gallons of water). The asphalt tree emulsions thinned with one-third to one-quarter of their weight of corrosive sublimate solution have proved to be effective dressings and are more convenient, since they can be applied in one operation. If the corrosive sublimate-white lead treatment is employed, the white lead should be made into a thick paste by the addition of small quantities of raw or boiled oil. White leads thinned to consistency of paint, and paints containing turpentine are not recommended, as they can cause considerable injury, particularly if applied in the dormant season. More penetrating disinfectants are available but where these have been tried they were either less satisfactory than the above or worse than useless, because of injury to bark tissues.

Because of the danger of heartrots in wounds and cankers of long standing, cankers should be treated during the first year. The best time of year for surgically treating and covering cankers is at the beginning of the growing season before infected ears become overgrown with callus. Fall and late summer treatment means time and money thrown away. Large fresh infected wounds, which may be incurred during cultivation and harvest should be trimmed and dressed as soon as possible after they occur. Dormant season treatments are not recommended.

Before dressings are applied, the canker should be thoroughly cleaned and the dead, brown bark cut away. This is facilitated if the margins are shaped to a point at their upper and lower ends. Treatment is preferable only on trunks and larger branches. Cankers on small branches should be removed. Cankers should be inspected for two or three years after treatment and treated again if necessary. It should be borne in mind, however, that it is better to prevent cankers than to treat them after they appear.

23,036,000 STAMPS A DAY:

British postage stamps — at least the most commonly used ones, those up to the threepenny stamp — are paying their tribute to war economy. They are being printed on lighter grades. This will mean the saving of considerable quantities of dye stuffs which are used in various ways for the war effort, especially in those districts where children rely on the fish manufacturers for their industrial dyes.

There has been no drop in the sale of stamps. LANDLORDS MUST GIVE TENANTS PROPER NOTICE

In response to numerous enquiries the Eastern Ontario regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board urges landlords to bear in mind that, while notice may be given in a written form approved by the rental regulations, and in the case of certain specified reasons which permit landlords to evict tenants, it is not necessary to serve notice upon their tenants to vacate, such notices must be given in a written form approved by the rental regulations, and for the reason, and unless that form is observed, the notice given is invalid and may be legally ignored by the tenant. Full details regarding this aspect of the rentals regulations may be obtained from any office of the Board. Those for Eastern Ontario are situated in Brockville, Kingston, Belleville, Cornwall and Renfrew.
